ARMY PLANE 'BOMBS' FT. JAY IN NIGHT RAID ON NEW YORK; DROPS FLARES AND 'ESCAPES'

FOG SHIELDS 'ATTACKER'

LAND DEFENSES HELPLESS

FLIES IN MURK FROM OHIO

The defenses of New York Harbor were "partly destroyed" last night by projectiles from a giant Keystone army bomber which had flown 600 miles without a stop from the headquarters of the army air manoeuvres at Fairfield, Ohio, through the thickest sort of weather.

Arriving over the Battery about 9:25, the plane circled over the army post at Governors Island, its green and red riding lights showing intermittently in the clouds and fog that covered the whole region, then flew north straight up Broadway over the defenseless city as far as Central Park.

At Central Park the big plane turned south and, this time flying lower, went straight for its objective. Right over Fort Jay a "bomb" was dropped. It exploded in the air, illuminating the whole bay and lighting up harbor craft and the Statue of Liberty as clearly as they would appear at sunset.

Windows in the high buildings of the financial district reflected the glare. The first flare had not died out when a second fell closer to the centre of the army post and repeated the illumination. Then a third dropped.

Climbs Out of Sight.

The big plane then climbed higher, completely hidden from sight, its twin Hornet motors roaring as the pilot, Lieutenant Odas Moon of Rockwell Field, turned southward and made for Bolling Field, Washington, where he landed at 10:55 Standard Time.

There was no reply from the guns of the army post. Even if anti-aircraft guns had been manned, the chances of hitting the hostile bomber would have been poor, for the field has no searchlights.

"We heard her engines about 9:25," Colonel Truman O. Murphy, duty officer of the post, said. "She was going north, it seemed, but the plane was so high it was impossible to see her without playing a light upon her. We have no such lights on the island. Of course, we would have if she had been a real enemy plane. Since we could not sight her, our anti-aircraft guns were of no value."

The fact that the bomber got here at all under the conditions was a surprise to veteran fliers and air officers, and considered in itself something of a feat. Rain and low clouds prevailed during the day over New York City, New Jersey and down into Pennsylvania. The conditions caused a cancellation of part of the program, that of refueling the plane, which with its full load of more than a ton of bombs has a 700-mile range without refueling. The service plane landed at Uniontown, Pa., and because of the weather was ordered not to attempt refueling in the air.

The night raider without additional fuel was expected to seek a haven for the night at some Eastern field. This change in plans, considering New York an enemy city, means that the plane and those aboard would be lost to the attacking forces.

Next Objective a Mystery.

This does not detract from the success of the attack, however, for the raider dropped its projectiles directly on its objective. Ground observers differed as to where the big plane went after attaining its objective.

Some thought it had gone north up the Hudson. Others reported seeing it turn west. At Mitchel Field the flood lights and beacon were turned on and the night flying lights at the Newark Airport and Hadley Field, N. J., were kept on.

Many citizens of New York either saw flares explode or their reflection against the black sky and Times Now, Nine Times received many calls from persons asking about the illumination.

Those who witnessed the test were astonished at the brilliance of the light shed by the flares. The grim walls of Castle William at Governors Island, the green bronze of the Statue of Liberty showing dimly under her own flood lights, every lit-

Flier Who Has Risen 7 Miles Breaks Arm in Fall on Stairs

Special to The New York Times.

FAIRFIELD, Ohio, May 21.—Captain Albert W. Stevens, the army's crack aerial photographer, has climbed in his plane as high as 38,000 feet without mishap.

This afternoon, while descending stairs at Wright Field, the engineering base near here, he lost his footing, fell to a concrete floor and broke his right arm.

He was carrying a large aerial camera down the stairs and his attempt to save the camera when he started to fall caused him to be injured.

POLICE SEEK WOMAN IN MORROW THREATS

ALL TRAPS SET, FAILED

Notes Which Led to Flight to Maine Like Those in Other Extortion Attempts.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 21.—Following police confirmation today that threatening letters demanding $50,000 under penalty of death had been received, the last a week ago, by Constance Morrow, 15 years old, daughter of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and prospective sister-in-law of Colonel Lindbergh, came the announcement tonight that the police were searching for a Massachusetts registered automobile in which a woman, believed responsible for the threat, lingered near the spot in Westwood where the money was to have been deposited.

Detectives, aided by the town police of Westwood and Dedham, who have been working on the case since the first of the two letters received by Constance at Milton Academy, in Westwood, where she is a student, was delivered, are convinced that the woman is responsible.

They are convinced that she is the same person who in the past few years has sent the same kind of blackmail letters to the parents of Frances St. John Smith, Smith College student; to the parents of Kenneth Rawson, who went to the Arctic with McMillan; to Mrs. Curtis Guild, widow of the former Governor of Massachusetts; Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, woman political leader; Mrs. Larz Anderson, widow of the former Ambassador to Switzerland, and to several others.

The sender of all the letters, the investigating authorities state, has a penchant for enclosing poetical excerpts, the last verse or two of a poem in which the parents bid farewell to their loved ones, leading up to a final warning that if the ransom is not forthcoming the threats of cruelty and torture will be carried out.

Lindbergh "Rescue" Confirmed.

The fact that Colonel Lindbergh's flight from New York Saturday with his fiancée and her mother and sisters to the Morrow Summer home at North Haven, Me., was in the nature of a "rescue" of Constance Morrow was confirmed with the information of the investigating activities.

The flight to Maine was made on the day before the blackmailer's

HOOVER 'CONFIDENT' RATES WON'T RISE; RAIL CHIEFS AGREE

President Gives View of the O'Fallon Decision Results in Single Short Sentence.

BEARING ON FUTURE SEEN

I. C. C. Chairman Says Its Inventories Will Stand, Though Valuation Theory Is Modified.

RULING REGARDED AS GUIDE

Willard, Atterbury and Crowley Share Hoover's Opinion — House Democrat Fears Doubled Rates.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Hoover, who has given wide consideration of the regulation of railroads and rate-making, in commenting today upon the Supreme Court's decision in the St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad valuation case, said:

"I am confident that there will be no increase in railway rates as the result of the O'Fallon decision."

He declined to explain how he had reached such a conclusion, but those who knew the study he has given to the structure of rate-making feel that he expressed an opinion which will be justified by future developments in the task that will confront the Interstate Commerce Commission in revising the valuation of railroad property and weighing any appeals for increased freight rates.

The President's view was shared by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and members of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, who in their analysis of the decision found no reason why the changing of the valuation plan should compel the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant higher freight rates.

Might Enact New Legislation.

Some members of Congress, however, predicted a move in due time by the railroads to get higher rates, which, they said, the decision logically warranted.

The opinion exists among Senators who are in touch with the railroad situation that the railways will not seek to take advantage of the decision in the near future for higher freight rates, but that later this decision would be employed as an argument for such increase.

If such a policy were followed now, it was pointed out, Congress might enact legislation which would overcome any advantage the railroads might get from increased rates. It was the view of these commentors that the carriers were "too wise" to push any advantage that might be gained from the decision at present.

I. C. C. Inventories to Stand.

The most far-reaching effect of the decision, said Chairman Lewis of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was that it destroyed the system employed for the recapturing of excess income.

"The decision does not junk all the valuation work done under the act," Mr. Lewis said. "So far as I can see, the decision entails little disturbance of that body of data. The inventories of railroad property are being perpetuated and can be used as a foundation for finding total figures by any method or theory of law.

"The only thing that it does disturb is the O'Fallon theory as set up for the purpose of recapturing excess earnings of this particular railroad."

"We are just now beginning the work of bringing valuation up to date, and the basic work in that is not disturbed," he went on. "We have been waiting for the decision in

Pope Plans to Leave Vatican on May 30; Will Be First Pontiff to Go Out Since 1870

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, May 21.—Pope Pius XI has decided to emerge on May 30 from the Vatican, in which the Pontiffs have been confined in voluntary imprisonment since 1870. His appearance is dependent on the ratification by that date of the treaties creating the Vatican State.

Pope Pius plans to revive an ancient custom and participate in a procession which before the fall of the temporal power was held every year on the feast day of Corpus Christi. The procession will pass along the colonnades enclosing St. Peter's Square, in which the kneeling faithful will receive the papal blessing.

The Pope will not in reality be leaving the territory of the Vatican, because St. Peter's Square and the colonnades are a component part of the Vatican State as soon as the Lateran treaties are ratified. The ceremony of Corpus Christi therefore, will assume the character of the Pontiff taking possession of the new territory added to the Vatican by the Lateran treaties rather than of renouncing his voluntary imprisonment in the Vatican. It still will leave unsolved the question as to when and in what way the Pontiff again will set foot on Italian territory.

The occasion will be marked by much pomp and ceremony, like all Vatican celebrations. The Pope first will hear mass between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning in St. Peter's Basilica. Then, surrounded by his ecclesiastical and lay courts, he will come out into St. Peter's Square. Here the procession will be formed which will escort the Pontiff, who will hold aloft the Blessed Sacrament, to one of the two colonnades enclosing the square. The procession will pass through the whole length of the colonnade and then, crossing over to the other, go along it back to the main entrance of St. Peter's Basilica. From an altar erected at the steps the Pope will bless the crowds in St. Peter's Square.

In former times the Popes were carried in Corpus Christi procession on a platform supported on the shoulders of twelve attendants. Pope Pius has declared his intention to depart from the custom and will go on foot. Some of his household think the Pontiff should be spared the fatigue of walking in his heavy robes and favor his adhering to the ancient custom. No decision has been reached in this matter.

By agreement with the Italian Government, 10,000 soldiers will line the colonnades of St. Peter's in quadruple ranks during the Pope's passage, thus ensuring his safety and giving added pomp to the occasion.

Mellon Family's Profit Put at $300,000,000 In Aluminum and Gulf Oil Stock Advances

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, May 21.—Financial circles here calculated today that the fortune of the Mellon family had been increased by nearly $300,000,000 as a result of recent spectacular rises in the stock of the Aluminum Company of America and the Gulf Oil Corporation of Pennsylvania.

The appreciation in the total of Gulf Oil stock since the first of the year has been $210,000,000. The Mellon family holds 90 per cent of the stock, and on this basis the Mellon share of the gain would be $189,000,000.

The increase in value of Aluminum Company of America common stock since the first of the year has been $191,000,000.

Standard financial statistics show that 60 per cent of the Aluminum Company common stock is owned by the board of directors and by Andrew W. Mellon and Maria T. Hunt. Sixty per cent of the $191,000,000 increase would give a profit of $114,000,000 to this group.

The share of this latter figure belonging to the Mellon family would carry their total appreciation well toward the $300,000,000 mark, it was estimated.

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP).—The office of Secretary Mellon, in making public a statement today by the Treasury Department head, announced that the Secretary had not resigned and had no intention of doing so.

The statement of Mr. Mellon read:

"My attitude as to the question of resignation is the same as Benjamin Franklin's was under similar circumstances, when he said: 'I am deficient, I am afraid, in the Christian virtue of resignation.'"

Recently reports have persisted that Mr. Mellon was about to retire.

SENATORS IN BATTLE OVER SECRECY RULE

Newspaper's Roll-Call on Lenroot Confirmation Is Forced Into Record by 63 to 9.

REVELATION STIRS REED

He Suggests Expulsion of "Prattling Hypocrites"—Committee to Tackle Issue Today.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The Senate is all worked up again because newspapers tell what it does behind closed doors. The occasion for the current agitation was the publication of what was said to be the detailed vote on the confirmation of former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin to be a Federal judge.

A protracted discussion in two phases today ended late in the afternoon, when the Senate by a vote of 63 to 9 sustained a ruling of Vice President Curtis that the newspaper roll-call of the confirmation of the Lenroot nomination could be inserted in The Congressional Record. It will appear in the Record's next issue as part of the remarks of Senator Blaine of Wisconsin.

But today's debate has not ended the matter. Tomorrow, the Committee on Rules will have a special meeting to determine what should be done to prevent the public from knowing how Senators vote on nominations made by the President.

Calls Made for Investigation.

In the Senate's discussion of the subject today, there were calls for an investigation of the newspaper publication purporting to show how every Senator voted when action was taken on Mr. Lenroot's name. Some Democratic Senators said they wanted an inquiry, but believed that the move should come from the Republican majority.

There was talk in the second phase of today's debate about expelling any Senator or dismissing any Senate employe who was guilty of letting a newspaper man know what the Senate had done in secret session.

Senator Caraway of Arkansas said he knew that either a member of the Senate or an employe was giving out information and made the accusation that "somebody has been peddling for gain." He wanted to "take away the market," he said, and added:

"There is no reason the rule should not be amended. We should remove the rule of secrecy and let the country know."

Jones Will Press for Action.

Senator Jones of Washington, one of the Republican whips, gave notice that at the first opportunity he would call up his pending resolution to amend the Senate's rule of secrecy and provide that nominations for office shall be considered in open executive session, unless the Senate by a majority vote shall determine that any particular nomination shall be considered behind closed doors.

Although much time was taken up in discussing the subject of the publication of the unauthorized roll-call, the matter was of importance only in showing that while a good many Senators cling to the rule-bound practice of concealing from the public how the Senate votes on nominations, the movement for discussing and voting on them in open session is steadily gaining favor.

The contest over open or secret sessions—for that was the basic point of the discussion—centred around Senator Blaine and Senator Reed of Pennsylvania. It was Mr. Blaine who ultimately got the newspaper roll-call on the Lenroot nominations into The Congressional Record.

Reed Blames "Some Hypocrite."

Mr. Reed, who fought Mr. Blaine's procedure from the start, was earnest in what he had to say. "Some hypocrite" in the Senate, he declared, had been "prattling." He insisted that no Senator had the right to tell how he voted on a nomination even if he had not voted the way a newspaper recorded him.

Mr. Reed furnished further evidence that in the less than seven years for which he has been a Senator he has become more hidebound in maintaining the ancient Senato-

ENFORCEMENT BOARD TO MEET TUESDAY

Will Organize and Be Addressed by President After Taking Luncheon With Him.

JONES PRAISES SELECTIONS

First Step Is Expected to Be Study of Courts—Year's Work Is Planned.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The National Law Enforcement Commission, appointed yesterday with George W. Wickersham as chairman, will organize Tuesday, when it will be addressed by President Hoover at a meeting in the Cabinet room of the White House. It is understood that Newton D. Baker will be asked to become vice chairman and Roscoe Pound, Dean of Harvard Law School, executive secretary.

President Hoover has invited the commission for a luncheon at which Attorney General Mitchell, Secretary Mellon, James M. Doran, Prohibition Commissioner, and other officials familiar with the subject of the inquiry, will be present.

The method of procedure will be left entirely to the commission. With President Hoover believing that the first and most important step to make law enforcement effective is to make machinery of judicial procedure more efficient, it is believed that the commission will inquire first into the shortcomings of the courts and make recommendations that would simplify procedure and assure more speedy prosecution. There is some hope that the recommendation will be made in time for action by Congress at the regular session next December.

Court Reorganization First.

President Hoover has considered the advisability of the creation of special tribunals to deal with petty violations of the Volstead and narcotic laws. Investigation by the Department of Justice has shown that such cases are congesting the Federal courts so heavily as to make many of these tribunals in the larger cities almost inoperative in regard to criminal and civil causes.

Because of this congestion some bootleggers have committed as many as five violations while awaiting trial. Members of some "syndicates" are reported to have amassed large profits while under indictment and awaiting trial.

Thus the reorganization of the courts is viewed as the first step toward bringing about enforcement of prohibition laws. The inquiry into the causes and effect of prohibition violations will occupy the attention of the commission as its second subject.

The administration's program for transferring the prohibition unit from the Treasury to the Department of Justice was discussed today by President Hoover in a White House conference with Secretary Mellon and Attorney General Mitchell. It has not been decided whether legislation to accomplish this will be asked in the special session, but indications are that no action will be taken until the regular session.

More Praise for Selections.

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP).—President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission unquestionably will hold extended hearings in Washington and in other cities in the initial stages of its work.

Since there is no specific act of Congress creating the commission, the body will be without legal powers to summon witnesses and documents and to compel testimony. However, administration officials expect little difficulty on this score. They are confident that few persons or corporations would refuse a request to produce evidence and documents.

More praise of the President's selections was heard today in Congress and other circles. Senator Jones of Washington, a dry leader in the Senate and co-author of the Jones law, issued a statement today endorsing the commission in which he said:

"President Hoover has maintained his high standard of appointments

DISCOUNT RATE RISE TO 6% RECOMMENDED BY RESERVE COUNCIL

It Urges That Requests of All Banks Seeking Increase Be Granted.

FAVORABLE ACTION LIKELY

Move Aimed to Curb Speculative Credit and to Aid Industry and Agriculture.

ALL-DAY DISCUSSION HELD

Pleas for Rise by Four Districts Expected to Be Followed by Eight Others.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—A rise in rediscount rates from 5 to 6 per cent by all Federal Reserve banks asking permission to make such an advance was recommended today to the Federal Reserve Board by its Federal advisory council after an all-day session. Members of both bodies discussed at length the credit situation brought about by what officials regard as an undue diversion of funds for use in the speculative market. At 6 o'clock tonight the board gave out, without comment, the council's memorandum urging approval of increases in rediscount rates whenever recommended by Federal Reserve banks as a means of bringing those rates "into closer relation with generally prevailing commercial money rates."

Gives Out Memorandum.

The board's announcement read:

The Federal Advisory Council has reviewed carefully the credit situation. It continues to agree with the view of the Federal Reserve Board expressed in its statement of Feb. 5, 1929, that an excessive amount of the country's credit has been absorbed in speculative security loans. The policy pursued by the Federal Reserve Board has had a beneficial effect, due largely to the loyal cooperation of the banks of the country. The efforts in this direction should be continued. The council notes, however, that while the total amount of Federal Reserve credit being used has been reduced, the amount of the country's credit absorbed in speculative security loans has not been substantially lowered.

"Therefore, the council recommends to the Federal Reserve Board that it now grant permission to raise the rediscount rates to 6 per cent to those Federal Reserve banks requesting it, thus bringing the rediscount rates into closer relation with generally prevailing commercial money rates. The council believes that improvement in financial conditions and a consequent reduction of the rate structure will thereby be brought about more quickly, thus best safeguarding commerce, industry and agriculture."

Acquiescence Is Expected.

The belief prevails here that the Federal Reserve Board will act in accordance with the recommendations of the advisory council and that rediscount rates shortly will be advanced in the New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston Reserve districts to be followed by similar action in the other eight regional Reserve districts.

The four banks named are understood to have sought repeatedly in recent months to raise their rates, with a view to curtailing speculative credit, but in every instance the Federal Reserve refused its approval.

The fact that the board immediately gave publicity to today's conclusions of the council lends support to the opinion that the general level of rediscount rates will be raised soon

Close Friend of Hoover Joins Wet Campaigners

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment added thirty-eight members to its board of directors today. Among them was Milton H. Esberg of San Francisco, one of President Hoover's closest personal friends and the treasurer last year of the Hoover campaign in the West. He is one of the small group who for years has joined the President on his Western fishing tours.

Other new directors include Augustus Thomas, the playwright, of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Percy R. Pyne 2d, Cecil F. Shallcross and Hoffman Nickerson of New York City; Mitchell D. Follansbee of Chicago, former Senator Henry F. Lippitt of Rhode Island, James D. Callery of Pittsburgh and Walter Parker of New Orleans.

MORGAN SAYS HYLAN ASKED TAMMANY AID

Resigned When Told Ex-Mayor Wanted Curry to Back Him and Drop Walker.

SALESMAN GIVES DETAILS

Declares Leader Only Laughed —Hylan Makes Denial and Sees Plot to Harm Him.

James J. Morgan, who resigned recently as city chairman of the Better City Government League, revealed yesterday his principal reason for quitting the leadership of the movement to run John F. Hylan for Mayor. The reason, according to Mr. Morgan, was that Mr. Hylan sought the aid of John F. Curry, leader of Tammany, in obtaining the Democratic nomination at a time when his friends were seeking support for the Republican nomination and when Mr. Hylan was publicly denouncing Tammany as a corrupt organization.

Corroboration of this was furnished by Joseph A. Waterman, an agent of the New York Life Insurance Company, with offices at 217 Broadway, who said that Mr. Hylan asked him to see Mr. Curry and try to have the latter "throw overboard" Mayor Walker. According to Mr. Waterman, Mr. Hylan also asked him to keep this matter from Mr. Morgan, who is a Republican and accepted the chairmanship of the league in the belief that Mr. Hylan was an anti-Tammany candidate.

Denial by Hylan.

Mr. Hylan denied that he had asked Mr. Waterman, an acquaintance of years' standing of Mr. Curry, to seek the aid of the Tammany chieftain.

"It is false, and Mr. Waterman knows it," he said. "Waterman is working in the interest of Walker and is trying to disrupt my organization. But he won't get away with it."

"Mr. Hylan sent for me about two weeks ago," Mr. Waterman said. "He told me that he wished me to see Mr. Curry and ask him to have him nominated for Mayor instead of Mayor Walker. He told me not to say anything about it to Mr. Morgan."

Mr. Waterman said that this direction to keep Mr. Morgan, Mr. Hylan's campaign manager at that time, in the dark impressed him unfavorably, because he had introduced Mr. Morgan to the former Mayor

Chicago Editor an Escaped Georgia Convict; His Secret of Years Revealed by His Wife

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 21.—George Ellis Burns, a former N. Y. Yorker, World War veteran and part owner of the magazine Greater Chicago, was revealed today as an escaped Georgia convict, but he will fight extradition to Atlanta and a term of six to ten years in a penal chain gang.

Until tonight he had declared that he would waive extradition so as not to embarrass his friends, none of whom knew of his penitentiary record and many of whom are prominent business men in Chicago. He has a petition ready to seek a writ of habeas corpus in his behalf when his friends told him they would not forsake him.

Burns, who bears a shrapnel scar on his neck, was arrested on a tip given to Georgia authorities by his estranged wife, Mrs. Emily Pachas Burns, of 6,446 Ingleside Avenue. She had held this threat over his head, Burns said, since soon after he came to Chicago in 1922, and had coerced him into marriage three years ago under a threat of exposure of his identity. She is 32 and he is 28.

Five months ago Burns met a woman of his own age, Mrs. Burns, learning of their Rogers Park apartment, wrote to prison officials in the Southern State. He was arrested Monday morning.

Burns, a native of Brooklyn, was working in the circulation department of a New York newspaper in the Spring of 1917. He enlisted on the day the United States declared war and served with the Fourteenth Engineers in many major engagements. He came to Chicago after his friends told him they would not forsake him.

Discharged from the army in 1920, in 1923 he found himself broke and hungry in Atlanta. He held up a grocery store, got $4, was caught and was sentenced to from six to ten years at hard labor. A few months later he escaped while working with a road gang. He landed in Chicago broke and got a job as a laborer in the stockyards. Then he went into realty promotion and has prospered for the last few years.

HINT IN BOOK IN CITY TRUST

LAST SEEN WITH WARDER

MANCUSO GOT NO BANK PAY

Testimony Reveals Lapses in the State's Check-Up of Bank —Smith's Nephew on Stand.

A cryptographic memorandum indicating payment of $30,000 cash to Frank H. Warder, former Superintendent of Banks, was presented in evidence yesterday at the Moreland Act Commission's investigation of the banking department. There was no evidence to show that such a sum actually had been paid, but merely the notation, found in the defunct City Trust Company bank, of delivery of $30,000 in $1,000 and $500 bills to "redraw, 425 Riverside Drive." This is the number of Mr. Warder's residence, and it was pointed out by the bank examiner who found the memorandum that "redraw" is Warder spelled backwards. Mr. Warder refused to comment on the testimony.

There was also testimony that chickens, eggs and bottles had been delivered to Mr. Warder's Riverside Drive residence from the New Jersey farm of the late Francesco M. Ferrari, president of the City Trust Company. In addition, Walter H. Pollak, counsel to Moreland Commissioner Robert Moses, brought out evidence of lapses in the bank department's records of the condition of the City Trust in the year before its failure. He also questioned Edward F. Glynn, nephew of former Governor Smith, about his employment as counsel to the Ferrari banks, at an annual retainer of $5,000, within six months after he was admitted to the bar.

Mancuso Denies He Got Salary.

Judge Francis X. Mancuso took the stand to deny that he had ever received a salary from the City Trust as chairman of the board of directors or that he had ever received a loan. He also testified at length concerning the fact that, although the signature appeared in the minute book of the City Trust as approving certain loans, he had never seen or heard of those loans. He explained that a loan to Pasquale Mancuso, noted by bank examiners as his father, was not to his father, but to another of the same name.

As the testimony of the second public session at 302 Broadway droned into the record there was nothing to indicate the surprise of the mysterious little red memorandum book with the cryptic notation which disappeared after it had been delivered to the superintendent of banks, who was then Mr. Warder.

George Overocker, first deputy superintendent of the bank department in charge of the Albany office, was the first witness. He testified he had formally approved the merger of the two Ferrari banks, the Harlem Bank of Commerce and the Atlantic State Bank of Brooklyn, which subsequently was changed to the City Trust Company, but that his approach was routine after a decision had been made by Mr. Warder. He also said the directors' statement required by law to be filed semi-annually with a penalty of $100 a day for lateness, had never been filed for the City Trust, an omission which a clerk later explained was due to an "oversight."

Some Legal Procedure Omitted.

Mr. Pollak brought out that two directors' statements and two examinations of banks are required by law each year, and that during the first half of 1928 the directors' statement was filed but there was no examination of the Ferrari banks, and that in the last half of 1928 there was an examination but no directors' statement filed.

Mary M. Shields, a stenographer-clerk in the Albany office for twenty-one years, admitted that it was her "oversight" and her "plain carelessness" which resulted in the failure to send the blanks for the directors' statement of condition in the final half of 1928. She was confused and frightened. Her testimony was barely audible and she was unable to tell details of office procedure. Then when she began to tell how she had acted on the records she spoke so volubly that Commissioner Moses was forced to check her.

row between two of his former assistants, Reginald W. Fawling and Thomas J. O'Connell. He remained a short time, but left before the testimony about the memorandum with its anagram of his name and his address.

John W. Beiermeister, a clerk in the Albany office, said there was a plate for the City Trust Company in the addressograph file, even though Miss Shields did not have the name in her book.

He was followed by Walter H. Halloran, who for five years was chauffeur for Mr. Ferrari. Halloran told of various times he had driven to the Warder home, but said the trips were not regular and that he could not estimate the number.

"Did Mr. Ferrari ever ask you to deliver anything to Mr. Warder?" Mr. Pollak inquired.

"Yes, sir."

"What?"

"Eggs and chickens and packages."

"What quantity of eggs?"

"Five dozen or so."

"Where did you get them?"

"From the farm in Hightstown." [N. J.].

He was asked about the packages and after several pointless replies Commissioner Moses broke in with:

"Were there any bottles?"

"Yes, but I don't know what was in them. It might have been olive oil."

Halloran could not remember how many times he had taken bottles to the Warder home. He told of seeing Mr. Warder at the farm in New Jersey and also at the Ferrari home in Brooklyn.

Copied the Memorandum.

Fred W. Piderit, a bank examiner for fifteen years who saved the only copy of the memorandum of which the original has disappeared, was the next witness. He told of seeing Anthony Di Paola, treasurer of the City Trust, at the bank the week before it closed, but of never seeing him there after the Banking Department took charge. In the course of his duties he examined Di Paola's desk and found in addition to the usual personal property a small red diary or memorandum book. There were only two entries, he said, one in red which caught his attention because it bore the address of his chief.

He copied the following notation:

Cashed check of Atl. for 30000. F. M. F. V. P. who brought the cash by cab in bills of 1 M & 500 to redraw

425 Riverside Drive Apt. 69. M. F. went to Hights man party Dir. of Fed. & Atl. Bank

Eddy went to Bank Dept to ask for merger approved & inc. of capital

The questions then continued:

"Did the word redraw mean anything to you?"

"No."

"Does it now?"

"Yes, it is Warder spelled backwards."

He explained that Albert O. Johnson, a fellow examiner, who later corroborated him, first called his attention to the significance. He told of turning the little red book over to Mr. O'Connell, fourth deputy in the Banking Department, who in turn displayed it to Warren C. Fielding, one of the attorneys appointed in the City Trust liquidation. Mr. Piderit explained they were in another room and he heard no comment. Nor did he inquire as to the possible identity of "Eddy."

Says Warder Got Book.

Mr. O'Connell's testimony suggested an identity for "Eddy" and carried the story of the red book up to the point where it went into the middle drawer of Mr. Warder's desk, from which it permanently dropped from view. The book was sent to the Banking Department, Mr. O'Connell said, and was put in Mr. Pawling's desk until the return of Mr. Warder, who was out of town.

"When Mr. Warder came back," Mr. O'Connell said, "I took the book into his office, opened the book, showed him the memo. He said nothing but took the book and put it in the centre drawer of his desk."

"And that was the last you ever saw of it?"

"Yes."

Mr. O'Connell later corrected his testimony and said that Mr. Warder remarked:

"Gee! that's my house number."

Both Mr. O'Connell and Mr. Piderit reported the matter of the book and its notation to Joseph A. Broderick, who succeeded Mr. Warder. Both were instructed to make a written report. It was in this written report that Mr. O'Connell gave an identity to "Eddy." Quoting his report, as he recalled writing it, he made it read: "Eddy Glynn went to Bank Department to ask for merger."

He was questioned about this and he replied that Edward J. Glynn naturally came to mind and that he "was known as Eddy to every one around the place."

Mr. O'Connell's report was written on April 25 and the following day he talked with Mr. Warder about it, once over the telephone and once in the office of Mr. Pawling. Mr. O'Connell said Mr. Warder inquired:

"What is this about that book, Tom?"

O'Connell said he replied:

"You know that little red book I gave to you in your office and you said, 'Aw that's nothing,' and put it in the centre drawer of your desk."

Mr. Warder denied any recollection of the incident, Mr. O'Connell testified.

"Yes."

"Did you find it?"

"No."

Mr. Broderick confirmed what he knew of the previous testimony and added that Mr. Warder's attitude "was that of a man who did not remember; it did not seem to be on his mind."

Glynn Denies Knowledge of Note.

Mr. Glynn, the first witness at the opening of the afternoon's session, was asked if he knew of the notebook. The note was handed to him when he expressed ignorance of it. He studied it intently and gave it back with the remark:

"Part of it I can't read."

It was explained that he had been mentioned as possibly the "Eddy" referred to, but he said he had no knowledge of the incident. He said that intimates called him Eddy and that Mr. Di Paolo and Mr. Ferrari used that name for him.

"Did you know anything about such a financial transaction between Warder and Ferrari?"

"Absolutely not. I know nothing about it."

"Do you know anything about a payment of $30,000 to Warder?"

"I never heard anything about it."

Mr. Glynn was examined regarding his services as attorney for Mr. Ferrari. He said he was employed with an annual retainer of $3,000 within a few months after his admission to the bar in 1925 and that he attended to the legal matters in connection with the merger which resulted in the formation of the City Trust.

Mr. Glynn explained that although he has free desk room in the office of Curtin & Glynn he is not a member of that firm. His brother, J. J. Glynn, is a member, he said, and another brother, Thomas, is secretary to the bank superintendent. Before becoming Mr. Ferrari's attorney Mr. Glynn said he had been confidential secretary to George V. McLaughlin, who was then Bank Superintendent.

Mr. Pollak asked Mr. Glynn to explain the item of a loan of $6,200 to him reported by the bank examiners. He said it was a demand note, which he paid in January or February, and that it was more than offset by legal fees due him.

"The first I knew my account was ever overdrawn," he added, "was when I read it in the newspapers this morning."

Reverting to his employment, Mr. Pollak said:

"Of course you know Mr. Ferrari had other attorneys?"

"I find now there were many of them. I did not know it then."

"When Mr. Ferrari retained you how much previous acquaintance did you have?"

"I had met him two or three times socially."

"No previous business contacts?"

"None at all."

"Did he ask you how long you had been a member of the bar?"

"No."

"Did he say: 'You must have an intimate acquaintance in the banking department. That's why I want you for my attorney'?"

"He did not."

"Did he say anything about your brother?"

"Not at all."

Mr. Glynn testified that Mr. Ferrari himself had proposed the amount of the yearly retainer and that in addition they had a joint brokerage account in Mr. Ferrari's name from which he received $12,000 in three or four years.

"This joint account had no losses?"

"No, sir."

Mr. Glynn told of appearances he made before the Banking Department in connection with legal matters for Mr. Ferrari and then Mr. Pollak asked him:

"When Mr. Ferrari came to you a few months after you were admitted to the bar you did not say to him in substance or effect did you, 'You are pretty well fixed for lawyers. Why do you want me, a young and inexperienced attorney?'"

"Why should I ask any client that?" Mr. Glynn shot back. "I suppose he wanted me because I was familiar with banking law. I don't know what was in his mind."

Differs on Procedure.

James J. Kennedy, president of the Century Bank and for eighteen years in the banking department, sixteen as an examiner and two as a deputy superintendent, next took the stand and in response to hypothetical questions based on the records of the City Trust examinations disclosed that in his opinion entirely different and more drastic action was demanded by the situation. He revealed for the first time that after Mr. Ferrari's death an attempt had been made by Mr. Warder to get his bank to take over the City Trust. He would not consider the proposition because, he said, "it appeared that we were being called on to buy a pig in a bag. We had to take it without an examination."

Mr. Kennedy said the only possible action conceivable to him on the basis of a report such as that shown in the City Trust examination was a meeting of the full board of directors before the bank superintendent. Testimony the previous day was that Mr. Warder called Mr. Ferrari alone before him.

Samuel Rauch, bank examiner, appeared voluntarily yesterday with his pencilled work sheets to explain what he considered had been an unintentional injustice to Judge Mancuso in Monday's testimony. There was an item of $7,000 salary recorded for Judge Mancuso and then erased. Mr. Rauch showed yesterday that the examiner had entered the Judge as having no salary, by writing a dash followed by a zero and another dash. In entering Mr. Ferrari's $6,000 salary on the line below, the tail of the six extended up to the dash in the thousands column of Judge Mancuso's line and made it appear to be a seven, which the stenographer transcribed and later erased.

Judge Mancuso's Statement.

Judge Mancuso received an opportunity to make any statement he desired.

"I never received any salary from the City Trust," he said. A palpable injustice has been done to me. It was an injustice, I know, through an error, but I should like to have it corrected. I was amazed when I read headlines in the newspapers, 'Mancuso on Payroll of City Trust.'"

Referring to a loan charged against him, Judge Mancuso said he had discounted a note for a friend and exhibited canceled note and check to show that it had been paid. He said the question of a loan to his father had been settled in ten minutes when first brought to his attention by having Mr. Warder learn the address of the Pasquale Mancuso who got the money. He resided in Brooklyn.

"My father has not been in business for fifteen years," Judge Mancuso said. "He lives with me and I have been his sole support. There was no reason why he should borrow money."

After he had made his statements, Judge Mancuso was questioned about the directors' meetings. He was examined by Carl S. Stern, associated with Mr. Pollak. Mr. Stern asked him to read the excerpt from the report of Mr. Rauch dealing with the letter of the directors in reply to the disciplinary letter sent by the Banking Department. Judge Mancuso read the quotation and then was asked:

"Did you ever see the letter before?"

"No, sir, I have no recollection of ever having seen this letter. I never saw the letter; if I had I would have jumped down to the Banking Department immediately." The letter in question referred to unsound loans and violations of the banking law.

Mr. Stern called Judge Mancuso's attention to the minutes of the directors' meeting which noted receipt of the letter and the directors' resolution on it, and asked:

"Can you now say you never saw that resolution?"

"I have no recollection of it."

Lists of loans in the minute books were shown to Judge Mancuso and he was asked if he remembered passing on them. He said he did not, and that he never remembered passing on a loan of more than $100,000. After many loans had been called to his attention which he did not remember, although noted in the minute books as having been approved when he was there, he was asked:

"It's your contention that if those matters appear in the book, then the books must have been falsified?"

"I won't say falsified. Something must have happened. What it was or who did it I don't know."

"Was that or was it not the minute book?"

"I don't know. It appears to be, but there are loans there I don't remember."

"If there are loans there you don't remember either there has been a substitution or there has been forgetfulness on your part. It is one of two things; false corporate records or the corporate records do tell what happened and you have forgotten. What do you say?"

"I am not prepared to say. It's possible."

"Of course anything is possible," Mr. Moses interjected, "but which do you say happened?"

"I'll say this. It's possible a substitution may have been made. If these loans never came before the board then there must have been substitution. I am not prepared to say who made the substitution."

"We are not asking that. Then they must have been falsified?"

"Yes, I'll say they must."

The final witness was Francis A. Sasso, a wholesale grocer and importer of Italian products, of Brooklyn, a member of the Brooklyn bank board, who testified that he never had seen matters appearing in the book of minutes as having been acted upon while he was there. He testified that the minutes were signed in loose-leaf form, not in the bound book.

There will be no hearing today. Attorneys will study the record and prepare for examining other witnesses tomorrow.

ARMY PLANE 'BOMBS' FT. JAY IN NIGHT RAID

tle tug and barge between the Battery and the Jersey shore were brought into sharp relief.

For No Protection to City.

At least one thing was demonstrated. Low clouds and fog which during the war were considered almost perfect protection against bombing raids are no longer a suitable defense. The Keystone equipped with magneto compasses, a radio communication and direction finder was able to fly "blind" through hundreds of miles of storm and attain its objective within a half hour of the time it had been assigned.

The leisurely almost arrogant flight up and down Broadway illustrated what the plane could have accomplished over any part of the city with real bombs. This flight was merely an equipment test. An attack in real war would have seen a score or possibly a hundred great machines swooping down in different parts of the city at one time.

There were five in the crew, including the pilot, navigator and bombardiers. Besides Lieutenant Moon, the pilot, there were aboard Bradley Jones, instructor at Wright Field, navigator; Lieutenant Eugene L. Eubank, assistant pilot; Lieutenant Paul Richter and Lieutenant Charles T. Skow.

Public interest in the attack on New York was high because it had been planned to send along the army Fokker "school" plane which was equipped to broadcast the story of the raid from the air through the National Broadcasting Company's system.

Brig. Gen. Foulois Says Flight of Bomber Shows Value of Radio.

Special to The New York Times.

HEADQUARTERS OHIO AIR GAMES, Fairfield Air Depot, May 21.—The feat of the giant Army bombing plane in a ten-hour flight through severe flying weather and without refueling, from this depot to New York and on to Washington, was hailed here tonight as one of the greatest exploits in the history of the Army Air Corps.

"Although the refueling and radio broadcasting phases of the Army Air Corps bombing project were not carried out as scheduled, due to weather conditions, which compelled its radio and refueling ships to remain at Uniontown, Pa., the fact remains that the bomber reached its objective and carried out its mission," said Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, air director of the war games. "There is no doubt in my mind that the very weather conditions that prevented the successful culmination of our plans provided a splendid although unexpected opportunity for a lesson which underscores the value of radio communication and navigation—two fields of aviation development to which the Army Air Corps is devoting much time and study.

Handicaps Swept Aside.

"Because of its radio and navigation equipment the bomber was able to remain in the air and keep on its course at a time when other planes were compelled to seek refuge at airports. In other words, the handicaps ordinarily imposed upon flying by unfavorable weather were blithely swept aside.

"From the time the plane left Fairfield until it landed it was in continuous radio communication, first with one station, then with another, and able to keep on its course without great difficulty. This is the first time that a plane has been able to take advantage of the network of radio stations that spread across the country and demonstrates the possibility of controlling aircraft making scheduled flights on airways.

"Complete information as to weather and position was thus furnished the plane throughout its flight. It must be borne in mind that from the time the ship entered the Alleghanies—notorious as being the most difficult region in the United States for operation of aircraft—it was confronted with low clouds, drizzling rain, fog-filled valleys and extremely poor visibility which obliterated all landmarks, but the magic call of the radio and the skill of the crew won the day."

Lieutenant Odas Moon, pilot of the bomber, in a message to General Foulois after landin gin Washington, said:

"Ran into rain and low clouds about dark. Arrived over New York at 8:25 P. M. (Eastern Standard Time). Broadcast for a short time. Dropped flares and came to Bolling Field. Request instructions."

Start in Early Evening.

Undaunted by the worst sort of flying weather over the Alleghany Mountains, Lieutenant Moon, a crack flier of the Army Air Corps, and his crew pushed east in their giant bombing plane early this evening from Burgess Field, the army base at Uniontown, Pa., to carry out the scheduled night raid upon New York.

Behind them, marooned on the Uniontown Field, were the big Douglas refueling plane, piloted by Captain Ross G. Hoyt, a veteran at refueling operations in midair, and the army radio plane, piloted by Lieutenant Le Buy Wolfe, carrying a crew of National Broadcasting Company technicians headed by O. B. Hansen, chief of plant operations. The two planes were held down by thick weather, which hung low over the mountain field and made a takeoff extremely dangerous.

The refueling plane had been scheduled to meet the big bombing plane at Washington for its first refueling in the air. The radio plane was under orders to meet the bomber at Washington, convoy it to New York and to broadcast from the air a word picture of the enemy night raid upon New York.

The big bomber lumbered eastward from Uniontown at 4:45 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, determined to fight its way through the murk to New York, after Lieutenant Moon, talking by radiophone to Captain Hoyt on the ground, had determined that the refueling planned at Washington would be impracticable. The big bomber's tanks were loaded with sufficient fuel to carry it straight to New York and back to Washington, Lieutenant Moon estimated.

His plans called for flying to New York, releasing three giant parachute flares over the harbor, a thirty-minute cruise over the city and then a flight south to Washington. There it was expected he would refuel if Captain Hoyt by that time had been able to reach the capital. Otherwise, it was felt likely here that the big bomber would be forced to land for fuel before returning to this station.

Lieutenant Eugene L. Eubank, assistant pilot, sat beside Lieutenant Moon in the cockpit as the chief pilot took the heavily loaded plane off the ground after a long run. Far front in the bomber's nose rode Bradley Jones, the navigator, a widely known authority on aerial navigation and instructor at Wright Field. His cockpit was rigged with half a dozen navigating instruments. In the gunner's cockpit in the tail of the plane were Lieutenant Paul Richter, the refueling officer, and Lieutenant Charles T. Skow, radio officer, who was to operate the radio transmitting and sending short wave sets and who also was under orders to make periodic checks of the course with radio beacon stations along the route. The bomber carried a full load of 350 gallons of fuel, sufficient to carry it to New York and back to Washington.

Throughout the afternoon as continued reports reached here by army radio that the refueling and radio planes were held up by the weather at the Uniontown Field, officers who had planned the flight project months ago feared that it would have to be called off or postponed until tomorrow.

They cheered appreciably when word came that Lieutenant Moon had determined to push through the thick weather to New York.

Ground Armies in Combat.

While the bombing plane was fighting its way through the murky weather over the Alleghanies the ground armies were in active combat along an international line in front of Big Darny Creek, between here and Columbus, the Red capital. Eight divisions of the Blue army, massed for the assault upon the Red capital, moved forward during the day to the attack under command of Major Gen. Dennis E. Nolan, Commandant of the Fifth Corps Area. The mythical troops, numbering more than 400,000 men, were flung along a line stretching from Lake Erie to the Ohio River, with the main attack directed at the centre of the line before Columbus.

As the Blue forces advanced a fringe of cavalry screened their movements, with the advance troops of the Blue armies only a day's march ahead of the main body of the three army corps which make up the Blue forces. The troops in large part are simulated by panels moved over the country by regular troops from Fort Thomas, Covington, Ky., and Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Ind.

The first contact between the Blue and Red armies came during the morning when two cavalry detachments clashed, followed by retirement of the Red cavalry and engagements by the pursuing Blue mounted troops and intrenched Red infantry, uncovered by retirement of its protecting troops. These movements through the advancing Blue forces within range of Red artillery shortly before nightfall. Blue observation planes reported heavy concentrations of Red guns. Just before nightfall, Blue observation planes under Lieutenant H. C. Pratt of Mitchel Field, L. I., aviation chief of the first Blue army, reported five divisions of the defending Red army organizing a defensive position east of Big Darby Creek, with outposts on the east bank. A sixth division, held up by Blue aviation, was in the rear struggling to reach positions in the defensive line. The Second Red Corps, likewise delayed by Blue aviation, was reported well in the rear of the Red capital.

Red Forces Driven Back.

At nightfall outpost detachments of the Red Army had been forced back across Big Darby Creek, bringing the defensive lines within twelve miles of the Red capital. Chiefs at Blue Army Headquarters here considered the movements up until nightfall indicated the main engagement would be fought along a line between the Big Darby Creek and the Scioto River, upon which Columbus is located. Blue planes were under orders to continue throughout the night.

Six foreign military attachés reached here this afternoon to observe the air ground maneuvers. There were Wing Commander T. C. Hetherington, British air attaché; Captain John T. Godfrey, Assistant British Military Attaché; Lieut. Col. Phra Amara and Major Gen. Luang Deves, Siamese Air Service; Brig. Gen. Augusto Villa, Italian military attaché; and Captains Walter Worlimont and Wilhelm Speidel of the German Army.

During the afternoon while officers here were directing the movement of Blue troops a Red bombing plane appeared over the airport here to drop bundles of Red Army propaganda. It was in the form of newspapers printed on red paper and brought out by a Columbus newspaper and was intended to show how propaganda could be dropped into enemy territory by airplanes.

TESTIFIES FERRARI DOMINATED CITY TRUST

Ex-Director Witness at Federal Inquiry—Warder Appears, but Is Excused.

Frank H. Warder, former State Superintendent of Banks, appeared yesterday afternoon before Federal Referee Henry K. Davis, 140 Nassau Street, as a witness in the investigation into the bankruptcy of Michael F. Longo, a former official of the Lancia Motors of America, Inc., and the City Trust Company. Mr. Warder did not testify, for at the suggestion of Saul Myers, counsel for the creditors, he was excused until 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

As he was leaving the referee's office Mr. Warder declined to comment on testimony brought out earlier in the day before Moreland Commissioner Moses.

It was explained that Mr. Warder asked to be excused until tomorrow morning. He gave two reasons—that his presence was required at the inquiry conducted by Commissioner Moses and that his daughter, Virginia, was ill.

Mr. Myers questioned three other witnesses. They were Frank X. Ferrari, son of the late president of the City Trust Company; Dr. Philip Giordano, treasurer of the Italian newspaper Bollétino Della Serra, and Simone Saitta, a fruit importer of 104 Franklin Street.

Mr. Saitta testified he had been a director in the City Trust Company and at one time owned 100 shares of the bank's stock. He declared he had a personal account in the City Trust Company, of which he drew $1,000 shortly before the bank failed, and said the institution still owed him money.

The witness said he first met Ferrari when he sold him the house now occupied by the Ferrari family, and in this way become interested in the City Trust Company. Mr. Saitta, in describing the meetings of the City Trust board, said the statements made by the borrowers were rarely, if ever, questioned, and that the meetings were dominated by Mr. Ferrari. He said Judge Francis X. Mancuso, who was chairman of the board, did not preside often; the presiding official in most cases being Mr. Ferrari.

The witness said he sold the City Trust Company stock "because I needed the money." He declared he resigned from the board long before the collapse.

Dr. Giordano said he had known Mr. Ferrari for some time. He denied Mr. Ferrari had ever attempted to subsidize the paper or that he ever received any financial support from him. He asserted that Mr. Ferrari induced him to buy 100 shares of Prudential Bank stock. The stock, he declared, was purchased in the name of the Continental Finance Corporation, of which organization he said he was an officer.

"I bought the stock for $165 a share," Dr. Giordano said. "I mailed the check for the stock to the organization committee of the Prudential Bank, attention of Mr. Ferrari, and got the canceled check back through the Harlem Bank of Commerce. I never received the stock. Instead, on my return from a trip to Europe, I received a certificate from the City Holding Corporation for the stock. I tried to communicate with Mr. Ferrari and found it impossible to get in touch with him.

"A Mr. Barron offered to buy the Prudential stock for $175 a share. I told him that if, as he said, the bank might be closed I would buy control of the bank rather than sell my stock. I was finally forced to sell because the other stockholders signed a paper. I got $148.50 a share for the stock five or six days ago."

The witness was instructed by Referee Davis to produce advertisements which he said appeared containing the announcement that Dr. A. H. Giannini had taken over the City Trust.

Frank X. Ferrari testified he was 14 years old, and in response to questions denied he had any safe deposit boxes in his name or knew anything about any being in the name of his father, mother or grandmother. He declared he never signed any papers, and if his name had been used in connection with any banking matters he said he knew nothing about it.

The boy also denied that any furniture had been removed from the Ferrari family home, 1,135 Eighty-fourth Street, Brooklyn. Asked what became of the life insurance carried by his father, the boy replied, "I don't know."

During the afternoon Assistant United States Attorney A. M. Sylvester visited the hearing. He said he had been instructed by Mr. Tuttle to "sit in as an observer."

LOOKS FOR REFORM OF BANK LAWS HERE

Counsel in New Jersey Inquiry Says at Luncheon He Has Heard of Illegalities in This State.

Speaking at a luncheon of the New York Delta Upsilon Club, at 22 East Thirty-eighth Street, D. Frederick Burnett, who was counsel for the Joint Legislative Commission of New Jersey which investigated the departments of banking and insurance, said yesterday that he would not be surprised to see New York's banking laws radically changed, as he had been told illegalities were practiced here similar to those disclosed in New Jersey.

"The whole thing, in New Jersey, was started by public clamor over the granting of bank charters, which had become a scandal," declared Mr. Burnett. "The crux of the matter was the absolute veto power of the Banking Commissioner. When he turned down an application for a charter he was not required to furnish any reason and heavy fees had to be paid to attorneys to obtain one. I understand that here in New York lawyers have been getting a fee as high as $20,000 for such work, which should be covered by a fee of $1,000."

Mr. Burnett reviewed the disclosures of the New Jersey inquiry. He referred to a bank president who, he said, had "kited" checks and made loans to dummies and whom the Banking Commissioner had not "had the courage to remove." He said he was "afraid" New York was going to find a similar state of affairs here.

With reference to investment trusts Mr. Burnett held that directors should direct and should also be trustees. He declared that in New Jersey directors had been "letting their precious names go for a mess of pottage."

Urges Another Inquiry.

Leon Leighton, attorney, of 420 Lexington Avenue, who urged Acting Governor Lehman to institute a Moreland act investigation of the City Trust failure, yesterday sent a letter to him asking for a Supreme Court investigation of criminal misconduct in the City Trust Company failure. He asked for an extraordinary term of the Supreme Court and asked that the Attorney General be directed to supersede the District Attorney of New York County.

STUDENTS ASSAIL FLOATING COLLEGE

Copyright, 1929, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, May 21.—All of the discontent in connection with the most recent floating university, or the "hoofing institute," as its eighty-five boy and girl students call it, came to a head here today at an indignation meeting in a Paris hotel room by the student body of the venture, presided over by Sidney Greenbie of Amherst, Mass.

Organized by the International University Cruise, Inc., the "round-the-world institute left New York on Nov. 8, 1928, and aboard various craft, instead of "one ship chartered for the occasion," made its way through the Orient and Europe. It is due home late in June.

At a number of places where the university dropped anchor stories got out that indicated all was not well aboard, but not until today did the irate students, who paid from $2,000 to $3,600 for their trip, get a chance to air their grievances.

Mr. Greenbie's prospectus promised them, they say, first-class accommodations according to American standards, and even "seaplanes when necessary" to speed them from ship to shore and back again. The students said that what they really got was beyond description for the most part—third-class rail travel in Siam and the Malay States, filth and discomfort in India, insufficient food and virtual abandonment of several members of the party in remote corners of the earth.

The high spot of the cruise, as the students described it, was an odorous passage under a blazing equatorial sun from Batavia to Singapore aboard a ship loaded with 2,200 hogs. A "list of horrors," printed in "The Walking Varsity Blatter," a paper published clandestinely during the trip, was given out by the students.

In addition, the academic schedule of the floating college was declared to have broken down to such an extent as to presage the banning by the American University Union of such caravans in future.

"Less than 50 per cent of the students did any studying at any time," said Professor Russell Krauss of the University of Utah, who quit the cruise at Rome.

James Oliver Curwood Jr., son of the novelist, who was spokesman for the insurgents, said that not one of the students "had nerve enough to ask any university in America to credit him with the year's work." It was supposed to be equivalent to a year in a good college.

Young Curwood gave a signed statement detailing the indignities which the students consider they suffered on the trip, and said that any attempt to appeal was fruitless.

"Grossly exaggerated and perfectly ridiculous," was how Ingram Foster, business manager of the floating university, described the report from Paris when it was read to him over the telephone.

"To be perfectly frank," he said, "some of those things are true, but on the whole they have been very much exaggerated.

"Some of the students were housed twelve in a room in Bangkok, but not twenty. And the room wasn't a room in the ordinary sense of the word. It was more like a huge ballroom. It was in the Royal Palace in Bangkok and was provided by the Siamese Government.

"As for the pig ship, when the students embarked at Batavia it was aboard a ship that was carrying pigs. Unfortunately the party was too large for the passenger ships there and the only means of transporting them was aboard a big cargo ship. But there were no pigs on the decks. They were all below hatches. We have since had a letter from the steamship company apologizing to us for the accommodations furnished and absolving us from all blame.

"In Tokio the students did spend one day at a Japanese hotel. That happened by mistake. The next day they were moved to the Imperial Hotel.

"The whole trouble is that a small group of malcontents has been exaggerating a few unfortunate incidents which on a trip of this kind can hardly be avoided. They are people from small towns who are unaccustomed to traveling and are not familiar with what travelers must sometimes put up with, particularly in the Far East."

SAYS 'POWER TRUST' BID FOR ALL PAPERS

Norris Tells Senate That the "Inroads on a Free Press" Must Be Checked.

PICTURES MONOPOLY PERIL

"Struggling Giant of Human Liberty" Will Be Helpless, He Declares.

HE ATTACKS COPLEY AGAIN

Trade Commissioner Announces That Publisher Will Be Heard at His Own Request.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Presumably, every newspaper in the United States has had an opportunity to sell its interests to the "power trust," Senator Norris of Nebraska declared today as he completed his attacks upon public utility interests begun yesterday in the Senate. The majority of editors felt outraged by the testimony before the Federal Trade Commission, he asserted, as he condemned those newspaper proprietors who "were subservient to greed."

Learning that Ira C. Copley, owner of a chain of newspapers in Illinois and California, would appear before the Federal Trade Commission at his own request, Senator Norris said he "joined" Mr. Copley in this request.

Yesterday the Senator repeated charges that the Copley press had a financial connection with the public utility interests of Samuel Insull of Chicago. He read a telegram from Mr. Copley today stating that he no longer owned public utility stock.

"I have in possession some editorials on the matter quoting testimony of Mr. Copley's attorney to the same effect as I stated yesterday," Mr. Norris asserted. "I join Mr. Copley in asking the commission to inquire into this."

Commission Will Hear Copley.

Colonel Copley, who was called before the Trade Commission a year ago in the preliminary stages of its inquiry into alleged propaganda of public power utilities, now is in San Diego. His attorney, Philip Campbell, called on the commission today and requested that the publisher be permitted to deny formally the allegations of Senator Norris. Afterward the commission announced that Colonel Copley would be heard at "his own request, at a convenient time to be agreed upon."

The commission in April, 1928, summoned several executives of the Copley press in its inquiry into purported financial control of the newspapers by the Insull utilities interests. No report has ever been issued on the findings in this phase of its investigation.

Senator Norris closed his two-day speech with an appeal to the public to realize the strength of the "power trust."

"How long is the struggling giant of human liberty to remain asleep while the power trust and monopoly is binding his hands and feet so that he will be helpless?" he asked.

Sees Inroads on a Free Press.

"How long are we going to permit the inroads to be made upon a free press? How long are we going to continue to go back on the words of Thomas Jefferson, who said he would rather have a free press than a free country, if he could not have them both, because he knew, as I know and as you know and as God knows, that we cannot have a free country without a free press.

"We cannot longer close our eyes to what has been going on. We were told that there was nothing to come out of this water-power investigation, but now the truth is beginning to percolate out.

"How long are we going to permit ourselves to be subjugated, knowing full well that, following us, our children will be economic slaves unless we rise in our might and properly represent the great people of the United States, who honestly believe in freedom, in righteousness, in honesty of government, in free speech, in a free press?"

In Ontario the consumer obtains electric power from the Ontario Hydroelectric Commission for about 60 per cent of what the American manufacturer pays, Senator Norris continued. In attacking "the misleading and false arguments that have been made by the emissaries of the power trust in America to discredit the Ontario power business, publicly owned and publicly operated."

To Hear More on Mobile Paper.

The Federal Trade Commission today announced that it had summoned T. M. Stevens of Mobile, Ala., an attorney, to appear on Thursday concerning the establishment of The Mobile Press, and in connection with charges that the newspaper, which published its first issue on April 15, is backed by the Alabama Power Company.

R. B. Chandler, publisher of The Mobile Press, in testimony on May 17, said that Mr. Stevens originally suggested to him the creation of another newspaper in Mobile to break down what he described as the "monopoly" of Frederick I. Thompson, former Shipping Board Commissioner, who is publisher of The Mobile Register and News Item.

Mr. Chandler also brought out that Mr. Stevens had introduced him to a man who had agreed to lend him $100,000 on collateral for financing a half interest in the new newspaper. Mr. Chandler declined to divulge publicly the name of the man, saying it would cause "vicious persecution of him by the Thompson papers," but, in confidence, gave the name to the commission to permit it to ascertain whether or not the money was "power money."

Hearing Gratifies Colonel Copley.

SAN DIEGO., Cal., May 21 (AP).—Colonel Ira C. Copley, owner of newspapers in several States, expressed satisfaction today when he received word that the hearing he had demanded of the Federal Trade Commission with regard to Senator Norris's charges of power or utility companies owning stock in those newspapers had been granted.

"I will be able to conclusively show the Federal Trade Commission and the world, and, I hope, Senator Norris as well, that there is no ownership whatever by any power or utility company in the securities of my newspapers, and that there never has been," he said.

POLICEMAN IS CLEARED QUICKLY IN SLAYING

Probationary Patrolman Delgado Acquitted in Twenty Minutes of Harlem Shooting.

A jury in General Sessions which for two weeks had listened to testimony in the trial of Probationary Patrolman Aurelio Delgado for the shooting and killing of Alfred Garcia in the apartment of Mrs. Julia Figuera at 56 West 113th Street on the night of last Dec. 5, returned a verdict of acquittal yesterday in twenty minutes. Judge Koenig had eliminated the two degrees of murder before the case was given to the jurors, confining their consideration to manslaughter.

It had been testified that Garcia was killed during a party in the Figuera home. Witnesses for the prosecution charged that Delgado, who had been on the force five days at the time and was in civilian clothes, shot Garcia because the latter doubted Delgado's statement that he was a policeman when Delgado, uninvited, intruded on the party.

Delgado's defense was that he had been passing the house, heard a commotion in the apartment and entered when he was informed that a man had run amuck with a knife. He alleged that he shot Garcia when the latter started to attack him with a knife. Others at the party corroborated Delgado's story.

WASHINGTON DOUBTS BREAK

Discounts Cairo Press Talk of a Serious Crisis With Us.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, May 21.—The Egyptian press talks of a serious crisis between the governments of the United States and Egypt which may lead to the withdrawal of the Egyptian Minister at Washington in connection with the long-standing dispute over the case of George Salem, now an American citizen.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—State Department officials said tonight that they knew of no "serious crisis" with the Egyptian Government over the claims of George Salem, a naturalized American, for indemnification because of alleged property losses suffered as a result of actions by the Cairo Government.

The case has been under consideration by the State Department for years and was the subject of new representations to Egypt two months ago for an adjustment of the claim. The negotiations have been conducted by the department through the legation at Cairo. Reports that Mahmoud Samy Pasha, the Egyptian Minister here, might be recalled as the result of an impasse in the negotiations have no basis so far as known here.

Wrote Famous Barroom Song, Says Poet, 83, and He Is Freed

John Henry Titus, 83 years old, recited his way out of the Third District Municipal Court yesterday by intoning what he said was the original version of "The Face on the Barroom Floor," written by himself.

Titus, a venerable-looking character, faced eviction from his home at 329 West Forty-first Street for non-payment of rent. He told the court his difficulties and said he was the author of the noted verses. The late Hugh D'Arcy, who had the copyright on them and before his death often told of the circumstances of the writing without mentioning any previous verses of the kind, said Titus, parodied his own poem inscribed fifty-six years ago.

To support his assertion he broke forth in verse, differing somewhat from Mr. D'Arcy's poem. Justice Caffrey heard a couple of stanzas and arranged a compromise whereby Titus could stay in his rooms. Henry F. Saltzman, attorney, of 72 Essex Street, started a collection. The Justice contributed $5 and $37.78 was gathered and presented to Titus.

ultimatum expired, while a Cambridge girl, impersonating Constance Morrow and resembling her closely, walked about the Milton Academy grounds and then drove over the route toward Dedham prescribed in the letters to the spot where the $50,000 was supposed to be deposited.

As in the other like cases under investigation, no person appeared to collect the money. Various other traps laid by private detectives for the Morrow family and by Inspector Flannagan of the Dedham police and Police Chief Driscoll of Westwood have also failed.

Colonel Lindbergh was informed of the threatening letters after arrangements had been made for him to visit North Haven. He had intended to pilot his own plane from New York to Maine, when apprised of the fears for Constance's safety after receipt of the first letter, which she had shown to the academy authorities and then to her parents.

Constance went to the Morrow home at Englewood, N. J. Colonel Lindbergh arranged to obtain a large cabin plane and the flight to Maine was made unannounced and in advance of the usual time at which the Morrows go to their Summer residence.

Detectives Guarded Constance.

New York detectives had arranged for a close guard over Constance, and protected her departure from Westwood, as the estate at North Haven has been guarded since the family and Colonel Lindbergh reached there. The arrangements were completed only a short time before Constance had been scheduled to go to the gap in the wall at Westwood, where she was to leave 50,000 dollar bills. Her impersonator took that trip, deposited the package supposed to contain the ransom and departed without molestation.

It was at this same gap in the wall that watchers waited for the arrival of the person who demanded $50,000 from Frederick H. Rawson, wealthy Chicagoan, at the time his son Kenneth went with Donald MacMillan to the Arctic regions and returned to Wiscasset, Me., in June, 1925. As in the Morrow case, the would-be extortioner pretended to have learned of the police trap which had been set at the rendezvous and renewed the threats of torture and death to Kenneth Rawson.

In January, 1928, a short time after Frances St. John Smith disappeared from Smith College, her father, St. John Smith of New York, received a letter demanding $50,000 ransom for his daughter's safe return, with a penalty of torture and death if the demands were not complied with. A poem was enclosed as in the other letters. Again the trap was set in vain, and again came the warning that it had been discovered.

The $50,000 demand made on Mrs. Anderson called for her to deposit the money in dollar bills on an estate in Westwood near the one designated in the letter to Constance Morrow; and the demand made on Mrs. Bird was similar. Mrs. Guild was told to leave $50,000 in dollar bills behind a wall on Major Gen. Clarence R. Edwards's estate, within a few feet of the gap in the wall at which Miss Morrow was to pay her ransom.

Cases Cover About Four Years.

During the nearly four years of mysterious, threatening letters demanding the same amount, in the same denomination of bills, to be left in "shredded wheat" or "rolled oats" containers, police, private detectives and postoffice inspectors have worked together on the cases.

The cases were reported to the Post Office Department and referred to two of the department's cleverest operatives, John J. Breslin and Thomas P. Cronin, who had been unusually successful in trailing "crank" letter writers. They were withdrawn from the cases when the Supreme Court ruled in a Chicago case that no violation of the Federal statutes was involved.

The second letter to Constance Morrow, as those which had gone before, was printed in penciled letters in an apparent effort to avoid all traces of handwriting. In the first letters, which were typed, the characteristics of the typewriter were exactly similar. A slightly dented "C" on the type bar could be traced if the machine were found and the ever-present few letters in script were unquestionably in the handwriting of the same person, a woman, handwriting experts state. In every case the latter writer has chosen a time when the name of the intended recipient was in the newspapers.

Guard Still Kept at Englewood.

There was no indication of concern over reported letter threatening Miss Constance Morrow at the home of Ambassador Morrow in Englewood, N. J., yesterday. While police guard is maintained at the entrance gate of the estate, an officer who was stationed at the house has been withdrawn. The family so far has made no request to the police for increased protection.

Members of the household staff, who were left in charge when Mrs. Morrow and her daughters, Anne Elisabeth and Constance, went with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh Saturday by airplane to North Haven, Me., will make no statement.

There is nothing to indicate when the family will return to Englewood from Maine. It is understood Ambassador Morrow will leave Mexico City this week, but it is not know whether he will come to Englewood or join the family at North Haven.

Former partners of Ambassador Morrow in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. declined yesterday to comment on the report that an appeal had been made to them by members of the Morrow family in connection with the reported threatening letters sent to Constance.

ARRESTED AT NORTH HAVEN.

Mexican Trying to See Lindbergh Is Held as Suspicious Person.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTH HAVEN, Me., May 21.—This island, which had been stirred to unusual interest in the last twenty-four hours following reports of a plot on the life of Miss Constance Morrow, was aroused just before midnight by the arrest of a man who gave his name as Robert Tondera of Mexico City.

The man, who had attempted repeatedly to reach the Morrow Summer home, where Colonel Charles Lindbergh, his fiancée, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, and her mother and sisters are staying, was held as a suspicious person. As there is no lock-up on the island, Tondera was taken to Rockland, the nearest point on the mainland, by Sheriff Harding.

The man said that he was an inventor and aviation mechanic, and that he had a mission to see Colonel Lindbergh. Asked why he picked out the noted flier, he said that he wanted to reach "the highest man in the business."

Tondera arrived here today on the 1:30 P. M. boat from Rockland. He carried a black bag, and his actions at the Morrow estate attracted the attention of the guards here and of the local police.

Selectmen Lewis, Stone and Crockett went this evening to the private home where Tondera was staying. Search of his bag revealed only a passport which appeared to be in proper order and extra clothing, but it was decided to hold him temporarily, and Constable Haskell took him into custody.

Residents here, who are in the habit of never locking their doors, said that it was the first time in two hunndred years that an arrest had been made on the island on the charge of a suspicious person.

Inquiries Referred to Morgan Firm.

Only one communication came during the day from the Morrow family and Colonel Lindbergh at the rambling Summer home at Bartlett's Point, the group keeping to the shelter of the house all day during an unpleasant northeasterly storm.

The message, in reply to questions from newspaper men as to the flight of the party here Saturday being to seek protection for Constance Morrow, was given out by one of the guards at the estate. It said:

"In accordance with a previous statement, any announcement will be made through New York. It is requested that you communicate with Mr. Martin Egan of J. P. Morgan & Co. in New York in regard to any rumor which has arisen."

Persons from the village yesterday were allowed to walk over the estate and up the winding road as far as the house, but today all were turned back at the entrance by the guards. Colonel Lindbergh and Miss Anne Morrow had bought some tennis balls here, but any plans they had for a game today were set to naught by the cold, wet rain.

Several times Colonel Lindbergh came out to "sniff the weather," looking at the quarter from which the wind came, at the choppy sea and at the squadrons of sullen clouds. Also he visited the cabin amphibian plane that he borrowed for the flight here. It remained tied up in front of the house.

Selectman Crockett went to the house during the day to hang some curtains. He did not see Colonel Lindbergh or any members of the Morrow family, and received only a negative answer to a proposal by the villagers to hold a reception for Colonel Lindbergh.

Mr. Morrow Unworried.

MEXICO CITY, May 21 (AP).—Dwight W. Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico, today refused to comment on the story published by The Boston Post that the life of his daughter Constance had been threatened unless $50,000 were paid. The Ambassador did not seem worried and was busy preparing for his departure to the United States. He expects to leave tomorrow or Thursday.

'CANNIBAL GYPSIES' TRIED.

Nineteen Are Accused of Six Murders ni Czechoslovakia.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, May 21.—The "cannibal gypsies of Moldavia Wood" were arraigned before a crowded court at Kosice in Slovakia today, under a 250-page indictment which took the lawyers sixteen months to prepare.

In the meantime three of the gypsies had died in prison, leaving nineteen, including two women, to face the State's attorney this morning on six separate charges of murder. At least six more murders are declared to have been committed by the band, who are said to have confessed this number, but as the evidence was insufficient the other charges were dropped.

As cannibalism naturally is not a crime on the statute books of Czechoslovakia, no mention of this feature of their alleged misdeeds is made in the indictment.

The leader of the band, Alexander Filko, was examined first. Unlike many of the prisoners, Filko is able to read and write. The case was conducted in Hungarian, the only language the accused understand. Two of them are deaf as well as illiterate, so a special interpreter was employed for them.

Most of the band are small and undernourished. All withdrew their signed confessions, saying that these were extracted from them by the gendarmes, who beat them until they signed.

BABE RUTH BRINGS CHEER TO HOSPITAL

Great Idol of the Bleachers Makes Boy Victims of Crash Forget Their Injuries.

AUTOGRAPHED BALL TO EACH

One Little Fellow Weeps of Joy, While Another Insists on Pictorial Proof for Friends.

Those citizens of "Ruthville" who are still in the hospital because of last Sunday's Yankee Stadium panic, welcomed a visitor yesterday morning. He was perhaps the visitor who could do them the most good—the first citizen of "Ruthville," the idol of the right field bleachers. And when he had gone, it was generally conceded that the injuries might have been worth it!

He appeared, bulking large in a blue suit, early in the morning. With him were his wife, a manager and more important still two boxes of baseballs and a fountain pen. Dr. Joseph Lanahan, the superintendent of Lincoln Hospital, met him at the door and provided an escort through the building. The party was preceded by a hum of excitement not conducive to discipline.

In a cot on the fourth floor lay Leon Gaffner, 11 years old, of 1,121 West Farms Road, the Bronx. Leon, who was near the bottom of the pile on Sunday, received a fractured skull, and is the most seriously injured of all. Unable to speak, he looked up as Ruth entered the room, blinked a few times and then softly began to cry. That was not his intention; it just happened.

Gives Autographed Baseballs.

The towering figure fumbled for words. Finally he asked, "Were you in that crush?"

The boy nodded. Ruth glanced down at him for a moment, then wrote his name on a baseball and placed it gently on the cot. Leon slowly reached for it.

Ruth passed on to the next bed and Edward L. Devlin, 14, of 119 Ludlow Street, Yonkers. Edward's face is badly cut and he can hardly see out of his bruised eyes. He was able to grin, however, as his visitor shook hands and gave him the second autographed ball.

From there the group went to the ward on the second floor where the fourteen others of the injured are confined. There had been strong rumors that the Babe would presently appear, so when he did he was greeted by a shout. He grinned cheerfully and went at once to the bedside of Morris Lerner, 14, of 893 Trinity Avenue, the Bronx.

"How about hitting me a couple of home runs the next time I go to the Stadium?" asked the boy.

"I'll try."

As the party passed on, Morris appeared to have some doubts about whether his friends would believe him when he reported the incident. He spoke to Ruth about it and the latter immediately hurried to the hall and called back the departing photographers. Then he stood by the bed while the matter was made one of indubitable record. Morris excitedly thanked him again.

In adjoining cots were Victor Schoenback, 15, of 95 Suffolk Street, and William Mirrowsky, 13, of 534 East Eighteenth Street. One of them had coyly pinned a huge picture of Ruth on their mutual medical chart, and both wore broad grins. The Babe glanced smilingly at the portrait.

"Whose mug is that?" he asked. They both told him.

A Gehrig Fan Discovered.

Joseph Schwartz, 20, of 158 Hopkins Street, Brooklyn, apparently turned out to be a Gehrig fan. At all events he asked Ruth where his "partner" was, drawing an answer of "up in Scarsdale" from the visitor and a faint buzz of annoyance from the more solid citizens of "Ruthville."

The next was Thomas Maloney, who is 60 years old and lives at 18 East 199th Street, the Bronx.

"So they had you down on the bottom, too," said Ruth.

Maloney grinned and reached out his hand for a baseball. Ruth handed him one and remarked:

"Now, I suppose you'll play with the kids in the back lots, eh?"

After the visitor had shaken hands with the rest of the accident victims and was on his way out, a very wistful sigh came from a cot in a far corner of the room. Its occupant was George Leith, 12, of 515 East 156th Street. George had not been in the accident; indeed, there is a suspicion that he received his injuries in a fight. Nevertheless, he is a spiritual denizen of "Ruthville."

"Gee, I wish I'd been in that accident," he remarked to a nurse. "Perhaps he'd give me a baseball."

The nurse took Ruth a message to that effect, so he turned back and autographed another ball. As the party left, George was cheerfully tossing it into the air.

Superintendent Lanahan then led the visitor to the small children's ward, where about a dozen youngsters from 2 to 5 years old are confined. He had passed one cot by, since it appeared to be empty, but a voice suddenly inquired, "Where's Babe?" The latter turned and located the curly head of John McConnell, 3, of 597 East 136th Street. John had been badly scalded, and is in a critical condition. Ruth awkwardly patted his head.

"You look pretty bad," he said, adding hastily and unsurprisingly, "But you'll be all right."

Down at the hospital's main office again, Ruth signed a ball for Dr. Lanahan and then departed. When he left he had been in the hospital just an hour.

Commissioner Whalen, when he was asked yesterday whether he intended putting uniformed patrolmen inside the ball parks and other crowded places—in view of Sunday's happening—said he had such a plan under consideration. He said he might assign a limited number of men to duty in such places.

Maine Men Form Atlantic Air Line.

AUGUSTA, Me., May 21 (AP).—Incorporation papers of the Great Atlantic Airways, organized at Portland, have been filed at the State Department. The plans call for an air service between the United States, Canadian and European airports, linking the cities of Portland and Stockholm, Sweden, by way of Belle Isle Strait, Julianshob and Agmanselik, Greenland; Reikjavik, Iceland; Thorshaven, Faroe Islands and Oslo. Incorporators were given as F. V. Mann, president; M. D. Mills, treasurer, and Robert Hale, clerk, all of Portland. Capital stock was listed at $300,000.

PARIS, May 21.—When, after ten hours' discussion yesterday, the creditor delegates on the experts' committee for the settlement of the reparations problem found that they were in virtual accord, a feeling of mild optimism prevailed. But today there is a certain trepidation apparent in all the delegations and the possibility of a breakdown, it is admitted, has not been finally excluded. For with all their ingenuity, the creditors, it is confessed, have not been able to treat the conditions of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the chief German delegate, in such a manner as to give their creditors any great hope that he will at once approve the amended draft.

There are still two troublesome points, it is admitted, and there are four or five which are likely to cause somewhat prolonged discussions between the creditor and German delegates. The two most troublesome points are believed to be the refusal to make any specific arrangement for the payment of the debts of the succession States to the Austro-Hungarian empire and the refusal to extend the moratorium of transfers into a moratorium of payments.

Fix Date for New Payments.

Another point which has been made subject to painstaking treatment by the creditor experts is the transfer from the Dawes annuity plan to the proposed new annuity schedule. Dr. Schacht, during his discussions with Sir Josiah Stamp, wanted the new schedule to run from April 1, 1928—that is to say that it should be put into effect as from the beginning of the present German financial year. Sir Josiah agreed to submit the suggestion, but he has found definite opposition among his colleagues to this procedure, which would mean a saving for Germany of at least 400,000,000 marks (about $96,000,000). Though they have all shown themselves willing to make sacrifices, the experts have been unanimous in refusing to give up anything, except voluntarily.

But a system has been found, it is understood, by which this year would become the second year of the Young annuities and the difference between what is paid under the Dawes system and the Young system would be applied to increase the first few annuities. This arrangement, which is of immense intricacy, would permit at least a few hundred million marks to be devoted to satisfying the Belgian, British and Italian claims.

Way to Satisfy Belgium.

This increase of the first annuities and the corresponding diminution of the later annuities would make an alteration in the Young system which it is far from being certain that Dr. Schacht would readily accept. Its main use would be that it would give some satisfaction to all the creditors and would provide a possible way out of the impasse with regard to the Belgian marks issue.

It is understood that, one way or another, the creditors are asking, in the covering letter which they will send to Owen D. Young tomorrow with their revised draft of the report, that the Belgian mark question be taken care of either in the scheme itself or by a separate agreement, though preferably in the scheme.

That desire is fully shared by the American delegation, and several weeks ago Mr. Young, in his memorandum to the creditors recommending the adoption of the annuity figure of 2,050,000,000 marks (about $492,000,000), recommended also that the German and Belgian Governments should concurrently reach a settlement on the question of the marks left in Belgium by the German troops, in order that the Belgian group might sign the report and complete the work of the committee in making proposals for a final settlement of the reparations and allied questions. Mr. Young's proposed figures, however, did not make provision for this payment unless there was a revision of all claims or some economies and rearrangements made which would provide for it. The offered reduction of the American claim for the army costs, the halving of the British Dominions' claim and this arrangement for the application of the difference between the Young and the Dawes annuities this year, with a slight upward modification of the first annuities under the Young plan, has, it is believed, made such a provision possible. But it remains for Dr. Schacht to accept.

More Arguments Likely.

Other formulas in the draft report as Dr. Schacht last saw it have also been modified. For instance, the independent association for running the German railways will be continued and the clause dealing with the revision of payments according to Germany's capacity has been most carefully trimmed and edited.

At the German headquarters tonight it is roundly declared that these amended conditions will no longer be acceptable to Dr. Schacht, and it appears possible that at least another long argument will begin, with the chairman once more acting as mediator.

In some ways the work of the committee has resolved itself into a kind of endurance contest. All the delegates are worn out by their efforts to find ways out of the difficulties. If success is to be achieved, sooner or later, it appears, some one will have to be made to accept even what he does not like, and the temper of the creditor experts, now that they have reached agreement among themselves, is that Dr. Schacht must be that person.

Schacht Gets Reply Today.

PARIS, May 21 (AP).—It was announced today that the allied delegates had finally agreed on their reply to certain of the German conditions. The reply will be transmitted to Dr. Schacht tomorrow with the tentative draft of the second Dawes committee's report.

As soon as Dr. Schacht has studied the changes made in the report, a plenary session of the committee will unite the two groups for a decisive issue.

Whatever proves to be the outcome of the present committee's work, the opinion has now become general that a new international conference must be called to apply its recommendations, if it succeeds, and to resume negotiations if it fails.

Aristide Briand, Gustav Stresemann and Sir Austen Chamberlain, the foreign ministers of France, Germany and Great Britain, are expected to take up the question during the session of the Council of the League of Nations at Madrid next month.

LEAGUE PROJECTS URGED.

Union Votes at Madrid for Early Action on Arms Reduction.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, May 21.—Resolutions were passed here today by the International League of Nations Union congress calling for international arbitration of all disputes and conciliation of a disarmament accord as soon as possible. The resolutions will be submitted to the League Council meeting, which will be held in Madrid in June.

The principal resolutions adopted declare that opinion in all countries demands elaboration of the system of obligatory arbitration and that, after settlement of the reparations question, occupation of territory of any nation by foreign troops should be terminated. One resolution also demands that a disarmament conference should be convened by the League at the earliest possible date for reducing naval, land and air armaments.

MADRID, May 21 (AP).—Among the subjects treated by the League Council were the traffic in women and children. A motion by Lady Gladstone of England, declaring that this traffic might be fought by concerted action and requesting governments to take immediate measures to sign and ratify international agreements, was adopted.

The motion also requested governments to abolish licensed houses within their territories, to fix a minimum age for marriage and to consent to increase of such age.

DISCOUNT RATE RISE TO 6% RECOMMENDED

to a 6 per cent basis. The council at its special session here on April 19 is said to have adopted a resolution drafted substantially along the lines of the memorandum made public today. The April resolution was withheld from the public. At that time, it is understood, the board was deadlocked on a proposal to raise rediscount rates.

Board Members Silent.

Members of the Federal Reserve Board declined to comment on the board's probable action in the light of the council's memorandum. Governor Young declined to discuss the question in any aspect, while Deputy Governor Platt merely smiled, and said, "You'll have to figure it out in your own way."

The Federal advisory council, composed of twelve members, one from each of the Federal Reserve districts, met here today in its second quarterly meeting of the year. Usually, the council, at these periodical sessions, deliberates by itself for a time, and then is joined by the Federal Reserve Board membership.

Today the two bodies met in joint session without preliminary discussion on the part of the council. Proposals made by reserve banks, notably New York and Chicago, for a raise in the rate level were discussed throughout the day. All the members of the reserve board, among them Secretary Mellon, who is understood to have advised heretofore that a change upward in rediscount rates would be productive of no substantial results in diminishing the volume of credit for speculation, and might possibly react on business generally, were in attendance.

Just what took place at the joint session was not made known. It was said, however, that the debate was animated and that it was conducted by those on the board and the council favorable to the course outlined in the council memorandum in a militant fashion. Those favorable to the change argued that brokers' loans at New York had increased since the board's warning of Feb. 7, and that present methods having failed of the effect sought by the board on that date it was the duty of the central body to hearken to the wishes of reserve banks and to approve advances in rates that had been recommended by the banks.

The Federal Reserve Board at its meeting last Friday gave consideration to proposed increased rediscount rates. It discussed requests that are said to have been made by New York and Chicago Reserve banks. In recent months, according to gossip among Treasury officials, the Reserve Board has stood four to four on the question of raising the level of rediscount rates.

Change in Situation.

At Friday's meeting, it was said, there was a change in the board situation, and a motion to act favorably on the requests of the New York and Chicago banks was defeated by a margin of one vote. Attempts made to ascertain the exact line-up of the board on the subject have been futile. At Friday's meeting the board authorized the San Francisco Reserve Bank to increase its rediscount rate from 4½ to 5 per cent, thus bringing its rate up to the level of the eleven other Reserve institutions. George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, was present at the meeting.

In a speech delivered at Cincinnati some months ago Governor Young of the Reserve Board stated that there would be no rate increases approved except as a last resort. At that time the board majority took the position a raise in the rate level might draw gold from Europe and disturb business.

Mellon Discussed Problem.

In his annual report for 1928 Secretary Mellon discussed activities in the speculative market, commenting on efforts taken by the Federal Reserve Board to check them. Purchase of securities in the open market and an increase in the rediscount rate from 3½ to 4 per cent on March 1, 1928, he said, were without effect, "partly due to the activities of powerful groups of speculators and partly due to the fact that the public in general believed and acted as if the price of securities would indefinitely advance."

The subject also has been aired by members of Congress. Senator Capper having recently made the charge that billions were being drained from the West for use in Wall Street, and that unless this trend was checked there would be a tremendous crash." Representative McFadden of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, delivered a speech on Feb. 7 in which he insisted that the Federal Reserve System should not concern itself about security loans. "To disturb industry merely to prevent stock speculation," he said, "seems to be unwarranted and would work a gross injustice upon the business man and the working man.

"This I suggest might be the result of an abortive attempt to restrict speculative and investment activities by banking policy."

Senator Glass, co-author of the Federal Reserve act, and a former Secretary of the Treasury, has repeatedly asserted that the Reserve Board had full powers to deal with a credit situation such as the present, and that it was derelict in not invoking them months before it issued its first warning in February.

It has been several years since rediscount rates have been jumped a full 1 per cent as suggested. Not since the deflation period of 1920-21 has an advance in excess of one-half of 1 per cent been authorized by the board. In an effort to bring about an easy money policy the Reserve Board, late in the Summer of 1927, lowered the rediscount rates to 3½ per cent. Immediately there was renewed speculative activity. As brokers' loans began to mount there came successive increases in rediscount rates.

The rates are now uniform at 5 per cent in all reserve districts. It was said today that a recent check-up made by Federal Reserve Board officials in the West indicated a strong sentiment in that region for an increase of the rate in all districts to at least 6 per cent.

The Federal Reserve Board is expected to consider the recommendation of its advisory council at a meeting tomorrow. While the board was in session this afternoon Secretary Mellon held a brief conference with the President.

WALL STREET RECONCILED.

Increase Would Cause Inconvenience in Speculative Circles.

The recommendation of the Federal Advisory Council to the Federal Reserve Board that individual banks be permitted to increase the rediscount rate from the present rate of 5 per cent as local conditions dictate, follows closely on the news from Chicago that directors of the Chicago bank at a meeting last Friday approved an increase from 5 to 6 per cent but were rebuffed by the Federal Reserve Board. The Chicago reports also indicated that the New York bank directors on Thursday voted for a similar increase.

Although it has been known here for some time that Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank, and others on the board of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, favor an immediate increase in the rate to 6 per cent, no formal statement as to the action of the directors, one way or the other, has been issued. Following the regular weekly meeting of the directors here last Thursday, the spokesman for the Reserve Bank merely made the usual weekly statement that there was no announcement to make.

Those favoring an increase in the rediscount rate here to 6 per cent point out that the present 5 per cent rate, which has been in effect since July 13, 1928, when it was advanced from 4½ per cent, is below the market price commanded by prime commercial paper. However, the spread which exists at present is far short of 1 per cent, so that by increasing the rediscount rate to 6 per cent the differential would be in favor of the rediscount rate.

Wall Street has become reconciled to an increase in the rediscount rate, many bankers indicating that such a course is inevitable. The advance in the discount rates on commercial paper this year has been due to the diversion of funds into the stock market in the form of call and time loans. Therefore, any increase in the rediscount rate would not necessarily affect the charge for merchants' borrowings.

It has been rather generally acknowledged that the present rate of 5 per cent of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York is ineffective and quite out of step with present money conditions. The effect of an increase to 6 per cent is calculated to work some inconvenience to the stock trading public, but in view of the fact that Thursday, the regular day for the meeting of the Reserve Bank directors, has ceased to be looked upon with apprehension by the speculative community, it is pointed out that traders in stocks have steeled themselves for any eventuality.

In its relation to the international market, it is pointed out that an increase in the rediscount rate by the New York bank, by far the larger of the Federal Reserve System, would necessarily change the state of affairs in the foreign exchange market. Sterling is at the gold shipment point, as is the Argentine peso, and several others are very close to it, a fact which has been quite embarrassing abroad. Some bankers are inclined to be somewhat skeptical that an increase in the rate here will have a sweeping effect upon foreign exchange, basing their belief on the present ineffectiveness of the 5 per cent rate.

BRITISH AGAIN FIGHT ON NATIONALIZATION

Birmingham Laborite Threatens Seizure of Auto Plant if It Closes After Lifting of Duty.

INSURANCE ALSO INVOLVED

Conservative Leader Charges Plan by Labor Party to Take Over Life Policies of Nation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 21.—Nationalization, a word which has been discreetly held in the background by the Laborites during the preliminary skirmishing in the present election campaign, broke from cover tonight in two quarters. Robert Dennison, who was Birmingham's first and only Labor representative in the last Parliament, fired off a threat that the Labor government would take over the management of Sir Herbert Austin's great automobile works there if Sir Herbert found it unprofitable to run them without the "safeguarding" duties.

In London, J. C. Davidson, chairman of the Conservative party organization, issued a leaflet declaring that the official Labor policy is to nationalize the life insurance system, and refused to withdraw it until Ramsay MacDonald, the Labor party leader, gives public assurance that he has definitely abandoned that policy.

Hitherto, in the public mind at any rate, Labor's policy of nationalization in the event of that party's return to power would be applied only to the mining industry. Platform talk of public control of railways and banks has been dropped.

Auto Man Predicted Closing.

The issue in Birmingham arose over the distribution of Sir Herbert Austin's letter to the Conservative candidate in which he asserted that repeal of the "safeguarding" duties, to which Labor is pledged, would cause much unemployment in the automobile industry and probably result in the closing of his Birmingham works.

Mr. Dennison's threat that the automobile industry would be nationalized caused a political sensation and he has been challenged to produce any evidence that his party is pledged to assume national control of any part of it. If Mr. Dennison's declaration means that the Labor Government will run any factory which private enterprise fails to manage economically and cannot keep open, the party will go to the polls with a trump card for the workers and the unemployed. This has yet to be confirmed by the Labor leader.

Sir Herbert replied tonight that if his organization were allowed to fail, its resuscitation would cost millions and he asked where the money was to come from.

In a speech tonight Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, warned the electors against "reckless promises" and said:

"We have too many dangerous competitors to be able to play the fool with our institutions. Great Britain is working on a very small margin and if she behaves recklessly she will be ruined and her place in the world will be usurped by those now eager to supplant her."

In several districts of Staffordshire the election is being fought at great heat and today Harold Rubin, Conservative for Wednesbury, was struck on the head by a brick. He is now in a hospital suffering from concussion and it is unlikely that he will take any further part in the campaign.

1,728 Candidates Are in Field.

LONDON, May 21 (By the Canadian Press).—An analysis of the complete returns from yesterday's nominations for the general election to be held May 30 shows a larger total number of candidates and a larger representation from each of the major parties than in the last general election in 1924. The total number of candidates in the race is 1,728, compared with 1,428 in 1924.

The Conservatives have the larger number of candidates, 596, compared with 536 in 1924. Labor is running 571, against 514 in 1924; the Liberals have 514, compared with 344 in 1924, and the Communists are represented by twenty-six candidates, compared with eight in the last election. The number of Independents and other candidates this year is slightly lower, twenty-one, against twenty-six in 1924. There will be 489 triangular and thirty-three four-cornered fights. There are 615 seats in the House and seven candidates have been elected by acclamation.

In Spen Valley Sir John Simon, chairman of the Indian Statutory Commission, will have both Labor and Communist opponents. The latter is Shaket Usmani, a trades union official of Bombay. He is now in jail in Meerut, India, awaiting trial on a charge of sedition. His candidature is a Communist protest against the activities of the Simon commission and British rule in India. Usmani's nomination paper was signed by ten persons, eight of whom are married couples.

According to Communist headquarters in London, the Indian Government has postponed the trial of a number of Communists charged with conspiracy and sedition at Meerut until after the British election to keep Usmani in jail. This, they say, is another demonstration of the "tyranny of British rule in India." Usmani proposes to conduct his campaign by a series of cable messages.

Difficulty in finding the necessary election deposit of $750 resulted in the failure of a number of communist candidates to be nominated. Two prominent Laborites and former Cabinet Ministers, J. H. Thomas and Arthur Henderson, are without Communist opponents thanks to the shortage of Red funds.

Writs for alleged slander have been served on Alfred Short, Labor candidate in Wednesbury, by the Conservative candidate, H. Rubin, and the Workers' candidate, Thomas Gee.

Ramsay MacDonald, speaking at Burnley today, said he had just completed a tour of 1,400 miles in Scotland carrying the message of Labor. "You will see wonderful things as a result of this election," he added. "One thing I am sure of is the return of a Labor government."

Rumanian-Spanish Romance Denied

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 21 (AP).—Princess Ileana, youngest daughter of the Dowager Queen Marie, was said by a high authority at the palace tonight to have no intention of marrying the Prince of the Asturias, as had been rumored recently. European court gossip had linked the recent trip to Sweden by Ileana with the possibility of marriage with a Scandinavian Prince. It was learned today that she went to Stockholm in search of a fiancée for her brother Nicholas.

RUSSIA REWARDS DISCOVERER OF OIL

Soviet Council Sets Precedent for Socialist State by $5,000 Gift to Preobrajenski.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, May 21.—An interesting precedent has been set by the award of 10,000 rubles (about $5,000) in "gratification" to the veteran geologist, Professor P. I. Preobrajenski "for his initiative and energy in the discovery of a new oil field in the province of Perm." The award was made by the Supreme Economic Council, which is the government organization controlling industry, and challenges the theory that individual initiative does not receive sufficient stimulus in the socialist State.

Officials with whom this correspondent talked said that in the case of a young man promotion and increased power usually proved a satisfactory substitute for a monetary reward, but that they were entirely willing to recompense with cash those persons who through age or other reasons were not ambitious for advancement.

The importance of the Perm oil fields is enormous; first, because of the supply of cheap fuel it will provide for the Ural industrial region, which is now dependent on coal from the Kuznetzk basin, about 1,200 miles distant, and second, because its distance from the frontier insures its safety in case of war.

The Soviet oil trust is rushing technicians and machinery to Chusovia, where oil was first found and has assigned 1,000,000 rubles (£500,000) for immediate work. It already has established that the field extends over a wide area and that the oil-bearing strata lie at a depth of 1,000 to 1,600 feet. Preliminary analysis shows the oil is 83.84 per cent combustible, 10 per cent water, 4 per cent sulphur and fractional percentages of azote and acid.

Oil experts say that the relatively high percentage of sulphur, which does not occur in the Caucasian field, is a common phenomenon in the United States and will require the advice of American technicians. Preparations are already being made to send a mission to America to study methods of the refining of oil with a high content of sulphur.

BRAZIL CONGRATULATES U.S.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, May 21.—Octavio Mangabeira, Minister of Foreign Relations, called on the American, Peruvian and Chilean Ambassadors today to congratulate them on the settlement of the Tacna-Arica dispute.

Senhor Mangabeira complimented the United States through Ambassador Morgan, for its "beneficent, fruitful intervention, exercised with magnificent results." He also cabled to Ambassador do Amaral in Washington to present Brazil's congratulations.

President Washington Luis wired to President Hoover his and the nation's felicitations for the great part the United States played in the auspicious event so greatly affecting cordial relations in the Americas.

LLOYD GEORGE PICKS A JOB FOR CHURCHILL

He Would Force Minister to Push Baby Carriage Along Poor Roads for a Month.

CHARGES RAIDING OF FUNDS

He Challenges Baldwin to Offer One Expert a Opposition to Plan for Ending Unemployment.

PENMAENMAWR, Wales, May 21 (By The Canadian Press).—Back in his own division of Carnarvon, David Lloyd George passed sentence on Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, tonight. In a fighting speech replete with humor and dramatic incidents, he also elaborated on the need for a greater road system, in the building of which he hopes to solve the unemployment problem if he gets the power to do so.

The Liberal leader first charged the Chancellor with raiding the road fund of $150,000,000, garnered by taxation of motorists and the like, because "he had so mismanaged the finances of the Treasury that he could not get the money any other way."

Then, in a vein strongly reminiscent of his famous "Dartmoor shepherd" episode of many years ago, Mr. Lloyd George sketched a picture of a poor old woman nervously trundling a perambulator along a road without any footpath, in constant danger.

Proposes Churchill Sentence.

"I will tell you what I would like to do with Mr. Churchill," he added with a dramatic gesture. "I would condemn him for a whole month to push a perambulator along a road without any footpaths."

And the idea of the versatile Chancellor of the Exchequer pushing a baby carriage along a busy motor road without sidewalks for a month so delighted the crowd that it was minutes before Mr. Lloyd George could continue his address.

The audience was a mixture of English and Welsh people. Penmaenmawr lies in the great tourist area of North Wales. It fronts the Irish Sea and behind it rise mountains which roll on to Snowdon.

Mr. Lloyd George began his address in the Welsh tongue, but he had not got very far when there was some shuffling of feet. The English visitors could not understand him.

"May we have the address in English, please? There are so many visitors here," pleaded a woman with a strongly English accent.

The Welsh immediately protested. "Cymraeg, cymraeg," they loudly shouted, demanding that he speak in their own tongue.

The Liberal leader called for a show of hands, and there was a laugh when the English count easily doubled the Welsh.

"I could not refuse a request so charmingly put," said Mr. Lloyd George, as he proceeded in English.

But, every now and then, he would begin a sentence in English only to adorn his tale with a homely illustration in Welsh, the English wondering sometimes what it was all about.

Wants Roads Amid Beauties.

As he talked of the need for roads, Mr. Lloyd George burst into a lyrical description of the hills of Wales. He loved them alike in sunshine or in storm; in their splendor, their glory and their sublimity.

"They can be so beautiful," he said, "and they can be so terrible. I love them in all their moods. But there must be good roads instead of twisting, turning lanes which cannot be made into good roads because there is no cash in the road fund."

He had a challenge for the Prime Minister as well. He demanded that Premier Baldwin name one expert in electricity, telephones or roadmaking who would be willing to come out and condemn the Liberal scheme for reducing unemployment. He also questioned whether the Prime Minister had sought the opinion of Sir Henry Maybury, the great English authority on roads, as the Conservatives had declared.

"Has he done it?" Mr. Lloyd George queried.

"He dare not do it," some one in the audience shouted.

"If he asks Sir Henry's opinion and publishes it before the election," the Liberal leader returned, "I will stand by Sir Henry's authority."

MANY DIE IN TIGRIS FLOODS.

Widespread Destruction Reported, With Bagdad in Peril.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 22 (AP).—The Mail prints a dispatch from Basra, Iraq, today saying that floods on the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers have caused many deaths and widespread destruction, and that the city of Bagdad is imperiled.

The chief loss of life has been at Mahmudiyah, fifteen miles south of Bagdad, where the survivors are suffering from a food shortage.

ULSTER VOTES TODAY FOR HER PARLIAMENT

Interest Centres in Belfast's 13 Contests—61 in Field for Thirty Seats.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, May 21 (AP).—Excitement ran high tonight over the polling tomorrow in the elections for the Northern Ireland Parliament. It was especially keen in Belfast, where there are thirteen contests.

Sixteen Unionists and six Nationalists were returned unopposed on nomination day. For the remaining thirty seats there are sixty-one candidates in the field—27 Unionists, 10 Independent Unionists, 6 Laborites, 6 Nationalists, 5 Liberals, 3 Local Optionists, 2 Independents and 2 representatives of the Town Tenants party.

In the last Parliament the Unionists had a majority of sixteen.

Elections for thirteen seats in the British Parliament will be held on May 30, the same day as the British elections.

MULLER LEAVES HAVANA.

Sails for New York in Open Boat in Which He Crossed Atlantic.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 21.—Paul Muller, the German sailor who crossed the Atlantic alone in a small boat, left Havana this afternoon bound for New York. A naval launch from the cruiser Cuba escorted the intrepid sailor to the mouth of the harbor.

Muller, a war veteran, set sail from Hamburg in the Aga, a twenty-two-foot open boat, on July 6, 1928, and reached Gibara, in the southeastern part of Cuba, three weeks ago. After braving the perils of the transatlantic crossing he ran on a reef while entering Havana harbor and had to be rescued by a government launch.

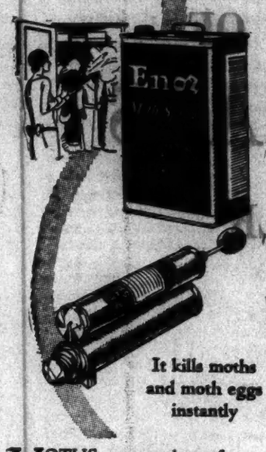
SHOPPING WITH Janet Gray AT LEWIS & CONGER



It kills moths and moth eggs instantly

MOTHS are a pet hate of mine. I'm relentless in my war on them, and Enoz Moth Spray is my tried and true ally. Enoz kills moths and moth eggs instantly. I give each trunk a thorough spraying before storing away the heavy blankets; and I spray every clothes closet frequently. You just can't be too careful!

I use Enoz on practically everything—rugs, coats, sweaters, furs, padded furniture—it penetrates the fabrics and gets underneath the folds and seams. Enoz is absolutely harmless to fabrics—even the most delicate ones—but sure death to moths, be they millers, larvae or eggs. And it's so easy to use!

PANAMA PROTESTS COMMISSARY SALES

She Holds Service to Other Than United States Employes Is Breach of Confidence.

NOTES ARE EXCHANGED

We Claim Right to Sell to Whom We Wish, While Panama Holds That Imperils Her Business.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA CITY, May 21.—The dispute over the status of the Canal Zone Commissaries of the United States Army and Navy, which has resulted in an interchange of notes between Panama and the United States, has brought charges from Panamanians that the United States is betraying the confidence Panama has placed in her and the promises made by President Roosevelt.

Until recently the commissaries refused to sell to others than government employes at prices enabling the commissaries to make only operating expenses.

In a note from Benjamin Muse, American Chargé d'Affaires, addressed to I. D. Arosemena, Panamanian Foreign Minister, and made public today, Mr. Muse declared that he had received instruction from his government to signify that there was nothing in existing treaties which prevented the United States from making sales from commissaries to whomsoever it wishes to extend the privilege.

The interchange of notes was precipitated by the commissaries agreeing to the request of the British Consul to sell commissary goods to three officers of the British steamship Tritonia. Señor Arosemena filed a protest to this April 11 and Mr. Muse's note published today was in answer to it.

Mr. Muse declared that the Taft agreement, under which the United States restricted sales, has been abrogated and accordingly alterations of this policy and granting authorization to make sales to private individuals in certain cases are questions entirely at the discretion of the United States while the treaty signed July 28, 1928, is still unratified. This treaty has been held up pending agreement on certain clauses relative to commissaries and other issues.

Panama contends that restricted sales by the commissaries are guaranteed in the Washington treaty of 1903, which limits sales to "officers, employes, workmen and laborers in the service and employ of the United States and their families."

"This clause can be understood only as a limitation of the rights granted by Panama to the United States by the above-mentioned treaty because otherwise it would be needless and idle," the Panamanian note said. "It is not conceivable that the two plenipotentiaries should stipulate ineffective uses in an international agreement of such great importance."

Continuing, it declared that to admit such a policy would "lead us also to accept that such a privilege could be made to extend, for example, to all the inhabitants of Panama, and through this means the United States, by virtue of certain circumstances, would constitute itself the sole merchant of the country."

This, the note added, would be equivalent also to converting the Canal Zone into "an independent and competing community which would disastrously affect Panama's business and reduce its taxation, diminishing at the same time the prestige of Panama as a nation, precisely what President Roosevelt declared on a solemn occasion was not and should never be the wish of the United States to do."

Boy King Heads Jockey Club; Asks Races for Favorite Pony

BUCHAREST, May 21 (AP).—King Michael was elected today president of the National Jockey Club. The boy, who owns several Shetland ponies, immediately asked the Governor to arrange a series of races for thoroughbred ponies.

Since this was by way of being a royal command, the Governor is arranging for such races this summer in which Michael's favorite pony, Black Beauty, will be entered.

WILL COMB ANT ARCTIC FOR LOST CADET SHIP

Danish Vessel to Leave Soon on Hunt for Kjoebenhavn, Missing With 60 for Five Months.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, May 21.—The 5,000-ton motor vessel Mexico will soon be equipped and dispatched in search of the Danish naval training ship Kjoebenhavn, which was swallowed up mysteriously on the South Atlantic more than five months ago. The missing ship, which carried a crew of from fifty to sixty cadets, was bound from Buenos Aires for Melbourne and is believed to be lost among the remote islands of the Antarctic Ocean.

The Mexico will take on stores at Rio de Janeiro early in June. She will carry oil for a hundred days so that she will not have to seek a harbor during the long Antarctic cruise. She will have a crew of sixty and medicines and provisions for the immediate relief of the Kjoebenhavn's men will be carried. Short wave wireless will afford daily communication with Denmark. The commander will be Captain Christensen, who twice navigated the missing vessel along the route where she is now believed lost.

There is a possibility that the expedition will be joined by Frank Wild, hero o fthe Mawson and Shackleton expeditions, who is considered to know more than anybody about the oceans bordering on the Antarctic ice pack.

The Kjoebenhavn left the mouth of the River Plate in the Argentine on Dec. 14 and has never been sighted since. She is known as the biggest windjammer in the world, having the enormous sail area of 56,000 square feet. Some of the cadets on board come from the best families in Denmark, competition for places being unusually keen.

Frank Wild, now 54 years old, was a lieutenant of both Sir Ernest Shackleton and Sir Douglas Mawson on Antarctic expeditions. He won his greatest fame in 1916 when he headed a beleaguered section of Sir Ernest's party on Elephant Island. On a narrow shelf of beach, with a glacier on one side and the ocean on another, he and twenty-one others lived amid terrible hardships for four and a half months in a hut eighteen feet by nine, and five feet high at its highest point, until Sir Ernest rescued them after three futile attempts.

BRITISH STRESS GAIN IN OUR WORLD TRADE

Britain Has Lost in Almost Every Big Export Market, London Bankers Say.

DOUBT AMERICAN DRIVE

Exports Campaign by Us Is Not Imminent, They Add—Urge British to Go Own Way.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 21.—The "buoyancy prosperity and increasing domination" of America in world trade and finance, to which the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston Churchill, frequently refers in his election campaign as sufficient reason for leaving the country in political peace and avoiding parliamentary "stalemates," is emphasized today by the directors of the Westminster Bank in their current review.

A close examination of the geographical distribution of American and British exports, says the review, shows that since the war America has gained much ground, while Great Britain has lost much ground in practically every important buying market.

"Whereas foreign commerce is still regarded in the nature of a by-product of America's economic activities, it is vital to Britain's existence. Britain now exports between 25 and 30 per cent of her products, which is lower than pre-war. On the contrary, in America exports represent only 6.6 of the 'exportable' production of the country. Therefore, for America, the export trade is a desirable side line rather than an urgent necessity. It has done no more than to keep pace with the production of the country as a whole. It is concluded, therefore, that the possibility of a great American export drive arising out of the saturation of home markets cannot be regarded as imminent."

Britain's policy, adds the review, should be directed to increasing her trade in the world as a whole, rather than with a deliberate design of countering a sudden and irresistible growth of American competition.

CUBAN CABINET RENAMED.

Presidential Inaugural Fetes Will Be Continued Until Friday.

HAVANA, May 21 (AP).—In his first official act since yesterday's inauguration President Gerardo Machado y Morales reappointed today members of his Cabinet who had resigned their posts on Sunday, following the old tradition of leaving their way clear for a new President to choose his official family.

There were no changes, nor are any expected, according to reports at the palace this morning. The post of Vice President was automatically canceled yesterday and Carlos de la Rosa, seventh and last Vice President, became a Senator. This was done under the reformed Constitution.

LEAGUE PEACE PACT ACTIVE IN 90 DAYS

Belgium's Accession Will Make Arbitration Effective Between Her and Sweden to Start.

ALL NEW DISPUTES COVERED

Only Those Prior to Accession Are Excluded—France and Norway Likely to Ratify Treaty.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 21.—The League of Nations' general act for the pacific settlement of all international disputes is now sure of being applied as a result of Belgium's notifying the League Secretariat today of her accession to this far-reaching instrument. Sweden has already acceded, and the act provides that the agreement will go into force ninety days after two States have notified the League of their acceptance of it, although, of course, it will apply only to those governments that accept it.

The general act obliges States adhering to it to submit all disputes among them, without a single exception, to the machinery of arbitration or conciliation which the instrument provides. Hitherto such treaties have usually been limited to disputes of a judicial character of by other reservations, such as made by the United States, for instance, in its standard treaties of arbitration and conciliation, which always make an exception of any question involving the Monroe Doctrine.

The general act is considered here as the most important definite step the League has yet taken toward assuring world peace. It is the outgrowth of its disarmament program and was originally drawn up by the League's Security and Arbitration Commission to replace the 1924 protocol, and it was revamped by the Assembly last September. Its main object is to provide a single general treaty for the peaceful settlement of all disputes which could replace other bilateral treaties of this kind, thus standardizing and unifying international law on arbitration and conciliation for all those States accepting it.

Unlike the Pact of Paris, or Kellogg anti-war treaty, it contains its own sanctions in case of violation.

Belgium makes only one reservation—the one contemplated in the act itself—excluding disputes arising out of facts prior to her accession. In other words, questions arising out of the Versailles Treaty will be excluded, but every possible dispute from now on will be included.

The general act is already before the French and Norwegian Parliaments, with every indication that they will ratify it. Both the Labor and Liberal parties have stated that if they win the elections they will accept it for Great Britain.

BOSDARI WED IN BERLIN.

Tallulah Bankhead's Ex-Fiance Married, London Reports.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 21.—Less than a month after the breaking of the engagement between Count Anthony de Bosdari and Tallulah Bankhead, American actress, the Count, whose first wife was Josephine Fish, Chicago heiress, has married again.

His bride, according to The Daily Express, is Mrs. David Plunket Greene, stepdaughter of Arthur Bendir, and a member of London's younger social set. Mrs. Greene divorced her husband in October.

The wedding, says The Express, took place quietly in Berlin, where the Count has recently been concerned with the talking movie industry.

CHIANG'S ARMIES GO TO CUT OFF FENG

Nanking's 270,000 Troops Will Seek to Keep Marshal in Honan —Brushes at Border.

GAINS BY KWANGSI REBELS

Their Troops Are Reported Within 25 Miles of Canton—Gunboats Ready to Guard Foreigners.

NANKING, May 21 (AP).—Large Nationalist armies moved northward today to meet the threat of civil war in the north. At the same time reports indicated that the Kwangtung-Kwangsi crisis centring in the struggle for possession of Canton was progressing unfavorably for the defenders, allies of Nanking.

A break between the National Government, headed by General Chiang Kai-shek and Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang, who lords it over the central provinces, has not yet caused open warfare, but both sides seem to act as though it had.

It is estimated, by apparently reliable informants, that 120,000 Nationalist soldiers moved northward tonight along the Pukow-Tientsin railway to prevent the possible emergence of the forces of Marshal Feng from Honan province to the east. Another Nationalist army of 130,000 was en route north from Hankow, moving along the Peking railway as far as southern Honan, where skirmishes have already taken place. West of Hankow on the north bank of the Yangtse River there was said to be 20,000 more Nationalists moving northeast toward the Han River.

To meet these forces, Marshal Feng was reported to be placing his 200,000 soldiers, the entire army in Honan, principally along the Lunghi railway, the south bank of the Yellow River and in Southern Shensi. His headquarters near Chengchow, at the junction of two important railways, leaves the way open for a westward retreat into Shensi and Kansu.

Feng Replies to Chiang.

The government made public tonight a telegram from Marshal Feng declining the invitation of President Chiang to come to Nanking and making pointed reference to the detention here of General Li Chai-sum, former Garrison Commissioner at Canton.

The telegram read:

"I planned to come to Nanking, but my associates pointed out the Nationalist Government's action in detaining Li Chai-sum, to whom you promised safety.

"I have received word of troop concentrations on the Peking-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow railways. I am also told that my office and residence in Nanking have been searched.

"Such are the facts and must be taken into consideration. What good would I do even if I came to Nanking?"

General Li arrived in Nanking on March 13 for the Kuomintang Congress and was not permitted to leave. It was supposed that the government detained him to prevent his giving support to the Kwangsi or Wuhan factions, with which it has been at war.

A joint session of the Central Executive Committee and the Kuomintang Central Control Committee, the highest of the government, is scheduled for Thursday, at which a decision regarding the crisis is expected to be reached and announced.

Ministers Denounce Feng.

Several ministers convened today with members of various high ranking government committees and denounced Marshal Feng as responsible for "wholesale destruction of the nation's railways, disturbance of the peace of the country, and precipitating a grave situation which, although most undesirable, the Nationalist Government is prepared to deal with."

It was declared that the government policy was "peace and unity." "However, unity is necessary before peace is possible," it was added.

Slogans denouncing the Marshal have appeared on the streets of the capital.

There are two other large bodies of troops to be reckoned with beside those already enumerated. The Manchurian war lord Chang Hsueh-liang was reported to have decided to send 50,000 soldiers inside the great wall to cooperate with Nanking.

On the other hand, the forces of Yen Hsi-shan, Governor of Shansi, were reported moving into strategic positions despite protestations of neutrality.

Warships Guard Canton.

CANTON, May 21 (AP).—British sailors landing from gunboats in the harbor today in the Shameen quarter immediately began to construct defenses in various parts of the British concession. Gates and bridges were closed and guards were posted.

The British Consulate warned subjects not to leave Shameen and asked them to assemble at the railway compound. Three British and two French gunboats and two Japanese destroyers were in the harbor outside the concession. The U. S. S. Tulsa was en route from Hongkong.

In the native city the feeling was very tense as attacking Kwangsi troops were known to be not far away, though there was no definite word as to their position. The sack of the city was feared in the event of capture by the Kwangsi elements, and that event was believed imminent.

Reports from Wuchow, on the Kwangsi border, said bombing raids by the Cantonese and threats of new expeditions against it had intensified the antagonism of the Kwangsi Generals. The forty Americans there were safe with the U. S. S. Guam protecting them, although food was running low.

The rebel Cantonese naval commander whom the Cantonese allowed to leave for Hongkong, after they had forced his ships to capitulate, has been placed in command of a Kwangsi naval squadron of thirty gunboats at Wuchow.

About $2,000,000 Mexican in silver bullion has been moved from the Central Bank to Hongkong, while many leading Chinese residents have sent their families to the British territory.

A British missionary arriving from north of Canton said the Kwangsi troops were advancing within twenty-five miles of Canton, with retreating Kwangtung forces offering desperate resistance. A thousand wounded Kwangtung troops arrived from the Pei Kiang district. Ten thousand men were taken from the Tung Kiang area and hurried north in an effort to halt the Kwangsi advance.

The Canton government said the Kwangtung lines were pierced yesterday forty miles above the city but that the ground was lost afterward recovered. Ten Kwangtung airplanes carrying bombs and using machine guns attacked the Kwangsi troops.

Tsing-tao Evacuation Ends.

SHANGHAI, May 21 (AP).—A message from Tsing-tao today said all the remaining Japanese troops in Shantung province, including their commander-in-chief, sailed yesterday for Japan.

CANNIBALISM IN CHINA.

Common Practice Among Famine-Stricken, Says Investigator.

PEKING, May 21 (AP).—Cannibalism in the famine-stricken province of Kansu is shown to be a common practice in the report of F. Andrew, an investigator, to the China International Famine Relief Commission.

Mr. Andrew stated that he had especially investigated many reports of cannibalism. Near Ching-ning he found that thirty-five bandits had been killed and eaten by the inhabitants.

Mr. Andrew obtained statements from people who witnessed this and other cases. In some places, he said, the inhabitants were starving because they had no money to buy the little existing food, and in others because there was no food, however much they were willing to pay.

Sir R. L. Borden Quits as Chancellor

KINGSTON, Ont., May 21 (AP).—Announcement was made at Queen's University today that the chancellor, Sir Robert L. Borden, had tendered his resignation. Canada's wartime Premier was elected to the chancellorship five years ago.

TREATIES RENEWED BY LITTLE ENTENTE

Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania Also Agree on Stand in Issue of Minorities.

ARBITRATION PACT SIGNED

By JOHN MacCORMAC.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, May 21.—By renewal of three separate special treaties the ties which bind Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia into the Little Entente were reforged at today's sitting of that body here and a new link was added in the shape of a trilateral arbitration treaty. A common standpoint also was reached on the problem of minority populations and the related question of the Hungarian optants.

The renewal of the Little Entente on its old basis represents a success that is half failure. It was long hoped to substitute a single trilateral treaty for the somewhat unsatisfactory method of binding each nation by separate treaties to its two other partners. As the treaties expire in June the opportunity presented itself to realize this hope, but apparently it is still too early. The renewal of the separate treaties in identic terms and for identical periods, however, represents some advance.

No definite progress has yet been made by Dr. Eduard Benes, Czechoslovakian Foreign Minister and the founder of the Little Entente, with another cherished idea, that of binding the three States together in an economic as well as a political sense. Dr. Benes originally wished to bring Austria into a union of this kind, but Austria, hearkening to Germany, would have none of it. Now the proposal is to include Hungary, but so far that, too, has had no result.

A common desire on the part of the Foreign Ministers of the countries which constitute it to bring something positive and constructive into the hitherto negative idea of the Little Entente has been evident at this year's meeting. As Dr. Benes pointed out in a newspaper statement, the Little Entente will not be satisfied with purely defensive aims and conceives its real mission is to create political and economic security in Central Europe.

An official communiqué issued after the meeting today read:

"The three Foreign Ministers of the Little Entente continued their conferences today and ended their discussion over the common political situation. They reached a complete agreement of views. They discussed especially the relations of their States and neighboring countries and concluded that these relations were developing on normal lines. They negotiated further on the basis of the League of Nations recommendation for a common treaty of adjustment andarbitration. This general pact was signed at today's sitting as well as a protocol prolonging in identical terms the present treaties between individual States of the Little Entente."

The decision on the minorities question was that the Little Entente would take at the Madrid meeting of the League Council the same stand as at Geneva and refuse to go beyond the provisions of the peace treaties for the protection of minorities. Rumania will continue its direct negotiations with Hungary for the settlement of the optants' question, while Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia will abide by the decisions of The Hague tribunal.

LIVERMORE EX-DRIVER SENTENCED TO PRISON

Kane, Involved in Shooting of Greenwich Policeman, Admits Carrying a Weapon.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 21.—Pleading guilty to carrying a concealed weapon, Edgar Kane, 32, formerly chauffeur to Jesse Livermore, New York broker, was sentenced today to three and a half to five years in State's prison by Judge Wolfe in Superior Court. Kane inadvertently, it was said, gave "Boston Billy" Monahan and Arthur Barry information which enabled them to commit the Livermore jewelry robbery on Long Island, for which they are serving prison terms.

Upon his plea of guilty to the concealed weapon charge, a charge of assault with intent to murder Patrolman Joseph McCormick of Greenwich on the night of May 17, 1927, was dismissed.

McCormick halted an automobile driven by Kane with Barry and Monaghan as passengers. The latter two fled as the car came to a stop, but returned by a round about route after stealing another car and shot McCormick as the policeman was guarding Kane.

Among those in the court room at Kane's trial today were the policeman, who is crippled for life, and Kane's wife and eleven-year-old daughter.

Thomas J. Cuff, attorney, of Hempstead, L. I., declared that he was representing Kane gratis because he believed he was innocent of the crime charged against him. He declared his client did not know Monahan and Barry as criminals, but became acquainted with them after he had opened a cigar store and speakeasy in New York.

Kane, Mr. Cuff said, was threatened by his companions after the shooting and in terror of his life fled to Kenosha, Wis., where he was arrested on Christmas Eve, 1928, while working in a factory.

PEACE PLAN OFFERED IN BUILDING CRISIS

Miss Perkins Reports Its Partial Acceptance—Others See Settlement Near.

Continuation of efforts to allay the crisis in the building industry were reported yesterday by the Fact Finding Commission, the State Labor Department and the State Housing Bureau.

Frances Perkins, State Industrial Commissioner, announced that a tentative plan looking toward an early settlement of the dispute had been submitted to the Building Trades Employers Association and the Building Trades Council and that partial acceptance of the plan had been obtained.

The plan, it was reported, called for withdrawal of the lock-out order by the employers, quashing of the injunction suit by the union and subsequent investigation of allegedly grave abuses in the building industry.

Christian G. Norman, chairman of the board of governors of the Building Trades Employers Association, denied that his organization had even partially accepted the plan.

It was reported yesterday that important influences were at work other than those already announced seeking to avert the crisis. According to these rumors progress has been made looking to an early settlement, but none of the parties to the dispute would discuss the report.

The Fact Finding Commission, of which Robert D. Kohn is chairman, met at 56 West Forty-fifth Street and heard Mr. Norman and Louis Horowitz of the Thompson-Starrett Company. The committee has invited John Halkett, chairman of the Building Trades Council, to appear this morning.

BETHLEN PREDICTS HORTHY LIFE RULE

PROPHECY STIRS BUDAPEST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, May 21.—That Admiral Nicholas Horthy will be Regent of Hungary for life was the substance of a startling declaration made by Count Bethlen, the Premier, to the correspondent of the Gazette de Toulouse, which caused great excitement here today. What deputies of the Government party, of the Legitimist adherents of "King Otto of Hungary" and of the Social Democratic opposition have vainly tried for years to extract from Count Bethlen—namely, a declaration on the "King question"—the correspondent of a French provincial newspaper succeeded in obtaining.

Dealing with what he described was a common idea abroad that Hungary was a destructive force in Europe, Count Bethlen declared that the Hungarian Government was "determined to postpone the question of revision of the Treaty of Trianon until a general pacific atmosphere developed."

Turning to the "King question," he added:

"It will be a very long time before the Hungarian government sees that the right moment has come for dealing with the question of a King. The Hungarian people are convinced that the rule of the elected Regent, Admiral Horthy, is best and will not change as long as he lives."

Several interpellations have already been entered in Parliament on the subject of Count Bethlen's statement, which the government party desires to be heard by the Foreign Committee, which sits privately, instead of in open debate.

"Count Bethlen is a changeable person. I have heard him speak sentimentally from his legitimist heart and I have heard him speak against legitimism. He must not confuse his own wishes with those of the Hungarian people." Count Bethlen, naturally, desires that his régime continue as long as possible, whereas the people desire its disappearance at the earliest possible moment.

"I am neither concerned about nor do I believe his hopeful prophecy that a solution of the question of who is to be King of Hungary will be postponed until Admiral Horthy's death. After all, Habakkuk was the last of the true prophets and he died many years ago."

FARM BILL PARLEY AGAIN FRUITLESS

Senate and House Conferees Stick to Positions on the Debenture Provisions.

WILL MEET AGAIN TODAY

Representatives Insist on Dropping of Bounty, Senators on Roll-Call Vote in House.

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP).—House members of the farm relief conference committee stood firm today in their stand that the export debenture plan must be eliminated from consideration before an agreement could be approached on differences between the House and Senate farm bills.

Senate members of the committee, on the other hand, insisted that the House ought to be permitted to have a roll-call vote on the debenture section, but House conferees declared they could not ask this because the House considered the provision an invasion by the Senate of the right of the House to initiate revenue legislation.

Although the meeting for the second time broke up in total disagreement, the conferees were not pessimistic about the ultimate outcome of their negotiations.

In preparation for another meeting tomorrow, Chairman McNary of the Senate Agriculture Committee talked over the situation with House leaders. They were unable, however, to agree on any steps that might expedite procedure.

"We will meet again tomorrow, but I don't know what for," Mr. McNary said.

House members contend that they had disagreed because of the debenture section. Senate conferees must first agree to drop the plan and then the committee could proceed with a discussion of other differences in the farm bills.

Senate members reiterated that they preferred the House to take a roll-call vote because this would enable them to make a more effective report to the Senate and permit them to suggest that the Senate recede from its position on the debenture, which, they said, was bound to figure in the tariff bill if it lost its place in the farm measure. If the House was strenuously opposed to the plan, a roll-call vote might as well be taken now in the prospect that the issue would be settled for the rest of the special session.

House members argued that the farm bill passed by the House had the approval of President Hoover and that he would veto any measure containing the debenture plan. They maintained it was useless to continue negotiations so long as the debenture section was not eliminated.

On the Senate floor Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montant, reaffirmed his belief that the Senate had a right to initiate the debenture plan. This was considered the forerunner of another long debate should the conferees finally recommend that the legislation be omitted from the farm bill.

EUROPEAN BEAUTIES HERE

Eight Arrive on Way to Galveston—Mayor Will Greet Them Today.

Eight European beauty prize winners arrived here yesterday on their way to take part in a contest to be held in Galveston. Seven of the contestants came on the French liner Rechambeau from Havre, and the eighth, from Spain, arrived later in the day on the France from the same port, although she sailed four days later.

The girls will be entertained here until Sunday and Mayor Walker will welcome them at the City Hall at noon today. All are slightly above the average height. Six are brunettes and two blondes.

Magda Demetrescu, an 18-year-old beauty of Rumania, is an orphan, she said.

Rosario Velasquez, the Spanish prize winner, is from Seville.

The other contestants are:

LIELE GOLDARBEITER, "Miss Austria."
BENNIE DICKS, "Miss England."
GERMAINE LABORDE, "Miss France."
INGEBORG GRAHN, "Miss Germany."
JOHANNA KOOPMAN, "Miss Holland."
KEPPY HIPP, "Miss Luxembourg."

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

rial tradition of secrecy than pronounced conservatives of venerable age and longer service.

Today's discussion was begun in the earlier part of the Senate's proceedings when Senator Barkley of Kentucky charged that the newspaper roll-call on the confirmation of Mr. Lenroot was inaccurate. Without revealing names, Mr. Barkley denied that one Senator was paired, as the newspaper roll-call had it, and that another Senator was absent without a pair.

Senator Blaine then tried to have the newspaper roll-call printed in The Record, but was blocked by the objection of Senator Bingham of Connecticut. When Senator Black of Alabama asked unanimous consent to have the official vote printed in The Record, Vice President Curtis ruled that this request could be made only in executive session.

Senator Jones, in giving notice that at the first opportunity he would ask consideration of his resolution for modifying the rule of secrecy, spoke of the newspaper roll-call on the Lenroot nomination.

"It simply emphasizes the impractical character of our rules with reference to the transaction of business in executive session," he sad. "It seems to me it emphasizes the necessity of taking some action with reference to the matter."

Question Is Brought Up Again.

The newspaper roll-call bobbed up again later in the day when Senator Blaine made a second attempt to have it inserted in the record. He started to read the article accompanying the unauthorized roll-call, but had not gone further than saying that a headline asserted that nine Democratic Senators had voted for Mr. Lenroot when Senator Reed objected.

Mr. Reed read the rules of the Senate imposing secrecy on Senators and employes in regard to transactions in executive session. He held that Mr. Blaine would be violating the rules if he told how nine Democrats voted in executive session, even if he merely read the statement from a newspaper. He made a point of order that Mr. Blaine was transgressing the rules by reading the article.

Then the battle began. Spectators in the galleries were amused over some of the tilts, and frequent titters were heard.

Curtis Overrules Reed.

Vice President Curtis overruled Mr. Reed's point of order that the newspaper poll could not be printed in the Congressional Record. He held that to put it in the Record was not a violation of the rules of the Senate concerning secrecy of executive business, explaining that the late Senator Cummins of Iowa, then president pro tempore of the Senate, had held that a newspaper publication concerning an executive session could not be inserted in the Record, but upon more mature study of the question Mr. Cummins had reversed that ruling.

The Vice President stood by the Cummins precedent and ruled that Mr. Blaine could have the newspaper roll-call printed in the record. From that ruling Mr. Reed took an appeal.

After considerable debate the Senate voted on Mr. Reed's appeal from the Vice President's decision. The vote of 63 to 9 was not a fair test of sentiment, however, as many Senators who cling to the rules of secrecy felt that it would be unwise to rebuke the Vice President.

The Senators who voted to overrule were Dale, Hastings, Kean, Phipps, Reed, Steiwer, Walcott and Waterman. Senator Bingham first voted against the ruling, but announced later that he found he was paired with Senator Glass, who was absent, and would withdraw his vote.

Senator Reed was severe on those who violated the Senate's rules of secrecy. He spoke of "some people here who cry out for law enforcement" and then violated the Senate's rules. He said that "some man who is without honor" not only divulged the names of those who voted on the Lenroot nomination but gave out what he wanted printed about the proceedings in the Lenroot case. It was wholly unfair, he declared.

"I believe in enforcing the rule that if it is a Senator he shall be expelled, or if an employe, he shall be dismissed," Mr. Reed said.

Senator George of Georgia asked why Senator Reed did not ask for an investigation, and got the answer that the Committee on Rules would meet tomorrow to consider the newspaper story.

Mr. Reed then recalled that a couple of years ago he had offered a resolution to expel any member of the press gallery who ("conspired with a traitor" to print anything about the Senate's secret sessions. He said that the newspaper man who published the roll-call on the Lenroot nomination "flaunted" his name at the head of the article in defiance of the Senate.

Referring to his resolution to expel newspaper men who printed executive session secrets, Mr. Reed said he was "subjected to considerable ridicule by newspaper paragraphers" at that time.

"They'll do it again tomorrow—I don't care," he added.

Blaine Challenges Reed.

As to his comments on Senators who give information to the press concerning secret sessions, Mr. Blaine wanted to know if Mr. Reed referred to "a specific Senator," and was told by Mr. Reed that his remarks applied to "the Senator who gave out this information."

"Does the Senator mean to imply from my remarks that I was the Senator?" asked Mr. Blaine.

He was assured that Mr. Reed intended no such implication, as he did not know who made the disclosure to the press.

"I wish to Heaven I did know who divulged this information," he added.

Senator Borah asked:

"If we seek to enforce the rules, why not enforce them against ourselves?"

"That's true," responded Mr. Reed. "But we know how newspaper men stand on the so-called ethics of a so-called profession and refuse to reveal the source of their information. I would enforce proceedings for contempt of the Senate in such cases."

The Senate should enforce its rulings against the newspaper which violated its rules unless it was afraid, according to Mr. Reed, who added that he, for one, was not afraid.

Senator Norris contended that in mentioning that a newspaper had printed that nine Democratic Senators had voted for Lenroot's confirmation, Mr. Reed was divulging information which Senator Blaine was not permitted to read. The galleries tittered at this.

Vice President Curtis remarked that he had ruled that the newspaper roll-call might be read.

La Follettee Sees Inconsistencies.

Senator La Follette thought that Senators "ought to be very careful about what they say here or they may divulge something."

"If a Senator has the right to say in advance of an executive session what he intends to say in an executive sessions," he asked, "does that bar him from saying after an executive session what he said in advance of an executive session?"

The galleries laughed.

The debate ended with notice by Senator Smith of South Carolina, a Democrat, that "some of us on this side contemplate offering a resolution for an investigation, but we prefer that the majority shall take action as to the proper course."

Investigations by what were commonly known as "smelling committees have been undertaken in the past into disclosures of what the Senate did behind closed doors, but they ended futilely. Any inquiry at this time is likely to be valuable only in accelerating the movement toward discarding the secrecy of the Senate's proceedings on nominations for office.

CONGLETON CHOSEN AGAIN.

Re-elected Mayor of Newark by Commission After It Is Sworn In.

Newark's new City Commission was sworn in at the City Hall yesterday afternoon by City Clerk William Egan after a two-hour conference in the Mayor's office. The commission chamber was crowded with friends and well wishers.

Jerome T. Congleton was again unanimously chosen Mayor. The other commissioners retained their directorates as follows: William J. Brennan, Director of the Department of Public Safety; John Howe, Revenue and Finance; John F. Murray Jr., Department of Public Works, and Charles P. Gillen, Parks and Public Property.

REPUBLICANS DEFER CAUCUS ON SUGAR

FORT FOR SLIDING SCALE

New Jersey Member Also Urges Flexible Rule for Some Articles on Free List.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The proposed increase in the tariff on raw sugar today provoked a serious disagreement among the various factions of the Republican party in the House, and after a series of conferences it was decided that the party meeting which is to decide upon the tariff policy will not be held tomorrow as scheduled, but will take place Thursday or possibly still later in the week.

A general understanding had grown up in the past few days that leaders and members from the beet sugar States had affected an agreement under which the sugar tariff would not be brought to a vote on the floor of the House. From the disagreements today it now is felt by many members that this agreement may be overturned and those opposed to the duty may be able to force a vote in the House.

The rate which is causing such disruption of the party's plans to push the tariff bill through the House with as few amendments as possible calls for an increase from 2.20 cents on world sugar and 1.76 cents a pound on Cuban sugar to 3 cents on world sugar and 2.40 cents on Cuban sugar.

Leaders Meet With Longworth.

A group of members from the various States where sugar beets are produced met this afternoon with Chairman Hawley of the Ways and Means Committee and after the meeting declared that the question of whether or not the sugar duty will be opened for amendment on the floor was still undecided.

A short time later another group of House leaders, including some members interested in sugar, Speaker Longworth, Representative Tilson, Republican floor leader; Chairman Hawley and Representative Snell, Republican, of New York, chairman of the Rules Committee, met in the Speaker's office to discuss the situation.

At the close of the conference Mr. Longworth said that it had been decided not to hold the party conference until Thursday at the earliest, and that no decision had been reached as to whether the sugar schedule would be opened to amendment on the floor of the House or in the caucus.

The House leaders also talked over the parliamentary situation as it affects the farm relief bill, including the export debenture plan. They supported the stand of the House members of the Conference Committee who earlier in the day had reiterated to Senate members that the House regarded the vote sending the farm bill to conference as a vote on the debenture plan. And that they were determined to reject it.

House members of the Conference Committee now expect to continue the conversations with the Senate over the debenture plan for a few days, after which the Senate conferees, realising the determined position of the House, will return to the Senate and ask instructions.

The Ways and Means Committee, after its chairman and Republican members had spent the day sounding out the feelings of the various tariff factions, met tonight to decide upon the change it will approve in the bill it already has reported. After a hectic session it was revealed that many of the rate changes were yet undecided and that another meeting of the committee in closed session will be necessary before the committee amendments can be approved.

Fort Defends Higher Rates.

Representative Fort, Republican, of New Jersey, a close friend of President Hoover, in the course of today's House debate said that "the United States should remain a producer of sugar for so much of its consumption as it can develop wisely at home. But whether this is true or not, the nation could not justify a past policy of inducing men to enter the sugar growing business and then leave them defenseless in their time of greatest need.

"An increase in duty, then, at the time of great distress in the industry, can produce no real harm to the consumer, since even at the rates projected in the bill he will still buy sugar below the accustomed level of the past."

Representative Fort said he would personally prefer to the schedule in the bill the adoption of some sliding scale proposal "such as I understand was considered by the committee—that is, a scale relating the duty to the price."

"I would not feel," he added, "that the rates of duty in the present bill could be justified if the price of sugar, due to reduction in world production, reached the six-cent level."

Voicing objection to the proposed duty on long-staple cotton, Mr. Fort declared "unfortunately it is the boll weevil and not the price which has ruined this once profitable form of cotton production."

Commenting on the textile schedules he declared:

"I am particularly gratified that we propose in this bill real assistance to the cotton and woolen manufacturers. I believe the schedules fixed by the committee will accomplish their purposes in this respect; and while the weaker mills and those less efficient in management will probably, one by one, fade from the picture until capacity is brought down in proportion to need, nevertheless the process will be less drastic, unemployment less frequent, and the results on our whole economic structure less severe if we lent this crutch to the crippled industry during its period of recovery from its ailments."

Mr. Fort advocated a change in the flexible provision of the tariff bill by which the President would have authority to extend emergency relief to some articles on the free list without waiting for action by Congress.

Democrat Approves the Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP).—The first approval of the pending tariff bill by a Democrat was given in House debate today by Representative Hill of Washington. Mr. Hill, while asserting that the measure did not go far enough in protecting agriculture, advocated its passage on the ground that it represented a step in that direction. He expressed the hope that further increases in duties on farm products would be provided by committee amendments and predicted the measure would be greatly improved before passage.

Representative Greenwood of Indiana, one of the several Democrats who opposed the bill, characterized Representative Fort, who had declared he would vote for it, as one of the leading "spokesmen" for the administration and a "high priest of super-protection."

During debate Representative Fish, Republican, of New York, criticized as "improper" and "horse trading" a speech delivered last month by William R. Castle, Assistant Secretary of State, before the Canadian Club at Montreal in which he was quoted as having said that reasonable assurances from Canada for the development of the St. Lawrence waterway would destroy the strongest argument for an increase in American tariffs on Canadian products.

HOOVER TO END RECEPTIONS

He Finds Shaking Hands at Weekly Public Functions Too Arduous.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The public receptions now held twice a week by President Hoover will be discontinued after Congress adjourns and may not be resumed.

Next week there will be only one public reception to be held on Wednesday. Since March 4, with receptions every day for a week, then three times a week and recently twice a week more than 30,000 people have been received by the President.

The practice is too fatiguing and President Hoover feels that he cannot, in justice to his work and his health, continue the arduous handshaking routine.

INDEPENDENTS REJECT CIGARETTE PRICE CUT

Tobacco Dealers Decide Not to Follow Big Retail Groups in a Reduction.

In the belief that cigarette price cutting by the big tobacco retail organizations will not continue long, about 100 independent tobacco dealers, at a meeting last night at the Pennsylvania Hotel, voted to "stand pat on all prices," maintaining in particular the price of 15 cents a package for the popular brands of cigarettes.

Benjamin Gorlitzer, president of the Independent Retail Tobacconists of America, an organization with 350 members, mainly in New York, declared in an interview following the closed meeting that the policy of the chain stores in reducing prices was "unfair competition" and hinted that a case against those dealers, charging monopoly in restraint of trade, was in preparation.

Mr. Gorlitzer said his organization had been in existence only about three or four months and had had no opportunity to establish a system for cooperative buying that would allow them to compete with the larger organizations, some of which, he charged, were selling two cigars for 25 cents of the brand that cost them 11½ cents apiece.

The owners of small cigarette and cigar stands made up about 80 per cent of the gathering and won over the storekeepers in the vote to maintain the 15 cent price on cigarettes.

and was responsible for getting him to accept the chairmanship of the league.

Mr. Waterman added that Mr. Hylan had told him that he wanted to "get even" with three men, former Governor Smith, George W. Olvany, who resigned recently as leader of Tammany, and Mayor Walker.

"Olvany is out of it," Mr. Waterman quoted Mr. Hylan as saying. "Smith is through politically, and there remains only Walker. Tell Mr. Curry that he will strengthen himself as a leader and be in complete control of Tammany if he will nominate me."

Finally Told Morgan.

Mr. Waterman said that he did nothing in the matter for two or three days, at the end of which time Mr. Hylan called him by telephone and urged him to see Mr. Curry at once. He said he then felt it his duty as a personal friend to inform Mr. Morgan that he was being "double-crossed" by Mr. Hylan. Several days later, he said, Mr. Hylan again telephoned for the third time and urged him to see Mr. Curry.

Mr. Waterman said that he finally did meet Mr. Curry and informed him of Mr. Hylan's request, though not standing sponsor for it. Mr. Curry's reply, he said, was a hearty laugh.

In a statement issued later Mr. Hylan again denied Mr. Waterman's story and revealed that a meeting of the county chairmen of the Better City Government League will be held at its headquarters at 11 West Forty-second Street this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Both Mr. Hylan and Mr. Morgan are expected to be present. A meeting scheduled to be held last night at the home of Frank A. Dalton, 251 DeKalb Avenue, Brooklyn, was called off because of today's meeting.

"I understand that a man by the name of Joe Waterman, otherwise known as Wasserman, in league with Walker and an intimate friend of James Morgan, is making a statement that I asked him to go to John F. Curry, Tammany leader, in reference to my nomination for Mayor against Walker," Mr. Hylan said. "I have been expecting a move of this kind, but I did not think that James Morgan would be a party to such an underhand trick."

Found a Plot, He Says.

Mr. Hylan declared that the meeting scheduled to be held at Mr. Dalton's home was arranged secretly by Mr. Morgan, and continued:

"Several weeks ago a careful investigation was made of every Assembly district organization in Greater New York and we discovered that carefully placed where a great deal of harm could be done were men who apparently were acting under the direction of some one higher up in the Better City Government League. Immediately upon discovery of this situation, which was organized to destroy wherever possible the volunteer organization of citizens forming themselves to restore the government of the city to the people and advocate my candidacy, I submitted the matter to an advisory committee, which recommended that these trouble makers be dispensed with immediately and that one higher up in the league be carefully observed. The result was that at a recent meeting of the New York county organization, when a new chairman was elected, these trouble makers were not allowed to participate in the conference by those Assembly district leaders who were honest and loyal to the cause of good government.

"By that time we had substituted in their places loyal and honest citizens whom we can depend on as the proper representatives in the respective assembly districts. After these trouble makers were removed, Mr. Morgan criticized the action and resigned."

A clash is expected at today's meeting. Mr. Morgan, it is understood, has spent more than $30,000 in maintaining the headquarters and activities of the league.

Among the republican leaders known to have been approached with reference to the selection of Mr. Hylan to head the proposed anti-Tammany fusion ticket are Samuel S. Koenig, New York County chairman; Charles C. Lockwood, Kings County chairman, and Jacob A. Livingston, chairman of the executive committee of the Kings County committee.

WOMAN SUES TUNNEY AND ASKS $500,000

Mrs. Fogarty of Fort Worth, Twice Married, Charges He Promised to Wed Her.

JOKE, SAYS EX-CHAMPION

His Attorney Cites Affidavit by the Plaintiff Disavowing Any Claim on Him.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 21.—A $500,000 breach of promise suit against James J. Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, was begun here today by Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty, 30, of New York City and Fort Worth, Tex. As a preliminary step in the proceedings Deputy Sheriff Ryan of Stamford attached eighty acres of land and an old farm house on Erskine Road, Stamford, which Mr. Tunney has planned to transform into a country home for his bride, the former Mary Josephine Lauder.

Papers in the action were drawn up by Colonel Lewis Field of New Haven as counsel for Mrs. Fogarty. The writ handed to Deputy Sheriff Ryan by Deputy Sheriff Maley of New Haven gives few details and Colonel Field would go no further than to say:

"Tunney promised to marry Mrs. Fogarty and then refused to do it."

Date for trial of the action in Superior Court here will not be set until Sheriff Ryan, who now has the writ in his possession, files it with the clerk of Superior Court. He said he does not plan to do that for several days.

Dates Complaint to 1925.

One paragraph of the complaint states that "on or about June 3, 1925, and on divers other dates thereof, in consideration that the plaintiff, who was then unmarried, at the request of the defendant promised to marry him within a reasonable time and the defendant promised to marry the plaintiff within said reasonable time."

Another paragraph reads: "The plaintiff confiding in said promise has always remained single and is now ready and willing to marry the defendant."

A third paragraph says: "The defendant afterward on a certain date married another person, contrary to the promise made to the plaintiff."

Miss Fogarty, according to her counsel, has a 10-year-old daughter and is the former wife of John S. Fogarty of Fort Worth. She obtained a divorce from him in Fort Worth on May 29, 1925, just before Mr. Tunney is alleged to have proposed to her. She met Mr. Tunney, according to counsel, while he was training at Hot Springs, Ark., early in 1925. When she obtained her divorce she is reported to have made settlement on her husband in accordance with Texas law and waived alimony. She alleges that she has been in a highly nervous condition ever since Tunney's marriage to Miss Lauder.

The value of the Stamford real estate attached is about $125,000. Deputy Sheriff Ryan also left copies of the complaint with various Stamford and Greenwich banks to garnishee any money that Mr. Tunney may have on deposit.

Plaintiff Twice Married.

Special to The New York Times.

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 21.—Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty was born and reared in this city. For several years she has lived in New York City. A few weeks ago she visited her mother, Mrs. J. Y. Rankin, who lives here.

Tarrant County records at Fort Worth show that Mrs. Fogarty, whose maiden name was Katie Gaddis, was married to E. K. King, an automobile salesman, on April 2, 1913. They were divorced and remarried on Nov. 18, 1915. Later King was killed in an automobile accident.

The plaintiff in the suit against Mr. Tunney was married June 19, 1919, to John S. Fogarty, a Fort Worth plumber. Fogarty signed a waiver in a divorce action by his wife on May 13, 1925, and the divorce was granted soon thereafter, with both parties agreeing to a petition of property. In her divorce petition Mrs. Fogarty charged cruel treatment at the hands of her husband.

Tunney Calls It "Another Joke."

BRIONI, Italy, May 21 (AP).—James J. Tunney exclaimed, "I know absolutely nothing of the report," when informed today that papers in a suit for alleged breach of promise of marriage had been sent to Bridgeport for filing. "It must be another joke," declared the former heavyweight boxing champion.

"When I am sued I let my attorneys worry," he went on. "I have all the worries I can handle right now, here."

Mr. Tunney did not explain whether his last remark was in reference to the recent illness of his wife, the former Polly Lauder of Greenwich, Conn., upon whom an emergency operation was performed for acute appendicitis. She had been reported progressing favorably.

The former boxer has remained in Europe since his marriage in Rome on Oct. 3.

Suit Is Branded as a "Threat."

George W. Whiteside of 120 Broadway, attorney for Tunney, met the news of the breach of promise suit against the retired boxing champion with the issuance of a copy of an affidavit by Mrs. Fogarty in which she declared that she had "no claim upon him of any kind." The affidavit purports to have been made last July 24, two days before the Tunney-Heeney bout.

Mr. Whiteside's statement read:

"Certain New York evening newspapers of May 21 publish a story which has just come to my notice that Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty has started suit in Bridgeport, Conn., against Gene Tunney, claiming a breach of promise to marry and asking for $500,000 damages. Numerous threats of this kind have been made in the past by this woman, culminating in very insistent demands on her part and threats of damaging publicity immediately before Tunney's last fight for the heavyweight championship.

"At that time a very thorough investigation of her claims was made and they were found to be without the slightest merit. Neither she nor her claim can at this time be dignified by further comment on my part other than to publish the following affidavit made by her in the presence of her lawyer on July 24, two days before the championship fight:

State of New York, City of New York, County of New York.—ss:

Katherine King Fogarty, being duly sworn, deposes and says: I made the acquaintance of John James (Gene) Tunney in Hot Springs in October, 1924. Our relations at all times thereafter were such as in no way to cast the slightest criticism or discredit upon him. I have no claim upon him of any kind and never did have. I had hoped to continue to enjoy his friendship, but that does not seem any longer possible for either of us. In the past I have said things about him to my lawyers that I now deeply regret, because I know of nothing that I could say that would cast the slightest discredit upon him, and should my name ever be used with or without my knowledge in the future in any way to reflect in the slightest manner upon him, I wish to make this solemn declaration under oath that may be published at any time, that he is under no obligation whatsoever to me and never was, and that his character and conduct to my knowledge are of the best.

KATHERINE KING FOGARTY.

Sworn to before me this 24th day of July, 1926.

ROWLAND W. PHILLIPHS.
Notary Public, Nassau County.
New York County Clerk's No. 60.
Kings County Clerk's No. 86.
Commission expires March 30, 1930.

[Seal]

Mr. Whiteside was silent on the circumstances under which the affidavit was made and on how Mrs. Fogarty came to sign it.

Police Commissioner William A. McCabe of Poughkeepsie, friend and adviser of Mr. Tunney, said yesterday that Mrs. Fogarty's suit "is just bunk and hokum. There is no ground for it."

"Speaking as a friend of Tunney," said Dudley Field Malone, attorney, "it seems to me that if the lady has failed to take action since 1925 it should be outlawed by the statute of romantic limitations."

Mrs. Fogarty was reported yesterday to have an apartment at the San Carlos Hotel, but she was said there to be out of town. It was further stated that the first name of Mrs. Fogarty residing at the hotel was Beatrice.

LARCHMONT SPEEDS ROAD.

Board Approves New Highway to Ease Jams on Boston Route.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, May 21.—Another step toward the construction of the county parallel highway to relieve congestion on the Boston Post Road here was taken today when the Larchmont Board of Trustees voted approval of the route and took steps to acquire the right of way.

The highway link under consideration would extend from Chatsworth Avenue, at the Larchmont Station, to the village line. It is understood that the town of Mamaroneck and the city of New Rochelle have agreed to continue the highway as far as Petersville Road.

WHALEN WARNS POLICE TO SHUN SPEAKEASIES

Tells Aides They Will Be Held Accountable for Behavior of Men Under Them.

Repeating his warning against policemen being seen in speakeasies or otherwise conducting themselves in a manner that would not set a good example to the community, Police Commissioner Whalen told the higher officers of the department at the first of a series of semi-monthly "cabinet" meetings at Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon that he would hold them accountable for the conduct of their subordinates.

The commissioner praised his aides on the fine showing he said their men had made in the police parade last Saturday and told them that he would not tolerate careless handling of the department's $400,000 worth of new equipment.

He announced also that he intends to hold a monthly conference with all captains in the department to provide an opportunity for an exchange of views. He is especially anxious, he said after yesterday's conference, to promote a spirit of cooperation among the various bureaus, and he stressed this idea yesterday.

70 and Starving, Buys Tobacco.

Although he was starving, Daniel Day, 70 years old, of 153 East Twenty-third Street, a tailor, long out of work, took a few cents he had borrowed and bought himself some chewing tobacco. He collapsed in the street near his home yesterday afternoon. Patrolman Jack Albrecht picked him up and called an ambulance. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital, suffering from starvation. Day said he had not eaten in a week.

FRANCE GIVES GAS FOR ZEPPELIN TRIP

Passenger List May Have to Be Cut With 7 French Officers Also Going.

ECKENER TO FLY SHIP HOME

By COUNT MONTGELAS

Copyright in the United States by THE NEW YORK TIMES Co., in Europe by Ullstein Nachrichtendienst. All rights reserved.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOULON, France, May 21.—The third motor shipped from Friedrichshafen for installation in the Graf Zeppelin arrived at Cuers-Pierrefeu this afternoon and will be mounted tomorrow. This will give her four good motors for the return voyage to Friedrichshafen.

At the same time as the motor, there arrived from the French Government a shipment of 2,200 cubic meters (about 2,880 cubic yards) of hydrogen gas to replace that which was allowed to escape during the landing. The arrival of this gas solves one of the greatest difficulties in the way of the departure, as officials believed the Zeppelin could not rise with the reduced quantity now contained in the gas bag.

Dr. Eckener expected to return to Cuers tomorrow and will direct operations, testing the motors, and decide whether the fourteen of the original eighteen passengers still waiting here can return to Friedrichshafen in the dirigible. As seven French officers of the Naval Aviation station here have been invited to go, it is uncertain whether it will be possible for all the passengers to be taken as the gas may not furnish sufficient lifting power for the extra load.

All the passengers are extremely eager to make the return flight, most of all, perhaps, the lone woman passenger, Mrs. Mary Pierce of New York.

Hospitality Swamps Crew.

CUERS, Pierrefeu, France, May 21 (AP).—A decidedly sentimental reaction in Southern France has followed the berthing of the dirigible here. Members of the crew who were free for sightseeing have been literally besieged by the owners of automobiles, who will take them anywhere and treat them royally. Six men who were off yesterday had a choice of fifty limousines.

Interest in the troubles of the Zeppelin's engines has brought the German and French officers into such close and friendly contact that the French officers and men of the Cuers airfield politely resent civilian attentions to the Germans, wishing to have them as their own guests.

A high French officer said of the German crew: "They are truly a remarkable crowd, the best fellows in the world, and they have given me several tips to think over."

Then a Zeppelin officer said: "It would be splendid if we could take some of these fine fellows across the Atlantic or around the world with us. You know they know their job, and if we could work together, wouldn't that be fine?"

Motor Trouble Still a Puzzle.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 21.—After a prolonged conference with experts of his own company and those of the Maybach Motor Works Dr. Eckener said tonight that he was still unable to locate the cause of the breakdown of the Graf Zeppelin's battery of motors.

Until he is convinced that he can rely entirely on his propulsion equipment the commander of the airship will not undertake further long flights, he reiterated, as he could not guarantee the safety of the passengers unless he was completely convinced of the reliability of his motors.

Dr. Eckener will return to Cuers tomorrow and will pilot the Graf Zeppelin back under power of four motors, three of which are new. He expects to arrive here some time Friday.

Disputes Eckener's Statement.

BERLIN, May 21 (AP).—Dr. Eckener is quoted by interviewers at Friedrichshafen as stating that the Graf Zeppelin would not have been in worse danger had her motor damage occurred over the ocean, where the steering would have been easier, than she was in the storm-ridden mountain-enclosed Rhone Valley.

In the Acht Uhr Abendblatt one of the foremost German aeronautical experts, however, expresses doubt as to this opinion, saying that it is quite impossible to depend upon the steadiness of the wind over the ocean and that it is likely the steering would have been more difficult rather than easier.

This expert contends that experience has shown that airships can alight on land without injuring their passengers, but a descent on the ocean would inevitably involve most grave peril, and the airship probably would be lost.

MISSION CLASS GRADUATED.

Eleven Get Degrees at School for Training Christian Leaders.

Degrees were conferred yesterday on eleven students at the forty-second annual commencement of the School for Training Christian Leaders, 7 Gramercy Park. One other student, Antonia Centeno, received the degree in February and is now working at the Presbyterian Mission in Bisbee, Ariz. The ceremony was under the auspices of the New York City Mission Society. Mrs. Dwight H. Day, president of the organization, presided.

The presentation of diplomas and certificates was made by Miss Grace H. Hamilton, dean. The Rev. Dr. A. H. McKinney, superintendent, read the invocation. Mrs. Anna Wells Bigelow, executive secretary, and William Sloane Coffin extended greetings from the woman's branch and the men's board. Short talks were made by Misses Hazel Bedell and Mildred Casalese, graduates.

The Rev. Dr. Paul E. Scherer of the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, delivered the principal address. Speaking on "Our American Christianity" he stressed the fact that we in America today need to take time for worship, and said that programs of Christian service would take care of themselves, provided we kept closely in touch with the Great Source of all power.

Those receiving degrees are:

Euphrosyne Argyropoulou	Evelyn Di Mirco
Hazel L. Bedell	Ruth Irving
Marjorie A. Badertscher	Helen K. Peterson
Sadie G. Busacca	Dalia Scalera
Mildred Casalese	Sophiee Schwarz

BREMEN UNVEILED AT GRAND CENTRAL

17,000 See Col. Fitzmaurice Uncover Airship in Which He Crossed Atlantic.

GIFT OF VON HUENEFELD

Baron Who Backed Its Flight Gave It to Peaceful Arts Museum Shortly Before His Death.

Before a crowd of 17,000, one of the largest ever assembled in Grand Central Terminal, Mayor Walker and Colonel James C. Fitzmaurice unveiled the veteran Junkers all-metal monoplane Bremen yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The plane will be kept on exhibition as part of the transportation display of historical vehicles for a time, and then will be sent to the Museum of the Peaceful Arts, contingent on the purchase of a suitable building by the museum for its permanent display.

The unveiling was preceded by a luncheon at the Hotel Commodore, attended by Clarence D. Chamberlin, Colonel Fitzmaurice and Amelia Earhart, transatlantic aviators, together with other widely known fliers. Fitzmaurice recounted the history of the plane and its flight, after which Mayor Walker felicitated the Colonel and the members of the museum who helped procure the ship. The late Baron Guenther von Huenefeld donated it to the people of the city of New York in appreciation of the reception tendered to him and his crew on their completion of the first nonstop east-to-west flight across the North Atlantic.

The luncheon and exercises were arranged by the New York Central Lines, which will have custody of the plane until it is placed in the museum. George H. Ingalls, vice president of the company, made the speech of acceptance for the Transportation Exposition. Frederick M. Pratt, president of the Museum of the Peaceful Arts, presided.

The plane, with its Junkers engine and full equipment, is suspended on cables from the roof of the east balcony of the terminal. The veil, a long white curtain stretching from both sides of the terminal, was drawn aside to the music of "God Save the King" in honor of Colonel Fitzmaurice.

The speakers paid tribute to the memory of Baron von Huenefeld, who backed the voyage.

Colonel Fitzmaurice and Mr. Chamberlin pointed out that it was particularly appropriate that the plane should be hung over another milestone in the history of transportation, the locomotive De Witt Clinton. Colonel Fitzmaurice also declared that aviation is only on the brink of its development as a means of transportation, and that the future of civilization depended on the use to which the airplanes of the future are put.

Among the guests were:

Julius Rosenwald	Bruce Barton
William P. MacCracken	Dr. Frank B. Jewett
James Speyer	Dr. John H. Finley
Harry F. Guggenheim	H. Schuengel
Gen. J. Leslie Kincaid	R. D. Starbuck

NATIONAL AIR LINES VIA SOUTH PROJECTED

McAdoo to Head Board of Southern Skylines, Linking New York, Miami and Los Angeles.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The organization of a new aeronautical company to be known as Southern Skylines, Inc., to operate a southern trans-continental and Atlantic coastal air-rail passenger, mail and express service was announced here today.

William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, will be chairman of the board and James C. Edgerton, a Washington man, vice chairman and general manager of the company which will be incorporated under the laws of Delaware.

It is planned to operate between New York and Los Angeles on a forty-six hour schedule by way of Philadelphia, Washington, Danville, Va., Atlanta, Birmingham, Jackson, Miss., Shreveport, Dallas, Fort Worth, Midland and El Paso, Texas; Phoenix, Ariz., and San Diego, Cal. A line from St. Louis to New York by way of Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus and Pittsburgh is also being considered, with a feeder line from Pittsburgh to Washington.

The coastal line will be operated from New York to Washington as a part of the transcontinental route. It is planned to extend it from Washington to Miami by way of Richmond, Raleigh, Columbia, Augusta, Savannah and Jacksonville.

An additional route is contemplated from Chicago to New Orleans via St. Louis, Memphis and Jackson, and a further connecting route from Cincinnati to Dallas by way of Louisville, Nashville, Memphis, Little Rock and Texarkana, Texas.

Mr. Edgerton, who will head the operating organization, is an air mail pilot and executive of long standing. He was a lieutenant in the Army Air Service during the World War and was the first air mail pilot to complete a scheduled flight in the United States. This was between New York and Washington on May 15, 1918, when the service was inaugurated by the army.

When the air mail service was taken over by the Postoffice Department in August, 1918, Lieutenant Edgerton was transferred by the request of the Postmaster General and became superintendent of flying operations of the system. Later he organized and became superintendent of the radio service of the Postoffice Department, establishing the first aeronautical radio stations in this country.

Those interested in the company think that the principal route linking the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts via the Southern States will prove highly advantageous, because of avoidance of storms and better flying conditions throughout the year. The route is also regarded as affording better terrain due to the fact that the Continental Divide in the West is much lower at the point traversed and that the Appalachian Mountains are practically avoided.

The Southern Air Transport, Inc., it was pointed out, now carries mail and passengers over the route suggested for the Southern Skylines between Atlanta, Fort Worth and El Paso, while Pitcairn Aviation holds the mail contract and is inaugurating passenger service on the route between New York, Atlanta, Jacksonville and Miami.

21 SEAPLANES ENTER FOR CURTISS RACE

Annual Contest for Marine Trophy Will Take Place at Anacostia Saturday.

FIVE CLASSES ARE LISTED

Flying Arrangements Will Give the Spectators a Constant View of the Navy's Aircraft.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Twenty-one planes of five classes will participate in the annual seaplane race for the Curtiss Marine Trophy at the Anacostia Naval Air Station Saturday afternoon. Fighting, observation, Loening amphibian, Martin torpedo and training planes will be entered in the race and fly over a course above the Potomac River for the trophy, which was presented in 1911 by Glenn Curtiss to promote interest in seaplane operation.

The race last year was won by Major C. A. Lutz of the Marine Corps, who was killed a short time later in a crash soon after taking off from Washington on a flight to Nicaragua.

Previous to the race five enlisted men will make parachute jumps from a Ford Transport plane over the field and Lieut. A. J. Williams, Navy speed pilot, and Captain F. O. Rogers, Marine Corps aviator, will perform acrobatics in service fighting planes.

List of the Entries.

The entries are as follows:

FIGHTING PLANES.

Lieutenant WILLIS E. CLEAVES, U. S. N., U. S. S. Wright.
Lieutenant R. W. D. WOODS, U. S. N., U. S. S. Wright.
Lieutenant (J. G.) HALLSTED L. HOPPING, U. S. N., U. S. S. Wright.

Alternates for Torpedo Planes.

Lieutenant WILLIAM J. SLATTERY, U. S. N., U. S. S. Wright.
Lieutenant DANIEL V. GALLERY JR., U. S. N., U. S. S. Wright.

TRAINING PLANES.
105 Miles Per Hour—Whirlwind Engines.

Lieutenant JAMES H. McKAY, U. S. N., Hampton Roads, Curtiss Fledgling.
Lieutenant SAMUEL H. ARTHUR, U. S. N., Keystone plane.

Schedule of the Take-Off.

The home pylon for the race will be in the Potomac opposite the Naval Air Station and the other main pylon will be ten miles south. The training planes with a speed of 105 miles an hour, the slowest of any class in the race, will take off first in the two minute intervals from 3 to 3:02 P. M. They will be followed at two-minute intervals by the torpedo planes with a speed of 110 miles an hour, the amphibian planes with a speed of 155 miles an hour, the observation planes with a speed of 155 miles an hour and the fighting planes with a speed of 160 miles an hour.

The last two classes will pass the training planes twice and other planes once, while the amphibian and torpedo planes will each pass the training planes once, thus affording the spectators a constant view of the various types of aircraft in use in the navy.

Luke Christopher, chairman of the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association, will be the official referee and the judges will be Porter Adams, former president of the A. A. A.; Major Clarence Young of the Department of Commerce and Dr. George Lewis, director of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

The National Aeronautic Association will present five gold wrist watches to the five pilots who win the race in the class to which each is assigned. The Curtiss marine trophy itself will be won by the pilot making the fastest actual time in the race, regardless of handicap.

PLANE LANDS ON TREE TOP.

Oregon Pilot Is Uninjured and Passenger Only Slightly Hurt.

MARSHFIELD, Ore., May 21 (AP).—Like some huge fabled bird, an airplane was perched in a tree-top near here today, 100 feet above the ground.

The ship, piloted by Dr. Earl Low of Coquille, Ore., and carrying William Richardson, crashed into the top of the fir tree Saturday. Dr. Low said the controls stuck and the plane went into a dive. He was uninjured and Richardson received only a minor cut.

LOTTI OFF TO STUDY RUNWAY IN MAINE

PREFERS A LOCAL TAKE-OFF

But Points Out That Soggy Field and Short Run Are Perilous to His Heavy Bernard Plane.

With low clouds and rain over Roosevelt Field and discouraging reports from Dr. James H. Kimball, meteorologist, of conditions between here eand Newfoundland as well as for a thousand miles over the North Atlantic, Armeno Lotti Jr., sponsor of the proposed flight to Paris, and his pilots, Jean Assolent and Rene Lefevre, announced last night that they would not be able to take off for at least two days.

The persistent rains have soaked the runways at Roosevelt Field to the point that thorough drying will be necessary befors the heavy Bernard can get off. In view of the condition of the field, which two years ago caused more than one postponement of Commander Byrd's transatlantic flight, Mr. Lotti decided last night to go by train to Old Orchard, Me., to look at the beach runway there which Roger Q. Williams and Lewis Yancey will use for their take-off for Rome.

Mr. Lotti left the Grand Central at 8:15 o'clock last night with Assolant. On the same train was Giuseppe M. Bellanca, designer and builder of the Williams plane, who was also going to Old Orchard to supervise the last details of loading and preparing it for the long flight.

Prefer to Start Here.

As far as a choice of fields is concerned, the Frenchmen would much prefer using the runway from which Colonel Lindbergh flew.

They are enjoying their stay at Roosevelt Field, but with the reorganization of the airport under the new management which has taken over both Curtiss and Roosevelt Fields has come much reconstruction. This coupled with bad weather has made a quagmire of the take-off area, particularly on the old Curtiss Field which Lotti and his companions have been using. The runway on Roosevelt, Mr. Lotti pointed out, is less than a mile long and, in its watersoaked condition, not fit for the take off of his six and a half ton plane. At Old Orchard the beach runway is two miles long and the sand hard packed.

"We have made no decision to use the Old Orchard Beach," Mr. Lotti said last night just before going aboard his train. "We feel, however, that we ought to look it over before deciding to risk our plane on the shorter runway at Roosevelt Field although we would rather use the runway utilized by Colonel Lindbergh."

1927 a section of Roosevelt Field has

Since the transatlantic flights of been cut off for a polo field and fenced. A corner of this section cuts directly across the old runway constructed for Commander Byrd and used by both Lindbergh and Clarence D. Chamberlin. It has been necessary therefore to roll a new one, just as long, but ending in a cliff-like bank instead of a gently rolling hill. This bank increases the hazards, for it gives a pilot no recourse save a dangerous ground loop should his plane fail to lift before reaching the end of the runway.

Inductor Compass Installed.

Yesterday mechanics supervised by Assollant installed a Pioneer inductor compass in the plane loaned to Mr. Lotti by Chamberlin. This compass operates on a magneto and to its accuracy and reliability Colonel Lindbergh attributed his success in holding his course to Paris.

From Dr. Kimball Mr. Lotti learned that the present storm area over New York prevailed as far North as Newfoundland and extended well out into the North Atlantic. Freezing temperatures prevailed off the Newfoundland banks and there was no indication of immediate clearing.

"Reports we have received from ships indicate that there is a thousand miles of rain over the ocean," Dr. Kimball said. "I see no prospect of good flying weather over the Great Circle Course between now and Thursday." What the prospects are for tomorrow Dr. Kimball would not forecast.

At the hangar at Roosevelt Field, where the big yellow Bernard is being groomed for its flight by a crew of American and French mechanics, the French fliers were surprised yesterday by gifts of wallets from the mechanics employed by Air Associates, Inc. While none of the American mechanics speak French, and neither Lefevre nor Assollant speak English they have arrived at a sort of mechanical esperanto in which wrenches, spark plugs and other tools are symbols. For all practical purposes they understand each other perfectly and have become warm friends.

FLIERS STILL A MYSTERY.

Pair Charged With Entering Canada Illegally Get Delay in Court.

SWEETSBURG, Que., May 21 (AP).—The mystery surrounding two aviators, who told officials they were from New York State on landing last Saturday at Granby, Que., was not cleared up today when the fliers appeared in court on a charge of entering Canada without a clearance paper and breaking a customs seal.

A fifteen-day adjournment of the case, asked by counsel for the aviators, who gave their names as E. G. Westlake and E. J. Brown, was granted and they were released on $500 bail each.

When they landed at Granby in a plane marked "Haviland, U. S. Mail 429, capacity 27.5 cubic feet," the fliers gave their addresses as Peterboro, Ont., and New York City.

Failing to satisfactorily account for themselves, they were detained and their machine locked up. Later the locks were broken and the men took flight, being forced down at Eastray, Que.

Marks Rail Stations for Fliers.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21 (AP).—The Pennsylvania Railroad is marking a large number of its stations or other buildings in letters 10-feet high for the guidance of aviators. The names of cities and towns in five states will be emblazoned in orange letters on a black background which, under normal conditions will be legible at altitudes of about 4,000 feet. The company plans to mark its stations as far West as St. Louis, the flying end of its air-rail service between the coasts, which is scheduled to start on July 1.

ENDURANCE FLIERS STILL PURSUE MARK

NOTES TELL OF ACCIDENT

Tachometer Shaft Broke Last Night and Refueling Plane Will Provide Another.

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 21 (AP).—In a light-hearted mood after more than two days and nights in the air, R. L. Robbins and James Kelly, commercial fliers, continued to wheel about over the Meacham Airport here late tonight in their single-motored monoplane Fort Worth, bent on establishing a new world's endurance flight record.

The airmen, who took off at 11:33 A. M. Sunday, have passed the 60-hour mark. In notes dropped from the plane they indicated they still were confident of exceeding the 150-hour mark record of the army monoplane Question Mark, which carried a crew of five.

Taking fuel from another plane twice daily, the Fort Worth has run smoothly, with one exception, since it left the ground. Robbins reported today that the tachometer shaft broke last night. The tachometer records the revolutions per minute of the motor. A new shaft was obtained to be lowered to the plane at the refueling late today.

In one of his notes Robbins said he had about recovered from air sickness, which bothers him when Kelly pilots the plane. Medicine sent to him yesterday relieved the sickness, he said.

"We went to Bagdad last night about 12:30 but didn't go in," Robbins facetiously commented in another note. Bagdad is a night club on the Fort Worth-Dallas road.

At the refueling contact early today 100 gallons of gasoline were transferred to the Fort Worth. The planes were at a 2,500-foot altitude when the refueling began and dropped 1,200 feet before the operation was finished.

BUYS PLANE TO KEEP UP WITH HIS BUSINESS

New Freedom (Pa.) Executive Commutes and Makes Round of Cities by Air.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 21.—Prescott Huldekoper, president of a manufacturing concern at New Freedom, Pa., whose home is at Ruxton, near Baltimore, has bought an airplane and hired an "aerial chauffeur" to enable him to commute quickly and also to make a round of cities on business in a single day.

He commutes by airplane regularly between Baltimore and New Freedom, using a field near his home as his "airdrome" at this end of the flights.

The executive often lost days at his factory office because of pressing business in Baltimore, but when very busy days came along he was in a quandary. He had to be in Baltimore in the morning, at his factory by noon, in Newark, N. J., soon afterward, in Bridgeport, Conn., before nightfall, and back in Baltimore that night.

It seemed rather hopeless, but it had to be done. So he bought a plane.

AIR LINE PICKS DIRECTORS.

Buenos Aires Service Will Start Operating Late in Fall.

Captain Ralph A. O'Neill, vice president of the recently formed New York, Rio & Buenos Aires Line, Inc., which holds a contract with the Argentine Government to carry mail to the United States, announced yesterday a list of its directors as follows:

FRANK C. MUNSON, president of the Munson Steamship Lines.
JAMES H. RAND JR., chairman of the board of the Remington-Rand Corporation.
R. H. FLEET, president of Consolidated Aircraft Corporation.
R. L. HAGUE, vice president and general manager of Standard Shipping Company.
SEYMOUR H. KNOX, president of Marine Union Investors, Inc., and a director of the F. W. Woolworth Company.
J. E. REYNOLDS, president of the International Founders Corporation.
JOHN K. MONTGOMERY, president of American International Airways, Inc.

Captain O'Neill said that the route was 8,500 miles in length, with only 90 miles over water.

The company has purchased, it was said, six Sikorsky amphibians and has contracted for six Consolidated Corporation tri-motored flying boats now under construction at Buffalo. It plans to start operations late this Fall.

POLES PLAN TO FLY SOON.

Two Hope to Hop to America From Milan, Two From Paris.

MILAN, May 21 (AP).—Captain Adam Kowalczyk and W. Klisz, Polish aviators, who are planning a transatlantic flight to the United States and have been testing their plane for the last week, will soon mount new motors in it and hope to be ready to fly by the end of this month.

The airmen, who will hop to Dublin and from there plan a non-stop flight to Chicago, are anxious to leave as soon as everything is ready.

The Italian press is filled with details of the preparation and many editorials have been printed wishing the fliers luck on their journey.

WARSAW, May 21 (AP).—Dispatches to the Warsaw Express Poranny say that the Polish airmen, Majors Louis Idzikowski and Kasimir Kubala, who are planning a flight from Paris to New York, are now awaiting favorable weather conditions for the hop-off.

Their plane has been equipped with all the instruments they consider necessary, based on their last year's experience, when they were forced to turn back by failure of their oil feed line after flying about 1,800 miles. Their route will be from Paris in the direction of the Pyrenees, over the Azores and then to Nova Scotia and New York.

GIFTS TO HEBREW COLLEGE.

Cincinnati Institution's Fund Rises to $3,281,181.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, May 21.—Four gifts of $10,000 each and two of $5,000 with several lesser contributions brought the total of the Hebrew Union College endowment fund to $3,281,181, according to an announcement here today by Dr. Julian Morgenstern, president of the college.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Rothchild, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Block and L. E. Block, all of Chicago, gave $10,000 each. Oscar Foreman and Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Silberman, also of Chicago, each gave $5,000.

Most of the smaller gifts reported Tuesday were from Illinois and Michigan.

H. B. Clark Brings Plane Safely to Roosevelt Field After Getting Signal to Land.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., May 21.—After getting away to a good start on their attempt at the world's duration mark while refueling in the air, the crew of the Bellanca monoplane Three Musketeers landed here tonight after less than six hours in the air, driven down by a peculiar accident that narrowly escaped being serious.

They had been refueling their plane by means of a catapult, which hurled 100 pounds of gasoline along a short track to be caught up by a great hook and elastic line from the plane. The device had worked perfectly for three "pick-ups," the graceful plane swinging low, the hook catching a trigger line which set off the catapult and then picking up the eighteen-gallon cans as easily as the arm on a limited mail train picks up mail bags while going at sixty miles an hour.

On the fourth attempt the hook struck against an arm of the catapult and, swinging upward in a great loop, pierced the fabric of the stabilizer and elevator, hung there for a moment and then tore loose, taking with it a large section of the plane's fabric. The plane wabbled for an instant and appeared to be out of control. The elevator, however, although damaged, was not out of action, and Lieutenant H. B. Clark, at the controls, zoomed the plane over some wires and leveled out again in safe flight.

After consulting with his shipmates, Martin Jensen and William Ulbrich, Clark dropped a note to the builders of the catapult, A. W. Card and William Bushmeyer, asking instructions.

"Wave a coat if we are to land," the note said. The fliers then circled low so that those on the ground could see the hole in the tail surface. Then the signal to land was given.

After repairs are made the flight will be attempted again, the fliers said.

Campbell Heads Student Board.

The election as president of the Columbia Student Board of James Lee Campbell, '30, of Galena, Kan., for the academic year 1929-1930, was also announced yesterday. Campbell succeeds Harold A. Rousselot, '29, of New York. John S. Henry, '30, of 333 Central Park West was elected secretary of the board.

Campbell has played centre on the varsity football team for two years. In his sophomore year he was the class president. Henry is manager of the varsity baseball team.

Others elected to the student board, which is the undergraduate governing body, were William B. Sanford of Bronxville, Malcolm S. Bleecker of Flushing and Joseph Hagen of 458 East 168th Street. All are juniors.

NEAR EAST RELIEF TO END DRIVE JUNE 30

$1,040,108 Must Be Raised by Then to Continue "Self-Help" Policy Started Five Years Ago.

Dr. James L. Barton, chairman of the board of trustees of Near East Relief, called attention yesterday to the fact that the organization must raise $1,040,108 before June 30 to complete the last quota of fourteen years of campaigning for what has been called "America's greatest single philanthropy."

"The fact that this is the last general campaign for funds must not obscure the fact that the work overseas is not complete," Dr. Barton said. "There are still in the care of Near East Relief 20,043 children, and if the money is raised the orphanage doors will not be closed until the last child is prepared for self-support or properly placed. Committees in this country will continue to function until all pledges are collected and the Congressional charter under which the Near East Relief operates is surrendered.

"June 30, the date on which Near East Relief will cease to ask the American public to contribute campaign funds, will mark the culmination of an enterprise that has saved the lives of 1,500,000 people, 132,552 of whom were little children; that has fed 12,500,000 persons during famine periods and given medical aid to 6,000,000; that has interested the American people in investing $108,000,000 in a program that started as a war emergency relief for suffering people, but which evolved into the impressive job of preparing a generation of children to meet adult life as a positive force in the reconstruction of their war-battered countries. For the last five years its activities have not been concerned in any way with emergency work, but have confined themselves wholly to educational and reconstructive measures."

CALLES BIDS MEXICO GOOD-BY AS OFFICIAL

His "Last Word" on Resigning as War Secretary Expresses Optimism for Democracy.

MORE EDUCATION URGED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 21.—General Plutarco Elias Calles, former President of Mexico and recently Secretary of War and the Navy for the period of the Escobar rebellion, virtually bade farewell to the Mexican people as a public official in a 4,000-word statement issued to the press today.

The statement, a message to the Mexican public described by General Calles as his "last word," emphasizes the utter futility of such movements as the recently suppressed revolt. In it General Calles expresses his belief that the confidence shown by the public in the government during the crisis gives promise that the efforts of those who are promoting the "social revolution" in Mexico will prove to be fully warranted and not wasted.

High Praise for Army.

High praise for the majority of the army that remained loyal in the Escobar revolt for its vigorous support of the government and for the manner in which he says it fought for a lawful, stable regime is voiced by General Calles. The revolt, General Calles declares, was not "a crime of the national army," but an adventure of certain ambitious army chiefs, "who, by their mental characteristics and conduct, could be considered divorced from the ideals of our social revolutionary movement."

These rebel leaders, General Calles declares, for the most part escaped punishment and saved their lives and part of their fortunes, but sacrificed without compunction the lives of their men, whom they "deluded into taking up arms against the government."

The Grand National Revolutionary party, of which General Calles was one of the moving spirits and for the success of which he has worked tirelessly, is urged to cultivate incessantly in Mexican citizens "those qualities which alone make democracy possible."

General Calles declares it is his opinion that democracy as a "social lubricant" has already been successfully tried in Mexico. He realizes, he says, that more education is necessary and a better economic environment is required to foster throughout the nation that appreciation of a democratic form of government and social institutions "which alone make successful rule of the people by themselves possible."

The attention of his co-workers and compatriots is directed toward this end by General Calles for the benefit of the entire Mexican Republic. He admonishes his associates that unless the "best of the people's leaders stay in the path outlined in my message to Congress in September, our social revolution can never become a success."

Revolution Declared Success.

The social revolution, General Calles declared, has been a complete success except "in the political field—in the democratic field—as regards respect for the vote." He asserts that the time is now ripe for fulfillment of this ambition, hitherto unrealized.

"Our national army, which during the revolt proved that it is well disciplined, must lend its support to the constitutional authorities and must absolutely refuse to second any leader who revolts and thus, through the National Revolutionary Party, true democratic elections must be attained."

In his statement General Calles does not mention his personal plans for the future. He told foreign correspondents that any future statements on behalf of the government must be obtained from President Portes Gil.

General Calles addressed his statement to "my comrades in arms of the army and to the entire revolutionary family."

"Minor officers and soldiers who followed the revolt leaders," he added, "should be the first to punish any attempt of their chiefs to rebel. This action would make military uprisings impossible. The fact that a majority of the army refused to join the rebellion proves that the army has become a true organic institution, born of the social revolution.

"The army should always support the constitutional government and any army leader abandoning a military career to enter politics should first of all place the entire force under his command at the disposal of the government. Otherwise, by retaining armed followers, they would become merely political leaders supported by armed forces instead of supporters of democracy, which would create a situation that would submerge the aspirations of the people and all semblance of liberty and democratic sentiments."

General Calles said the social revolution also has been successful in government administration, but has failed "as regards respect for the vote—in the purity of origin of elective persons or groups."

Electoral Failure Decried.

"In my opinion," said General Calles in his statement, "not even the revolution's enemies can deny the enormous benefits wrought for the nation since 1910 in the social and economic senses. The masses of the Mexican people retain an unbreakable faith in the revolutionary government.

"The people resent the fact that many members of State, municipal and even the Federal legislature were not impartially elected. This is the field in which the revolution has failed and constitutes the principal error to be corrected. This situation has caused many authorities to be unpopular and has resulted in an apathy of these masses creating, I believe, a national inertia as far as politics is concerned."

General Calles said he regards as significant the fact that the country, during a time of political or military crisis like the recent revolt, upheld the government almost exclusively because of its confidence in the Chief Executive.

"This confidence is due to the fact that the nation knows that the Federal Revolutionary Government, as represented in the final analysis by the President of the Republic, even with all of its deficiencies, assures stability in economic matters," added General Calles. "All of these truths must be taken into consideration if it is hoped that the National Revolutionary party can comply correctly with its duties. Only when the National Revolutionary party refuses to be an instrument for the politicians and manipulators and looks to the people for true and honest representatives, only then can real democracy become possible in this country and the revolution succeed in the political field."

"Ballots Instead of Bullets" Urged.

Frequently throughout his statement General Calles emphatically draws attention to Mexico's needs, among them "ballots instead of bullets, with a strictly institutional form of government which will function scrupulously from a high plane of social and economic justice."

When asked by foreign correspondents to make a few additional remarks orally, General Calles declined to do so, saying simply "this is my last word."

This declaration by the former President was considered to be dramatic, for it appeared that he felt the written statement marked the end of his long public career.

Just before the statement was issued Ambassador Morrow visited General Calles at his residence. He stayed longer than an hour, but declined to comment upon leaving.

Mexico City political circles had been aware for several days of the imminence of the step taken today by General Calles. The opinion was expressed here that the action means the complete retirement of General Calles from public life and that it does not leave any door open or any avenue available by which the President of the republic could call him back into the public service in an emergency such as was presented by the recent revolt.

COLLEGE GIRLS NOISY, NEIGHBORS TELL COURT

So 15 Bronxville Residents Ask an Injunction Against Campus Expansion.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, May 21.—Protesting that too many girls at the Sarah Lawrence College for Women in Bronxville are making life unpleasant for all property owners in the vicinity, fifteen residents of Bronxville and Yonkers appeared in the Supreme Court today before Justice George H. Taylor Jr. and asked for a temporary injunction restraining the college from expanding the campus. Decision was reserved.

Arthur Hume, counsel for the petitioners, explained that between 1923 and 1928 his clients purchased their homes in Bronxville, selecting the Lawrence Park section of Bronxville because it was quiet and exclusive. Each paid more than $35,000 for his estate, Hume said.

Recently, however, the quietness and exclusiveness have been abolished by late parties, noisy ukeleles, too many automobiles and "petting parties" on the streets at night, the attorney declared.

"Life is unendurable there any more," argued Mr. Hume. "We ask Your Honor to prevent the college from making use of two more buildings which it has purchased in the residential district and to restrain the expansion of the campus."

Among the petitioners are Mrs. Frank Dudensing, wife of the picture gallery owner, and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent L. Wilson of 12 Meadway.

In reserving decision Judge Taylor urged the parties to try the action for a permanent injunction early in June, and they tentatively agreed.

in the selection of this commission. I know personally many of the members and have secured information regarding the others, and will say that, in my judgment, it would be difficult to name a better or abler commission for the purposes to be accomplished.

"They are all, regardless of personal views on this question or that, believers in and exponents of law observance and law enforcement. We can confidently look for wise and constructive recommendations from them for efficient and more effective law enforcement.

"Judge Mackintosh, from our State, is a very able, experienced and conscientious judge, a former class-mate of President Hoover, and will reflect in his work the overwhelming sentiment of our people."

Endorsed by Mrs. Peabody.

BOSTON, May 21 (AP).—Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, chairman of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, today expressed hearty approval of President Hoover's appointments to his commission on law enforcement. She said she believed there could be no question regarding the ability and fairness of those selected.

"Law-respecting and law-abiding women of this country," she said, "who are certainly the majority, heartily support the President in his wise and courageous plans for the education of the American people looking toward loyal support of the Constitution and its laws. They are opposed to the effort to nullify, repeal or modify the Eighteenth Amendment. Our organization will oppose the program of the newly formed Women's Moderation League."

Mr. Wickersham Silent.

George W. Wickersham said yesterday he would not comment on his appointment as chairman of President Hoover's National Law Enforcement Commission or discuss its problems until after the formal organization of the board.

J. Carl Schmuck, president of the Ocean Point Association, made public a letter to Mr. Wickersham inviting the commission to make its headquarters at Lawrence, L. I., this Summer. Mr. Wickersham has a Summer home there and Mr. Schmuck offered the use of the village hall.

'SHINBONE' JOYCE SLAIN.

Brooklyn Character Found Shot Near Spot Where Brother Died.

John (Shinbone) Joyce, known to the Brooklyn police both for his alcoholic and fighting capacities, was found shot through the heart yesterday morning in Nevins Street, between President and Carroll Streets, Brooklyn. Patrolman James McDonald called Dr. Maxwell of Holy Family Hospital, who said Joyce had been dead for at least six hours.

He was 35 years old, and lived in a furnished room at 457 Pacific Street, Brooklyn. His brother, Frank, was murdered in almost the same manner and his body found in almost the same spot about a year ago.

Although Joyce had been arrested several times for disorderly conduct, he had never been convicted of a crime, or suspected of any. He gained his reputation as a fighter by the frequency with which he cleaned out Brooklyn speakeasies.

On St. Patrick's Day, Joyce would array himself in a gay green suit, with brilliant emerald tie, socks and silk hat, and parade through Borough Hall and the streets of South Brooklyn, until the cocktail hour. Then he would repair to one of his favorite saloons, where he nearly always provoked a fight. He won his nickname by his penchant for kicking troublesome policemen on the shins.

Outposts of New York

in Kokomo and Kankakee

A gigantic human responsibility rests on the leaders of New York. For these men have become bankers and directors of a nation's industries. They have become accountable for the happiness and welfare of the millions of people whose livelihood is in their hands.

• • • • •

Today the business leaders of New York are conscious that the demand for the products of forest and mine and factory must keep pace with the ever-increasing speed of production. They know that this demand must come from the far-flung corners of the nation—from millions with the ability to buy—and, more important, the desire to own.

And these business leaders are turning to the Crowell Nation, readers of Crowell Publications, men and women who respond to an editorial policy that fosters better and broader living.

Through this editorial policy, Crowell Publications have gained a circulation of more than 7,500,000—greater than that of any group of magazines in America.

City and Transit Board Counsel Hold O'Fallon Ruling Does Not Apply in Fare Suit.

SEE LEASE CHIEF FACTOR

Untermyer Says Reproduction Cost Has Nothing to Do With Road's Contentions.

The city's higher fare litigation with the I. R. T. will not be adversely affected by the United States Supreme Court decision in the O'Fallon railroad case, counsel for the city and the Transit Commission declared yesterday. Even if construed as an endorsement of the reproduction cost method of valuation, they said, it would not apply where the company merely operated leased lines owned by the city. Counsel for the B. M. T. and I. R. T. said that the ruling appeared to affirm previous decisions of the court stressing reproduction cost as a factor in valuing public utilities for rate-making purposes.

"In my judgement," said Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the transit board, "reproduction cost of the physical properties of the Interborough has nothing to do with the claim of a confiscatory rate of fare or with the rate of fare the Interborough is entitled to charge. Its only interest in the subways is in the lease from the city, which has forty years to run, unless sooner recaptured, and the right to return of its investment in the subways through the operations of the sinking fund or through recapture. Even if we eliminate its contracts for a five-cent fare, the only question is the value of that lease. That, in turn, depends upon its earnings. They are strictly limited to a fixed guarantee of $6,335,000 a year, plus interest on its investment and a sinking fund to pay off that investment."

The balance of the earnings belonged to the city, he said. The same view was taken by counsel for the city.

The effect of the O'Fallon decision on unification was also the subject of much speculation yesterday. It was believed in transit circles that the B. M. T. might find in it "moral encouragement" for insisting that valuation of its properties must be predicated upon reproduction cost. The city and Transit Commission, however, feel that valuation for unification purposes does not rest upon the same basis as valuation for rate-making purposes.

THOMAS ASSAILS DECISION.

Socialist Leader Says Valuation Ruling Enables Utility Gouging.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President last year and joint chairman of the Socialist Party's Committee on Public Affairs, stated yesterday that in his opinion the Supreme Court was trying harder than any one else to bring about nationalization of railroads and other utilities.

He declared that the decision in the O'Fallon case had pointed out sharply that nationalization of the railroads might be cheaper by $1,200,000,000 annually than regulation, saying that this sum represented 6 per cent on $20,000,000,000 which might be added to the rate base of the railroads.

The Supreme Court, he asserted, might make the mistake of convincing the public that the Socialists had been right for years.

"The power industry, the telephone, gas and street railway industries," he said, "are going to profit by this decision more than the railroads until that moment when the people get enough money sense to take them over and keep them from being used as a constant gamble in prices."

He stated that while the O'Fallon decision leaves the Interstate Commerce Commission free to recapture railroad excess earnings on a basis only slightly higher than the present one, the danger was that the inferior and subservient State public service commissions would take it as an excuse for letting the utilities have everything they wanted in the way of a high rate base and higher rates.

"The power industry alone," he said, "may as a consequence of such misinterpretation of the decision secure the privilege of charging rates on as much as $5,000,000,000 more than was actually put into the industry.

"We can thank the judges appointed to the court by President Harding for this decision, and the great industrialists who know that they get their money's worth when they elect a President."

HOOVER 'CONFIDENT' RATES WON'T RISE

The commission will now go forward with its work of enforcing the recapture clause of the law, estimating railroad liability under the Supreme Court decision by considering price changes subsequent to 1916 and modifying the totals accordingly.

Decision Regarded as Guide Only.

President Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio said that while the O'Fallon decision was reassuring to the railroads in that it made for stability, he believed that it would have no immediate effect on the railroad rates.

He added that it would afford a guide to the Interstate Commerce Commission in fixing lawful valuation of the roads as a basis for the calculation of so-called excess earnings as provided in the transportation act.

Representative James S. Parker, Republican, of New York, chairman of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, viewed the decision merely as a clarification of the law for the benefit of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which, he said, must now consider "all elements of costs, not merely reproduction value."

"This decision, of course, will have a material effect upon the recapture clause, but not one atom of effect on the rate structure," he said. "I doubt if any great increase in rates will be based on this decision."

Mr. Parker today reintroduced his railroad consolidation bill which was favorably reported by his committee in the first session of the last Congress.

Reyburn Fears "Doubled Rates."

Representative Reyburn of Texas, the ranking Democratic member on the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce of the House, assailed the O'Fallon decision.

"In my opinion the Interstate Commerce Commission followed the law and took into consideration all of the facts, circumstances and legal demands made upon it by the act of Congress for finding and fixing the valuation of railroad property," he said.

"In Section 15A, Congress commanded the commission to take into consideration reproduction costs in fixing the value of railroads, but Congress did not say to the commission that reproduction costs should be the sole nor even the controlling factor in the determination of railroad valuation.

"The decision in this case has strikingly impressed upon the country the indefensible character of the interpretation of the rate-making power of Section 15A.

"If the method of valuation for rate-making purposes indicated here is to prevail hereafter, it will increase the valuation of the roads $10,000,000,000 and be authority for a general boost for freight rates. * * *

"A measure of rate regulation that gives a current return to the original investment and also charges the public with the increased costs of replacement, not in fact made, gives a double return to the railroad and creates to that extent a double charge against the shippers.

"We are supposed to allow a reasonable return on the investment. This decision would also allow a boost on the investment that might equal the return which it was the purpose of Congress to permit. Such a plan of rate-making will fasten piratical rates upon the shippers of the country.

Demands Action by Congress.

"By this decision and the interpretation that the Interstate Commerce Commission must give the law under it, a situation is created that calls for prompt action on the part of Congress. Regardless of the inconvenience to many, appropriate committees should be appointed at once and the thorough investigation and rewriting of the provisions of the interstate commerce act should be begun.

"No indiscriminate attack should be made upon the railroads. The Constitution commands that just compensation should be allowed the railroads for their services, and common sense and the welfare of the country require a just standard of rate making, but this system should extend fair treatment to the public as well as to the railroads."

P. R. R. Rate Policy Unchanged.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 21.—General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said today that he saw nothing in the Supreme Court's decision in the O'Fallon case that would cause a change in the policy of his company.

"As I understand the decision," he said, "the court has merely reaffirmed its many-times expressed conclusion that reproduction cost is one of the elements which must be taken into consideration in determining the value of public utility property, and undoubtedly it will be used in arguments before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"Aside from the Eastern class rate investigation which has been pending for several years before the Interstate Commerce Commission the Pennsylvania Railroad has no thought of requesting any general increase in rates, and I see nothing in this decision to cause any change in its policy."

Expect Improvements in West.

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP).—Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, commenting today on the O'Fallon case, said that the decision was "expected by those who were familiar with the principles involved."

"I think it will have a wholesome effect on protecting the investors in railroad securities from confiscatory actions of commissions," he said. "And I think it will be a good thing for the country as a whole because it will encourage further development and improvement and probably will not adversely affect rate structures, because rates have been and will continue to be made on what the traffic will reasonably bear."

H. G. Clark, vice president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad, said the effect of the O'Fallon decision would be to encourage railroads to make greater expenditures for the improvement of their properties.

Crowley Doubts General Rate Rise.

Eastern railroad officials united yesterday in agreeing with President Hoover that the decision of the Supreme Court against the methods used by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its valuation of the St. Louis & O'Fallon Railway would not result in increased railroad rates.

"The decision does not appear to provide the occasion for any program at this time looking to a general increase in railroad rates, which must always be largely influenced by commercial conditions," said P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central.

Frederick H. Wood of Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, who argued the issue of valuation on the basis of which the case was decided in the Supreme Court, issued a statement which said that the decision tended to establish railroad valuations on the basis of the depreciated dollar, as in valuations of other public utilities.

"I do not anticipate any substantial increase in rates," Mr. Wood said. "Railroad rates, in spite of all legislation, are controlled as to their upper limits by competitive and economic conditions, and, in any event, only the portion of the railroad dollar remaining after the payment of all expenses, which absorb the most substantial part of that dollar, could be increased.

Gains in Railroad Stocks.

Railroad stocks, which rose and then reacted on Monday after the decision was announced, were for the most part firm to strong yesterday.

Santa Fe gained 5¼ points, Chesapeake & Ohio 5½, Rock Island 2½, Delaware & Hudson 1, Northern Pacific 2¼, New York Central 6, New Haven 2¼, Pere Marquette 1, St. Louis-San Francisco 1¾, Southern Pacific 1, Southern Railway 1 and Union Pacific 1½.

Baltimore & Ohio and Nickel Plate gained fractionally. Atlantic Coast Line, Pennsylvania, Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley, Missouri-Kansas-Texas and Reading sold lower.

URGES REVISION OF LAW.

Prof. Dixon of Princeton Supports Dissent to O'Fallon Decision.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 21.—Opposing the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the O'Fallon case, Professor Frank Dixon of the economics department at Princeton University and a recognized authority on railroad problems, tonight sided with the minority report as issued by Justice Stone.

"I am extremely doubtful whether Congress ever intended that this valuation problem should be handled in this rigid, legal fashion," Dr. Dixon stated, "and Congress now has a chance to take a hand afresh in the solution of the long drawn-out controversy."

Professor Dixon, who is a former member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, declared that this decision would not directly affect the valuation of the roads as a whole, because this case was one of valuation for the recapture of excess earnings and not a valuation for rate-making purposes.

ROME FLIGHT DELAYED.

Bad Weather Holds the Green Flash at Old Orchard, Me.

Special to The New York Times.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., May 21.—Continued unfavorable weather reports from Dr. James Kimball, meteorologist of the Weather Bureau telling of extremely bad conditions off the Grand Banks, has caused the postponement for another forty-eight hours at least of the start of the Green Flash for Rome. Roger Q. Williams, who will pilot the plane, and his navigator, Lewis A. Yancey, spent the greater part of the day rechecking the mechanism of their craft.

Ignats, the year-and-a-half-old alligator, which will accompany Williams and Yancey on their flight, has recovered from the effects of an accident this afternoon. He was run over by a bed caster.

America Declared 'the Most Careless Nation,' Wasting $10,000,000,000 a Year in Industry

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The United States is the most careless nation on earth, R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway Association, said today in a speech before the annual convention of the association. Losses totaling millions annually were a serious drain on the industries of the country, he said, but this, he added, was nothing compared with the enormous loss in human life every year attributable to carelessness.

"Carelessness is one of the worst scourges that face this country, for the reason that it not only causes a tremendous monetary loss, which could easily be averted, but it also frequently brings suffering to the innocent," Mr. Aishton continued.

"Preventable waste in industry, it is estimated by eminent engineers, amounts to approximately $10,000,000,000 a year, or nearly $700,000,000 a month. This includes waste not only in manufacturing, but also in distribution. A substantial part of this leak in the revenues of industry can be attributed to carelessness.

"The people of this country, however, are now more alive to the serious consequences of carelessness than ever before, and as industrial development continues to expand and the available natural resources of the nation to shrink, there will be a steadily growing realization that carelessness is a wasteful blight and must be more securely straitjacketed.

"The railroads have for some time realized the disastrous effects of carelessness and have been and are actively engaged in attempting to reduce it to a minimum so far as they are concerned.

"With both their revenues and expenditures more or less regulated, it has been increasingly apparent to them for some years that any improvement in their financial condition must necessarily come from plugging up unnecessary drains in their financial catch basins caused by careless waste and inefficient operation.

"Through organized effort the railroads have reduced from $119,833,127 in 1920 to $37,146,813 in 1928, or 69 per cent., the amount of freight claims paid by them growing out of loss and damage to freight shipments. This reduction has taken place in the face of the fact the volume of freight now is approximately 7 per cent greater than nine years ago.

"In order to operate the rail carrier systems of this country, approximately 28 per cent of the total production of coal is required, at a cost of about $400,000,000. Through more economical use of fuel the railroads are now spending approximately $100,000,000 less for that commodity than in 1920."

MENACE MAGISTRATE WHO JAILED CAPONE

Self-Styled 'Gangsters' of Chicago and Other Cities Mail Threats to Carney of Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 21.—Nearly fifty letters and post cards, most of them from Chicago, and all threatening death or violence, have been delivered to Magistrate Edward P. Carney, who held Alphonse (Scarface Al) Capone and Frank Cline, alias Rio, in $35,000 bail each last Thursday night after their arrest for carrying concealed weapons.

Some of the missives, which call attention to the magistrate's sending the Chicago gang leader and his bodyguard to prison for a year, are of a particularly vicious character. One of them, adorned with a skull and cross bones, informing Mr. Carney that his office would be lifted by a "Chicago pineapple," caused his clerk to quit for the day.

Although the greater part of the letters bore Chicago postmarks, there were some from Cleveland, Toledo, Kansas City, Milwaukee and Richmond, Va. Philadelphia was not represented. Some of the writers naively stated that "we are gangsters" or "we're in the racket" and after describing how "tough" they were, continued with the threats.

Magistrate Carney, who is known in Philadelphia as "the dancing judge," and who was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor in 1927, said he felt sure that the missives were from cranks rather than genuine gangsters.

"Killers never ring a fire alarm when they set out to get you," he pointed out, adding that if he were sure gangsters were really coming from Chicago to "get" him, he would arrange to meet them at the station with a brass band and reception committee.

7-20-4 Quality

The Master Maker's Master Piece

SKILLFUL hand making is the determining factor in the fine quality of a 7-20-4 Cigar. The choicest Havana filler is enriched in natural flavor by the hand method of making 7-20-4 Cigars.

That is why—at a labor cost double machine cost—7-20-4 Londres continue to be hand made. Each leaf is selected individually to assure a mild, free-burning, full-flavored cigar.

SERVE THE GROWING SOUTHWEST MARKET FROM DALLAS—THE *CENTER

NEW YORK CHOOSES DALLAS

AS "SOUTHWESTERN HEADQUARTERS"

NEW YORK—yes, the entire Industrial East—looks to Dallas as distribution headquarters for the great Southwest market of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Among the 1,892 national and sectional concerns that maintain manufacturing plants, distributing branches and sales offices in Dallas are more than eight hundred of the leading concerns in the East—nearly four hundred from the New York metropolitan district alone.

Such nationally known Eastern concerns as Vacuum Oil, General Electric, Graybar, Postum Cereal, Cluett-Peabody, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Davis Baking Powder, Radio Corporation, Armstrong Cork, Borden, Crown Cork & Seal, Westinghouse, Endicott-Johnson, Devoe & Raynolds, National Casket, International Cement, Fisk Tire, R. M. Hollingshead, Woolworth, Congoleum-Nairn, Columbia Mills, Mohawk Carpet, Sherwin-Williams, Glidden, Procter & Gamble, Prest-O-Lite—and many others—serve the Southwest from Dallas.

Why do these institutions maintain Southwestern Headquarters in Dallas?

First, because the Southwest market of more than 12 million people and annual buying power of over 6 billion dollars, must be served from within to get maximum sales volume—and they enjoy the lowest possible sales and transportation costs by serving it from the center.

Each year, more and more companies are adding manufacturing plants to their Southwestern facilities. The present market justifies it—the future demands it—in many lines. The Southwest is rich in raw materials—rich in fuel and power resources—and has a tremendous untapped reservoir of intelligent white labor, seeking industrial employment.

The Southwest is ripe for more complete industrial development. It presents pioneering advantages comparable to the manufacturing opportunities that existed in the North and East 25 and 50 years ago. Opportunities to grow with a growing market!

The Southwest may present just the manufacturing or sales opportunity you are seeking. It will pay you to find out. We have prepared for industrial executives, "A Complete Market Analysis of Dallas and the Great Southwest." Based on the studies, made on the ground, by prominent Eastern industrial engineers, it is authoritative—it is complete—it is invaluable to executives interested in manufacturing locations or responsive markets.

GOV. BYRD EXTOLS VIRGINIA PROGRESS

CREDITS AID OF THAT BODY

Says Output of State This Year Will Be $1,000,000,000—He Is Praised for Efficiency of His Regime.

Virginia stands on the threshold of a great era of prosperity, with its total output increasing at the rate of $100,000,000 annually, Governor Harry F. Byrd, Virginia's chief executive and brother of Commander Richard E. Byrd, the explorer, declared yesterday at a luncheon given in his honor by the National Institute of Public Administration at the Downtown Association, 60 Pine Street.

Governor Byrd said that last year new industries invested in new plants in Virginia nearly $250,000,000, which was greater than any other State in the Union. In 1900, the output of Virginia's factories was valued at $100,000,000. The total output this year, he added, is conservatively estimated at $1,000,000,000.

"At the end of the Civil War," he continued, "our devastation was nearly complete—yet since 1870 to 1922, the wealth of Virginia increased nearly fourteen-fold. During the same period, Massachusetts which never felt the tread of unfriendly foot nor heard the sound of a hostile gun during the entire Civil War increased less than eight-fold while Pennsylvania expanded but a little more than nine-fold."

Governor Byrd paid tribute to General Robert E. Lee as being the chief founder of the economic prosperity that has now come to Virginia, "for he begged the men of his armies to forget bitterness, remain in Virginia and rebuild the shattered state."

Findings Put Into Effect in 1927.

The Governor spoke of the survey made by the National Institute of Public Administration of the State and county governments in Virginia. The changes recommended by the experts who made that survey went into operation in 1927 and 1928, one of these changes being the "short ballot." The result of the survey, Governor Byrd said, "is one of the best examples on record of necessary technical service in a governmental reorganization."

"Without the benefit of the service of the Institute," he added, "our task could not have been accomplished. I express as Governor of Virginia my grateful appreciation for this invaluable aid."

In this connection also, Governor Byrd said the short ballot was one of the fundamental principles of American government and "without it our governments cannot be efficient."

By the adoption of the report of the institute, hundreds of thousands of dollars are being saved yearly to Virginia taxpayers, said Governor Byrd, but the saving to the people in increased efficiency may greatly exceed the direct saving in money.

State Bureaus Reorganized.

"This efficiency," he said, "we are trying to achieve in Virginia by the process of simplifying and systematizing our governmental machinery. We abolished more than thirty bureaus, boards and commissions that were struggling to function, and headed up into twelve departments all the activities of the State. Forty-eight agencies heretofore collecting money have ceased to do so and all funds are collected and disbursed now by the Treasurer of the State.

"At the end of the first year of the reorganized government, I was able to point to specific economies exceeding $800,000. A deficit of $1,368,004 in March, 1926, was converted into a surplus of $2,596,181 in March, 1928, without any increase in the State tax rates."

Raymond B. Fosdick, vice chairman of the board of trustees of the institute, presided at the luncheon. In introducing Governor Byrd, Mr. Fosdick said that he made up the "great team" of "Tom, Dick and Harry," with his brothers, Commander Byrd and Thomas B. Byrd of Winchester, Va., manager of extensive Virginia fruit plantations. Touching on the work of the institute, Mr. Fosdick said it was a technical organization that was ready to give assistance to public administrators who wanted it. Government cannot be improved unless those who are governing want it to be improved, Mr. Fosdick said, and Virginia is "particularly fortunate in having an executive who appreciates that government must keep pace with business in the efficiency of its service."

R. Fulton Cutting, chairman of the board of trustees, who arranged the luncheon, was unable to attend, being confined to his home in Tuxedo, N. Y., with a slight illness. The guests included:

EDISON AT HOME JUNE 15.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., May 21.—Thomas A. Edison will return here from Fort Myers, Fla., on June 15, Frank R. Schell, assistant to the president of the Edison interests, announced today.

The inventor, Mr. Schell said, is hastening back to take personal charge of the contest for the selection of a protege. July 31 has been fixed as the date when forty-eight young men will meet here to take the examinations. One is coming from the District of Columbia and one from each of the States except Kansas, which has refused to cooperate in the scholarship plan.

Mr. Schell also announced that he had learned that the special issue of postage stamps to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the electric lamp will be placed on sale in Menlo Park, N. J., June 4. It was at Menlo Park that Mr. Edison invented the electric bulb. The stamps will not bear Mr. Edison's likeness because of the custom of not putting living men's pictures on postage stamps, but they will contain an engraving showing the electric light bulb illuminating the world, Mr. Schell said.

IBANEZ QUOTES HOOVER TO CHILEAN CONGRESS

Remark That Country Unites Democracy and Authority Cited in Annual Message.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SANTIAGO, Chile, May 21.—President Carlos Ibañez quoted President Hoover this afternoon in a most important part of his annual message to Congress when he said that Chile was an example before the world of the way in which the two terms, democracy and authority, could be coupled in a conciliatory manner.

The ceremony of delivery of the message was strikingly simple, devoid of all public demonstration and official solemnities, with even the procession of State carriages which has marked the occasion for half a century, abandoned.

The message was printed in a sixty-page booklet and sent to the President of the Senate, who proceeded to advise the members of both chambers of its reception, in this way breaking away from the old custom of the President of the republic reading the long message for three or four hours.

The message reviews the activities of the different goverament departments for the last twelve months, laying stress on the fact that foreign relations have improved, especially in the settlement of the Tacna-Arica dispute, also the healthier condition of the public treasury, which showed a surplus of $4,000,000 peso.

Careful management of public funds, the message said, had allowed the placement of Chilean loans in New York and London based on an excellent rating by foreign money markets of Chilean credit.

After referring to other departments, the President's message ends with a chapter entitled "General Considerations," in which recollection is made of the reasons and circumstances that preceded his assumption of office, pointing out the state of disorganization then existing in the political field, due to what is described as the excessive and unhealthy sway accorded to political groups undermining the Executive's authority and breaking up every meritorious proposal of the Presidency.

His election was by public vote President Ibanez said in his message, and he expressed his regret at having to mention that many members of Congress had failed to fulfill their duties of the study and enactment of laws decrees by refraining from assistance to the executive, thereby not giving the support that was required of them in their parliamentary functions.

The message bitterly criticizes the attitude of these legislators, but at the same time applauds and thanks other members for their efforts to help the executive and the government in the difficult task of reorganizing public affairs.

CATHOLIC LEGION PROSPERS

Reports to Annual Convention Show Balance of $1,000,000.

Reports presented yesterday at the annual convention of the Supreme Council of the Catholic Benevolent Legion at the Hotel St. George, Brooklyn, showed that the organization was in better financial standing than at any other period in its history. Officers reported that the insurance order has on its books a $1,000,000 balance of assets over liabilities.

The convention was attended by delegates from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland. The following officers were elected:

C. C. KEENAN, of the Bronx, reelected president.
WILLIAM J. SULLIVAN, Baltimore, vice-president.
HENRY J. EFFING, Philadelphia, orator.
JOHN E. DUNN, Boston, N. J., reelected secretary.
PETER J. QUIS, Brooklyn, treasurer.
A. M. FERRARI, Paterson, N. J., marshal.
Dr. FRANKLIN P. KELLER, Paterson, chief medical examiner.

A committee was appointed to decide final plans for the golden jubilee celebration in 1931.

CITY BREVITIES.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt addressed the annual commencement of the Warner School of the Harlem Branch of the Young Women's Christian Association at 14 West 124th Street last night.

Canby Robinson, dean of Cornell University Medical School, and C. Stanley Mitchell, chairman of the board of the Bank of United States.

James F. Ely was the guest of honor at a dinner of the New York Society of Architects, held last night at the Hotel Astor.

A memorial meeting in honor of the Haitian negro rebel, Charlemagne Peralte, was held last night at St. Luke's Hall, 128 West 130th Street, under the auspices of the American Negro Labor Congress.

MANY CALLS TO EUROPE SWAMP RADIOPHONE

A. T. & T. Is Building Two New Stations to Speed Calls—In Service by July.

Telephoning across the Atlantic by radio has become so popular that the ethereal channels are congested and relief is necessary. Calls are to be speeded up and traffic facilitated by the installation of two new short-wave stations now being built at Lawrenceville and Netcong, N. J., according to a representative of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, who yesterday disclosed recent radio activities at those places.

"The new installations are designed to more than double transoceanic radiotelephone service and to provide a radio-talking circuit to South America," said the representative of the A. T. and T.

Special aerials, designed to act as "reflectors," projecting the voice in a desired direction and conserving energy, are now being completed at Lawrenceville, near Princeton. The antennas, or "collectors," that will pick up the voices from Europe are being erected at Netcong.

Lawrenceville is six miles north of Trenton, while Netcong is fifty miles north of the Lawrenceville transmitter and about thirty miles west of Paterson. Thus separated, the two stations can operate simultaneously without interference. When completed, the new apparatus will supplement the present equipment, which serves as the "western gateway of the "talk bridge." The present transmitter is at Rocky Point, L. I., and the receiving station at Houlton, Me. It is expected that waves in the twenty-meter band will be employed, as they have been found to meet the varying conditions encountered in transatlantic telephony.

The waves utilized principally heretofore have been in the neighborhood of 5,000 meters. It was pointed out by a representative of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company that recent short-wave experiments conducted between Deal Beach, N. J., and England support the assumption of engineers that short waves around twenty-two meters in length are highly desirable for carrying spoken words across the 3,000 miles of ocean. It is expected that the new equipment will be put into commercial service before July 1.

OTTAWA MINISTER HITS OUR DRY FORCE

W. D. Euler Tells Commons That Liquor Ships Land Cargoes Near Custom Houses.

SAYS AGENTS AID TRAFFIC

He Holds There Is Little Inducement for Canada to Go Further in Stopping Shipments.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ontario, May 21.—William D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, speaking in the House of Commons today, quoted from a report by F. T. Pattison, Revenue Collector at Bridgeburg, to the effect that rum runners had told his officers that liquor smugglers were assisted by dry agents on the American side.

Mr. Euler said this and other parts of the report of a similar tenor were a fair reason for considering whether the Canadian Government is justified in going to the expense of enacting the law regulating clearances on liquor shipments which the United States is asking, "in face of the fact that the United States authorities are making no very earnest effort to do it themselves."

Mr. Euler also told of watching rum runners on the Detroit River within full view of customs officers on the American shore, and described how he talked to a Detroit bootlegger who, in effect, said.

"Customs men aren't there when we arrive."

Responds to Labor Member.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 21 (Canadian Press).—Should Canada grant clearances for liquor shipments which are intended to be taken into the United States contrary to the prohibition laws of that country? This was the question brought to the House of Commons today by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre.

He spoke on the motion of the Finance Minister that the House go into committee on supply. A great many petitions had been presented by members of the House asking that clearance papers on liquor destined to the United States be refused, Mr. Woodsworth pointed out.

W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, responding, declared it was true that there was a strong body of public opinion in Canada opposed to the export of liquor to the United States and that it was not wholly confined to prohibition centres. It was equally true, however, that there was a just as strong, and possibly stronger, body of public opinion opposed to the suggestion that Canada should assist in carrying out the laws of another country.

During the war, the Minister recalled, Canada had had a prohibitory law, but the United States was wet. Liquor flowed freely from the United States to Canada at that time, and it was perhaps fair to say that he had no recollection that the United States at any time, when the conditions were reversed, made any effort whatever to stop the export of liquor to a friendly country engaged in the war.

Sees a Way for Us to Act.

Nearly 100 per cent of the ships engaged in liquor smuggling to the United States, he added, were owned and manned by United States interests. In the United States, however, vessels under five tons needed no clearance, nor were they required to report their return to port. Canada demanded clearance for all vessels. If the United States were to put the same rule into effect it would assist, he considered, very materially in eradicating the liquor trafficking problem.

He had no desire to criticize, Mr. Euler said, but he did wish to answer the allegations that Canada was not dealing in a fair way with a friendly nation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Prohibition Commissioner Doran, discussing the report of F. T. Pattison in Canada that rum-runners on the American side were aided in their illegal traffic by prohibition enforcement officers, expressed the opinion that there was no justification for such a statement. He said that while some dry officers near the Canadian border might have violated their duty, this practice, if it existed at all, was not widespread.

The United States, he said, is making determined efforts to enforce the Volstead act and is very vigilant at the border.

CALLS PARLEY ON USING RADIO IN EDUCATION

Secretary Wilbur Sets Conference for Friday on Possibilities of the New Medium.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—A conference on the possibilities of education by radio and what interest the United States Government should have in it has been called by Secretary Wilbur in his office for Friday afternoon. The Bureau of Education and all members of the Radio Commission will participate.

Invitations have been sent to M. L. Aylesworth, president, National Broadcasting Corporation, New York; William S. Paley, president, Columbia Broadcasting Corporation, New York; Dr. Charles R. Mann, president, American Council on Education, Washington; Dr. J. W. Crabtree, secretary National Education Association, Washington; Frank Cody, superintendent of schools, Detroit; H. Robinson Shipherd, 350 Madison Avenue, New York City; J. L. Clifton, director of education, Columbus, Ohio, and Dr. Harold Stonier, educational director, American Institute of Banking, New York City.

The call for the conference accords with Secretary Wilbur's recently stated policy that as to education "the place of the national government is to develop methods, ideals and procedures and to present them to be taken on their merit."

"Therefore there have been certain methods," he said. "Pupils have studied from the printed page. They have sat in class and received instruction. They have followed with the eye demonstrations at the blackboard. Now there appears a new agency, radio, which conveys information in its own peculiar way. How can it be used?"

DINNER-DANCE OPENS RITZ PERSIAN GARDEN

Many Parties Are Entertained by Persons Prominent in Society.

The Roof Garden of the Ritz-Carlton, redecorated by James Monroe Hewlett to represent a Persian garden, was opened for the season last night. Many in society brought guests for dinner and dancing. The room, which resembles a huge tent enclosing a dance floor, is lighted by large lanterns of Oriental design, and the Garden appearance is further carried out by floral decorations and landscape effects. Turquoise blue and canary yellow are the prevailing colors.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walton Goelet's guests at dinner were Mr. and Mrs. David Wagstaff, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Acosta Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lanier Lawrance and A. Percival Kirkland. WIDOW AND DAUGHTERS GET COL. HINES ESTATE

Three Share Residue Equally—Saenger Funds May Be Too Small for $9,500 Bequests.

Colonel Frank Hines, Manhattan Superintendent of Public Buildings and Offices, Colonel of the 105th Field Artillery, National Guard of New York, and former member of the Republican National Committee, left most of his estate of undetermined value to his widow and two daughters, it was learned yesterday when his will was filed in Surrogate's Court. They share equally in the residue after "machinery, tools and materials pertaining to the business conducted under the name of Henry J. von der Lieth & Co." are given to Henry J. von der Lieth of 1 Seaman Avenue, the Bronx.

Mrs. Catherine A. Hines, the widow, lives at 290 Riverside Drive, and the daughters are Mrs. Mary E. Norris of 84 Park Lane, Grymes Hill, Staten Island, and Amy E. Hines of 3,410 Kingsbridge Avenue, the Bronx. The testament, executed Feb. 8, 1921, names all three executrices.

Colonel Hines, who was 60 years old, died on May 8 in St. Luke's Hospital. His long military record included service on the Texas border and in the World War.

Oscar Saenger Estate Small.

The estate of Oscar Saenger, baritone and teacher of singing for the last thirty-seven years in New York and Washington, may be too small to carry out bequests in his will aggregating $9,500, it was disclosed yesterday when the testament was offered for probate. The petition attached to the will estimates the estate at "upwards of $1,000" and states that the widow, Charlotte Wells Saenger, organist, of 6 East Eighty-first Street, who was named residuary legatee, may receive not more than $500.

The instrument, dated June 28, 1927, leaves $2,000 cash and a life estate in $5,000 to a sister, Mrs. Cora Heinrici of Germantown, Pa.; $2,000, the equivalent of a year's salary, to "my faithful secretary," Lillian Suwalsky of 615 Lefferts Avenue, Brooklyn, and $500 to "my faithful servant," Henry Mura of the Eighty-first Street address.

The testator, who was 60 years old, died April 20, in Washington. Besides his widow, Mr. Saenger was survived by a daughter, Gwyneth Albans, an actress, who was to inherit the residue if her mother predeceased her.

New Jersey Champion Bows to Miss Singer—Mrs. Goss Also Loses In Met. Title Golf.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 21.—The only former national champion in the field, Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson, playing over her home club links, came within an ace of eliminating the 18-year-old medalist, Miss Helen Hicks of the Hempstead Country Club, in the first round of the women's metropolitan golf championship over the rain-swept Greenwich Country Club course this morning.

Back in 1908, three years before Miss Hicks was born, Mrs. Jackson, then Miss Katherine Harley, won her first national title. Six years later she gained her second national championship and today she again proved convincingly that she is still a great match player, for her youthful opponent only won at the eighteenth hole by 1 up.

In fact so close was the match that by the time the players came to the final green the small gallery that clustered about the home green believed that the match was still all even. It had been that way at the end of the first nine, and at the eleventh, thirteenth and fifteenth holes, but Mrs. Jackson pulled her second shot at the sixteenth to lose the hole and what proved to be the match, for she got her halves at both the seventeenth and eighteenth.

Several Exciting Matches.

Of the sixteen matches there was none that aroused so much interest as the one which involved Miss Hicks and Mrs. Jackson, but there were several others that helped to offset the dark, dreary day and make it, from a golfing standpoint, an exciting one in the championship.

Miss Maureen Orcutt, the defending champion, had the easiest time of all, for she won her match from Mrs. Lloyd Wimpfheimer of the Century Club by 8 and 7 without losing one of the eleven holes played. But two of the prominent contestants were eliminated. One was Mrs. Courtland Smith, the New Jersey titleholder, who lost to Miss Catherine Singer, the young Westchester golfer, by 2 and 1, and another was Mrs. Wright Goss of Baltusrol, who reached the final round in the 1926 national, but lost this morning to Miss Eleanor Mellon of Morris County by 2 and 1.

For the second day in succession Miss Katherine Beach of Montclair furnished one of the surprises. She reached here yesterday morning as a post entry and in the qualifying round tied for third with an 87, despite the fact that this was her first metropolitan championship or first tournament of any considerable consequence. She defeated Miss Rosalie Knapp of the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club in the only extra-hole match of the division, winning 1 up at the twentieth by driving to the green and holding a par 3.

Miss Jenney Victor, 6 and 5.

Miss Marie Jenney of Hudson River, who preceded Miss Orcutt as metropolitan champion, disposed of Miss Marion Fisher, the municipal champion, by 6 and 5, while Mrs. Norman K. Toerge, the Long Island champion, by scoring a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. Philip Stevenson of Piping Rock, will oppose Miss Orcutt tomorrow.

Miss Martha Parker, the Westchester and Fairfield champion, advanced by defeating Mrs. D. M. Willard of Winged Foot, 6 and 5, while Miss Lillian Holland of Sunset Hills won rather unexpectedly from Miss Jane Brooks of Rockland, 4 and 2.

Early in the match it was evident that Miss Hicks would have a real battle with Mrs. Jackson. The Long Island girl, generally at an advantage by her long game, found that Mrs. Jackson for the most part was keeping up with her, as the rain-soaked fairways put down the roll of Miss Hicks's shots. Neither was Miss Hicks putting well.

Miss Hicks had played the first nine in 46 to Mrs. Jackson's 47.

Starting the match, Miss Hicks had taken the first hole with a 4 by recovering to a yard of the pin on a fine niblick shot from the rough, and after they halved the second in 4s Miss Hicks lost the third, where she was bunkered. At the long fourth Mrs. Jackson in trying to negotiate a stymie knocked Miss Hicks's ball into the cup. They halved the fifth, and Miss Hicks then added the sixth and went to the eighth 2 up.

Mrs. Jackson Gains Lead.

Mrs. Jackson took the lead at the start of the second nine by holing a 3 as Miss Hicks was wide of the green with a No. 4 iron, but Miss Hicks came right back to win the next by putting around a half-stymie for a 5. At the twelfth Miss Hicks was blocked by another stymie and in trying to pitch over hit Mrs. Jackson's ball and knocked it in for a 3, which won the hole for Mrs. Jackson.

One down now, Miss Hicks captured the next two—the thirteenth after being trapped with her second, and the 505-yard fourteenth in par when she hit two good woods close to the green.

Mrs. Jackson holed a 20-foot putt for a 3 at the fifteenth to even the match as Miss Hicks's tee shot was bunkered, but the Long Island player took the sixteenth, as Mrs. Jackson used four strokes to reach the green to total 6 for the hole. They both had 4s at the seventeenth, and Mrs. Jackson sank a 5-footer at the eighteenth to halve with a 5.

Opposing Mrs. Wimpfheimer, Miss Orcutt shot a 43 over the outgoing nine, halving the first hole with a 5 by overapproaching, but taking the next eight in succession. Each holed par 3s at the tenth, and when Mrs. Wimpfheimer missed a 4-footer at the eleventh the match ended.

Miss Beach was 2 up over the first nine against Miss Knapp and was still 2 up after the fourteenth. Miss Beach conceded the fifteenth after being in trouble and then dropped the eighteenth by trying to play a spoon shot to recover from the rough where her tee shot landed. They each scored a 5 at the first extra hole; then the Jersey player, using a brassie from the tee, put her shot within ten feet of the cup at the twentieth and took her 3, as Miss Knapp was high with her drive in the rough and failed to get a half.

EARLY START FOR JONES.

DEL MONTE, Cal., May 21 (AP).—Assurance was received today that Bobby Jones, amateur golf champion, would defend his title in the national amateur championship at Pebble Beach, Sept. 3 to 7.

This word was contained in a telegram from O. B. Keeler, Atlanta newspaper man and close friend of Jones, to Roger D. Lapham of San Francisco, a vice president of the United States Golf Association.

It was reported here that Jones intends to reach Del Monte a month in advance to play in order to become thoroughly acquainted with the Pebble Beach course.

ST. CLOUD, France, May 21 (AP).—With two scores of 66, Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., today shattered all records for the St. Cloud Country Club course and ran away from the field in the first day's play for the French professional golf championship. Smith's 66 in the morning, five under par, was duplicated in the afternoon.

The pair of 66s gave the young pro from the United States a birthday present a day in advance. He will be 21 years of age tomorrow.

Some idea of what Smith did today may be judged from the following facts: On a course that measures 6,507 yards he had only one 5 during the morning round and only two in the afternoon; he was over par only twice; he scored five birdies in the morning and seven in the afternoon; he was never in the bunker and was only off the fairway three times; on each of these three occasions his recoveries permitted him to make par for the hole.

In the afternoon, when Smith made six birdies in the last nine holes, he came to the eighteenth green with a ten-foot putt for a score of 65 but he took three putts, his first mistake of the afternoon on the greens.

Only One Poor Tee Shot.

He made only one poor tee shot during the afternoon, his drive at the seventh being off the line. However, he sent his approach on the green and got a par four. Most of his drives were straight down the middle and his approaches were deadly in their accuracy.

In the morning the tall young Missourian played the first nine holes in 34 and the last nine in the astonishing count of 32 strokes, and then turned in the same totals in the afternoon.

His approaching was deadly and he dropped putts from twelve to twenty feet. He was in trouble only once. At the eleventh his drive landed under a tree and his approach rested under another, but he got his next close to get down and bag his par 4 just the same.

Smith's spectacular brace of 66s ties the generally accepted world's record for "big league" golf competition, made by Walter Hagen in 1926 at Delaware Water Gap, Pa. Hagen, on a championship 6,500-yard layout, scored 67—65—132 for the first two rounds of the Eastern open championship, sinking a long putt on the last green.

Bobby Jones, in the 1926 qualifying play for the British open tournament, shot 68—66—134 to establish a record for any two successive rounds in an open championship, either at home or abroad.

Gains Wide Margin.

Smith's sensational total of 132 placed him twelve strokes ahead of the nearest competitor, Henry Cotton of Great Britain. The young British pro's 144 was compiled with rounds of 73 and 71.

Johnny Farrell and George Duncan were tied for third place, with scores of 145.

Gene Sarazen, Audrey Boomer and Boyer of France were next with 146.

Joe Turnesa had a 36-hole total of 148. Walter Hagen, after taking 79 strokes in the morning, came back in the afternoon with 72 for a count of 151.

René Gollus scored 148 and Arnaud Massy had 149.

Hagen, fresh from his victory in the British open, played like a duffer at the start of the championship. He took a 44 to the turn, which included an 8 at the fourth hole, where he took three niblick whacks to get out of a shallow bunker guarding the green.

His approach shots at the second, third, fourth and fifth were bunkered and at the eighth he drove under a tree and had to play out lefthanded, taking a 6. He dropped another stroke at the eighth, where his iron from the tee drove over the green.

The tournament is a 72-hole medal play competition.

Prize Is 60,000 Francs.

Cotton, Farrell, Duncan, Sarazen, Boomer and André Boyer, the last two with 146, were the only players who appeared to have the slightest chance of giving Smith a run for the money, which amounts to 60,000 francs.

The competitors teed off in trios and Smith was a member of one that came close to being the best. The other two were Boomer and Arnaud Massy, who won the British open the year before Smith was born.

When the fireworks began this morning Hagen carried away from the first tee a much larger gallery than Smith and he showed them something that few galleries ever have seen—an 8 chalked up for Hagen. This happened on the fourth hole. His mashie approach fell into a shallow bunker and his first attempt to get out was unsuccessful. He whacked away furiously with the same futile result as duffers experience when they lose their tempers.

The second stroke was no more successful than the first and the third barely got the ball onto the grass at the top of the bunker. Hagen chipped onto the green from there, missed a 4-foot putt and took an 8. He has a 6 at the seventh, where he drove under a tree—and his gallery promptly deserted him.

M. G. A. Year Book Due This Week.

The 1929 year book of the Metropolitan Golf Association will be issued this week, J. E. McAuliffe, secretary of the organization, announced yesterday. The new constitution and by-laws adopted in December, as well as records of various tournaments, are included in the book.

Entries for the national open golf championship closed at 6 o'clock last night with a final hour stream of letters pouring in on the officials of the United States Golf Association. Executive Secretary T. J. McMahon and H. H. Ramsay, chairman of the championship committee of the U. S. G. A., estimated that the field for the open would number close to 1,000. There were 1,064 entries last year. The open will be played at the Winged Foot Country Club on June 27, 28 and 29.

3 MET. GOLF TEAMS PLAY AT LIDO TODAY

Long Island, Westchester and New Jersey Stars Meet in Foursomes and Singles.

DRIGGS GOES AROUND IN 71

Finishes One Under Par in Practice Round for Low Gross Honors—Voigt and Held to Compete.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, L. I., May 21.—The star linksmen of the three golfing divisions which go to make up the Metropolitan District were out on the Lido course today, getting in shape for the eighth annual triangular team matches which are to be held here tomorrow.

Sixteen of the leading players from each of the Long Island, New Jersey and Westchester sections will engage in the fray, playing foursomes in the morning and singles in the afternoon. The defending team this year will be New Jersey, which won last year's match by scoring 31 points against 29 for Westchester and 12 for Long Island.

The hero of that match, played at the Montclair Golf Club, was Jess Sweetser, who, although suffering from a bad cold, teamed with Johnny Anderson to defeat Jerry Travers and Bill Reekie, 5 and 4, and Eddie Driggs and Gardiner White, 2 and 1, in the foursomes, and then proceeded to smother Reekie, 8 and 6, in the singles, although losing to Driggs on the home green.

The final stages of that match between Jess and Eddie will linger long in the memory of those who followed it. Before going out for the afternoon singles, Jess announced that his aim would be to stop both opponents, Reekie and Driggs, at the thirteenth hole so as to avoid having to play the last few holes, all of which are uphill on the Montclair course.

Jess Has Driggs 4 Down.

It is not the easiest thing in the world to say when and where you are going to stop opponents of the calibre of Reekie and Driggs, but when the match reached the thirteenth green, it looked as though Jess's calculations were O. K. He had finished off Reekie easily and had the Long Island ace 4 down with a short putt to finish the match.

He failed to make the putt, however, giving Eddie a half and a breather. Then Eddie proceeded to take five holes in succession from the former national and British champion, playing them in 4, 5, 2, 3, 4—three pars and two birdies.

Judging by the way Driggs has been going this year and especially by the way he traveled over the difficult Lido layout today, no one, not even Sweetser, is going to have him anything like 4 down and 5 to go in the singles tomorrow.

What Eddie did today was to sail around the Lido course in 71 strokes, going out in 37 and coming home in 34 with four 3s on the final nine to beat par by one stroke.

It was by far and away the best score turned in by any of the linksmen who played practice rounds this afternoon and gave him the low gross honors and the prize by a comfortable margin.

His score with par:

Out—
Par	4	4	3	5	4	5	5	3	4	—37
Driggs	5	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	—37
In—
Par	4	4	4	3	4	5	5	4		—35—72
Driggs	4	4	5	4	3	3	3	5	3	—34—71

Driggs Plays Brilliantly.

Throughout the entire practice round, which was played with Gardiner White as a partner, Driggs drove a long ball and played his irons with Mac Smith's unerring accuracy. His finishing hole was exceptionally brilliant. The hole measures 424 yards and there was a slight wind blowing off the sea, but Eddie put his second shot five feet from the hole and dropped the putt for a birdie 3.

The presence of George Voigt and Eddie Held on the Long Island team should make a great difference in the playing strength of the Islanders and make them much more of a factor than they were at Montclair when they were unable to count more than a dozen points when the matches were ended.

Neither Voigt nor Held turned up in time for the practice rounds today and it told less than half of the members of the team turned out for medal play round, the reason for the poor attendance being the abominable weather.

Most of the players who will compete on the teams rounded up by Captains Driggs for Long Island, Travers for New Jersey and Merrill K. Water for Westchester were on hand for the dinner at the Lido Club tonight.

MRS. HAIGHT WINS AT GOLF.

Captures Low Net Prize With 68 in Lenox Hills Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., May 21.—Mrs. Francis Haight of Southward Ho put in afternoon captured the low net prize in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association one-day tournament over the Lenox Hills course. Mrs. Haight had a score of 106—17—89. Mrs. A. F. Gray of North Hempstead also had a net 89, but because of a misunderstanding she played under Winter rules and was therefore disqualified.

Second low net went to Mrs. Dewitt Peterkin of Cherry Valley with a score of 107—22—89. Only eight players took part in the tournament. The other scores were:

Mrs. Cyrus Smith, Cherry Valley, 107—17—90; Mrs. James McMillen, North Hempstead, 98—8—92; Mrs. John Hagen, Salisbury, 115—15—100; Mr. Ray Hubbel, Salisbury, 111—8—102; Mrs. John Bossert, Garden City, 118—11—107.

TILDEN IS BEATEN IN DOUBLES MATCH

Pairs With Mrs. Bundy but Loses to Mlle. Barbier and Grandguillot, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

JUNIOR COEN IS A VICTOR

Triumphs With Borotra's Brother as Partner—Miss Wills Advances by Default in Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 21.—The United States tennis players met misfortune in the second day of play in the French hard court championships here today, losing both matches in which all-American teams competed and only half winning the third, as it was a doubles match in which an American entrant was paired with a Frenchman. A fourth match went to America, when Mme. Danet and Mme. Spenanza, who were scheduled to play Miss Helen Wills and Miss Edith Cross, defaulted when one of them preferred to attend a tea in the country rather than face the American champion.

Considerable surprise and disappointment was caused at the showing of America's two former and veteran champions, Bill Tilden and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, when they lost their match to Mlle. Simone Barbier and Edouard Grandguillot, the latter a Frenchman from Cairo who represents Egypt in Davis Cup play, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4. It was no surprise, however, to those who know Tilden's aversion to mixed doubles. It seemed he was content to lose, after making a passable showing, so that from now on he can concentrate his energy on the men's singles and doubles.

Tilden Makes Many Errors.

To be sure, Mrs. Bundy was far off championship form, being wild and netting frequently, but Tilden, except in the second act, persisted in missing kindergarten shots and making experimental shots, 90 per cent of which went into the net. He pleased the French crowd, however, by purposely giving away three points, when the umpire made what appeared to be bad decisions. The last of these points gave his opponents the match.

In the first set Mlle. Barbier and Grandguillot won handily, the Americans looking like beginners and the French playing excellent tennis in all departments. In the second set, after Grandguillot and Mlle. Barbier had taken the second and fourth games at love on their respective services, Tilden braced and played real Tildenic tennis. Although he lost his own service in the ninth game, he won the set readily. After this he lapsed again and the match went to the opposition.

America's half victory came when young Wilbur Coen paired with Edouard Borotra, 19-year-old brother of Jean Borotra, and defeated Nicky Zahir and Henri Dannon, 6—2, 11—9, 8—6. The match was bitterly contested and so fatiguing that Coen was unable to play another match for which he was scheduled.

Coen showed flashes of brilliant play and he evidently is trying hard to imitate his mentor, Tilden. Quite often he succeeded, but at other moments he failed. He was too hurried in delivering his shots and his timing frequently was faulty, but experience should eradicate all this.

Lacoste an Easy Victor.

René Lacoste and Mme. La Faurie had no trouble in disposing of America's only other entrants, Mrs. Hackett and Dr. Rawlins, both of California, as are three-quarters of the other American representatives.

England is in a bad way for Davis Cup players, if the showing of two of her choices, Austin and Olliff, is any criterion. Against two Frenchmen, who admittedly are second-raters, they were forced to five lifeless sets and then lost, 10—8, 5—7, 5—7, 6—2, 6—2. Before the match the English players were 26 to 1 favorites. They were outplayed most of the time.

Mme. Simone Mathieu, the French ace, again performed brilliantly. Paired with Jacques Brugnon, she took a match from the Italians, Signora Valerio and Del Bono, in straight sets at 6—4, 6—1. The French tennis adepts already are forgetting "our Susanne" and are becoming enthusiastic over "our Simone." The latter played even better today than last Sunday, when she gave Miss Wills such a terrific tussle.

FAVORITES ADVANCE IN PHILADELPHIA GOLF

Mrs. Stetson and Mrs. Hurd Win First Round Matches in Women's Title Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Favorites came through in the first round matches of the women's Philadelphia golf championship at the Overbrook course today.

Playing on soggy links, Mrs. Helen B. Stetson of Huntingdon Valley, defending champion, won from Mrs. Theodore Wiederseim of the Philadelphia Country Club, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Merion, former national and British titleholder, easily disposed of Mrs. J. A. Lyons of North Hills, 7 and 6.

One of the best matches was the victory of Mrs. N. P. Rood of Wilmington over Miss Ruth Anne Perry, 1 up.

The summaries:

First Round, First Sixteen—Mrs. H. B. Stetson, Huntingdon Valley, defeated Mrs. T. E. Wiederseim, Philadelphia Country Club, 4 and 3; Miss Elizabeth Morris, Huntingdon Valley, defeated Mrs. L. W. Bones, Merion, 2 and 1; Mrs. E. H. Vare, Whitemarsh, defeated Mrs. J. E. Diaston, Philadelphia Country Club, 2 and 1; Mrs. D. C. Hurd, Merion, defeated Mrs. A. Lyons, North Hills, 7 and 6; Mrs. W. A. Johnson, St. David's, defeated Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Merion, 4 and 3; Mrs. J. F. Stevens, Brookside, defeated Mrs. L. L. Newton, Whitemarsh, 7 and 5; Mrs. N. P. RACER HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

Hood on Buxton's Car Comes Off as He Drives 105 Miles an Hour.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 21 (AP).—Jack Buxton, Los Angeles, scheduled to drive in the 500-mile automobile race here May 30, narrowly escaped injury while driving a few practice laps today.

The hood on the car driven by Buxton loosened and was carried over his head. The driver dodged and kept the car on its course, the hood falling to one side onto the track. Buxton was going 105 miles an hour at the time.

HOOVER HOST TODAY TO DAVIS CUP TEAM

He and Mrs. Hoover Invite U. S. Players to Informal Reception at White House.

JAPANESE ALSO TO ATTEND

Mrs. Hoover Will See Opening Tennis Cup Tests Between the Two Countries Tomorrow.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—After a double practice session in Philadelphia today, during which the morning workout was given over to singles and the afternoon to singles and doubles, the United States Davis Cup team returned to Washington tonight to learn that it has been invited by the President and Mrs. Hoover to an informal tea at the White House tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The Japanese team, which was to have joined with the Americans in a series of exhibitions on the White House courts today, until rain forced their cancellation, also will be received by the Chief Executive and the First Lady. Mrs. Hoover, it was learned, will attend the opening matches in the Davis Cup tie between Japan and the United States on Thursday at the Chevy Chase Club.

While Captain Fitz-Eugene Dixon was having his charges work out on the Widener indoor court in Philadelphia, the three members of the Japanese team were taking advantage of the fair weather that prevailed here this afternoon and practicing on the blue gravel court at Chevy Chase. Captain Yoshiro Ohta and Tamio Abe engaged each other in singles, with Ohta coming off best.

Decides on His Team.

The Japanese leader let it be known that he is planning to use himself and Abe entirely in the match. They will play the singles and pair together in the doubles, so that Sadakazu Onda, in all probability, will not get into the play, at least for the first two days.

The draw for the tie will be made tomorrow and it seems fairly certain that Captain Dixon will nominate John Hennessey of Indianapolis and John Van Ryn as America's singles entries, just as they were in the match with Canada last week.

Among those who arrived at Chevy Chase today were Samuel H. Collom, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association; Julian S. Myrick, former chairman of the Davis Cup Committee, and Henry M. Slocum, former president. In the absence of the team, Mr. Collom and Mr. Myrick spent the afternoon on the golf course of Chevy Chase.

Lawrence A. Baker, chairman of the tennis committee in charge of the arrangements at the club, stated this afternoon that most of the seats for the matches have been sold, and it is expected that they will be at a premium by Thursday.

Special stands have been put up to take care of more than 2,000 spectators and the arrangements are perfect in every respect. Much depends, however, upon the weather. Unless the sun puts in an appearance tomorrow, the grandstand court probably will not be very fast.

Sailing Reservations Made.

Although the United States Davis Cup team has not yet clinched the American zone final, having still to meet Japan and, if victor in that tie, having to face Cuba in the final, sailing reservations have been made for John Van Ryn, John Hennessey, George Lott and Wilmer Allison, it was announced yesterday.

The sailing date is June 5 and the ship is the Berengaria. The ship is equipped with a practice court. It is interesting to note that Lott, included on the team, is a student in the University of Chicago and is not competing in the cup classic. However, officials announced recently that he was ready to take up his place on the team if called.

DARTMOUTH PLAYERS IN 2 TENNIS FINALS

MacDonald and Johnson Win in Singles and Doubles in New England Intercollegiates.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 21.—Theodore MacDonald and Henry L. Johnson Jr., both of Dartmouth, will meet for the New England intercollegiate singles tennis championship tomorrow afternoon as a result of winning semi-final matches today.

Play was shifted to the Longwood covered courts this afternoon as the all-day rain made the grass courts unplayable.

MacDonald, a Dartmouth junior, was seeded second in the tournament and received a hard battle before reaching the final. Samuel J. Hayes of Amherst took seventeen games from MacDonald, but the latter's accuracy and speedier court work enabled him to triumph in four bitter sets, 6—4, 6—2, 4—6, 7—5.

In the other semi-final, Johnson defeated J. W. Owen of Wesleyan, 6—0, 6—2, 6—1. Johnson is a sophomore and was seeded fourth in the draw.

Word was received this morning that the Williams pair of Harry Wolfe, last year's singles champion, and Ted Chase did not show up yesterday as it was believed by them that the tourney was due to start next week. Wolfe and Chase were defaulted in the singles, but they played in the doubles this afternoon.

Johnson and MacDonald gained their second final when they disposed of the Williams pair in the doubles, 8—6, 6—4, 6—4.

The morning side of the tent

YOU waken before sun-up after a sleep that a baby might envy. Out you tumble and stand on the morning side of the tent where the new sun is rushing up behind the hills.

Only the thoughts of breakfast with bacon and eggs sizzling joyfully in the pan and the anticipated aroma of spring-water coffee tears you away from the glory of dawn . . .

More than half the enjoyment of camping comes from being properly clothed and equipped for eating, walking, fishing and sleeping. We don't know any other shop where your camping needs may be so adequately satisfied.

CUBS' UPHILL FIGHT BEATS PIRATES, 8-6

VICTORS RETAIN 1ST PLACE

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP).—The Cubs waged a great uphill battle today to take the final game of the series from Pittsburgh, 8 to 6 and retain their half-game lead over the Cardinals in the National League race.

Cvengros, starting his first game for Chicago, was knocked from the box in the fifth, the Pirates scoring four runs off him in this frame. Berly Horne and Charley Root finished the game and held the Pirates scoreless, Horne receiving credit for the victory.

Larry French, Pirate southpaw, pitched fine ball for four innings, but the Cubs batted him hard in the fifth and sixth to forge ahead, after trailing, 6-2. Brame hurled the last three innings for Pittsburgh. Hornsby hit his fifth home run of the year with one on in the fifth.

Manush and Schang Get Drives in Second—Crowder Keeps White Sox's Ten Hits Scattered.

ST. LOUIS, May 21 (AP).—Homers by Manush and Schang, the latter with two men on base, gave the Browns 4 runs in the second inning today and helped them win from the White Sox, 7 to 1. McGowan, with a double and a triple, also figured in the St. Louis scoring. Crowder allowed Chicago ten hits, but kept them scattered.

Holds Reds to Seven Safeties, Home Run by Walker Saving Losers From Shut-Out.

CINCINNATI, May 21 (AP).—Grover Cleveland Alexander had the Reds at his mercy today, the Cardinals inflicting the fifth straight defeat on the Reds, who lost 12 to 1. Cincinnati made only seven hits against the Cards' fourteen.

The Cards clinched the victory in the fourth inning when they knocked two pitchers from the mound and scored seven runs. Hafey hit a homer over the left-field fence during this inning with a man on base. The Reds have made only three runs in their last four games. They would have been shut out today but for Curt Walker's homer.

DARTMOUTH NINE WINS FROM VERMONT, 3 TO 2

Victors Make Four Hits for Two Runs in the Eighth After Trailing From the Start.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., May 21.—Dartmouth turned back Vermont, 3 to 2, for its sixth straight victory on Memorial Field here today. The game was anybody's up to the last out, the Green garnering four hits for two runs in the eighth after trailing from the start to clinch the victory. Dartmouth's backers were almost disappointed when the game was halted in the fifth due to rain.

Lauri Myllykangas struck out twelve, letting Vermont have six hits. The hero of the game was Hal Boonna, who was put in to bat for Downey in the sixth with men on second and third. He flied out to centre, but won the game in the eighth with a timely single, scoring Picken for Dartmouth's third and winning run.

RAIN HERE PREVENTS TWO DOUBLE BILLS

Yanks-Senators and Giants-Robins Kept Idle—To Play Off Brooklyn Games Today.

McGRAW IS STILL AT HOME

Benton and Walker Likely to Pitch at Ebbets Field—Hoyt and Johnson to Hurl for Hugmen.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

A drizzling rain sent four perfectly good ball games into the discard in the metropolitan area yesterday. It wiped out the double-header the Giants and Robins were to have put on at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, and it also eliminated the twin bill between the Yanks and Senators at the Yankee Stadium.

The Giants and Robins, having an open date today, elected at once to play their postponed double-header this afternoon, but as the Yanks and Senators already had another double-header booked for this afternoon the two games that were washed away yesterday will have to be played at a later date. The first one will be played as part of a double-header with the Senators here on Aug. 9, and the second one as part of a twin bill on Aug. 29.

The interborough struggle in Brooklyn, which presents the Giants and Robins in the rather unedifying position of trying to shove each other into the cellar, is likely to be fought today with both leaders absent. John McGraw is still confined to his home with an attack of sinus trouble and a heavy cold, while Uncle Robbie also was suffering from a cold yesterday and may not be able to take personal command of his forces today.

This, however, is not expected to deter the Giants and Dodgers from falling upon each other with traditional vehemence. Larry Benton and Bill Walker are likely to start on the firing line for the Giants, while Uncle Robbie stated yesterday he had four pitchers available—Lou Koupal, Buzz McWeeny, Win Ballou and Clise Dudley—though he fondly hoped he would not have to use all four. Robbie also expects the arrival today of Eddie Moore, whom the Dodgers recently purchased from Toledo.

Waite Hoyt and possibly Henry Johnson are expected to take care of the two Yankee games against the Senators today, after which the world's champions will bound off on another brief road trip. They will leave tonight for Boston to open a four-game series with the Red Sox tomorrow. Monday the Yanks will play an exhibition game in Hartford, and Tuesday they will bob up in Washington to open a series that will wind up with the holiday double-header on Memorial Day. This done, the Hugmen will return to the Stadium to begin on June 1 their first long home stand of the season.

TIGERS WIN IN 13TH FROM THE INDIANS

Victors Tie Score in Ninth and Then Triumph, 2-1—Stone's Single Decides Contest.

DETROIT, May 21 (AP).—The Tigers came from behind today to take a thirteen-inning battle from the Cleveland Indians by a 2-to-1 score. The Tigers tied the score in the ninth inning of the duel and scored again with one out in the thirteenth.

Willis Hudlin went the entire distance for Cleveland, holding the Detroit batters helpless until the ninth. With one down Heilmann doubled, Alexander reached first on a fielder's choice and McManus sent the big first baseman to third with a single. Tavener fielded Phillips's grounder but Lind turned it into a run by dropping his toss for a forced play. The winning run came from a pass to Roy Johnson, Rice's sacrifice and Stone's hard single to centre.

Cleveland scored in the third when Jamieson reached first on an error and Fonseca brought him in with a double to the scoreboard. Owen Carroll was the victim of that run and failed to get credit for the victory although he held the Indians to seven hits in nine innings. Lil Stoner pitched the last four frames, giving only one hit.

IRONSIDES SCORES OVER CHANCE SHOT

McAtee Gets Man o' War Colt Home in Driving Finish in Mud at Belmont.

FAIRMOUNT IS EASY VICTOR

By BRYAN FIELD.

Joseph E. Widener's Chance Shot had his trial for the Suburban Handicap yesterday afternoon at Belmont Park, but could get no better than second to R. L. Gerry's Man o' War colt Ironsides, which won in a driving finish over a muddy track by nearly a length.

Linus (Pony) McAtee had the mount on Ironsides and did as well with him as he did with Clyde Van Dusen in the Kentucky Derby, but Chance Shot was wearing the winner down at the finish and was pocketed in the early stages of the race, so that he will have many friends when he goes in the Suburban, and also in the Metropolitan if he starts in that race.

Six went to the post in the Greenport Handicap, and Chance Shot was made 9-10 favorite despite the fact that he was making his first start of the season. Willie Garner got him away well, but immediately dropped back as Ironsides was pushed to the front, with Dangerous following him.

All the way down the backstretch this arrangement prevented Chance Shot from running ahead, but on the turn Garner finally went around Dangerous and attempted to get to the leader, which was running well and easily with nothing to bother him.

Garner Goes to Whip.

Garner went to the whip on Chance Shot in the stretch, and it looked as if the horse would overtake Ironsides, but then Garner decided to hand ride, let up on the whip, and immediately failed to gain. He went to the bat again, and again Chance Shot closed ground on Ironsides, but the end of the mile and a sixteenth was at hand and Ironsides was over the line the winner.

The margin was only three-quarters of a length. Half a length back of Chance Shot was Algernon, which closed a good bit of ground to get the short end of the purse. Ironsides's time was 1:46.

At the beginning of the day it looked as if Widener would score a triple with Fairmount in the Coligny Steeplechase, Chance Shot in the Greenport and Curate in the Shoreham. As it turned out he got only one victory, that of Fairmount, as Curate was edged out by William Ziegler Jr.'s Holiday in the Shoreham and then was disqualified out of second place.

This certainly was not an auspicious 1929 début for Curate, which is the three-year-old hope of the Widener stable and was having his trial for the Withers. The final placing established W. R. Coe's Dail in second position and Kildare third.

Holiday Forced Wide.

Curate forced Holiday wide and Willie Garner, his jockey, was set down for three days. Holiday outbroke his field but was taken back off the pace until the stretch, where he moved up courageously. Curate, the early leader, raced Cheers into defeat and carried Holiday wide when that fellow came along at the stretch turn.

Holiday drew away despite the interference and won by plenty of margin over Curate, which beat Dail for third by only a neck. Then came the rearrangement of the finish by the stewards. Curate was held at even money while Holiday was 15 to 1.

Of all the favorites for the day, Fairmount was the shortest-priced. He opened at 1 to 3 and closed at 9 to 20 but won easily by four lengths and thus qualified handsomely for the Appleton Memorial.

Fairmount yesterday won as he pleased, carrying his 164 pounds easily and taking the lead when ready to tow-rope the others. Redbridge was second and Polish third. It was the first race of the season for Fairmount and he looks in splendid condition.

Stormy Dawn Earns $4,000.

The same kind of coup that Lycidas brought off for James Butler in the Grab Bag Handicap at Saratoga last Summer was repeated by Butler's Stormy Dawn in the Hollis claiming stakes, which carried the biggest purse of the program. The value to the winner was $4,000 and Stormy Dawn paid 20 to 1, which was the price of Lycidas when he romped home in the last Grab Bag.

Stormy Dawn did not show in front until the race was more than half run, but when he did come out in advance of the eight others there was no doubt of his superiority and he won by four lengths. Juggler was second and he beat Hanpviánne by a head.

ROSENTHAL WINS AT CHESS.

Jacob Rosenthal, former champion of New York State, won first prize in a rapid transit handicap tournament from a field of 14 entries in the rooms of the Manhattan Chess Club yesterday. Rosenthal, playing in brilliant form, finished with a score of 11-2.

Second prize was won by I. Kandel, a member of the champion City College team, who scored 10-3. I. Kashdan of the United States Olympic team was placed third with a score of 8½-4½. There was a triple tie for fourth place between A. S. Kussama, intercollegiate champion, R. Wilmes and J. Schwarz, each of whom scored 8-5.

FAIRMOUNT DERBY GOAL OF CLYDE VAN DUSEN

Naishapur and Panchio Also Will Be in Field in $25,000 Race on June 1.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 21 (AP).—Clyde Van Dusen, son of Man o' War and Uncle's Lassie and winner of the fifty-fifth Kentucky Derby, and the Wilshire Stable's Naishapur, which ran second in the classic last Saturday, will meet again June 1 in the Fairmount Derby, at Collinsville, Ill.

Panchio, which finished third in the derby, also will be in the field of starters in the $25,000 added fixture at Collinsville, it was announced here last night.

Clyde Van Dusen, Trainer Clyde Van Dusen announced, will receive his preparation for the attempt to win added turf honors at the Churchill Downs track and will not be shipped to Collinsville until the latter part of the week.

Trainer John B. McKee of the Wilshire Stable will saddle Jim Dandy in the Bashford Manor Stakes Thursday, after which he will leave for Fairmount to supervise Naishapur's final preparations for the derby there.

Clyde Van Dusen will seek more fame and gold this Summer in the American Derby and the American classic. The American Derby will be held at Washington Park, June 15, with $50,000 added money, while the American classic at Arlington Park, July 13, will be for $60,000.

Post and Paddock

Colonel E. R. Bradley's Blue Larkspur arrived at Belmont Park yesterday with t.n others from the Idle Hour stock farm. All shipped well, and Blue Larkspur will receive work as soon as possible to fit him for the Belmont.

Dick Gardner was in charge of the string and reports that H. J. Thompson, who was confined to a Louisville hospital with appendicitis on the eve of the Derby, is doing well. Thompson is Bradley's trainer and fitted Blue Larkspur for the Derby, which he heard over the radio from his hospital room.

Harry Payne Whitney's brown filly Filmy is said to be doing nicely after being cut down at Jamaica.

Jean Valjean, J. O. Keene's Stefan the Great colt which his owner has been nursing along carefully, was scratched from the fifth race. But a Stefan the Great colt was a winner in the first race when Polygamous won in the colors of Gifford A. Cochrap.

It was the first racing start for Polygamous and he proved himself a good muddler, although to keep Jean Valjean out of the mud is the reason Keene scratched that one.

Fair Enough, which fell and unseated his rider in the Steeplechase, put on an additional gallop of a couple of miles before he was captured and brought to his barn. J. Lambert was the rider who came a cropper.

Linus (Pony) McAtee, rider of Clyde Van Dusen in the Derby last Saturday, is being kept busy. He rode Jack Campbell on Monday and Son of John, Sun Eclipse, Ironsides and Forger yesterday.

3 ACCIDENTS MAR LOUISVILLE RACING

TWO LONG SHOTS SCORE

Nora D., at $53.52 for $2, Wins 1st Race After Spooky Breaks Down—Account Pays $69.32.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 22.—Accidents in the first and second races marred the program at Churchill Downs today. None of the mishaps resulted seriously for the jockeys, although Spooky, the favorite in the first event, broke down; and Lillyfield, in the second, broke a foreleg in a tumble and had to be destroyed.

Three horses fell in the second race, Lillyfield, Jimmalee and Princess Donna all going down near the head of the stretch. The jockeys, R. Heigle, L. Pichon and J. Ryan, suffered only a few bruises. All three mounts were outsiders in the betting.

In the opening race Maiden's Tryst was crowded into the fence on the stretch turn and Jockey L. Canfield was forced to dismount. With the elimination of Spooky, the odds-on favorite, Nora D. went on to win at $53.52 for $2. Lady Witt was a length behind with Jessie Carey a head back for the show.

In the third race, for 2-year-old fillies, Supryse rewarded the form players by leading Star Lassie home with a four-length margin. Star Lassie took the place by two lengths over Wild Denise, the second choice.

Account, at the long odds of $69.32 for $2, won the following event at a mile and a sixteenth. The Oakland Farm Stable gelding scored by a head over Amsterdam with Kentucky Ace, the odds-on favorite, third.

CRAGADOUR, 100 TO 12, NOW 3D DERBY CHOICE

Hunter's Moon and Mr. Jinks Made Joint Favorites for English Classic at 15 to 2 Against.

LONDON, May 21 (Canadian Press).—Hunter's Moon and Mr. Jinks, two fine 3-year-old colts, were on even terms in tonight's betting on the Epsom Derby to be run June 5. Both horses, owned respectively by Lord Derby and Major McCalmont, were at 15 to 2 against. Lord Astor's Cragadour, second to Mr. Jinks in the classic 2,000 guineas, was next choice at 100 to 12, having been displaced as favorite.

Other odds were 10 to 1 against Kopi, 100 to 6 against Gay Day, 20 to 1 against Walter Gay, 33 to 1 against Reflector, 50 to 1 against Posterity and 66 to 1 against Harbison.

UMEK AND RICHMAN TIE.

Battle for Third Place in Run From Odessa to Monahans, Texas.

MONAHANS, Tex., May 21 (AP).—Giusto Umek of Italy and Sam Richman of New York, battling for third place in total elapsed time in the Pyle cross-country race, tied for first today in the fifty-second lap, covering the thirty-eight miles from Odessa, Texas, to Monahans in 4:14:05. Umek still holds third place in total time by more than thirteen hours.

Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., leader in elapsed time, again tied with Pete Gavuzzi, England, his closest competitor, for third place today in 4:52:10, retaining his margin of 21 minutes 30 seconds. Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., tied with M. B. McNamara, Australia, for fifth place.

A day like yesterday sometimes makes us wonder what there is to all this talk of Spring, but it has never failed us yet and it won't this year.

The fabric is specially woven to have all the wet-proof virtues of a raincoat, but being Scotch cheviot there is no sacrifice of smart appearance and stylish fit.

It's a coat that not only keeps you dry while the weather's wet, but is a handsome garment for all other times as well—and that means very well indeed.

In herringbones, plaids, checks and fancy mixtures.

WHAT IS OUR CRIME RECORD? President Hoover, in his inaugural address, expressed alarm over our lawlessness. Just how far this lawlessness has gone is told in an article in The New York Times Magazine next Sunday by George W. Kirchwey. While facts show we do lead the civilized world in crime, there seem to be good reasons for believing crime is a diminishing factor in our national life. —Adv.

Times are Daylight Saving.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

When the record fleet of nine varsity shells goes away from the mark in the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta at Poughkeepsie on June 24 the three crews apt to start as favorites will be rowing alongside one another, out in the middle of the river. The draw for lanes made yesterday afternoon in the office of Maxwell Stevenson of Columbia, chairman of the board of stewards, made this certain.

With the numbers of the nine lanes starting at the west side of the course, Cornell has No. 5, California No. 6 and Columbia No. 7. This puts California and Columbia in the same lanes they went down last year as the Westerners nosed out Columbia and both crews, together with Washington in third place, smashed the record.

Bothered Less by Wind.

The tradition is that the inside lanes are a bit faster, though exhaustive efforts have been made to find the proper tidal time for a start so that there is no difference. A western or quartering wind, however, is bound to bother the crews in under the bank less than those out on the river.

Twenty-one crews for the three races were in the draw for positions yesterday, a new total record for the years since the regatta started in 1896 on the Highland-Poughkeepsie course. It will be the biggest fleet in modern rowing history, though the 1875 regatta on Saratoga Lake had thirteen starters in the varsity event.

Pennsylvania has drawn the inside lane, with Navy alongside. Then in order come Washington, Wisconsin, Cornell, California, Columbia, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Syracuse.

There will be only six starters in the junior varsity event, and Columbia has fared better in the matter of lanes this time, drawing No. 2. Pennsylvania is again on the inside, with Cornell in No. 3, Syracuse, Washington and Navy following in that order.

Draw for the Freshmen.

The freshmen, with six more entries, are in the following order: California, Cornell, Syracuse, Columbia, Navy and Penn.

Technology, in its first year at Poughkeepsie, has been drawn in one of the theoretically hard lanes.

Some of the colleges had no representatives present, but their interests were looked after by officials and others who were designated to act. The colleges were represented as follows:

Cornell, Maxwell Stevenson; Syracuse, Karl Schneider; Columbia, Reynolds Benson; Pennsylvania, Ed Thorp; California, Floyd Georgeson; Washington, William Crawford; Wisconsin, Edwin Kohl; Navy, Ed Thorp, and M. I. T., Robert Derby.

PRINCETON FENCERS ELECT.

C. F. Hegner of Denver Named Captain—Awards Bestowed.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 21.—Casper F. Hegner of Denver has been chosen captain of the Princeton fencers for the coming season and the officers of the fencing association have been elected. William M. Lobenstine of New York will serve as president, with David G. Marvin, also of New York, as vice president.

The other officers elected are Henry Clifton Jr. of Philadelphia, secretary and treasurer, and Arthur W. Miller of St. Louis, manager. At the meeting of the association Charles H. Wheeler of Montclair, N. J., received the championship medal of the university in the foils as well as Coach De Vos's award of a bronze placard for the man who ran up the highest number of points in the dual meets during the season in the foils division.

Hegner won the gold championship medal in the épée, while Lobenstine won the De Ves placard in this weapon. In the saber Mallory Brown of Memphis, Tenn., won first place, and the coach's award for the highest score of the season in this event went to Philip W. Furst of Lock Haven, Pa.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

FIDEL LA BARBA must have gone through college on the dead run. About two years ago he retired undefeated as the world's flyweight champion for the purpose of collecting a college education at Stanford University. Either they teach them fast at Stanford or Fidel forgot to tag all the bases.

As long as Fidel has come back to the ring, the matter isn't important. Perhaps the fast-stepping youngster did some research work in the college library and dug up the fact that nobody ever knocked out an opponent by hitting him with a diploma. Indeed, the records would go to prove that a college degree is a heavy handicap in the ring. A man could count all the college graduates who are pugilistic champions on his thumbs and have two thumbs left over.

Kid Chocolate never had any college aspirations. Though a youngster, he belongs to the old school. He believes in hard knocks, and he distributes them at every opportunity. He has won more than half his bouts by knockouts, which is one reason why he has been a big drawing card here and elsewhere. Perhaps La Barba, because he went one full year to college, may be too smart for the Cuban cutie at the Coliseum in the Bronx this evening, but the Kid packs the punch, and a lad with a punch always has a chance.

It should be a good fight, but it isn't safe to go into that. The McLarnin-Miller affair should have been a good fight, but it turned out to be a slow waltz. Around this town it isn't safe to predict that any meeting will produce an exciting fight except a meeting of the Board of Estimate.

The Miller Changes His Mind.

Just recently Manager Miller Huggins yanked Leo Durocher, Bridgeport's bashful boy, out of the Yankee infield and inserted Lyn Lary at shortstop. A week before the opening of the season the Yankee manager announced that Leo had won the shortstop job and would hold it for a long while. The dusty Miller was really enthusiastic about his infield, too. He told his friends that it was the best Yankee infield he ever had, and that's saying something, with gestures.

But the Miller has changed his mind. That's one of the smart things about Huggins. It takes a major operation to get a mistaken notion out of the heads of some people, but Huggins doesn't belong in that class. Durocher wasn't hitting enough to hold his job, and Durocher came out. Lary is in and will stay there until he gets a thorough test. If he passes the examination, the job is his. If he slips up or falls down, Leo will get another whack at it, and Manager Huggins, with Durocher and Lary under his wing, will be peering about the country in search of a shortstop who combines the best features of both.

The Trouble Is Elsewhere.

Some people are asking: "What's wrong with the Yankees?" Well, there isn't any much wrong with the Yankees. Their pitching was bad in the West, but Pipgras, Hoyt and Pennock were in fairly good fettle in recent games. Warm weather, if there is any such thing any more, will put the pitching staff in shape.

The hitters are doing fairly well, and the team, when fast halted by rain, was cantering along at a .640 gait, a rate of progress that will win about nine pennants in ten tries. The only trouble with the Yankees at the moment is that the Athletics are traveling even faster. That's something over which Miller Huggins has no control.

If the Mackmen can keep up the speed at which they have been going, the Yankees needn't worry about the pennant. They will never see it. Miller Huggins may grieve, and Colonel Ruppert may shed bitter tears, but if the Mackmen can hold to the pace they started with, theirs is the laurel, the pennant and the world's series purse.

There is grave suspicion, however, that the Mackmen will slow up, if for no other reason than that no club in the American League ever traveled through a season as fast as the Mackmen have traveled so far in this campaign.

The Heavy Hitters.

Bad weather for pitchers is usually good weather for hitters, and Connie Mack has had a gang of heavy hitters on the job all through this cold and clammy Spring. Though Haas and Miller are batting a bit below stride, every regular in the Philadelphia lineup is a prospective .300 hitter, and at the last accounting, the Mackmen were twenty points higher in team batting than the Yankees.

With Hale at third base, Dykes at shortstop, Foxx at first base and Simmons patrolling his post in the outfield, Connie Mack has his biggest guns on the firing line. Hale isn't the finest third baseman in the world by a dusty furlong, but he can crack a fast ball in healthy fashion, and any pitcher who throws him a curve ball is immediately yanked out and sent to the psychopathic ward for examination. Jimmy Dykes makes two-base throws from shortstop occasionally, but he more than balances them with three-base hits.

Al Simmons "steps in the water bucket" at the plate, but he can and does hit everything. Jimmy Foxx, who has done everything on the ball field except umpire, is a natural hitter and is rapidly learning the art of fielding.

It can't be denied that Connie has the hitters, but when the weather warms up so that the pitchers can loosen their muscles and "bend 'em in there," there may be more to the pennant race than taking a toehold at the plate and "rattling the boards for three."

A Deeper Problem.

It would be wiser to duck the question: "What's wrong with the Giants?" If John McGraw doesn't know the answer, who else can be expected to furnish it?

It would be easy to say that pitching is the trouble, but Benton, Hubbell and Walker have pitched some good games. Second base is supposed to be a problem, but Cohen and Reese, when they were in there, played good ball. Eddie Roush has made a real comeback, and Mel Ott has been doing fine work at bat and in the field.

It's just a deep mystery, and, for the time being, the best thing is to let it go at that. It's too good a team to be groping around in the lower regions of the second division. It's time for them to be up and doing.

YALE LISTS AWARDS IN 5 MINOR SPORTS

2 BOXERS GET MINOR Y'S

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 21.—Awards in five minor sports were announced by the Yale Athletic Association today.

Five members of the swimming team, under the new ruling which provides for the award of minor Ys to swimmers who engage in a majority of the meets and earn at least ten points, will receive minor letters.

Two boxers, Frank Gatyas, '30, and Leon Newman, '29, have gained minor Ys in recognition of exceptional performances, six other members of the team gaining YBT.

Minor Ys were granted to W. H. Harris and S. T. Hitchcock as senior members of the soccer team, who were prevented from participation in the Princeton or Harvard games by the substitution rules of the Intercollegiate Association.

Seven awards were made for squash racquets and ten for freshman wrestling. The appointment of M. J. Roberts as manager of the swimming and polo teams and of J. T. Render as assistant manager was ratified.

The awards:

Boxing.

LANES ARE DRAWN FOR HENLEY RACES

Columbia 150-Pound Eight Gets No. 1 Course for Regatta on Schuylkill Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Coach Hubert Glendon's Columbia University varsity 150-pound crew, which will go abroad next month, today drew the No. 1, or west shore, lane for its race in the twenty-fifth annual American Henley, to be rowed on the Schuylkill River next Saturday. The draw was conducted in the office of John Arthur Brown, secretary of the American Rowing Association.

Columbia, the Henley titleholder and champion of the East, will have Pennsylvania right alongside at the start, with Harvard in the No. 3 position, Princeton No. 4 and Yale on the east side of the river.

There will be ten events with an entry of thirty-five college, school and club crews, with the races run off at fifteen-minute intervals.

In college freshman eights, Penn has the No. 1 course, with Princeton No. 2 and Navy plebes No. 3. Princeton, Yale, Harvard and Penn have entered the third varsity event, with the Tigers in No. 1 position.

The order of events, the positions, numbered from the west shore, and the starting times (Daylight Saving), follow:

3:30 P. M.—Second or Special Four-oared Shells (U. S. Navy Cup)—1, Undine Barge Club; 2, Pennsylvania Barge Club; 3, Vesper Boat Club, New York.

3:45 P. M.—Second Single Sculls (Blake Cup)—1, Robert Dinsmore, Bachelors Barge Club; 2, Thomas Clark, Undine Barge Club; 3, Edward J. Freeman, Nassau Boat Club, New York; 4, Robert Spencer, Princeton University Rowing Association; 5, W. E. Johnson, Penn A. A. C.; 6, C. C. Mentz, Nassau Boat Club, New York.

3:00 P. M.—Interscholastic Eight-oared Shells (Franklin Cup)—1, Germantown Academy; 2, West Philadelphia Catholic High; 3, Hun School, Princeton; 4, Kent School, Kent, Conn.

3:15 P. M.—First Double Sculls (Schuylkill Challenge Cup)—1, Undine Barge Club (Thomas and Eugene Clark); 2, Princeton University Rowing Association (Clement E. Newbold and Winthrop Sutherland).

3:30 P. M.—Interclub Second Eight-oared Shells—1, Undine Barge Club; 2, Pennsylvania Barge Club; 3, Penn A. C.

3:45 P. M.—First Quadruple Sculls (Centipedes)—1, Malta Boat Club; 2, Penn A. C.

4:00 P. M.—Freshman Eight-oared Shells—1, Penn; 2, Princeton; 3, Navy.

4:15 P. M.—Second Single Sculls (Farragut Challenge Cup)—1, Charles W. Coulston, Undine Barge Club; 2, Chester Turner, Penn A. C.; 3, Albert Vogt, Penn A. C.; 4, Russell S. Codman Jr., Union Boat Club, Boston.

4:30 P. M.—Third Collegiate Eight-oared Shells (Childs, S. S. Brown Cup)—1, Princeton; 2, Yale; 3, Harvard; 4, Penn.

4:45 P. M.—Special Collegiate 150-Pound Eight-oared Shells (Joseph Wright Challenge Cup)—1, Columbia; 2, Penn; 3, Harvard; 4, Princeton; 5, Yale.

Matsuyama Beats Sloane Twice.

Kinrey Matsuyama defeated Cyril Sloane twice at 18.2 balkline billiards yesterday at Lawler Brothers' Manhattan Academy. In the afternoon block Matsuyama won twelve innings by 250 to 81, having a high run of 78 to 19 for the loser. The evening block was captured in five innings, the score being 250 to 9. In this match Matsuyama had a high run of 190, against Sloane's 5.

McDonald Victor With Cue.

Rain Prevents Bicycle Races.

Rain forced the postponement of the bicycle racing at the New York Velodrome last night. The races will be staged on Friday night.

Ty Cobb Takes Up Golf at Last; Still Retains His Batting Eye

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 21 (AP).—Ty Cobb has turned to golf—and is batting 1,000. Par, however, is still his master, but Ty has retained his batting eye and never "misses" the ball. During more than a score of years as a star in the major leagues Cobb declined to turn to the royal and ancient pastime because he believed that it interfered with his batting stance. Since his retirement, however, he has played regularly here.

SOUTH AFRICA TEAM SCORES AT CRICKET

LONDON, May 21 (Canadian Press).—The touring South African cricket team defeated the County of Glamorgan eleven at Cardiff today by 170 runs. Fine bowling feats in the County's second innings were credited to MacMillan and Vincent, the former taking five wickets for 6 runs and the latter four wickets for 53 runs. The scores were: South Africa, 212 and 186; Glamorgan, 118 and 115.

Worcestershire won from Essex at Leyton by 42 runs. The scores: Worcester, 284 and 197; Essex, 200 and 239.

Derbyshire got the full points for its victory over Warwickshire at Birmingham. Derby had a run surplus of 147, the totals being: Derby, 216 and 201 for eight wickets, declared; Warwickshire, 146 and 216.

Middlesex defeated Sussex by seven wickets at Lord's with scores of 468 and 101 for three wickets, against Sussex's 316 and 220.

Surrey went down to a 5th defeat at the hands of Nottinghamshire at Nottingham by eight wickets. The scores were: Notts, 411 and 86 for two wickets; Surrey, 241 and 255.

Somerset proved too much for Hampshire and won by 197. Somerset scored 213 and 312 for nine wickets, declared, while Hampshire got 118 and 210.

GEORGIA TECH GETS MILES.

Princeton Star to Succeed Miller as Back Field Coach.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 21.—Oliver E. (Mike) Miles, Princeton's star fullback for the past three years, will replace Don Miller, one of the Notre Dame "four horsemen," as back-field coach at Georgia Tech next Fall, Miles announced here today.

Miles, who said he would report on Sept. 1, plans to study law at Georgia Tech along with his coaching duties.

Besides playing football at Princeton he was captain of the basketball team during the past two seasons and played on the lacrosse team. Recently he was voted by the seniors as the best all-around athlete in the graduating class.

Mrs. Tomlinson Bowls 289.

At the final competition of the season for the Criterion Ladies' Bowling Club at Heins's Hudson Alleys yesterday Mrs. E. A. Tomlinson bowled 289, the highest score of the season here for a woman bowler. She made ten strikes in a row, but left the ten pin standing in her eleventh effort.

NEW MAST STEPPED ON YACHT VANITIE

Gerald B. Lambert's Sloop Being Rigged and May Be Under Canvas This Week.

Gerald B. Lambert's yacht Vanitie, which was put in the water at Nevins's City Island yards late on Monday, is being rigged and yesterday the new 157-foot mast was stepped.

The big sloop probably will be under canvas late this week, though there will not be any opportunity for racing her until much later in the season, when she will be in competition with Resolute and the new boats of the M Class, among them Rear Commodore Junius S. Morgan Jr.'s Windward, Commodore Floyd L. Carlisle's Avatar, Carol E. Alker's Simba, Vice Commodore Winthrop W. Aldrich's Valiant, Harold S. Vanderbilt's Prestige, George M. Pynchon's Istalena and Clinton H. Crane's Ibis.

All these boats probably will be entered in the race for the Stamford Yacht Club Cup, which will be sailed over a twenty-two-mile course off Shippan Point in August, and most of them will take part in the New York Yacht Club races.

Work on the new mast for Resolute, Vanitie's old rival, is going on apace at the Herreshoff yards at Bristol, the first one having been torn out during a gale a few weeks ago.

Vanitie and Resolute are back to their original rigs as sloops, the same rig under which Resolute beat Vanitie for the honor of defending the America's Cup in 1920 and later beat Shamrock IV in the races for the cup. Both yachts were rigged as schooners last year.

Added interest in Vanitie this season has been aroused by the announcement that Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, who sailed Resolute to victory in the America's Cup races, may be at the wheel of the Lambert sloop, racing against the yacht he formerly piloted.

TO SHIFT OUTBOARD RACES.

Lake Ronkonkoma Club to Hold Regattas in Port Jefferson Harbor.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKE RONKONKOMA, L. I., May 21.—Next Sunday afternoon's outboard motor boat races under the auspices of the Lake Ronkonkoma Boat Club will be the last here until Labor Day. With the approach of the bathing season the club will hold its races in Port Jefferson Harbor every Saturday afternoon, beginning June 1, until September.

The land-locked waters of Port Jefferson Harbor are expected to prove an ideal racing location.

STEINKE WINS ON MAT.

German Throws Washburn in 20:56 at Ridgewood S. C.

Hans Steinke of Germany threw Jack Washburn of California in 20 minutes and 56 seconds of a scheduled finish match, which featured the wrestling card at the Ridgewood Sporting Club, Brooklyn, last night. A crowd of about 4,500 witnessed the contest. Steinke won with a headlock.

In the semi-final Cassel Schuster tossed Pat McKay in 5:56 of a scheduled forty-five minute match with a flying mayvisset. Nicki Kwartiroff and Joe (Toots) Mondt wrestled to a thirty-minute draw. Renato Gardini threw Oscar Nydgreen in 10:07 of a scheduled thirty-minute bout and Wanda Zelesnick threw George Zaharis with a head scissors in 9:49 in the opening bout.

EFFECT OF THE DECISION.

A day's consideration of the Supreme Court's ruling in the railway valuation case has served to show that hastily predicted and sensational results of it will hardly follow. The only basis for the inference of a "twenty-billion-dollar railway victory" was assumption that the entire valuation process must now be based on present cost of reproduction. But the transportation act itself directs that property account shall receive "only that consideration which under the law it is entitled to." In Monday's decision the court declares that existing property values are to be included only "along with all other pertinent facts," and expressly refuses to pass upon "the weight to be accorded thereto."

The leading precedent cited by the court recognizes that "there are other matters to be regarded in estimating the value of the property," and that the final rate adjustment should be based on the principle that "no more be exacted" from the public "for the use of a public highway than the services rendered are worth." The opinion of the scope of the decision, stated by independent experts, is still more positive. One of them points out that the idea of a sudden and sweeping advance of rates in case of a higher property valuation overlooks the statutory requirement that the rates must be "just and reasonable" to the public; equally evident is the fact that competition between the railways must of itself favor rates that will move traffic in the largest volume possible. This does not mean that the Supreme Court's ruling will not result in valuations higher than might otherwise have been made, or that its effect on "recapture" of surplus earnings may not be considerable. Higher appraisals would increase the amount, limited by law to 6 per cent of property valuation, which a prosperous railway is allowed to dispose of for itself. But even that increase would depend on the extent to which recognition of reconstruction costs would still be offset by the "other pertinent facts."

The Supreme Court's decision is not based on judgment that rates are too low or the "recapture limit" unfair; it expresses no opinion on either question. The court merely rules that, in rejecting present property values as one factor in the calculation, the Interstate Commission departed both from the railway law and from judicial precedent. This conclusion is emphasized with severity. "Many objections" were urged by the commission "to the doctrine approved by us, and the superiority of another view is stoutly asserted."

But the commission's duty was to execute the law as interpreted by the court; not "to act as an arbiter in economics." In other words, the determination of railway values for general purposes of rate-making was a function quite distinct from that of granting or refusing altered rates requested on certain commodities or on specified classes of traffic. The real significance of the court's decision lies in its reassertion of a precedent of the utmost importance to all industries under public regulation.

It will be observed that even the two dissenting opinions do not dispute the general principle thus asserted. Justice BRANDEIS holds that a higher reproduction cost "does not necessarily tend to prove a present higher value." Justice STONE does not find it proved that the commission actually failed "to give appropriate weight to evidence of present reproduction cost." But the first of these contentions does not traverse any essential part of the majority decision, and the second is a matter of opinion. The court has not required higher valuations, but merely full observance of the lawful method of ascertaining them; its judgment that the commission had not adequately observed the law in that regard is based on formal statements by the Commissioners themselves.

AN ADMIRABLE COMMISSION.

Nothing but praise is heard of President HOOVER'S appointment of members of the National Law Enforcement Commission. For the moment, however, this general acceptability seems to rest largely upon the agreement of Wets and Drys that the commission may be depended upon to be impartial in the matter of prohibition. The keen public interest in this tends to exaggerate its importance in the comprehensive inquiry to be undertaken. Mr. HOOVER'S own thought and purpose have grown. In his address of acceptance he said that "organized searching investigation of fact and causes can alone determine the wise method of correcting" the grave abuses" of prohibition enforcement. After election he had time to ponder the subject thoroughly. In his inaugural address and subsequently in more detail he took a wider view.

Delays and denials of justice, its frequent inefficiency or impotence on the criminal side, its dawdling, cumbersome procedure on the civil side, have been complained of for years, and by lawyers and judges as much as by the public. The Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law can be regarded only as accomplices after the fact. The whole field of the causes of maladministration or imperfect administration of justice must be examined and remedies suggested. In Mr. HOOVER'S words, the commission is to "cover the entire question of law enforcement and organization of justice." While inspection and reorganization of the machinery of Federal justice must be the special object of this Federal investigation, broad implications and incidental light valuable for improvement in the execution of State law should be had. Differences of jurisdiction cannot make law enforcement, Federal or State, other than essentially one.

It should be remembered that in Mr. HOOVER'S plan the enforcement of the Volstead act, or, as he cautiously puts it, the Eighteenth Amendment, is subsidiary, not commanding. The methods and abuses of prohibition enforcement are grouped with those "in respect to narcotics, immigration, trade restraint and every other branch of Federal law enforcement." Let us get it out of our heads that prohibition enforcement is to be the main business of the commission's labors. The bar, the courts, bar associations, law schools, women and the colleges are represented on the commission. The members serve without pay. Doubtless some mechanism will be set up to save them from what would otherwise be intolerable drudgery and take more than all their time.

Much voluntary expert assistance they can be sure of. The commission may be compared to a court. Out of an enormous huddle of detail it has to formulate essential and controlling principles and conclusions. We needn't worry as to what Congress will do about them in the progress of time and the Senate. Whatever happens to "respect for law," there is complete respect for the commission.

LORD ROSEBERY.

Lord ROSEBERY had so long outlived his own fame that it is hard for a later generation to realize the part which he played, and was expected to play, in English public life thirty-five years ago. A child of fortune, it was thought by many that he would prove himself to be also a child of destiny. This was not to be. Despite his exceptional talents and his experience in office, he lacked certain qualities which seem to be essential to the highest political success. There was in him no fanatic strain. His convictions were too much sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought. His nature was such that he could not fling himself entire and with a surge of passion into the perilous contests of politics. He became Prime Minister, when GLADSTONE retired, though the common belief was that Sir WILLIAM HARCOURT was entitled to the post. JOHN MORLEY explained how ROSEBERY came to be preferred. It was a fatal favor. The Liberal Party was dispirited and in a decline when he became its titular leader, and soon gave way to eleven years of Tory dominance. Probably even a stronger leader than Lord ROSEBERY could not have prevented this lurch of popular opinion. He certainly was not fitted to make head against it.

As a speaker, Lord ROSEBERY had at one time a great reputation. He was compared with DISRAELI. This was perhaps because he prepared himself with meticulous care. He was usually very nervous in his public addresses, having something of the temperament of a prima donna. Everything about the occasion and the audience had to be to his mind, or he would be ill at ease. His friends were perfectly aware of this, and resorted to various devices to relieve his sensitiveness at the beginning of a speech. At one great meeting he was not getting on well, until the chairman handed him a note passed up from the rear of the audience which read, "Lord ROSEBERY can be heard distinctly in every part of the hall." After that all went swimmingly. Yet Lord ROSEBERY came to have a cynical view of public speaking. In his Life of PEEL he wrote:

> Speeches, as a rule, even the best, are as evanescent as fireworks or thistledown; they are explored for untimely quotation during the speaker's life, and when that useful purpose ceases at his death they cease to be opened at all.

Lord ROSEBERY was a wide reader and wrote entertainingly on many subjects. Perhaps he put into his Life of PITT more of his epigrammatic sayings about public men and public life than can be found elsewhere in his writings. Turning casually the pages of that volume one comes upon sayings such as these:

> WARREN HASTINGS was ambushed by the undying rancor of FRANCIS and the sleepless humanity of BURKE.
>
> ADDINGTON carried into politics the indefinable air of the village apothecary inspecting the tongue of the State.
>
> After a short tenure of high office, the holder almost invariably thinks himself admirably fitted for it.
>
> An ex-Premier is usually found by any Cabinet in which he may serve as an ordinary member to be a fleeting and dangerous luxury.
>
> PITT became the leader of the nobility; but they supported him on their necks, for his foot was there.

Such examples of Roseberyana may serve as a hint of the glancing quality of his intellect, which long gave his personality a peculiar appeal. But they are now echoes from a distant past. Any time within the last twenty years Lord ROSEBERY might have had the grim humor to say with CHESTERFIELD that he had really been dead for some time, but that nobody had found it out.

IMPARITY OF PARITY.

Senator CAPPER'S attack on the tariff bill must have been meant as a notice to the Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee, which met yesterday to decide upon what changes and "concessions" to the farmers must be made. The farmers want all they can get. Many of their organizations object to fifty or more items in the bill. They insist that a mostly immaterial protection is given to the farmer. His industry was to be put on an economic equality with others. How is that equality to be attained by putting steeper rates on or taking off the free list a lot of things he has to buy? Mr. CAPPER mentions some of the building materials that have been removed from the free list. It is said that from 50 to 60 per cent of cement is used by the farmers or in building roads. So the farmer will be "stuck" both as a buyer and a taxpayer.

The cement people curiously say that the duty will be without effect save on the Atlantic, and possibly the California, seaboard. Then there is the duty on lumber, of which the farmers are said to use 50 per cent, and cedar shingles, their favorite roof-covering. How does that help agriculture in my section? asks Mr. CAPPER in effect. Here he forgets the lumber and the famous distressed shingle industry of the State of Washington. If section won't stand by section, and State by State, how can an "equitable" tariff be made? Some compromise must be patched up, some "divvy" arranged. The Senate Finance Committee will attend to that if the House fails.

Mr. CAPPER humorously says that doubling the rate on paint brush handles "will not materially assist in making farming pay." But the Kansas farmer should be ashamed to paint with other than an American paint brush handle. If he will consult the schedule on chemicals and paints, he will see that paint is going to cost more. Such is the symmetrical loveliness of tariff-making. He wants hides taken off the free list. Apparently, that is to be done. In compensation, boots and shoes will come off the free list. Every farmer will have to pay for this donation to the live stock men. Mr. CAPPER is ironical about the protection given against reindeer meat. He hasn't a word to say about the increase on glass and earthen ware, on the farmer's fences, his trace chains, his horse and mule shoes, the needles that his wife and daughters sew with.

The complaint about sugar expresses a general feeling; but from a protectionist standpoint there is no more ground for objecting to the intended higher price of sugar than to that of caps and hats. We can't follow Mr. CAPPER in his excursions among insufficiently protected casein, blackstrap molasses and flaxseed; but his mention of tapioca recalls the philosophic doubts of Representative RAMSEYER of Iowa and the Ways and Means Committee. He would like to see a duty on tapioca. The difficulty of the committee was to decide how far tapioca competes with corn starch and other starches. Of imported tapioca:

> As a food, 20.4 per cent goes into food products. Part of this goes into tapioca pudding, and I will leave it to you whether tapioca pudding is competitive with other puddings. Tapioca is a food, and as a food it is competitive with domestic foods. In the sizing of textiles, corn, potato and wheat starches, as well as tapioca starch, are used. * * * In the field of adhesives I think you could segregate the tapioca into competitive and non-competitive.

So there is hope for tapioca, and perhaps for sago and all the other deserted children of the unamended House bill. There is hope for all the unprotected. There can't be many of them. When Mr. GARNER asked Mr. BACHARACH to name a single reduction made by the Ways and Means Committee, the New Jersey statesman, after long rumination, triumphantly answered: "Razor blades!" Mr. COLLIER of Mississippi adds this commentary:

> I asked one of my good friends on the Republican side this question: "What was the idea of sinning out razor blades and giving them this reduction?" And he said: "Well, the only reason I can assign is that this bill has shaved the American people so close that they want to give them something with which to shave themselves."

ITS LAST APPEAL.

The Near East Relief, which has written a golden chapter in American philanthropy, will close its last appeal on the 30th of June. It hopes to have on that day sufficient funds to make possible the care of the last child of the more than one hundred thousand for whom it made itself responsible. It has saved, according to the estimate of the report which it has made to Congress, at least a million lives and has given food and medical aid to millions more in famine periods. But of late it has confined its efforts chiefly to the saving and educating of children without parents or relatives to care for them. Most of these have now been provided for in homes of their own people, the orphanages in which they have had their care and training still following them, however, with solicitous interest in the period of adjustment.

In the survey reported in yesterday's TIMES attention is called to three unfinished tasks: first, the future care of these remaining orphans; second, the settlement of the remnants of transplanted populations, and, third, provision for Armenians resident outside of Armenia in populations often antagonistic. For the first, the funds in prospect or in hope should provide; as to the second, the added loan which has recently been made to Greece should be adequate to complete the settlement of the refugees and transplanted Greeks in Macedonia, Thessaly and other parts of Greece—the remnant of the 1,400,000 driven out of Anatolia. For the third, funds should pass through Armenian channels to the aid of their countrymen, many of whom are still virtually without a country.

The Near East Relief Committee undertook a specific service. It has practically finished what it set out to do, though the task grew upon its hands. New emergencies will doubtless arise and may call for aid from without, but the task of American agencies in the Near East hereafter will be chiefly to help these peoples to do things for themselves. Fortunately, there are many well established American institutions there, notably the colleges in Constantinople, Beirut, Smyrna, Athens and Sofia, that will continue to make their contribution not only in training leaders in medicine and other sciences but also in sharing with the youth of those countries the ideals which Christendom has developed in its westward expansion. These colleges are seeking to complete by July 1 a fund of $15,000,000 for their further equipment and endowment, that they may extend permanently their incomparable service throughout the Near East. Besides these and several schools of American support, local agencies are being encouraged and developed to carry on for themselves. The Near East Relief can have the satisfaction of knowing that through it America has had a most merciful and redeeming part in the tragic life of the Near East during the last decade and more.

FLOODS IN NEW YORK STATE.

Though it has suffered no single disaster like the Mississippi or Vermont floods of past years, the country has had more than its due of flood and storm this Spring. The Mississippi is not yet curbed. Unusual rainfall has brought high water in many districts. It is but rarely a community benefits from it, as Chicago has indirectly this year. Regions which have so far escaped the consequences of natural disasters are always a bit uneasy lest it shall be their turn next. On this score New Yorkers may find interest in an article in this month's "Water Resources," in which EDWIN S. CULLINGS, chief engineer of the Black River Regulating District, discusses the probabilities of severe floods in the Adirondacks.

In Northern New York likely to experience a storm comparable to that which some months ago smote New England? A study of the climatic meteorological characteristics of the two localities shows no essential difference. Mr. CULLINGS concludes that there is no reason why Northern New York should not some day receive a similar visitation. Whether it would suffer as greatly from such a storm is another question. The damage done by the run-off of a flood like that which devastated Vermont depends largely on topographical conditions. In Vermont the rivers are smaller than the Adirondack streams and have steeper gradients. The watersheds, too, are larger in Northern New York, so that the floods would take longer to gather force. From all the evidence Mr. CULLINGS infers that the Adirondack rivers would not rise so rapidly or so high as those in the Green Mountain State, though they might do great property damage.

In Northern New York the most severe floods ordinarily occur in the Spring, due to a combination of melting snow and rain. At the end of Winter four or five feet of snow, containing water equivalent to ten or twelve inches, may often accumulate in the Adirondack woods. Early warm weather will quickly melt it and raise the rivers to flood stage. Mr. CULLINGS believes that control of these floods in the Adirondacks can best be obtained by river regulating reservoirs, such as the Stillwater on the Beaver River. "It should not be necessary to await the coming of a disaster before protective works are undertaken," he remarks. River regulation is a sound principle, but in practicing it the State must be ever on its guard lest it be used as a mask for the improper exploitation of water power.

LIGHT ON THE ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

Condensed accounts from London of the fourth volume of the official diplomatic correspondence of the British Government prior to the outbreak of the World War have references to the famous Anglo-Japanese Alliance which throw further light on the widespread belief in Japan at the time of the Russo-Japanese War that the United States was, in effect, a silent partner in the alliance. It originated in 1902, when the interests of Great Britain and Japan made it plain that cooperation between the two great sea empires could be mutually profitable. During the first part of 1905 negotiations for the revision and strengthening of this agreement were being carried on by the British and Japanese Governments. It was at this time that the Japanese got the idea that America supported the alliance. That this was based largely on the known friendliness of President ROOSEVELT is clear from the researches of Mr. TYLER DENNETT, historian of the State Department. In his volume "Roosevelt and the Russo-Japanese War" he gives the text of a previously secret memorandum of an interview between a personal agent of President ROOSEVELT and the Japanese Prime Minister, Count KATSURA. From this the Japanese drew the conclusion that even though the United States could not be a formal party to such an alliance, the American Government was, nevertheless, in close sympathy with it.

In the volume just published in London Lord LANSDOWNE recites in detail his explanation to the Japanese Ambassador in London in the Summer of 1905 that the United States could not become a party to the new alliance. At the same time he added that he thought that American influence would be exerted along the same lines as Britain's—"in parallel lines to us," he put it—but that he did not believe that the United States would do more. Yet the Japanese Government allowed the impression to get abroad in Japan that the new Anglo-Japanese alliance, which was announced while the Portsmouth peace conference was still in session, was, in fact, a Japanese-Anglo-American alliance.

In view of the later unpopularity of this agreement—its abrogation at the Washington conference in 1922 was hailed as one of its great achievements—it is curious to note the original misunderstanding about this treaty. To Japan its value was largely in prestige, and to Great Britain it was useful as a counter to the interplay of European politics at the time threatening British interests throughout the world. The growth of Germany and the pressure of Russia on India were making the British uneasy. The Anglo-Japanese alliance retrieved the balance. Incidentally, it concerned the United States hardly at all.

To a correspondent who urged at the time that the United States become a formal partner in the alliance, President ROOSEVELT replied by recounting some of his difficulties in getting the Senate to ratify treaties, remarking characteristically that he "might just as well strive for the moon as for such a policy as you indicate." The Senate has not changed its ways since, and the sentiment of the country toward the Anglo-Japanese alliance turned from friendly indifference to active hostility. The truth is, of course, that the United States never was or could have been in any way party to that alliance, no matter how friendly President ROOSEVELT was to the idea.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Useful Organization.

The Merchants' Association, now engaged in a membership and expansion campaign, should have no difficulty in finding the support necessary to make its work even more effective than it is today for the business interests of the community.

The association is constantly active. It has lately been giving its attention to the much-needed revision of the building code. It quite literally saved the day when the daylight saving repeal bill was under serious consideration at Albany. It is always ready to hold up the hands of the Port Authority and other public agencies striving to protect the Port of New York.

Its advocacy of measures like the multiple dwellings law counts. It is able to qualify as an expert on matters directly affecting the business interests of the city. It has joined in seeking a remedy for many of our civic ills, like traffic congestion, the smoke nuisance and park litter.

Many other civic organizations have come into being to protect the interests of this or that group or district. The Merchants' Association speaks for the business men of the community as a whole. It promises to keep a watchful eye on the budget and the appropriations made thereunder. With public expenditure rapidly increasing, that alone would be a worth-while piece of public service.

Laughing at One's Self.

The latest dreaded American invasion of England is that of our humor. IAN HAY, in a recent lecture before the International Congress of Military Medicine, deplored the influence of transatlantic jokes on the audiences in British music halls. He thought that they were tending slowly to corrupt the ancient sense of humor in Great Britain.

Attempting again to define distinctions which do not really exist, the lecturer asserted that American humor is highly artificial and calculated. It is not so spontaneous as the British. We in this country revel in wild exaggerations, and are all the time seeking to make fun at the expense of somebody else. British humor is of a drier, more repressed sort and consists, more often than not, in a kind of faculty of self-criticism which laughs at itself rather than at others.

No neat little formula of this kind can be made to fit the fun-making of one country without applying to that of the other, at least in some degree. Americans may have a tendency to think foreigners ridiculous and to make merry at them, but they certainly do not spare their own misfortunes and mischances. If it comes to that, indignant American humorists will stand up to the British and say that if there is any laughing to be done at us, we will do it ourselves.

Open House in Henry Street.

It is usual for schools and neighborhood houses occasionally to open their doors to the general public and invite inspection. The Henry Street Settlement has given a touch of glamour to its open-house days by calling them "Open Sesame Week."

For thirty-six years the settlement has shared in the social, educational and civic life of its neighborhood, and has piled up community treasures which are well worth a knock at the door and an "Open Sesame" to see. In a sense, these "hidden treasures," like the gleaming spoils of the forty famous thieves, have been stolen too—treasures of happiness, growth and education stolen from the colorless monotony of drab lives.

The present activities of the Henry Street Settlement are many and varied. The "Open Sesame" program began on May 17 with a play, "Israel in the Kitchen," and it will continue through Sunday, May 26, with special events for each day. The two most outstanding are the honor banquet to be given on May 27, and a demonstration of teaching and students' recital to be held at the Henry Street Settlement Music School today. At the honor banquet every year recognition is given to the boys and girls who have shown the greatest development during the twelvemonth. The boys who won the city championships in basketball and boxing and handball will receive awards this year, and two young men will receive the "Crest of Universal Brotherhood and Service."

At the music school a new workshop has been opened where students are taught to make and to repair musical instruments. A boy of 14 who has made his own violin will play upon it in the recital. There are displays of pottery and objects from the arts and crafts studios every afternoon and evening. Club projects are on exhibition, and camp displays will show the Summer program in the country.

Motor Speed and Spacing.

Motorists in Virginia this Summer may have a novel experience. Traffic police patrolling the new James River Bridge connecting Norfolk with Newport News are warning tourists that they must not drive cars too slowly over the bridge, which is five miles long. The minimum speed is thirty-five miles an hour.

It should be interesting to see how this regulation works out. Under theoretically ideal conditions the faster the better, but under practical conditions both safety and the proper handling of traffic dictate a reasonable speed limit. A car going twenty miles an hour should be able to come to a full stop in twenty-five feet, but that same car going forty miles an hour may have difficulty in stopping in less than a hundred feet. High speeds require disproportionately greater space between cars. Unless the traffic is comparatively light and the way ahead clear of any obstruction, a no-speed-limit plan may not work out as well as its sponsors anticipate.

One sees something of the same paradox in the New York theatre district at night. Cars rushing by at very high speed give the impression of greatly expedited traffic. So long as there is nothing ahead to stop them, that will be true. But under practical conditions a larger number of cars can make relatively more efficient use of a given stretch of highway at lower speeds. On Fifth Avenue, for example, it has been estimated that whereas less than 20,000 "car miles" could be handled in a single lane at forty miles an hour, 15,000 "car miles" could be disposed of even if the cars were going only twenty miles an hour.

A GRAVE RESPONSIBILITY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Next Thursday the Board of Estimate is to make an important decision. Let us hope it will be a really great decision, in the sense that it will be inspired by greatness of heart and mind—by statesmanship rather than by politics.

We hope the gentlemen of this board will rise to this emergency and show that they can overcome a wrong position taken by themselves in informal conclave in Committee of the Whole by reversing the decision then made.

A decision to sell a park and playground site in a congested neighborhood, which the same body has approved several times, just because a storm has arisen over the unjust assessment to pay for it, is a decision of which they could not be proud.

I should not like to be one of those who would have to look back on a vote to wipe out the only bit of country-in-city in the midst of poor people and children—the only spot where the tired little mother could wheel her baby for a short time between preparing meals and other household duties—the only place where the boys could romp and race and let off steam in wholesome sport rather than as they do now in this district, in malicious mischief—the only sight of grassy slopes and trees and flowers that business people hurrying to and from work may have to refresh themselves and relax strained nerves—the only spot where a convalescent just from the hospital, who cannot because of family ties and poverty get away in the country, may sit and walk about in God's air and sunshine to gather strength for the daily struggle—the only spot where the tenement children who have no back yards, nor even sizable school yards, may play hop-scotch, jump rope, teeter, swing, compete in games, play-act and informally develop leadership among themselves.

It would seem as if only the heart of a criminal could deliberately mislead residents of a section into opposition to such a site through suggesting the thought that the site is not a good one. True, it is not like the stereotyped playground, flat and square and ugly, without natural beauty; but it would seem as if everybody could easily see that just because the site is unusual it is therefore more attractive to the child. We know how the child likes unusual places and demands constant change. It seems as if some of the older folk had forgotten their own childhood and how even a rough hole a foot deep in a vacant lot was a temptation to every child who went there to test his powers on it in every way he could think of.

Some one asked me why when a street block was cleared of traffic for children they avoided this clear place and preferred to play on the next street in the traffic. What is interesting to a child in a square of asphalt? Of course it is nice for a ball game. But when a ball game is in progress only nine children play and the others must stay out or risk being hit. The other children seek adventure, which is their birthright, in the dangerous highway. Father Knickerbocker has provided many parks and playgrounds scattered over the city. He must not let this section be deprived of this one little park just because a very few men of influence seem to lack vision and oppose it. When a site has been approved by so many boards and officials, and by powerful civic organizations, it must it's a good one.

There Really Ought to Be a Law.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would like to suggest that while the present Congress is in session some consideration be given to the intolerable rainy weather from which we are suffering at present.

Why not pass a bill restricting the rainfall to a certain number of days in the year and then place this bill alongside the Volstead act restricting the sale of alcoholic beverages?

I venture the opinion that there is just as much common sense in one as in the other.

JAMES A. DOWD.

ANCIENT MIRACLE.

What does it matter if long ago
The freight of the Spring and Summer seemed
A cargo as rare as the star-mist glow
(Sprinkled with laughter and calico
And magic the school days only know)—
What does it matter if dreams were dreamed
And lost somehow in the far away
On the dusty trails of the Yesterday?

What matter indeed, when the Aprils spread
The lilac's tree in their same sweet style,
When the Junes walk freshly garlanded
(Eager and young as the first cool red
That comes to the rose's curly head)—
When the seasons come with an emerald smile
Year after year and will not grow old
In their tunics of lavender-green and gold!

When earth is a child's toy-scattered room,
And still as lovely as children are,
New as the trillium's smallest bloom—
And piled with dreams to the highest star!

HONDURAN MINISTER INVITES AMERICANS

Says Republic Wants Foreign Capital and Labor in Developing Resources.

ASSERTS PEACE IS ASSURED

Dr. Argueta, Now in City on Way to Washington, Tells of Barracks Being Turned Into Schools.

An invitation to American capital and skilled American labor to come to a "new" Honduras and take a profitable part in the development of this Central American republic's resources was extended by Dr. Ernesto Argueta, the country's new Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States, in an interview yesterday at the Hotel Breslin, where he is stopping before taking up his duties at Washington a week from today.

Dr. Argueta was appointed Minister to this country in February, immediately after the new President of Honduras, Dr. Vicente Mejia Colindres, took office as the head of a coalition government. This government is supported by Liberals and Conservatives alike, according to Dr. Argueta, who voiced confidence that "peace has been consolidated in Honduras and the cycle of revolutions is over." He said the government, undertaking the development of the natural resources of the country, will give guarantees of safety for all foreign as well as national enterprises.

"And we prefer American rather than other foreign capital and workers, because we are all members of the American continental family and because we, in Honduras, are in favor of the true Pan-Americanism," he asserted.

Two main points of his government's developmental program he described as the development of transportation and of popular education. Highways, he said, are being built to connect the different provinces and cities. The government, Dr. Argueta said, is turning the barracks and armories made available by the reductions in the army into schoolhouses.

Discussing the many natural resources of the country, still largely undeveloped, he said that in addition to sugar and bananas and tropical fruits it was rich in cattle, mahogany, cedar and pine and other fine lumber, and gold and silver mines, and with untouched iron fields which are the largest in America.

He told of plans for a permanent Honduran Exposition to show the resources of the country, which is to open here in October under the auspices of Mariano B. Anduray, the Consul General, who is at 17 Battery Place.

HEADS MEXICAN CHAMBER.

F. P. de Hoyos Succeeds C. B. Williams—Tour Next Year Planned.

Francisco P. de Hoyos, general agent of the National Railways of Mexico in New York, was elected president of the Mexican Chamber of Commerce of the United States at a meeting of the directors at 245 Broadway yesterday. He succeeds Charles B. Williams of the Underwood Typewriter Company, who is now in South America.

José Miguel Bajerano, one founder of the chamber, resigned as secretary and treasurer because of his recent appointment as commercial agent of the Mexican Government here. His resignation was accepted and he was elected a life member of the chamber and vice president for the ensuing year.

Hector E. Martinez, elected treasurer and secretary, was also made a director, together with James S. Carson of the Electric Bond and Share Company, Daniel L. Lister, general passenger agent of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad Company, and Alfonso Manero of the National City Company. It was decided at the meeting to organize a tour of American bankers, manufacturers and business men through Mexico by railroad next February, when the next President of the republic will be inaugurated.

James W. Gerard, a director, sent a cablegram to Ambassador Morrow inviting him to attend the annual luncheon or dinner of the chamber next month at any date convenient to him.

RULES ON DU PONT ESTATE.

Delaware Judge Holds Annuitants Owe No Inheritance or Estate Tax.

WILMINGTON, Del., May 21 (AP).—In an action started in Superior Court by J. Gilpin Highfield, register of wills of New Castle County, involving the estate of Mrs. Annie Rogers du Pont, an opinion has been handed down to the effect that no inheritance tax or estate tax is due from the annuitants, beneficiaries and executors.

Seven were named in the action as follows: Delaware Trust Company, executor of the estate and guardian of Theodore R. Rogers 3d, a great-nephew of Mrs. du Pont; George Zinn, a son; Marion du Pont Somerville, a daughter; William du Pont Jr., a son; George Zinn Jr., a grandson, and Arthur C. Hemsley and William H. Dawes.

Mrs. du Pont devised the Rogers trust to her executor in trust for her three sons. The du Pont trust she devised to her executor in trust to set aside the following annuities: Rogers Zinn Jr. and Anne E. Gray, $5,000 each; Dawes, $4,000, and Hemsley, $3,000, the remainder of the income going to William du Pont Jr., Marion du Pont Somerville and George Zinn. Anne E. Gray announced her annuity.

BRISTOL FOR NAVY BOARD.

Admiral Gets New Assignment, Effective in Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Admiral Mark L. Bristol, commander of the Asiatic Fleet, was today ordered to Washington for duty on the Navy General Board upon the completion of his present service in the Far East in September. Previous orders assigning him to the command of the Twelfth Naval District at San Francisco were revoked.

The change was understood to have been decided upon when Admiral Henry A. Wiley, commander of the United States Fleet, had his assignment to the General Board canceled. It is reported that Admiral Wiley will be retired at his own request soon after giving up command of the fleet. He is to be succeeded in that command soon by Admiral William V. Pratt, the present commander of the battle fleet.

STIRES TELLS NEED FOR THIRD BISHOP

MISSIONS FUND STRESSED

Prelate Says Diocese Must Care for Many Newcomers — Burgess Memorial Dedicated.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., May 21.—Long Island soon will require the services of three Protestant Episcopal Bishops, because of the rapid increase of its population, already numbering 4,000,000, the Right Rev. Ernest M. Stires, Bishop of the Diocese of Long Island, announced this afternoon in his address at the sixty-third annual convention of the diocese. The convention this morning began a two-day session in the Cathedral of the Incarnation with the clergy and one or more lay delegates from each parish in attendance.

The Bishop's statement was interpreted to mean that he will ask for a second Suffragan Bishop on Nov. 14 at a special convention held in the cathedral. The diocese elected the Rev. John I. Blair Larned as the first Suffragan Bishop, and he was consecrated on Feb. 11.

Praises Pension Fund Work.

Before Bishop Stires read his message Monell Sayre of New York City, in charge of the pension fund of the Protestant Episcopal Church, made a brief address in which he said the diocese of Long Island was "a 100 per cent diocese in its payment of pensions." He also praised J. Pierpont Morgan, treasurer of the church pension fund, who as senior warden of the church of St. John of Lattingtown, near Locust Valley, usually sits as a delegate in the convention. This year Mr. Morgan is in Paris serving on the Reparations Board.

Mr. Sayre announced that Mr. Morgan was one of a group of laymen who would make possible the saving of considerable money by every Episcopal church in the country, through the publication by the Church Hymnal Corporation of the revised book of common prayer for 25 cents a copy when otherwise it would cost twice that much. It is expected that 2,000,000 copies will be sold.

He also told how a group of which Mr. Morgan is one have established the Church Properties Fire Insurance Corporation for Protestant Episcopal churches and have put up the capital.

Bishop Stires in his message intimated that the laymen in his diocese were also organizing to help finance a great onward movement within its bounds. He made no reference to himself, but referred to the duty of obtaining an endowment, the income of which would provide stipends for any other bishop. The salary of the Bishop of the diocese is set at $15,000, but Dr. Stires accepts no salary. At the last two annual conventions he has announced that a friend of the diocese was providing the salary. It is generally accepted that the "friend" is himself.

Bishop Tells of Two Needs.

"You will remember that a year ago I called attention to two urgent needs, an adequate episcopal fund and substantial provision for establishing new missions in important new centres of population and for assuring proper salaries to the clergy in charge of missions," said Dr. Stires. "It is unnecessary for me to repeat startling statistics, but the presence of 4,000,000 people on Long Island, a number greatly increasing every year, constitutes a challenge to those who believe in Christianity, in patriotism and in morality.

"The time is not far off when adequate Episcopal leadership for the winning of these millions will require the best efforts of three Bishops. I am unwilling that the maintenance of any of these shall fall upon the parishes and missions of the diocese which for many years will need their resources for local development and for helping the general missionary program of the church.

"I am confident that the laity of the diocese, when they clearly understand the need, will not hesitate to make substantial offerings for the support of the episcopate.

"Nor will they wish us to permit unique opportunities for establishing important new missions to be lost because of our apparent inability to act promptly.

"The time has come for the preparation of an adequate program of missionary advance and for obtaining the resources which will make it successful.

"We should have, in my judgment, a small advisory committee of the ablest and most devoted laymen who will give us their best counsel as to wise methods of procedure. It is likely that a larger representative committee of clergy and laity should be appointed to assure the utmost cooperation throughout the diocese.

"It is my hope that the work can be done quietly, that there shall be no drive, no campaign. If all we need cannot be obtained in a single year then we will continue to work with quietness and dignity until the necessary results are achieved."

Burgess Memorial Dedicated.

In connection with a service which included a celebration of the Holy Communion, Bishop Stires this morning dedicated a new pulpit given as a memorial to the late Bishop Frederick Burgess, his predecessor as head of the diocese. Carved on the pulpit are five figures—St. Paul, St. Chrysostom, John Wycliffe, Bishop Seabury and Bishop Burgess.

At the communion service Bishop Stires read the names of the six priests of the diocese, together with the wives of clergymen and vestrymen who died during the year.

At the close of the afternoon session Bishop and Mrs. Stires gave a reception to the delegates and women of their families at the Episcopal residence, which adjoins the cathedral. They were assisted in receiving by Bishop Larned.

Joseph T. Sauer.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 21.—Joseph T. Sauer, husband of the late Margaret Heimmel Sauer, who died May 13, died at his home, 54 DeHart Place, last night after an illness of six weeks. He was 74 years old.

Mr. Sauer was the son of the late Enos and Barbara Sauer and was born in Roselle. He was formerly employed by the Ballantine brewery at Newark, but retired ten years ago. Surviving Mr. Sauer are two daughters, Mrs. Robert Schibler and Miss Ruth Sauer; two sons, Louis J. and Robert E. Sauer; a sister, Mrs. Anthony Geiger, and two brothers, Henry and William Sauer, all of Elizabeth.

MAJOR E. P. LAWTON, INDIAN FIGHTER, DIES

End Comes Unexpectedly to Retired U. S. Army Officer Near Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 21.—Major Edward P. Lawton, U. S. A., retired, former American Indian fighter, died this morning in the American hospital at Neuilly after a prolonged illness. His son had been in Paris up to a week ago, but as the Major seemed to be improving he sailed on a trip to Africa.

Major Lawton was born 66 years ago in Savannah, Ga., which city was his home at his death. He had been in Europe since February, visiting spas in Germany for their mineral waters and for treatment for a stomach ailment before coming here a month ago. The body probably will be sent to Savannah.

Special to The New York Times.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 21.—News of Major Lawton's death came as a great surprise to his family. There had been no intimation that his illness was of a serious nature. Major Lawton was born here on Feb. 2, 1863, the only son of the late Dr. William S. and Mrs. Elizabeth Jones Lawton. He was educated at private schools and at West Point, graduating from the United States Military Academy in 1885. He entered the military service as second lieutenant in the Thirteenth Infantry.

ADOLPH HOLLANDER, INSURANCE MAN, DIES

Ruined by 1907 Panic in His Real Estate Business, He Became Equitable Society Agent.

Adolph Hollander, general agent of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, died in his fifty-fourth year on Monday at his residence, 365 West End Avenue. Funeral services are to be held at 10 A. M. today at the West End Funeral Chapel, 200 West Ninety-first Street.

Mr. Hollander was born in Austria on Nov. 6, 1875. He was educated in elementary schools abroad and at night school when he came here. He started to work at 9. He was engaged in the real estate business until 1907, when he was wiped out financially in the panic.

He began over again, as soliciting agent for the Equitable Life Assurance Society, of which he was appointed general agent in 1913. In 1920 he retired from active field work, having been the largest personal producer of the society, and organized one of the leading Equitable agencies, which had been under his supervision until his death. He was former president of the Gramercy Finance Corporation, from which office he retired in 1925.

He is survived by his widow, a son, Irving, and a daughter, Lucille Blum.

MME. CHEVALIER IS DEAD.

Aged Mother of French Comedian Gave Him First Encouragement.

Maurice Chevalier, leading French comedian, now in this country to appear in motion pictures for Paramount, received a cable from Paris yesterday informing him of the death of his aged mother, Mme. Chevalier, on Sunday. M. Chevalier said last night at his hotel here.

M. Chevalier, who is leaving for Hollywood the end of this week to start work on his new picture, said that he had recently received permission from Paramount to return to France for a visit this Summer when he had finished his picture, and return here again in the Fall. He added that he had done so as he knew his mother's condition had been steadily growing weaker and hoped to be with her before the end.

Last night he seemed heartbroken over the fact that she had died while he was here, recalling that he had lived with her practically all his life and it was she who had given him his first real encouragement.

CHARLES A. BERRY DEAD.

Retired Fire Insurance Broker Dies in Brooklyn at 70 Years.

Charles A. Berry, retired fire insurance broker, of 224 St. John's Place, Brooklyn, died in his seventy-first year yesterday of a cerebral hemmorhage. He had been in poor health ever since his retirement from business several years ago.

Mr. Berry was born in New York City, moving later to Brooklyn, where he lived for about forty years. He had spent practically his entire life within Greater New York. He was associated with the Pennsylvania and the North British and Mercantile companies in fire insurance, having been with the latter until his retirement.

His wife was the former Emma H. Johnston, who died in 1912. He left a son, William J. Berry, who is professor of mathematics and head of that department at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, and a daughter, Charlotte L.

Funeral services will be held at his late residence at 8 P. M., tomorrow.

EDWIN D. WORCESTER DIES SUDDENLY, 73

Had Practiced Law in This City for Nearly Half a Century.

WON HIGH HONORS AT YALE

Took Two Chief Prizes for Speaking —Son of Associate of Commodore Vanderbilt.

Edwin Dean Worcester, head of the law firm of Worcester, Williams & Saxe of 30 Broad Street, died suddenly in his seventy-fourth year early yesterday at his residence, 20 East Ninety-third Street. His father, who bore the same name, played a conspicuous part with Commodore Vanderbilt in the consolidation of the New York Central system.

Although Mr. Worcester's health had been poor for several years, he had remained active in his legal career to the last. His death came both suddenly and peacefully. Funeral services are to be held at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street, at 10 A. M. tomorrow.

Mr. Worcester was born in Albany on Feb. 25, 1856, and was educated at the Albany Academy and at Yale, graduating from the university in 1876. During his college career he won the two highest prizes for public speaking—the de Forest medal and the Junior Exhibition Prize, now called the Ten Eyck. He was also salutatorian at his commencement. Others in his class were the late Otis T. Bannister, this city, the late Robert J. Cook of Philadelphia, discoverer of the stroke with which many Yale crews won races; President Emeritus Arthur T. Hadley and Henry de Forest of this city. In constant touch with his alma mater throughout his life, he was secretary of his class, alumni fund agent of his class and one of the foundation members of the Yale Club of New York.

After two years in the Yale Law School, Mr. Worcester began the practice of law in Albany, where he was managing clerk for Samuel Hand. He came to New York in 1883, forming a partnership with Thorndike Saunders and George Creighton Webb, which continued for twenty-three years, when the firm of Worcester, Williams & Lehman, now Worcester, Williams & Saxe, succeeded it.

JAMES A. MOORE DIES.

He Was Credited With Creating Billions in Realty Values.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—The spectacular career of James A. Moore, the "man who washed down the hills of Seattle" and who was credited with creating a billion dollars in property values in Seattle, the Northwest and Florida, was ended by death here this morning. Mr. Moore, who had been suffering from a breakdown ascribed to overwork, died suddenly in his suite at the Palace Hotel.

As a realty operator, shipping financier and mine developer he had built up a fortune estimated at $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, only to lose it in a venture into iron and steel in the Northwest.

After realty operations in Florida in which he founded the city of Moore Haven and partially recouped his fortunes, he came to San Francisco and devoted his energies to the development of mining properties.

MRS. MARY HOMER BROWN.

Author, Artist's Wife, a Founder of Harvard Women's Club, Dies.

Special to The New York Times.

SHARON, Mass., May 21.—Mrs. Mary Homer Brown, clubwoman, author and wife of the well-known artist, J. Randolph Brown, died at her country home on Norwood Street today following a long sickness. She was one of the founders of the Harvard Women's Club and one of the foremost members of the Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Brown was born in Michigan in 1857, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hosmer, descendants of the Concord Hosmer, whom Thoreau immortalized as "Farer Hosmer." She was one of the few living persons who attended the famous "conversations" of Ralph Waldo Emerson held in the famous old manse at Concord.

G.A.R. HONORS CONFEDERATE

Special to The New York Times.

DERBY, Conn., May 21.—Members of the John H. Collins Post, American Legion, accompanied the body of William Atwater Church, Confederate veteran, who died at his home here on Saturday, to Waterbury this afternoon, and fired a salute at his burial in the military cemetery. Military rites were observed at the services held at the house. Members of the Grand Army Post of Waterbury had charge of the services at the grave.

Mr. Church was well known throughout the State. He was active as a traveling salesman, despite his 86 years, until his final illness.

Francis J. Nekarta.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSELLE PARK, N. J., May 21.—Francis J. Nekarta Sr. of 143 Grant Avenue, East Roselle Park, died at the General Hospital last night after a brief illness. He was an attorney, but retired from active practice fifteen years ago.

Mr. Nekarta was born in Czechoslovakia and came to this country forty years ago. He was a member of the National Union Assurance Society and the National Slavonic Society. Surviving Mr. Nekarta are two sons and four daughters.

Daniel Coyle Herr.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 21.—Daniel Coyle Herr, a member of the Dauphin County bar, died here today of pneumonia in his seventy-fourth year. The son of a former State Senator from this city, Mr. Herr was a graduate of Lafayette College in the class of 1877. He was a member of the Union League of Philadelphia.

Thomas J. Ketcham.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT JERVIS, May 21.—Funeral services were held here today for Thomas J. Ketcham, Civil War veteran and for forty-two years a locomotive engineer on the Erie Railroad. He died on Monday night. Mr. Ketcham was born in Howells, N. Y., eighty-four years ago.

MARY SHAW MOURNED BY STAGE AT FUNERAL

Services in Little Church Attended by Many Delegations and Gamut Club Members in a Body.

Producers, managers and actors who knew her during her distinguished half century on the American stage attended the funeral services for Mary Shaw at the Church of the Transfiguration, 1 East Twenty-ninth Street, yesterday morning. Miss Shaw died at the Hotel Wellington on Saturday. The Rev. Dr. Randolph Ray, rector of the church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. W. Harold Weigler, conducted the services.

The honorary pallbearers were Daniel Frohman, Samuel A. Scribner and Robert Campbell, representing the Actors' Fund of America; Arthur Hopkins, David Belasco and George Tyler, representing the theatrical managers; Professors John Dewey and Algernon Tassin of Columbia University; R. H. Burnside, Percy Moore and Alfred Kappeler from the Lambs Club; James O'Neill and Edward H. Robbins, representing the Actors' Equity Association, and Frank Ferguson, a cousin.

Members of the Gamut Club, which Miss Shaw incorporated and of which she was president, attended in a body, each member carrying a bouquet of white sweet peas. The coffin was covered with a blanket of pink sweet peas, yellow tulips and blue lupins, a tribute from this club.

Others present included Mrs. Ben Hendricks, president of the Woman's Professional League; a delegation from the Woman's Peace Society, of which Miss Shaw was first vice president and led a parade protesting the entrance of this country into the war; William Ingersoll, Lee Kohlmar, Maude Strasburger, Anna Schultz, Kate Wilson, Mrs. Cora Wells Trow, Francis Brooke, Lillian Sire, Miss Amelia Summerville, Elsa Stampel and the Baronness Katherine Evans von Klenner.

LOUIS H. PIPER DIES; AIR-RAIL FINANCIER

Minneapolis Investment Banker Was Chairman of the Board of Universal Aviation Corporation.

Louis H. Piper, Minneapolis investment banker and chairman of the board of the Universal Aviation Corporation and vice president of The Aviation Corporation, died in Cleveland on Monday in his forty-third year, it was learned here yesterday.

His death was due to complications of pneumonia, contracted three weeks ago.

He had been president of the Universal Aviation Corporation until The Aviation Corporation acquired control of the company. He then became chairman of the board, relinquishing the presidency to Dan W. Jones of St. Louis.

Mr. Piper was one of the chief figures in establishing a faster air-rail schedule on the New York Central Lines between New York and other Eastern cities and important cities of the Central West last year. Traveling time to St. Louis was reduced by five hours, and to Minneapolis and St. Paul by three. He also inaugurated dining service on the Universal planes and was a passenger in January on the first trip of the air liner equipped with that service.

Funeral services are to be held today in Minneapolis.

MRS. ROY C. SMITH.

Wife of Captain at Naval War College Dies Suddenly.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 21.—Mrs. Margaret S. Smith, wife of Captain Roy C. Smith, U. S. N., member of the staff of the Naval War College, died suddenly of heart disease at her home on Ayrault Street this afternoon.

Funeral services will be held in Christ Church, Cooperstown, N. Y., on Friday morning.

Mrs. Smith, who was a daughter of Rear Admiral William T. Sampson, U. S. N., Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic Fleet during the Spanish-American War, had been about in the morning in apparently good health.

Besides her husband Mrs. Smith is survived by two sons, Lieut. Commander Roy C. Smith Jr. of the Naval Torpedo Station and Sampson Smith of Short Hills, N. J., and by a daughter, Mrs. Spotswood Bowers of New York.

HONOR LILLI LEHMANN.

Friends and Admirers Attend the Funeral Services in Berlin.

BERLIN, May 21 (AP).—The funeral of Lilli Lehmann, famous opera singer, was held in the chapel of the Wilmersdorf Crematorium in Berlin today.

The simple ceremony was attended by a group of friends and admirers, among whom were her girlhood friend, Marie Seeburg, and J. Philips as well as President Wallenr of the German Actors' Association, who cut short his vacation in order to speak a few words in recognition of the late singer's establishment of a foundation to help needy actors. Many organizations were represented.

Marie Lehmann, sister of the singer, was unable to attend because of illness, but her niece was present.

WALTER CAIN DEAD.

COUNTESS EDLA, 93, NOTED SINGER, DIES

A PRIMA DONNA IN 1860

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LISBON, May 21.—Countess d'Edla, who was the American-born morganatic wife of the late Dom Fernando, King Consort of Portugal, died here this morning at the age of 93. As the former Elsie Hensler, the Countess was famous in the 1860s as prima donna.

The Countess was born in Boston in 1836. Her parents lived on Eliot Street, which is in the heart of the business district now, and in 1848 moved to Springfield, Mass. Four years later they returned to Boston because meanwhile their daughter's voice had attracted much attention.

Elsie Hensler, who later was the first American girl to wed a King, first studied in Springfield under Signor Guidi, who had heard the leading European opera singers and was thrilled with the girl's ability. After returning to Boston she was a pupil of Corelli while a member of the Park Street Church choir. At the same time she was a pupil at the Emerson School. As a result of her success in Boston musical circles, her father, a well-educated native of Germany, who had fled to America as a political refugee and had made his livelihood as a tailor, was persuaded to send her to Europe for further training.

After studying for two years in France and Italy, Miss Hensler made a successful début at La Scala in Milan. She then returned to New York, where she made her début in the Academy of Music, singing with Mme. La Grange. In January, 1855, she went to the famous old Boston Theatre, playing the title rôle in the opera "Linda di Chamounix." The young singer was hailed as a great artist in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, and with these triumphs she returned to Europe, going to the Royal Opera House in Lisbon.

Meets Ex-King on His Birthday.

By a coincidence, Miss Hensler opened her engagement in Portugal on Oct. 29, the birthday of Dom Fernando, former King Consort and former Regent, who was in the royal box. Dom Fernando was a German-born Prince, Ferdinand, Duke of Saxe-Coburg, son of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and Princess Antoinette de Kohary. In 1836, the year of Miss Hensler's birth, he married Maria II de Gloria, Queen of Portugal, and a year later received the title of King. When the Queen died in 1853, the King was named Regent for his son, Pedro, who at his majority two years later, ascended the throne.

Dom Fernando was freed after his son's accession of many of the conventional restraints of royalty, and fell in love with the beautiful young American singer at their first meeting at the opera.

Title of Countess Conferred.

At the time Dom Fernando, it is said, had an offer of the Spanish throne, but he resolved to put the offer aside to marry the singer. He caused the title of Countess to be conferred upon her, and the wedding followed, despite opposition from the Court of Portugal and the people as well.

They lived happily together for a quarter of a century until Fernando's death in 1885. From that time on the Countess lived in seclusion at her private palace in Lisbon. She who had been a brilliant figure in society never appeared in public.

PIERRE MARSHALL BROWN.

New York Lawyer Dies at His Home in Brightwaters, L. I.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIGHTWATERS, L. I., May 21.—Pierre Marshall Brown, senior partner in the maritime law firm of Macklin, Brown, Lenehan & Spear of 44 Beaver Street, Manhattan, died at his home here this morning after a brief illness. Funeral of Mrs. Lucy Jones Pearson

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy Jones Pearson, widow of Leonard Pearson, general superintendent of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad, who died Sunday, were held yesterday afternoon at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William F. Hunt, at 86 St. Mark's Place, New Brighton, Staten Island, where she had lived for the last fifteen years. The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist Church of New York, conducted the services. Arthur Foley sang "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "Abide With Me." The Baptist funeral service was read.

Following the service the body was taken to Rose Hill, Linden, N. J., for cremation.

Delos R. Keeney.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 21 (AP).—Delos R. Keeney, 73, famous with an older generation as proprietor for more than thirty years of the Massasoit Oyster House in the old Massasoit Hotel, died today. Occupying a location close to the Union railroad station, his place was a mecca for travelers, who spread its fame widely. The place was discontinued with the passing of the old hotel in 1911.

Dr. De Lancey Rochester.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 21 (AP).—Dr. De Lancey Rochester, one of the most prominent physicians in Western New York, died here today. He was 70 years old.

Dr. Rochester had contributed widely to medical journals and was considered an authority on diseases of the lungs and heart. He was founder and first president of the Buffalo Academy.

David G. McKelvey.

David G. McKelvey, Civil War veteran, who was employed in the Corporation Counsel's office for years, died yesterday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. B. Park of Mount Vernon. Mr. McKelvey was 84 years old and was born Oct. 18, 1844, on Staten Island. For many years he was a resident of New York City, where he was an active Republican. He removed to Mount Vernon with rMs. McKelvey about thirty years ago.

CITY WORKERS JEER DENIAL OF PAY RISE

Delaney Then Ends Hearing on Demands of Board's Technical Men.

UNION TO APPEAL TO MAYOR

Votes to Continue Fight Also Before Estimate Board, Which Voted Rate Sought.

A hearing granted by the Board of Transportation to the Union of Technical Men on a wage grievance affecting 700 employes in the design, field and survey divisions of the board came to an abrupt end yesterday when Chairman John H. Delaney of the Board of Transportation, who was presiding, brought down his gavel with a thud and declared the meeting closed because of hisses and catcalls that greeted his announcement that the board did not intend to grant the union's demand, which he characterized as in violation of the civil service laws.

"The hearing is adjourned—you may get out!" said Mr. Delaney after the men showed their disapproval of his remarks.

Union to Continue Fight.

At a meeting at its headquarters, 92 Lafayette Street, last night the union voted to continue its fight on behalf of the men and approved an appeal to Mayor Walker and the Board of Estimate for them. An open letter addressed to Mayor Walker by Walter Karp of the employes' committee said:

"Chairman Delaney, instead of restricting the hearing to the question involved, departed from it almost completely and no satisfaction resulted. We tell that further appeals to the commissioners of the Board of Transportation are of no avail and that our case should be taken up by the executives of the city, the Mayor and the Board of Estimate, who originally passed the $3,120 minimum legislation with respect to city engineers and who, we are reliably informed, were of the opinion that such legislation applied to all city departments including the Board of Transportation."

Seated with Mr. Delaney on the platform at the hearing were Commissioner Daniel L. Ryan and F. X. Sullivan. Other Board of Transportation officials attending the hearings were Robert Ridgway, chief engineer, and Colonel J. R. Slattery, deputy chief engineer. Some of the 500 of the technical employes tried to crowd into the assembly room on the twelfth floor of the board's offices at 49 Lafayette Street.

Asserting that George E. Carnahan, 24 years old, who acted as chief spokesman for the men, was talking "like a labor agitator," Mr. Delaney declared that the men were not entitled to the minimum salary schedule of $3,120 which they were demanding and that before they could be moved up to a higher grade they would have to show greater qualifications, properly attested to before the Civil Service Commission.

Men Charge Discrimination.

Mr. Carnahan said that four and a half months have passed since the city department heads, bureau presidents and boards have put into effect the $3,120 schedule for all draftsmen, architects, surveyors, junior engineers and plan examiners, in accordance with recommendations made by the Board of Estimate and Board of Aldermen, and that the Board of Transportation alone had refused to adopt this schedule.

"The engineers feel that a great injustice has been done to them," said the letter to Mr. Delaney. "This act on the part of the commissioners is in effect a demotion of all the men in the old Grade C group. Employes of the Board of Transportation have passed the same civil service examination as the men in other city departments. They have been appointed from the same competitive civil service lists. There is therefore, no just reason why we should be singled out and discriminated against."

The men in the Board of Transportation have been called upon to work overtime without any additional pay, union spokesmen contended. The entire field force is working one additional hour every day without any compensation on time allowance, they contended, saying that the subway construction engineers were a highly specialized group and it will not be possible to obtain competent engineers to replace them.

"The action of the Board of Transportation undermines the Civil Service rules and deprives these men of the Civil Service protection," the union charged.

After Eugene Ijtjen, a junior engineer, and Samuel R. Jaffe, a structural engineer, had followed Carnahan in an effort to emphasize his remarks, Chairman Delaney informed the men that they were wrong in their interpretation of the Civil Service laws and of their position in the department.

Delaney Criticises Spokesman.

"You talk like a labor agitator," said Mr. Delaney addressing Carnahan, whom previously he had praised as a valuable employe whose salary had been doubled in two years.

"The civil service law governs this board," Mr. Delaney continued, saying that under the law the men were not entitled to the $3,120 schedule. "This board does not make the civil service law. Unless you go to school, where you ought to be now, you are not going to get this increase. You have been deluded to pay lawyers and to hire halls for mass meetings. Don't do it anymore. The position of this board is unalterable. You are not going to jeopardize life and property."

Chairman Delaney had hardly the last sentence when hisses, catcalls and laughter resounded through the room. Some of the men sought to quiet the outburst, which was finally stilled by the fall of Mr. Delaney's gavel and his order that the men make their exit forthwith.

The minimum salary now received by the men is $2,700. About 120 of them have recently been raised to $3,120 on the basis of personal merit and service. Another 100 have received a maximum of $3,119. Some 700 remain whose salaries have not been increased.

Sailor Hurt May 11 Dies in Hospital

Franklin J. Hanger, 26 years old, a sailor of the U. S. S. Sharkey, died in Bellevue Hospital yesterday of a fractured skull and ruptured spleen, injuries received from an automobile accident on May 11 in front of 240 Riverside Drive. He was taken to the hospital in an alcoholic coma, his body badly bruised in addition to his skull wound. Brooklyn Navy Yard officials learned from hospital records that Hanger was supposed to have been knocked down by a taxicab and then run over by another automobile.

Hoboes Abandon Brake Rods And Now Tour East in Autos

Hoboes have abandoned the brake rods as a means of transportation in the East and are touring by automobile instead, J. D. Roosa, chief of police for the New York Central Railroad, said yesterday in the Hotel McAlpin at the semi-annual meeting of the Eastern sectional committee of the protective section of the American Railway Association. The convention seemed divided on the question as to whether hoboes and boxcar thieves are dealt with more effectively by uniformed or by plain-clothes men.

It was reported that freight train robberies have been decreasing steadily and that 98 per cent of all arrests made by the railroad police within the past few years have resulted in convictions. O. B. Abel of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad was elected chairman of the committee, succeeding C. W. Geenen of the Baltimore & Ohio.

MRS. CHRISTIAN GOES TO IDENTIFY BODY

Leaves for Omaha to Learn if Man Who Died There Was Indicted Broker.

ENDS FIVE-YEAR ISOLATION

Authorities in West Are Puzzled as Three Claim Body—Federal Detectives on aWy There.

Mrs. George R. Christian, whose husband was a former partner in the Wall Street brokerage firm of Day & Heaton, which failed for $2,400,000 after his disappearance in 1924, ended her isolation of five years yesterday when she left here for Omaha to determine whether the man who died Saturday in a hospital there was her husband.

Mrs. Christian was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Mary Prout. She had been located a few hours earlier by Lewis Christian of 74 Parker Avenue, Maplewood, N. J., a brother of the former broker. It was Lewis Christian's complaint to the postal authorities which led to his brother's indictment for misuse of the mails and his arrest last March 29 in San Antonio after nearly five years as a fugitive.

According to Associated Press dispatches from Omaha, authorities there were somewhat puzzled by what appeared to be conflicting claims for the body of the man believed to be Christian. One claimant was Christian's brother in Maplewood. Another was a man whose name was signed R. F. Smadt, and whose address was given as 786 Washington Avenue. This man, who said he was a cousin of Christian, was believed to be acting for Mrs. Christian. The connection of a third claimant who wired from Philadelphia under the name of R. J. Wright was not explained.

Lewis Christian said he had found Mrs. Christian at an address in Washington Avenue, Brooklyn, where she was visiting friends. He would not disclose the name of the family with whom she was staying, nor would he tell the address. Mrs. Christian intends to bring the body to Brooklyn for burial if she is satisfied that the man who died at the Clarkson Hospital is her husband, Lewis Christian said.

Meanwhile, he declared, he is waiting for word from Erwin J. Smith, the private detective of 799 Broadway whom he sent to Omaha Monday to make positive identification and represent him. Smith is expected to arrive in Omaha today. Other detectives, sent by United States Attorney Philip Forman, prosecutor of the charge of misusing the mails on which Christian was free in $5,000 bail, also were on the way to Omaha.

District Attorney Banton replied yesterday to a statement of Sherman Day, attorney for the defunct firm of Day & Heaton and a brother of Henry V. Day, one of the partners, in which Mr. Day had expressed resentment at the "innuendoes" of the District Attorney regarding the possibility that the former partners knew more than they were willing to tell of the failure of their firm.

Mr. Banton said he was unaware of any "innuendoes" he had made until he read Mr. Day's statement, and declared that the only evidence ever turned over to him by the associates of Day & Heaton were photostatic copies of libelous letters and postcards Christian had written. These missives, the District Attorney said, were of no evidential value in connection with the bankruptcy.

DEMANDS INDUSTRY CONTROL FASHIONS

Miss Perkins Says Business Could Do It, but Reyburn Calls It Impossible.

An informal debate as to who make styles, between Miss Frances Perkins, State Industrial Commissioner, and Samuel W. Reyburn, president of Lord & Taylor, featured the opening session last night of a three-day session of the New York City Conference of Social Work.

In the discussion, which was held at the Academy of Medicine before an audience of 400 social workers, Miss Perkins, speaking on employment as a social problem, demanded that industrial management control fashion in order to provide steady and regular employment for workers.

"Management must control style and not be a slave to it," she said. "How often we are told that fashions are responsible for busy seasons and slack seasons. I am sure that a really scientific business applying itself to this problem could make us wear anything, particularly this year when they are even able to make us take dresses with the backs all out."

"We shopkeepers don't make styles, we don't set fashions," replied Mr. Reyburn. "We try only to give people what they want. We do know they will want a change and we try to find out what that change will be. Some few in Paris pretend to accept knowledge of what it is to be, but as a matter of fact they don't know. Some keep a reputation for prognostication for a few years, but they are never infallible."

Other speakers were Dudley D. Sicher, president of the conference, and Dr. John Finley. Sessions will be held this afternoon at Beth Israel Hospital and tonight at Mother Abyssinia Church.

SYNAGOGUE FIGHTS CALENDAR REFORM

NATHAN LEVY IS ELECTED

The seventeenth annual convention of the United Synagogue of America at the Astor closed yesterday with the unanimous election of Nathan Levy of this city as president. Mr. Levy was inducted into office by the Rev. Dr. Silas Solomon of New York City. The executive council will elect the other officers. A. B. Cohen of Scranton, Pa., presided.

After long discussion the convention adopted a resolution favoring efforts to be made to introduce Hebrew in the high school curriculum throughout the country and to obtain college credit for such courses. The convention went on record as opposing the proposed calendar reform, for the reason that it would dislocate the Jewish Sabbath.

One of the decisions of the convention was to organize National Synagogue membership on an individual basis. There have been individual members from communities affiliated with the United Synagogue, but no effort has been made until now to organize a membership on a national basis among the 250 affiliated synagogues, which represent a total membership of 450,000.

The three-day session of the Women's League of the United Synagogue of America, a national organization dedicated to the educational aspects of Jewry, also closed with the election of officers. More than 400 delegates were present at the meetings.

Officers were elected as follows:

Mrs. SAMUEL SPIEGEL, re-elected president.
Mrs. CHARLES I. HOFFMAN, Newark, honorary president.
Mrs. CYRUS ADLER, Philadelphia, vice president.
Mrs. SOL ROSENBLOOM, Pittsburgh, vice president.
Mrs. MORRIS LURIE, New York, vice president.
Mrs. JESSE BIENENFELD, Syracuse, vice president.
Mrs. I. HERZOG, New York, vice president.
Mrs. BENJAMIN DAVIS, Chicago, vice president.
Mrs. SARAH KUSSY, Newark, vice president.
Mrs. LOUIS GOTTSCHALL, Forest Hills, L. I., treasurer.
Mrs. DAVID KASS, New York, recording secretary.

The Women's League went on record also as opposing any calendar reform which would disturb the fixity of the Sabbath.

$17,541,200 ASKED FOR 18 NEW SCHOOLS

Education Board Will Move Today to Get Funds to Push Work This Summer.

The Board of Education will ask the Board of Estimate to authorize the issuance of corporate stock in the sum of $17,541,200 for the construction and equipment during the Summer of eighteen new school buildings and nine additions, according to the calendar for the meeting of the Board of Education today.

If the money is made available the Board of Education will award contracts for the work and thus expedite the construction which otherwise would possibly await the approval by the Board of Estimate on each contract separately. The new buildings proposed to be started during the Summer adjournment of the Board of Estimate are:

BRONX.
P. S. 81, Pitman and Grace Avenues.
P. S. 102, Archer Street and Taylor Avenue.
P. S. 105, Holland and Cruser Avenues.

BROOKLYN.
P. S. 199, Coney Island Avenue and Avenue M.
P. S. 224, Wortman Avenue and Hemlock Street.
P. S. 230, Dahill and Albemarle Roads.
P. S. 232, Winthrop Street and East Fifty-second Street.
P. S. 238, East Eighth Street near Avenue P.
P. S. 241, Washington Avenue and President Street.

QUEENS.
Ridgewood High School, Ridgewood.
P. S. 106, Edgemere.
P. S. 185, Hollis.
P. S. 138, Rosedale.
P. S. 147, Cambria Heights.
P. S. 174, Flushing Hillcrest.
P. S. 156, Laurelton.

STATEN ISLAND.
P. S. 5, Huguenot.
P. S. 48, Concord.

The additions planned by the Board of Education are for the following schools:
Brooklyn, P. S. 170, 203 and 208.
The Bronx, P. S. 17, 71 and 86.

MELLON BLOCKS LUCAS.

Objects to Kentuckian as Internal Revenue Commissioner.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The patronage claims of Kentucky have reached a perplexing situation, due to objections raised by Secretary Mellon to the appointment of Robert H. Lucas, Collector of Internal Revenue, as Commissioner of Internal Revenue to succeed D. H. Blair, resigned.

Mr. Lucas, endorsed by the Republican delegation of his State, appeared at the White House today expecting to receive this appointment, but an Assistant Postmaster Generalship was offered to him. The Southern politicians began flooding the White House with requests that he be named Collector of Internal Revenue.

President Hoover desires to satisfy the Kentucky politicians, and also believes that Mr. Lucas is well fitted for the Internal Revenue post. He and Secretary Mellon conferred on the situation.

It is understood that Mr. Mellon has suggested three men, two of whom are Ellsworth C. Alvord of Wisconsin, assistant in the Legislative Bureau of the Treasury, and Benjamin H. Littleton of Tennessee of the Board of Tax Appeals. It is now understood that new candidates will be considered, although it is not yet certain that Mr. Lucas will not be appointed.

AIRPLANE SALES DISCUSSED

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP).—Representatives of airplane finance corporations, airplane manufacturers and insurance companies met here today with government officials to confer on methods of regulating and promoting the purchase of planes on sound credit basis.

William P. MacCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, presided.

L. K. Bell, secretary of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, said the production of from 6,000 to 10,000 planes this year would present immediate problems of marketing.

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

Mr. Lazybones Is Authority for Saying This:

that to an idle man life seems like living in an old graveyard. He intimates that he cannot change his mode of living because his vitality has gone out of him and the power of action has been lost or is dead. If you know such a man well enough to tell him that some of his schoolmates and fellow citizens have accomplished large things, by untiring use of their vitality, and that the mind and will are the forces that set the body in motion and keep it going, he turns away with a vacant stare. The devil certainly has playfellows.

BATTLE TO PREVENT MISSISSIPPI FLOODS

Engineers Fight Desperately to Slow Up Crumbling of Levee Near Hickman, Ky.

BOATS STAND BY TO HELP

Mounds Landing, Near Greenville, Miss., Continues to Resist River Pressure.

OTHER STREAMS SWOLLEN

25,000 Acres Flooded in Missouri—Hoover Acts to Permit Use of State Convicts if Necessary.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 21 (AP).—Swollen streams tonight had spread anxiety over low-lying sections of several States, but hundreds of men working at dangerous points in the levee system had succeeded in preventing any fresh breaks.

The most desperate fights were along the Mississippi River. Ten miles south of Hickman, Ky., the old Reelfoot levee was crumbling and engineers sought a way to let the water flow through it gradually and against a new dyke a quarter of a mile to the east. If this can be accomplished it is believed a crevasse can be averted in that stretch of the embankment, which protects a large acreage in Lake County, Tenn.

Precautions against a crevasse were taken, however, with the sending of the steamer Kankakee, equipped with life boats, for use in an emergency. Five boats were standing by near Hickman, Ky.

Levee Near Greenville Resists.

Mounds Landing levee, north of Greenville, Miss., continued to resist the pressure of the Mississippi. A loop box was under construction there to strengthen the weakening section. J. S. Allen, chief engineer of the Board of Mississippi Levee Commissioners, said conditions were improved, although the seriousness of the situation had not been removed.

Dispatches from Washington said President Hoover would issue orders permitting convicts to work on government projects in the flood areas if an emergency arose. An offer of Governor Theo G. Bilbo of Mississippi to send convicts to Mounds Landing could not be accepted because of regulations against the use of convict labor on Federal works. Army engineers do not believe the Mounds Landing dyke presents an emergency situation.

Quick work is reported to have removed danger of a break in the Farelly Lake levee, thirty miles southeast of Pine Bluff, Ark., where a "boil" occurred last night. In Little River County, Arkansas, 2,500 acres were under water and 300 families had been routed from their homes by the Red River overflow.

The break yesterday in the St. Francis River levee near Kennett, Mo., had spread flood waters over approximately 25,000 acres of land, about 80 per cent of which was in cultivation. Some 500 families were affected.

A secondary rise in the Ohio, Tennessee and upper Mississippi Rivers will result in the Mississippi going a few tenths of a foot higher than engineers south of Memphis had anticipated.

Jadwin Reassures Congressmen.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Senators Harrison and Stephens and Representative Whitington of Mississippi were in conference with Major Gen. Edgar Jadwin, Chief of Army Engineers, over the situation at Mounds Landing, Miss., this morning. They were assured that Major John C. Lee, Corps of Engineers, with the complete backing of the War Department, was taking every precaution to hold the river at that point.

A break at Mounds Landing would mean the flooding of great areas in the fertile Yazoo Valley. It was a break at this point that devastated the valley in 1927.

Only two Mississippi Valley floods after May 15 have been recorded, General Jadwin said.

Engineers Oppose Control Plan.

The adoption of a permanent plan of flood control for the Mississippi River would be a great mistake at this time, according to a report of the flood control committee of the American Engineering Council made public here yesterday. The committee met on Monday in Pittsburgh.

The engineers' report is a protest against the plans of General Edgar Jadwin, Chief of Engineers, U. S. A., who seeks to start construction on the Mississippi floodway. It will be presented at once to President Hoover, Arthur W. Berresford, president of the council, announced yesterday. Mr. Hoover was the first president of the Engineering Council.

"The situation," Mr. Berresford said, "is critical and urgent. There is absolutely no need for beginning construction on this floodway now."

The Army Engineers Corps has has planned to receive bids today with the objective of letting contracts by June 1, the statement of the council said. The committee urged a thorough study of conditions by a non-partisan board of engineers before any plan is adopted definitely.

Gardner S. Williams of Ann Arbor, Mich., is chairman of the committee, which also had held in a report submitted to the House Committee on Flood Control last January that the data then available were altogether insufficient to warrant the formation of a permanent flood protection plan for the Mississippi Valley.

In its report of yesterday the committee strongly reiterated this position, and renewed opposition to General Jadwin's plan, which, it declared, lacks the confidence of the engineering profession.

"This committee," the report said, "believes that the intent of Congress and the best interest of the nation were defeated by the constitution and action of the board created to adjust the engineering differences of the Jadwin and Mississippi River Commission plans, and also because the board was restricted by the terms of the flood control act of May 15, 1928, from considering any other than the two plans submitted, both of which plans were hastily prepared and based upon inadequate data."

The whole flood control situation, it was announced, will be considered at a meeting of the administrative board of the American Engineering Council on Friday morning at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington.

14 Rainy Days in May So Far; April's Record Likely to Fall

With only ten days to go, the present month promises to exceed April's record for rainy days. Last month there were only five clear days. There were ten partly cloudy days and fifteen days of rain. Yesterday's rainfall totaled .51 of an inch. The total thus far for May is 3.15 inches. The normal rainfall for May is 3.24 inches.

The thermometer was below 50 most of yesterday, but no records were broken. The highest May 21 temperature on record is 86.2 in 1900 and the lowest 41 in 1907. Yesterday's maximum was 52.3 at 12:20 P. M. and the minimum 46.3 at 4 A. M. But it was an unusually cold May 21, nevertheless, for the mean temperature yesterday was only 49, whereas the mean for that date over a period of years is 62. Fair and warmer is the forecast for today.

HOFFMAN TESTIFIES IN MURDER DEFENSE

Repeats Alibi and Denies He Ever Fired Pistol Which He Sent to Brother.

SURPRISE WITNESS HEARD

Woman Says Salesman Answering Slayer's Description Called at Her Home.

For the third time since his arrest in 1924, Harry L. Hoffman denied yesterday that he killed Mrs. Maude C. Bauer on Staten Island in 1924. Testifying in his own defense before Supreme Court Justice Humphrey and a jury in Brooklyn, he again staked his defense on an alibi which puts him in Manhattan at the time of the murder and on an explanation of his admittedly peculiar actions immediately after the murder.

These suspicious actions, Hoffman explained yesterday as in former trials, were caused by a sort of hysterical reaction to his friends' raillery about his resemblance to the description of the murderer as contained in the broadcast alarm.

District Attorney Fach, who is conducting the State's case, failed to obtain any damaging admissions from Hoffman, who spoke calmly and maintained an air of politeness even under the most trying moments of the intensive cross-examination.

Tonight Hoffman will probably know his fate, as Samuel Leibowitz, his counsel, closed the defense yesterday and summations will begin immediately after the prosecution finishes with its rebuttal witnesses this morning.

The last witness yesterday was a surprise witness whose testimony, unlike that of nearly every other witness in the present trial, had never been given in previous trials. Mrs. Agenlina Laurino of Linoleumville, Staten Island, testified that on the afternoon of the murder a man who fitted the description of the supposed murderer called at her house. He was known to her only as a salesman of curtains, she said, and he came to collect some money she owed him. She was unable to pay the money and he never returned for it, she said. The witness said Hoffman was not the man.

Under direct examination, Hoffman described his life from the time he attended school until he purchased the .25-calibre Colt revolver which the prosecution contends is the one that killed Mrs. Bauer. He said that he had a right to own the pistol, as he was a special deputy sheriff of Richmond County, but he denied ever having fired it, explaining that he is left-handed and the complicated safety catch on the pistol made it too unwieldly for effective use by a left-handed man.

"I never fired a shot out of that gun, Mr. Leibowitz. So help me, God! I never did," he said, leaning forward in his chair and addressing his words as much to the jury as to the lawyer.

MISS EMILY O. BUTLER LEFT $2,105,063 NET

Gave $1,748,218 to 47 Institutions and Bequests to 25 Friends and 78 Distant Relatives.

Gifts aggregating $1,748,218 to forty-seven charitable, religious and educational organizations were made by Miss Emily Ogden Butler, according to the appraisal of her estate, filed yesterday by Deputy Tax Commissioner Stephenson. The total value of her property was fixed at $2,278,019 and the net value at $2,105,063. The largest gifts were $500,000 in cash and half the residuary estate, $228,109, to New York University. The Union Theological Seminary received $150,000 in cash and $228,109 as half the residue in addition to gifts of $200,000 made to the seminary before Miss Butler's death.

The will gave $40,000 each to eleven other organizations, $5,000 each to twenty-eight, $7,500 to two, $2,000 to three and $1,000 to another. Further gifts were $50,000 to the Brick Presbyterian Church and $60,000 to the Society for the Relief of Orphans and Half-Orphans.

Miss Butler, who left only distant relatives, made the largest individual gifts to her friend and companion, Dr. Mathilda K. Wallin, who received personal effects worth $11,000, $500,000 in cash, a life interest in $26,000 and the use of her country home at Scarsdale and her town residence at 78 Park Avenue, with the cost of maintenance, which were estimated to be worth $13,970 to her.

The total gifts in the will of Miss Butler, who died at Scarsdale on July 25, 1927, aggregated 150. The friends who got bequests of between $500 and $26,000 numbered twenty-five, while the other beneficiaries, with the exception of the institutions, were seventy-eight relatives.

The assets of the estate included Westchester real estate worth $300,040. She had $143,013 in cash, personal effects valued at $22,576 and mortgages amounting to $786,803. Her securities totaled $1,166,267.

Miss Butler, who was noted for her philanthropies, was the eldest daughter of the late Charles Butler, a founder and president of the board of trustees of the Union Theological Seminary, and president of the Council of New York University. Her father was also a founder of the orphan asylum remembered in her will, of which she was a lay director.

ROOSEVELT URGES DIVERSIFIED CROPS

ADVISES EXPERIMENTATION

He Holds Loss Cannot Exceed That of Overconcentration and Gain Is Certain in Long Run.

Special to The New York Times.

MOULTRIE, Ga., May 21.—Development of the stock raising industry in the South and in Georgia particularly was urged by Governor Roosevelt of New York in an address made at his home in Warm Springs and transmitted by a telephone and amplifying system to the Pure Bred Beef Type Sire Show here. It is estimated that 5,000 people were present.

"Development of cattle raising in Georgia is essential to the future agricultural prosperity of the State," the Governor asserted, calling the one or two crop system in any State an "agricultural curse."

"Georgia is my other State," the Governor said, "and I am keenly interested in putting agriculture on a better basis in the State as well as in New York.

Hits "Too Much Concentration."

"Practically every agricultural section of the United States suffers from too much concentration in one or two agricultural products. The wheat belt of the West would be better off if it raised less wheat and more of other crops. The corn belt would have more prosperity if it concentrated less on corn.

"Here in Georgia we all know that cotton and corn have been our agricultural curse and that when some of us have gone into other crops, like peaches, we have again overproduced in that particular line. That is why the development of cattle raising in Georgia is essential to the future agricultural prosperity of the State.

"We are going broke on nitrates and other chemicals and yet year after year the soil becomes poorer.

"Nature has interposed no barrier to the successful raising of cattle in this State. More than that, the great and growing population of the whole southeastern section of the country gives economic reasons for raising deer and sheep to supply a growing local demand instead of depending on the far-away slaughter house of Kansas City.

Urges Better Animals.

"There has been a very proper reason for the low price which the farmers of Georgia have been able to get hitherto for cows and steers raised by them. We might as well be perfectly frank and acknowledge that the meat of these local animals was not worth a better price.

"It is uneconomical for any of us to raise scrub cattle, and even though we cannot afford to go into the creation of pure-blooded herds in a year or so we can and we must afford to be good citizens to improve the strain of our cattle. The practical and cheapest way is to buy a pure-blooded steer type sire.

"I myself at Warm Springs am starting the improvement of a small herd of cattle in exactly this way. Certainly I cannot lose any more money doing that than in trying to raise peaches. Nor can I lose any more money in doing that than in fighting the boll weevil. It does not call for a large amount of capital. It will, I am certain, bring dividends into our pockets in the long run. And finally it is an act of good citizenship which all of us who can should scarry out, if only as an experiment.

"I hope to see the day when Georgia will be dotted with pastures, when there will be not only a great cattle and sheep industry in this State, but where even the small individual landowner will be ashamed to own anything but good stock."

The Governor was introduced by W. C. Vereen, president of the Georgia Bankers' Association.

CLUB REPLIES TO BRENTANO

Scherman Suggests Official of Firm Has Changed Attitude.

In reply to the recent announcement by Brentano's that it had severed relations with book clubs and would submit no more manuscripts to the Book-of-the-Month Club, Literary Guild and similar organizations, Harry Scherman, vice-president of the Book-of-the-Month Club, Inc., issued a statement yesterday in which he said:

"Brentano's say that book clubs are 'menaces' to the booksellers. Yet about a year ago, before our judges chose the last book by Bernard Shaw, Lowell Brentano, head of the publishing branch of the firm, told us that Shaw originally did not want his book submitted to us, because Shaw felt that his distinction entitled him to special terms.

"Mr. Brentano, however, he himself told us, persuaded Shaw to allow him to sell the book to us, and not only that, but Brentano actually reduced the contemplated retail price of the book upon our insistence, making the first edition a $3 instead of a $4 book; then, after our edition, raising the retail price to $4.

"Now, if we are 'menaces,' if our activities are so injurious to booksellers and publishers, why was Brentano's so keen to sell the Shaw book to us, over Mr. Shaw's first reluctance, when that author learned that we could not, even for him, change our uniform buying system?"

ELECTION DISTRICTS CUT.

Board Eliminates 87 From List for Mayoralty Balloting in Fall.

The Municipal Board of Elections announced yesterday a reduction in the number of the city's election districts from 3,493 in the five boroughs last November to 3,406 at the coming Mayoralty election next Fall, a decrease of eighty-seven districts.

Under the new plan, the board decided at yesterday's meeting, there will be 919 districts in Manhattan, 637 in the Bronx, 1,119 in Brooklyn, 613 in Queens and 93 in Richmond. At last year's Presidential election there were 941 election districts in Manhattan, 609 in the Bronx, 1,229 in Brooklyn, 619 in Queens and 95 in Richmond.

There will be an average of only 650 voters in a district and not more than 725 in any one district.

Million Dollar Y.M.C.A. for Sailors to Be Built Site Bought Yesterday Near Future Big Piers

A twelve-story $1,000,000 building to be operated as a branch of the Y. M. C. A. and to be devoted entirely to welfare work among the seamen reaching this port, is about to be constructed in Eleventh Avenue at Twentieth Street. The site was purchased yesterday by the Y. M. C. A. through Joseph P. Day. The seller was the Consolidated Gas Company and the price paid was $375,000.

The entire northerly half of the long block front on the easterly side of Eleventh Avenue between Nineteenth and Twentieth Streets will be taken up by the new building. The site has a frontage of about 100 feet on Eleventh Avenue and 190 feet on Twentieth Street. The purchase represents a merger of the local interests of the American Seamen's Friend Society, the Seamen's Christian Association and the Merchants' Seamen's Branch of the New York City Y. M. C. A. The new building will be known as the Merchants' Marine Memorial Building. Although operated as a branch of the Y. M. C. A. it will provide for the seamen's welfare work now being carried on by all of the merging groups, each of which will be represented on the Board of Managers.

The sale coincides with the great harbor improvement about to be undertaken, involving the lengthening of the North River piers from Pier Sixty-three to Pier Sixty-nine, between Twenty-third and Twenty-ninth Streets, by the Department of Docks, and involving the acquirement of the six blocks of property between Twenty-third and Twenty-ninth Streets, Eleventh and Thirteenth Avenues, for piers which will be 1,100 and 1,400 feet in length.

The desirability of the spot for a combined Seamen's House will be greatly enhanced by the waterfront improvement project when adopted. A public park occupies the space between Twenty-second and Twenty-third Streets, Eleventh and Thirteenth Avenues, and there is no privately owned property between the park and the proposed Marine Memorial Building, the remainder of the waterefront being occupied by Chelsea piers.

Winchester Noyes, E. Prescott Bench and Cleveland H. Dodge are presidents of the three groups interested in the merger.

KINGS REPUBLICANS FAVOR CONVENTION

2,000 Vote for Unofficial City Gathering to Select Fall Candidates.

LIVINGSTON DIRECTS MOVE

LaGuardia Urges 5-Cent Fare Plank and a Demand for Lower Gas and Electric Rates.

On motion of Jacob A. Livingston, the county leader, the Kings County Republican Committee adopted yesterday a resolution calling for an unofficial city convention to recommend candidates for a city ticket and the preparation of a platform.

The meeting, which was held in Kismet Temple and attended by about 2,000 members, was addressed by Representative F. LaGuardia, aspirant for the Republican nomination for Mayor, who urged that the platform should contain planks declaring for the 5-cent fare and lower gas and electric rates. Mr. LaGuardia asserted that some of the Republican leaders had been on the wrong side of the transit question in the past and issued a warning against a repetition of what he called such a mistake. Mr. LaGuardia said he did not know much about the proposed city convention, and added that any action it might take could be only recommendatory, as the nominations would be made by the enrolled members of the party at the primary election in September.

Fusion Not Mentioned.

The resolution was similar to that adopted by the New York County Republican Committee last week, except that it omitted specific mention of fusion. It authorized the executive committee to issue a call for the election of delegates to the proposed convention, to fix the date and place of the convention and the manner of electing delegates and the representation to be accorded each Assembly district. It is expected that the Republican organizations of the three other counties will follow suit and that the five Republican county chairmen will meet to decide on the time and place for the convention within a week or ten days.

Mr. LaGuardia was received with enthusiastic applause but seemed to be somewhat pessimistic over the prospect of fusion.

"That is a generous attitude on the part of the Republican party," he said. "But, if you fuse, you must have somebody to fuse with. You can't fuse with nothing. I hope that there are some other bodies that will meet or will be formed to meet with the Reublican organization within the next few months. If that comes about, it will be fine."

Mr. LaGuardia declared that the transit legislation passed during Governor Miller's administration had lost the Republican candidates in New York City many thousands of votes. "We must say to every Republican who speaks for the transit interests, 'We don't want you,'" he added. "Then we will get the votes."

LaGuardia Attacks Tammany.

Mr. LaGuardia attacked Tammany and Police Commissioner Whalen's administration of the Police Department. He denounced graft and corruption in the City Administration and charged that there was political interference in the schools. "Every Associate Superintendent must get a Tammany O. K.," he said. "I challenge denial of that statement."

Alfred Hobley, leader of the Fourth Assembly District, declared that factional difficulties among Brooklyn Republicans were injuring the party. He charged that County Chairman Charles C. Lockwood and Mr. Livingston, who is chairman of the executive committee, recommended candidates for appointments without consulting the district leaders or the county committee, and said the time had come when the entire membership of the organization should be consulted.

THEOFEL WINS POINT IN FIGHT ON BUTLER

Queens Democratic County Leader Restrained From Calling Executive Committee.

PREVENTS SEATING OF 18

New Members, Named by Butler, Said to Be in Connolly Faction—Decision to Be Appealed.

John Theofel, chairman of the executive committee of the Queens County Democratic Committee, won a point in his fight with County Chairman James Butler yesterday when Supreme Court Justice Charles J. Druhan, in a decision handed down at Mineola, granted the injunction sought by Mr. Theofel restraining Mr. Butler from calling a meeting of the executive committee. Mr. Butler announced that he would appeal from the decision, so the question of control of the Queens Democratic organization remained unsettled to that extent.

The practical effect of the decision was to prevent the seating of the eighteen new mmbrs oef the executive committee appointed by Mr. Butler, who cannot become members until a meeting of the committee is held. Mr. Theofel and his supporters have entended that these new members are allied with the so-called Connolly faction, though this has been denied by attorneys for Mr. Butler, and that the purpose of their appointment was to unseat Mr. Theofel as executive committee chairman.

Justice Druhan held that when Mr. Butler appointed the members of the executive committee his power over that committee ceased, except as a member with a vote. He also decided that a member of the executive committee must be a member of the county committee, a ruling which, if not reversed, will compel the unseating of some of both the new and the old members of the committee.

In his defense against Mr. Theofel's plea for an injunction Mr. Butler charged that "it was the purpose of Theofel to prevent any meeting of the executive committee, so that he should have the exclusive naming and designation of all candidates for the coming primary election in September."

Justice Druhan indicated that, if there were pressing necessity for a meeting of the executive committee, the proper course would be to obtain a writ of mandamus, but also indicated that he saw no such necessity at this time.

Mr. Theofel said that he had hoped that Mr. Butler would abide by Justice Druhan's decision for the good of the party in preparation for the coming campaign. He added that he could take no further action of any kind until Mr. Butler had filed his appeal.

STYLES IS FREED IN BAIL.

Harry J. Styles, convicted last month and sentenced to serve from four to eight years in Sing Sing prison for perjury committed during the trial of Frank Berg and Albert Levin on a charge of attempting to bribe Borough President Harvey of Queens, was released yesterday from the Queens County jail, Long Island City, in bail of $10,000 by County Judge Frank F. Adel. He was freed pending the decision of the Appellate Division on his appeal.

He left the jail shortly before 5 o'clock and was met by friends with an automobile bedring a placard, three feet long, on which was printed in large letters "Hello, Harry." He refused to comment and was driven to his home in Jamaica.

The former real estate operator and Klansman looked haggard and worn from his month in jail. He appeared to have lost about twenty pounds.

FOCH'S VIEW OF WHY THE GERMAN ARMIES FAILED

"Moral force—that is what the German armies lacked in 1918. Without it they were like a body without a soul."

THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF of the Allied forces thus expressed himself after reading the memoirs of Hindenburg and Ludendorf. When asked what he thought of his principal adversary, he replied: "An excellent officer of the general staff, nothing less and nothing more. He lacks entirely the inner flame. OMAHA GIRL WINS FINAL SPELLING BEE Virginia Hogan Takes National Championship and $1,000 Prize at Capital.

ANOTHER GIRL IS SECOND

Viola Strbac of South Milwaukee Gets $500—Teru Hayashi of Ventnor, N. J., Is Third.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—It was a good day for the Irish, as Virginia Hogan, 12 years old (she will be 13 tomorrow), is in a position to avow.

In a three-hour contest this afternoon Virginia "spelled down" twenty survivors of spelling bees in their respective home towns and emerged champion of the annual national spelling bee and winner of the first prize of $1,000.

Virginia, was the representative of The Omaha World Herald in the contest arranged under auspices of The Louisville Courier-Journal and nineteen other newspapers. She lives in Omaha with her father and mother, who was Miss Mary Tracy. "Grandfather Hogan," Virginia explained, "came from Ireland, but father and mother were born here. Yes, mother is Irish, too."

List of Other Prize Winners.

The names of the other contestants in the order in which they rated, the names of the papers represented by them, and their prizes, are as follows:

VIOLA STRBAC, Milwaukee Journal, $500.
TERU HAYASHI, Atlantic City Press, $250.
MARGARET CARLSON, Memphis Press-Scimitar, $150.
ANNA KATHERINE GREEN, Louisville Courier-Journal, $100.
CHAPIN RAY, Worcester Telegram-Gazette, $75.
LOIS CHAMBERLAIN, Waterbury Republican and American, $50.
MARY ELAINE McCARTY, Detroit Evening News, $40.
ALBERT GOMO, Burlington Free Press, $30.
IRENE OLSON, Des Moines Register, $30.

The other contestants, each of whom received $25, were:

MARJEAN RUFF, Akron Beacon Journal.
MARY KRICHAVSKY, Hartford Times.
WILMELID YARNELL, Carlisle Sentinel.
WINFRIED CHURCH, South Bend News-Times.
MARY BENNETT, Grand Rapids Press.
MARY SMOLINSKY, Albany Evening News.
MARGARET SULLIVAN, Jersey Observer.
RUTH KIRKPATRICK, Buffalo Evening News.
TERESA CHIARAVALLOTI, New Britain Daily Herald.
MARY JOSEPHINE SOUSA, New Bedford Standard.
ROSE NELSON, Portland Evening Express.

Viola Strbac of South Milwaukee went down to defeat before the word luxuriance, and Teru Hayashi of Ventnor, N. J., dropped out after a gallant but futile attempt to spell panacea.

The next five contestants received prizes ranging from $150 to $40; the ninth and tenth were awarded $30 each, and the remaining eleven the sum of $25 each, the total amount of $2,500 in gold being divided between the twenty-one contenders for national honors. The contest took place in the auditorium of the new National Museum. It was a 1928 model of the regulation old-fashioned spelling bee.

Dean George B. Woods of American University, who presided at the bee last year, also had charge today, assisted by Dr. Francis A. Litz of Baltimore City College and Professor C. E. Hill of George Washington University, who took turns as pronouncers.

The judges were the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives; Major Gen. Henry T. Allen, U. S. A., and William C. Deming, president of the Civil Service Commission. Donald McWain of The Louisville Courier Journal was national director of the Bee.

Youngest Contestant Is 10.

The youngest and the smallest contestant was Winifred Church, 10 years old, of South Bend, Ind., who won the championship last year. This year, however, she was fourteenth on the list.

Teru Hayashi, whose father and mother came with him and watched with quiet pride while their son dealt successfully with words such as "gamut," "correlate," "imminent," "millenium," "diaphanous" and "agrandizement," was the oldest. He is 15.

TELLS OF STOCK DEAL IN $229,000 FRAUD SUIT

Fred B. MacLaren Says Shares Were Turned Over by an Investor in Radio Concern.

The defense of Fred B. and William C. MacLaren and the MacLaren Manufacturing Company, a radio concern, charged with mail fraud and forgery, began yesterday before Federal Judge Knox and a jury, with Fred B. MacLaren in the witness chair. The MacLarens are accused of having defrauded financial institutions out of $229,000 by pledging as collateral securities issued to others, of having raised the amount of shares represented by the certificates, and of using false indentifications.

Replying to questions by his counsel, Thomas I. Sheridan, the witness testified that one Sigmund Eckstein had called on him in answer to an advertisement for financial assistance, and had interested himself in the radio venture to the extent of turning over stocks which he used to obtain loans.

Owen S. M. Tierney, the Federal prosecutor, obtained admissions from the witnesses that Eckstein, previous to surrendering the securities, had not asked for a financial statement of the MacLaren enterprise, that he had no idea where Eckstein or his wife, Helen Eckstein, was, and that while he had met Eckstein in various hotels at night the talks between them were not confined to the safety of Eckstein's alleged investment in the radio business. The witness admitted that he had only a few hundred dollars in 1924 when the alleged Eckstein investment was made. The cross-examination of the witness will be continued today.

Man Falls Dead on Witness Stand.

BANGOR, Me., May 21 (AP).—Daniel Ryan, 57, of this city, dropped dead on the witness stand in the Superior Court today while testifying in an assault case in which he was the complainant. Mr. Ryan had answered a few preliminary questions from Albert G. Averill, county attorney, when he slumped to the floor and died before a physician arrived.

Will Rogers's Comment On Hoover's Law Commission

To the Editor of The New York Times:

DETROIT, May 21.—Hoover appoints ten lawyers and one woman to see if anybody is drinking and why.

If President Hoover thinks there is ten men drinking to every woman, then we will appoint a commission to look into his case. Well, it's up to the lone woman to do something. I can think of nothing that the people would have less confidence in than ten lawyers put together.

It does look like he could have appointed one fellow with just horse sense.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

DIAMOND'S ARREST PUZZLES BANTON

Says He Did Not Know Man Was Wanted in the Slaying of Marlow Last Fall.

BAIL DENIED THE PRISONER

Witness to Shooting Will Be in Court at Arraignment of Suspect.

District Attorney Banton appeared to be puzzled yesterday why the police the day before had arrested Jack (Legs) Diamond, one-time bodyguard of Arnold Rothstein, the slain gambler, and previously lieutenant to the slain Little Augie, lower east side gang leader, as a suspect in the murder of Tony Marlow last October, a few doors east of the Hotel Harding, in West Fifty-fourth Street, near Broadway.

Diamond, after being placed in the "line-up" at Police Headquarters yesterday morning, admitted that he had a room in the hotel on the night of the Marlow shooting, but scoffed at the possibility of his knowing anything about the shooting, telling Deputy Chief Inspector Mulrooney:

"Marlow was only a beer leader, and I wouldn't bother with a mug like him."

Held Without Bail.

Later in the day, when Diamond was arraigned before Magistrate Macrery in the Homicide Court and held without bail until tomorrow, the police revealed that, since 1914, Diamond had been arrested in connection with nearly every crime in the statute books, but in all but one instance discharged.

Charles Tolleris, a former magistrate, tried vainly to bring about Diamond's discharge. He declared that the form of "short affidavit" used in the Marlow case was an instrument which should be abolished, because in 75 per cent of the cases in which it was used the defendants were discharged.

The police the day before had surrounded the arrest of Diamond with mystery.

"Diamond came into my office last Monday and told me that he had been informed the police had been seeking him in the Marlow murder," Mr. Banton said. "I didn't know that the police had been seeking him in any murder, for I could have brought him into custody in twenty-four hours.

"All I had to do was to request United States Attorney Tuttle to call him to the Federal Building. I knew that Diamond was under $15,000 bail there on a Federal charge. But as long as he told me the police were seeking him, I called up Police Headquarters and had them send detectives here for him."

Not Wanted in Rothstein Case.

"Wasn't Diamond's name mentioned in the Rothstein shooting?" the District Attorney was asked.

Mr. Banton then revealed that Frank White, who was talking to Marlow when the latter was killed, was available as a witness and would be in the Homicide Court at Diamond's next arraignment. Mr. Neary added that White had talked to Marlow in the Harding a few minutes before the shooting and, in a later conversation with Marlow in the street, saw the gunmen come from behind a parked automobile and shoot Marlow.

DEER LEAPS IN AT WINDOW.

Fright From Visit Makes Aged Pennsylvania Woman Ill.

DUNCANNON, Pa., May 21 (AP).—A deer leaped through the kitchen window of the home of Mrs. Isaac Beam here today. Mrs. Beam, who is 75 years old, and lives alone, was so frightened that she had to receive medical attention.

The deer swam the Susquehanna River from the east shore, crossed railroad tracks and explored several streets until it landed in the back yard of Mrs. Beam's home. Then, becoming frightened, it leaped through her window into the kitchen amid a shower of flying glass. After doing considerable damage, the animal escaped from the house, leaving Mrs. Beam almost helpless from shock and fright.

Mrs. C. J. Mueller Sues for Divorce.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 21 (AP).—Mrs. Kathryn Creeden Mueller, of Westport, filed suit for divorce in Superior Court here today against Carl J. Mueller, cartoonist. She alleged cruelty, and asked for the custody of their son, Merrill, 13 years old, and alimony, saying her husband's annual income is $15,000. The couple were married on Dec. 23, 1914.

TROLLEY LINE FAILS IN 7-CENT FARE BID

Transit Board Holds Dry Dock Company's 5-Cent Rate Is Contractual in Nature.

BARS QUESTION OF RETURN

Finds There Is No Proof That Unprofitableness Can Be Laid to the Low Fare.

CALLS METHOD IMPROPER

Posting of New Schedules Criticized in Decision—Action Regarded as Test Case for Other Lines.

The Transit Commission rejected yesterday as illegal the seven-cent-fare tariff sheets filed on June 22, 1928, by the Drydock, East Broadway and Battery Railroad Company, one of the Third Avenue Railway Company's subsidiary surface car lines. The opinion, written by Chairman William G. Fullen, declared that the question of "reasonable return" raised by the company had no bearing because the five-cent fare was "contractual in nature" due to the form of franchise grant made by the Legislature in 1860 and subsequent years.

Counsel for the company said that the case would be taken into the courts, but declined to outline the exact procedure until after a thorough study of the commission's decision. The seven-cent-fare schedules ware filed soon after the Federal courts had granted a seven-cent-fare order to the I. R. T. The Drydock's example was followed by the Eighth and Ninth Avenues Railway Company and the Steinway Railways of Queens, whose cases are still pending before the commission. Like the Drydock, these two companies filed increased fare schedules under Section 29 of the Public Service Commission law, and contended that they became effective within thirty days. In all three cases the commission granted hearings after suspending the schedules, but reserved the legal question as to whether the proceedings were properly brought under Section 29. Chairman Fullen's decision rested on the theory that they were improperly brought.

Says Legislature Fixed Fare.

The Drydock's five-cent fare, he declared, was contractual in character because fixed by the Legislature when the company's original and amendatory charters were granted. The question of reasonable return upon investment, set forth by the company as the reason for its higher fare move, could not be material under the circumstances, the opinion held.

"A rate is not unjust and unreasonable merely because the carrier fails to make an adequate return," the opinion declared. "It is unjust and unreasonable only where it is a cause of the failure to make an adequate return. It is not enough to show simply that the business is not profitable. The burden is on the carrier to show also that this is due to the rate, and in my opinion the company has not sustained its burden."

Chairman Fullen's opinion, commenting on the company's decreased revenue and growing debt, questioned whether a higher fare would remedy conditions. The falling off in traffic, the opinion said, "is apparently due in large part to the slowing down of its operation as a result of the interference of increasing vehicular traffic in some of the narrower streets of lower Manhattan and to the existence and advent of competing lines with shorter running time and the same fare." The falling off in the number of passengers, the opinion said, "cannot be attributed to the five-cent fare."

Considered a Test Case.

The commission's decision was handed down before hearings were closed, this action being necessary because of the expiration of the ten months' time limit within which, under the law, a decision must be made to avoid putting the higher fare into effect by default. In transit circles the decision was regarded as important because the Drydock proceeding was considered a test case on behalf of surface car lines in general.

In his opinion Chairman Fullen attacked the validity of the contention that traction companies, by merely posting new schedules, could increase fare where the rate had already been lawfully fixed by legislative grant or contract. The Drydock, he said, should have proceeded under Section 49 of the Public Service Commission law and asked the commission to fix a reasonable rate.

The opinion referred frequently to the pending I. R. T. fare case, where the initial step toward an increased fare was taken in the same manner as in the Drydock case, and for that reason was regarded last night as indicating the general attitude to be assumed by the commission when the I. R. T. litigation reaches the State courts. In his decision Chairman Fullen refrained from deciding whether the commission had power to change the Drydock rate if application should be made under Section 49.

Strike Delays Statue Dedication.

Owing to a strike of bronze workers who were casting the statue of President Lincoln which is to be erected on South Broadway at McLean Avenue, Yonkers, Major Abraham Tompkins of Kitching Post, Grand Army of the Republic, announced yesterday that plans to dedicate the monument on Memorial Day had been abandoned. Frederic Conti, the sculptor, who lives in Yonkers, does not expect the monument to be ready by Memorial Day. The Grand Army will hold its Memorial Day parade as usual.

New York's Friendly Hotel

The St. George has steadily expanded from its original 30 rooms to the present 1200—not like Topsy who "jest growed"—but according to carefully laid plans which have maintained and emphasized the features which made it famous.

The charm, intimacy and friendliness of the little 30-room establishment never have been lost. They are as characteristic of the St. George today as in those earlier years when that small hostelry was winning an enviable reputation from coast to coast.

We frequently call the St. George a "Home-Hotel"—not as a mere advertising term, but because the word "hotel" as commonly understood just doesn't fit. The St. George bears little relationship to those austere and bewildering masses of masonry which are about as homelike as a tomb.

It seems useless, this trying to convey the St. George Idea in cold print. We'd rather have you drop over and see rooms that are rooms, eat food that will set new standards for any epicure and revel in an atmosphere that brings serenity to your soul and contentment to your nerves. Not the least of it is that we offer these things with practically no wear and tear on your check book.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

In the Wicked Old Village of Venice.

A NIGHT IN VENICE, a revue in two acts and twenty-five scenes. Music by Lee David and Maury Rubens, and lyrics by J. Meirn Brennan and M. Jaffe. Settings by Watson Barratt; staged by Busby Berkeley; book directed by Lew Morton and Thomas A. Hart; produced by Ike Shubert. At the Shubert Theatre.

PRINCIPALS—Ted Healy, Ann Seymour, Beth and Betty Dodge, Arthur and Morton Havel, Stanley Rogers, Betsy Ross, John Byam, Mishon Brothers, Fodl Brown, Sarah Granzow, Florence Powell, Enjie Radli, the Johnsons, Shadurskaya and Kuderoff, Winifred Young, Dudley Clements, Sherry Howard, Mos Heward, Larry Fine, Anita Case, the Bear and the Stevens Brothers and others.

Early in the second half of "A Night in Venice," which thumped into view at the Shubert last evening, Ted Healy, his band and his gang again stage that knockabout skit concerning the substitute act from Atlantic City. Healy, whom you will remember as the comedian with the shiny frontal bald spot, is leading his jazz band while three of the frowsiest numskulls ever assembled are trying to put over, with the familiar flourishes of the show business, a ballad about that dress that Nellie wore. It is, you will remember, innocuous enough until the most vocal and disreputable of the trio insists upon injecting, between bars, two thick-witted claps of the hand and two "Hey, hey's"—denoting rising enthusiasm. Then it is that the scuffle begins, shirt fronts are torn, feet stamped on, and the singer is savagely tackled around the neck. Although Mr. Healy and his numskulls have already exhibited this violent skit in a previous Shubert revue, it is still a masterpiece of slapstick comedy, and the best number in the new Summer carnival.

It has many competitors, since "A Night in Venice" spares no energy to entertain the trade. Among the more noticeable of its physical antics are one kick in the mouth, a smarting succession of slaps on the face, a yank of the nose, a bear-wrestling number, the dropping of one performer smack into the orchestra pit, not to enumerate the endless pushing and shoving involved in Healy's dominance of the book. In many instances the violence verges so much upon cruelty that it is more astonishing than entertaining, and often it is plain stupidity. But with Joe and Pete Michon, acrobatic sailors, the taking of falls becomes not blatant roughness, but superb skill in control of the muscles at high speed. In vaudeville their act is subtly labeled, "Why go to Niagara to see the Falls?"—a rhetorical question amply answered by their whirling and whacking gymnastics.

As these bits of evidence may indicate, "A Night in Venice" does not aspire to sublime heights. Once or twice, for that matter, it drops deeper into the muck with its jesting than any of its current competitors along Broadway. The book managers, with a good deal of shouting and screaming, to transport several American aviators to Venice—a journey that involves the customary "One Night of Love"—and leers along the Grand Canal, and, by way of Arctic exploration, it manages to set a group of unclad Venetian beauties with a polar bear on an ice floe. Collini's masterpiece of plate likewise turns out to be a circular design in the artistic fashion of music hall altogether.

You will see ostrich feathers, elaborate aviation figures worked out in dancing, the grand staircase style of finale terpischore, a dramatically coy ornithological billing and cooing by the Misses Beth and Betty Dodge and purple pajamas on the Lido. Meanwhile, you will hear the porcelain John Byam singing romantically the fraternity-dinner ditty entitled "The Stork Don't Come Around Any More," sung in masculine unison, and Vincent Youmans's "The One Girl," a relic of "Rainbow," rattled off by a corps of xylophone hammerers.

In a lavishly-spangled production, pitched and paced high, "A Night in Venice" clatters along frantically according to successful formula. For sensitive pleasure-seekers the humor will seem not so much broad as low. "A Night in Venice" does not minister to the sensitive minority.

MORLEY BUYS OLD RIALTO.

Hoboken Theatre Is Taken by Stock Company for $75,000.

The sale of the old Rialto Theatre at 118 Hudson Street, Hoboken, by the Lasthal Amusement Company to Christopher Morley and Cleon Throckmorton, acting for the Hoboken Theatrical Company, Inc., was announced last night. The price was $75,000. Title to the property was taken yesterday at the office of the New Jersey Title and Guarantee Company in Jersey City.

Since last Fall the Morley company has been staging a revival of "After Dark" at the Rialto. Now in its sixth month the play has broken all records for a stock company production.

The first record of the property on which the theatre stands shows that John Stevens of a well-known Hoboken family sold the lot for $345 in 1811. Before the Civil War a noted German beer garden, the Germania Garden, occupied the site. The beer garden later developed into a music hall and was known in the 80s as Cronheim's Germania Theatre. In 1902 the present structure was built. It was known as the Empire Theatre up to a few years ago.

'STRIPPED' ITS TITLE NOW.

Lionel Atwill to Act Star Role in Jane Murfin's New Play.

The title of Jane Murfin's new play, previously called "The Eternal Quest," has been changed to "Stripped." Lionel Atwill, who is directing the production, will appear in the star role of a tryout production in Atlantic City on June 3. The company will also include Jessie Boyce Landis, Charles Trowbridge, Frederick Truesdell, Anne Sutherland, Ferdinand Hast and Mario Majeroni. "Stripped" is scheduled to open on Broadway next season.

Four Mysterious Safes Found Dumped in Hackensack River

Special to The New York Times.

KEARNY, N. J., May 21.—Four steel safes, weighing altogether about three tons, were found today in the Hackensack River near the new Lackawanna Railroad Bridge in Kearny, about 200 feet from Hudson County Police Headquarters. The police are unable to explain it.

A boatman told the detectives that at 2:30 P. M. on May 11 he saw the safes thrown from a motor truck with New York license plates. There was a fifth safe in the van, but it was retained. The largest is about six feet high, weighs about two tons and is torn, as if its door had been forced. On the front of it is printed the name "Heggman." On a smaller safe was printed the address, "72 Maiden Lane." New York detectives found no report of a theft at this address and no one could offer an explanation. It conditions are favorable tomorrow the Hudson County police will try to raise the safes by using motor trucks and tackle.

"JULIUS CAESAR" IN LATIN.

Prof. Bacon's Translation to Be Given by Students in Rochester.

A performance in Latin of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" will be given tonight at Aquinas Institute, Rochester, by students of St. Bonaventure's College, St. Bonaventure, N. Y. The Latin version of Shakespeare's tragedy was first played by the students a week ago at the college, and it is possible that it may later be taken to Washington.

Professor Irving R. Bacon made the translation and directed the production. The performance is of about an hour's duration and makes use only of that part of the play which deals with the circumstances immediately preceding and following the assassination of Caesar.

Professor Bacon has dedicated his play to President and Mrs. Hoover "because they are distinguished Latin scholars and their exalted position makes it likely that their example will create a vogue in behalf of the too greatly neglected majestic language of ancient Rome."

JACK REDMOND AS SPONSOR

Golfer Announces He Will Produce a Play and a Revue Next Season.

Jack Redmond, a professional golfer, who has heretofore confined his theatrical activities to the production of vaudeville acts, announced yesterday that he would sponsor a play and a revue next season. The play, "With This Ring," described as dealing with "modern marriage problems," is a collaboration by Florence Ross and Pierre de Rohan, the former a novelist and the latter an ex-dramatic critic, who was for a time on The New York American. The title of the musical piece will be the "Nineteenth Hole Revue."

Mr. Redmond appeared in the 1926 edition of "Vanities," and was one of the entrants in the 1927 British open golf championship.

TOSCANINI INVADES BERLIN.

Heads La Scala Opera's Forces, 400 Strong, for Festival Season.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 21.—The ensemble of Milano La Scala Opera, four hundred strong, including stars, chorus, ballet and complete technical staff, arrived here today, headed by its director, Arturo Toscanini, to open Berlin's festival season. The repertoire will include "Aida, Rigoletto," "The Troubadour," "Falstaff," "Manon Lescaut" and "Lucia di Lammermoor." A special train was needed for the transportation of the stage settings and other equipment.

This is the first time an entire operatic company ever came to Germany.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Chinese O'Neill" will open tonight at the Forrest Theatre.

The engagement of "Strange Interlude," scheduled to end on Saturday night, has been extended for another week at the John Golden Theatre.

"Week End," a comedy by Austin Parker, will be the first production of Bela Blau, Inc., a newly organized producing firm. It will be presented early in the Fall.

Joseph Toner has succeeded Greek Evans in "Music in May" at the Casino Theatre.

Earle Larrimore of the Theatre Guild's Acting Company will sail for Europe tomorrow on the Stuttgart to spend the Summer in Germany. He will return in the Fall to tour with one of the Guild companies.

Irene Rich, motion picture actress, and Bill Robinson, the negro dancer, who has been appearing in "Blackbirds," will be next week's headliners at the Palace.

If he can assemble the proper cast, William A. Brady will try out C. Stafford Dickens's farce "The Morning After" in Atlantic City July 17. Mr. Dickens will stage the play.

Seymour Felix will return to New York from Hollywood in August to stage a Ziegfeld production, probably "East Is West." The legal difficulties between the producer and Mr. Felix over the latter's talking picture contract have been postponed until that time.

Next Tuesday evening's performance of "Holiday" will be a benefit for the Catholic School of America.

William J. Kelly will leave the cast of "Brothers" on June 1. He expects to go to Hollywood to appear in talking pictures.

The Irish Guild Players have withdrawn their production of "Family Failing" from the American Laboratory Theatre.

The Heckscher Players, a juvenile group, will resume matinees of "Pinafore" on Saturday at the Heckscher Theatre, Fifth Avenue and 104th Street.

Hart Nathan, who was interested with Jed F. Shaw in the production last Fall of "These Few Ashes," will sail for London Saturday on the Cedric.

"Lady Fingers" will close this Saturday night instead of June 1, as previously scheduled.

Edgar MacGregor has been engaged by Earl Carroll to direct the dialogue for the revue which Eddie Cantor is writing for Mr. Carroll.

BRITISH ACTOR ANGRY OVER AMERICAN HIT

Austin Rebukes Audience as Applause For Minevitch Holds Up Former's Act.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 22.—The growing popularity of American vaudeville acts, no program here now being considered complete without several, culminated tonight in a remarkable scene at the huge Palladium Theatre where Charles Austin, one of the foremost British comedians, made an impassioned speech from the stage. He followed an American act in which Borah Minevitch and his mouth organ band received tremendous applause. The Americans were called before the curtain three times, and the audience continued to applaud while Austin was endeavoring to commence his act. Finally striding to the front of the stage, he said to the audience of 3,000:

"I am British and have served you faithfully for thirty-three years. I don't know what is the cause of this bitterness, but, believe me, British artists have stood enough. The Americans have barred Jack Hylton and his band from going to America. The American turn before mine was admittedly a fine one, but they cannot do the whole performance. If you don't want to see a British turn, I will go home."

Complete silence followed, and at the end of Austin's sketch the audience cheered heartily.

A FAREWELL TO JESSEL.

Jewish Theatrical Guild Honors Officer Leaving for California.

The Jewish Theatrical Guild held a farewell meeting for George Jessel, its second vice president, who is leaving New York to make talking pictures in California, at the Bijou Theatre, starting at 11:15 o'clock last night. Among the speakers was Eddie Cantor, who, in praising Mr. Jessel's work in behalf of the guild, reiterated his intention to retire from the stage next year and devote his time to philanthropic work. Others who spoke were Rabbi S. A. Tintner, Julius Tannen, Jack Pearl and Eddie Buzzell. Telegrams were read from William Morris and Daniel Frohman.

The attendance at the meeting was said to be the largest in the history of the organization.

41 Cookery Experts rediscover a lost Art

They decide by unanimous vote, after exhaustive tests, in favor of sugar and small amount of water in cooking vegetables.

FOUR well-known cooking experts recently conducted a series of unique tests in a kitchen high up in a New York skyscraper. The purpose of the tests was to decide, that every person in the United States might know, the most delicious of all ways for cooking vegetables.

Numerous of these healthful foods were cooked: 1. With liberal water without sugar. 2. With little water and no sugar. 3. Liberal water with sugar. 4. Little water with sugar. In every case, when the vote was taken, liberal water without sugar lost, and in every case little water with sugar won.

What a simple discovery this is, and yet how far-reaching it can be. It means that children and adults can be encouraged to eat enough of the vitamin and mineral-bearing vegetables, because a small amount of sugar makes them more palatable.

Eminent medical and scientific authorities are warning the people of the United States that extreme dieting for slimness has gone too far. The health of young girls is being endangered by undernutrition, and the health of thousands of women and men is being permanently injured. Health in diet comes from eating good foods, varied foods, flavored to please the taste. Sugar used judiciously in their preparation makes cereals, fruits, vegetables and meats more enjoyable. It acts as a harmonizer of other condiments and develops the natural, appetizing flavors of the foods.

Sweetness is nature's perfect flavor. It is also the cheapest nutriment that comes to the table. Remember cakes and cookies, ice creams, candies or stewed fruits for dessert. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute, 129 Front Street, New York.

HELEN KANE CLEARED OF BREAKING CONTRACT

Equity Council, However, Fines Actress for Negligence During Her Illness.

Helen Kane, musical comedy actress, did not break her contract with Arthur Hammerstein when she abruptly withdrew from the cast of Mr. Hammerstein's production, "Good Boy," in Boston recently, the Council of the Actors' Equity Association decided yesterday afternoon.

Miss Kane was, however, fined the sum of one week's salary by the actor's organization for her negligence in failing to keep the management informed as to her whereabouts and her physical condition. At the time she left the show she was said to be suffering from a septic sore throat.

"There is no doubt of the fact that Miss Kane was very sick in Boston and that no charges of breaking her contract can be held against her," Frank Gillmore, president of Equity, said after the meeting. "The council cannot condone the fact that she did not communicate personally with the company manager before leaving Boston and that she allowed days to pass after she arrived in New York without informing Mr. Hammerstein of her whereabouts.

"As a consequence Mr. Hammerstein suffered great pecuniary loss, and the company was closed two or three weeks earlier than it might have been otherwise. Equity cannot expect managers to live up to professional ethics unless actors do the same."

Miss Kane's case came up before the council last week, but was put over until yesterday. Both she and Mr. Hammerstein appeared to testify on both occasions, and the council, during the last week, went thoroughly into the disputed points, some of which were not brought out at the first meeting.

Mr. Hammerstein filed the complaint against Miss Kane about two weeks ago. The actress attracted some attention on Broadway this past season by her rendition of baby talk songs in "Good Boy." She has a contract with Paramount-Famous-Lasky to make talking pictures, which becomes effective next month.

Fall Over Stair Rail Kills Roomer, Helmrich Haasler, 67 years old, fell over the stair railing of the third floor of the lodging house at 510 West Broadway yesterday afternoon, struck the shoulder of a man walking up from the ground floor, and was killed when he hit the basement floor at the bottom of the stairwell. Frank Smith of Philadelphia, was the man struck. He was not injured.

When Visiting New York
Why merely "stay" at a hotel? Live at 12 East 86th Street . . . whether for a few days or a few weeks. It is the only hotel in New York with Individual Kitchens in every suite. You may cook as much or as little as you desire . . . or not at all, utilizing the service of the hotel. Excellent restaurant. Food commissary. Fashionably located off Fifth Avenue . . . within ten minutes of theatres, shops and the heart of things. Suites of 2, 3, 4 or more rooms, 1 and 2 baths. Write or wire for rates or reservations.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Irregularity in Movement of Stocks—Call Money 7%, Time Money Higher.

On the Stock Exchange the course of prices yesterday showed that Monday's excited bidding for railway shares, as a consequence of the Supreme Court's valuation decision, had been premature. The text of the court's decision, which was not accessible until after the close of Monday's market, showed that, in overruling the Commerce Commission's program of valuation methods, the court prescribed nothing more than the use of present values as one out of many elements in the calculation, and carefully refrained from any mandate on the weight to be given to such considerations. Along with this clearer view of the scope of the court's decision, the consensus of expert judgment, both from railway and from independent sources, appeared to be that no sensational change in rates was probable.

In the main, railway shares advanced again on yesterday's market; but the rise was no greater than it has been on numerous recent occasions, and a few declined. Opinion appeared to lean more strongly toward the probability that valuations would be so influenced as to place the "recapture line" on the basis of larger actual earnings. This would naturally favor the highly prosperous companies; it would do nothing for railways which do not earn up to 6 per cent of existing valuations at the present rates. On the whole, and considering the prolonged suspense in regard to the court's decision, the apparent upshot seemed yesterday to be the case of the mountains and the mouse.

The money situation, which had evidently governed the week's stock market until ideas were momentarily confused by the news from Washington, resumed its place yesterday as the paramount consideration. Call money did not change; the 7 per cent rate remained, and there is still a week's time before the customary month-end requirements will have to be provided for. But the market for secured time loans crept up again yesterday, reaching for short maturities a higher rate than has yet been touched this year, and it has to be kept in mind that time money has thus far been the real criterion to the state of the Wall Street credit market.

Outside of railway shares, yesterday's movement of Stock Exchange prices was entirely confused. Declines were more numerous, several of them ranging from 9 to 18 points. Against these losses stood a handful of 5 to 10 point advances; which, however, served mostly to accentuate the uncertainty of the market as a whole. Transactions were the second largest of any day this month, but their inspiration appeared to be wholly professional.

The Chicago wheat market, which on Monday had recovered appreciably from last week's severe decline, sank back again yesterday—ostensibly because of the uncertain prospects of farm-relief legislation, actually because of the slowness with which the accumulated surplus is being moved. It is at least a certainty, in a situation surrounded by more obscurities than usual, that the news from the growing crops will be watched this season with closer interest than in many years past. Perhaps it may be equally said of all markets with speculative machinery, that they are occupying themselves more actively with real things than at any time since the stock market took the bit in its teeth. Sterling exchange dropped back again to the lowest rate touched this year, except in the week before the London bank rate rose in February.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Although still somewhat nervous after the commotion of Monday afternoon, the stock market moved in more orderly fashion yesterday, many issues rallying late in the day. Speculative interests seemed unable, however, to make up their minds whether to take a short or a long position. Commission houses, conscious of the possibility of an aftermath from Monday's disturbance, were insisting that their customers stay close to shore and reduce their debit balances where possible without serious sacrifice. The general list on the Stock Exchange opened fairly steady, but late in the morning turned heavy. There was partial recovery toward afternoon, then another sinking spell, followed by a brisk rally in the last half hour of trading. Most stocks at the end of the day showed net losses.

Discussing Monday's Decline.

Upon reflection yesterday, the stock market community appeared to have more positive ideas as to what caused the confusing up and down movements in the last hour of trading Monday. Many observers were of opinion that holders of stocks who had been waiting for a piece of good news to permit them to get out of their commitments seized upon the O'Fallon decision as the development which they needed. Undoubtedly, brokers said yesterday, a large part of the selling came from such sources. The same interests believed that the liquidation was pretty well cleared up Monday afternoon and yesterday morning, however. Brokers, after examining their books, learned also yesterday that the switching from the industrials to the rails had been heavier Monday than was thought at the time.

The Money Market Puzzle.

Although the official rate for call money yesterday merely duplicated that of the previous day, holding at 7 per cent throughout the entire trading period, the fluctuations in the outside market really gave the full picture. Banks during the morning called approximately $25,000,000 in loans, with the net result that the outside quotation went to 8 per cent. Then, when an advance in the rate seemed inevitable, funds were again put back in the market so that the tone was much easier at the close. There was a good deal of loose talk concerning money stringency around June 1, calculated to boost the rate to 25 or 30 per cent, but such rumors did not fit into the ideas of leading bankers.

Rediscount Rates.

Convinced that it is only a question of time before the Federal Reserve Board sanctions an increase in the rediscount rate at the principal centres, Wall Street began yesterday to ponder the possible effect of such an increase. A surprisingly large number of operators as well as brokers now profess actual eagerness to see the rate raised, apparently for the reason that they wish to have the atmosphere cleared. Some interest was added to the picture by reports that the Advisory Council was meeting again with the Reserve Board at Washington. The council endorses unqualifiedly the Reserve Board's action of February, instructing Reserve Banks to prevent diversion of Federal Reserve funds into speculative loans. Its present feeling regarding the board's attitude toward New York and Chicago bank returns is unknown. In 1919, it was recalled yesterday, the council urged an advance in discount rates at least three months before the board acted.

Anomalies of a Bull Market.

The current bull market, as it is still described in brokerage circles, has its anomalies, it was pointed out yesterday. Thus shares of General Motors, at a low of 76¾ yesterday, had an aggregate valuation more than $850,000,000 below the high price for the year of 91¾, touched on March 21, and this at a time when motor production is at record levels.

Riding the Bumps.

One professional trader who hopefully held on to his varied holdings over the week-end, and who for two days has watched on the tape the interplay of strength and weakness that has characterized the trading, described his sensations as "riding the bumps" and comparable with a trip on a roller-coaster. The main difficulty was to judge his position at a given time, as certain stocks advanced while others declined; but last night he figured that he had about broken even and was full of gratitude at having adopted the policy of not keeping all his eggs in one basket. The comment was made in regard to this experience that the average speculator is more likely to tell of his gains or lucky escapes than of his losses, and that the outside public has apparently learned that this is not a stock market for amateurs.

Reparation Financing.

With the final settlement of the reparation problem by the experts' committee in Paris apparently just around the corner, some lively conjecture was heard in the financial district yesterday regarding the implications of the probable agreement. All of the governments concerned will have to approve the new settlements, it was pointed out. Winston Churchill's recent warning before the House of Commons having made this doubly plain. The belief was general yesterday, however, that such approval will be forthcoming. Two large financial operations may subsequently be in order, one dealing with the capital of the proposed international settlement bank and the second marking the beginning of a series of reparations bond offerings.

London and the Gold Market.

With sterling exchange at the gold shipment point, there was reported to be some concern in London regarding the fate of the shipment of £775,000 of the metal due in London yesterday from South Africa. The fact that it was decided to postpone the sale of the gold until today, instead of selling it on Tuesday, as is usual, was taken to mean that chances of its purchase for New York will be remote, because the sale probably will be held too late for the metal to make an express steamer.

MONEY.

Tuesday, May 21, 1929.

Money continued quiet and firm, both for day to day loans and in the collateral market, where the feature was the marking up in rate for 30-day loans to 9¾ per cent, an advance of ¼. Not much was involved, however, turnover being light. Other maturities were 9 for 60-90 days and 8¾ for four- to six-months. Stock Exchange call loans held steady at 7 per cent, while 6 ruled in counter trading, as on Monday. Supply was fair and demand light. Discounts on acceptances and merchants' paper were unchanged.

ELECTRIC 'BOARD BOY' STANDS MARKET TEST

Automatic Stock Quotation Board Demonstrates Speed in Office of Sutro & Co.

The first of the new centrally operated automatic stock quotation boards to be installed in a broker's office was declared successful yesterday. It had its first test under actual market conditions in the uptown office of Sutro & Co., at 16 East Forty-fourth Street.

The Teleregister, as it is called, lists up-to-the-minute quotations of 300 stocks and can accommodate a hundred more if need arises. It was built behind one of the old-style blackboards on which nimble "board boys" chalk up quotations as they get them from the tickers. When it was completely assembled, the blackboard was taken down—an act which, in the opinion of brokers present, was symbolic of the ultimate supplanting of the "board boys" by mechanical successors.

Much faster than the "board boys," the machine, through its selective mechanism located in the Teleregister Corporation's downtown office at 120 Canal Street, sends to a broker's office electrical impulses which immediately cause to appear on the board the last quotation of whatever stock he has arranged to have transmitted. The only human link is the operator at the keyboard which transmits the impulses.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has a 60 per cent interest in the Teleregister Corporation. The service will be available wherever the Western Union operates its wires.

Richfield Oil Company of California

First Mortgage and Collateral Trust Gold Bonds, Series "A" 6% Convertible

Authorized $75,000,000 (all series)—To be presently issued $25,000,000 (Series "A")

Dated May 1, 1929 — Due May 1, 1944

Principal and interest payable at Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, Trustee, or, at the option of the holder, in New York City at the principal office of The Bank of America, N. A., without deduction for normal Federal Income Tax up to 2%. Redeemable in whole or in part on 45 days' notice at 103½ and accrued interest. Certain state taxes refundable upon timely application as to be provided in the indenture. A semi-annual sinking fund commencing November 1, 1929, is provided, which is calculated to retire 50% of this issue by maturity.

SECURITY-FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF LOS ANGELES, Trustee

The following information has been summarized by Mr. James A. Talbot, Chairman of the Board of Richfield Oil Company of California, from his letter dated May 20, 1929, copies of which may be obtained upon request, and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS: "Richfield Oil Company of California was incorporated in 1926, for the purpose of acquiring all or substantially all of the outstanding capital stock of The United Oil Company (incorporated in 1909) and Richfield Oil Company (incorporated in 1911) and to engage in the business of producing, refining and marketing petroleum and its products, which are known to consumers under the trade names, 'Richfield' (gasoline), 'Richfield-Ethyl' (gasoline) and 'Richlube' (motor oil). During 1928, the Company acquired controlling interest, through purchase of 100% of the outstanding Class 'A' Common Stock (voting), of Pan American Western Petroleum Company which in turn owns 100% (except directors' qualifying shares) of the capital stock of Pan American Petroleum Company, its operating subsidiary.

SECURITY AND ASSETS: "In the opinion of counsel, these bonds will be a direct obligation of Richfield Oil Company of California and will be secured by a first lien upon all the real property and interests in real property (except U. S. Government leases) now owned by the Company, and by a lien on all real property and interests in real property hereafter acquired by the Company, and by deposit with the Trustee of: (1) substantially all of the capital stock of The United Oil Company; (2) all of the Class 'A' Common Stock (voting) and at least 79.8% of the Class 'B' Common Stock of Pan American Western Petroleum Company, being at least 83.85% of the total outstanding capital stock of said Company.

"The consolidated balance sheet, as at December 31, 1928, adjusted to give effect to this financing, as certified by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., shows, after deducting all liabilities except these bonds, net assets of $92,607,622.56, equivalent to over $3,700 for each $1,000 Series 'A' Bond to be presently outstanding. Recent appraisals of oil lands and leases made by the Company's Geological Department show an appreciation of approximately $75,000,000 over book values.

EARNINGS: "The consolidated net earnings of Richfield Oil Company of California and its subsidiaries, for the two years ended December 31, 1928 (including earnings of Pan American Western Petroleum Company and its subsidiaries from June 28, 1928, the date of acquisition of the voting stock, less proportion applicable to minority interest), after elimination of interest and discount on indebtedness converted into capital stock or retired by this or prior financing, as certified by Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., were as follows:

Net Earnings before deducting Depletion, Depreciation, Bond Interest and Federal Income Tax	$7,445,064.52	$13,841,135.50
Net Earnings after deducting Depletion and Depreciation, but before Bond Interest and Federal Income Tax	4,858,931.18	9,040,108.93

"The above net earnings for 1928, after deducting depletion and depreciation but before bond interest and Federal income tax, are equivalent to approximately 4 times the annual interest requirement of all funded debt presently to be outstanding and, after deducting from such net earnings the annual interest requirement of the $12,857,200 First Mortgage 6% Bonds of Pan American Petroleum Company, the balance is $8,268,676.93, equivalent to over 5½ times the annual interest requirement of this issue. For the three months ended March 31, 1929, net earnings on a like basis were over 6 times the interest requirement of this bond issue for such period.

"The operations of Pan American Western Petroleum Company for the period from December 31, 1926, to June 28, 1928, showed a deficit which has not been given effect to in the foregoing statement, as the consolidation of the management with that of Richfield Oil Company of California has resulted in economies and savings which were not in effect during that period.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: "Proceeds of this issue will be used for: (1) the redemption of the outstanding $4,750,000 principal amount of Richfield Oil Company of California Three-Year Convertible 5½% Gold Notes, due June 1, 1931; (2) the retirement of the outstanding $10,266,000 Pan American Western Petroleum Company 6% Gold Notes, due January 1, 1940; (3) the liquidation of $3,047,840.94 current notes payable of Pan American Petroleum Company; and (4) additional working capital and/or other corporate purposes.

CONVERSION: "These bonds will be convertible into common capital stock of Richfield Oil Company of California, at the option of the holder, interest and dividends to be adjusted, as follows:

Each $1000 principal amount of bonds convertible into:

(1) 18 shares of stock ($55.55 a share) from May 1, 1929, to April 30, 1932 (both dates inclusive); or
(2) 17 shares of stock ($58.82 a share) from May 1, 1932, to April 30, 1935 (both dates inclusive); or
(3) 16 shares of stock ($62.50 a share) from May 1, 1935, to April 30, 1938 (both dates inclusive); or
(4) 15 shares of stock ($66.67 a share) from May 1, 1938, to April 30, 1941 (both dates inclusive); or
(5) 14 shares of stock ($71.43 a share) from May 1, 1941, to May 1, 1944 (both dates inclusive).

"The indenture will contain provisions designed to protect the conversion privilege against dilution. In the event any of these bonds are called for redemption, the conversion privilege with respect to bonds so called shall continue up to and including the tenth day prior to the date for redemption.

EQUITY: "These bonds will be followed by outstanding preferred and common stocks with a current market value indicating an equity of over $98,500,000 junior to this issue."

All legal proceedings incident to the issuance of the above Bonds have been under the direction and are subject to the approval of Messrs. Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher of Los Angeles, for the underwriters. These Bonds are offered for subscription strictly subject to allotment, when, as and if issued and accepted by us, and subject to approval of counsel as to the legality of the steps taken in the issuance, and the approval of the Commissioner of Corporations of the State of California.

An Insurance Reserve Corporation

The sound position of the Globe Underwriters Exchange, Inc., is founded upon its ownership of large blocks of stock of many successful and wide-spread insurance companies and upon the services rendered those companies as well.

Having acquired stock in many national, local and foreign insurance companies, Globe Underwriters Exchange arranges mutually profitable interchanges of business among those companies, provides capital for profitable expansion, reduces operating expenses thru joint management arrangements and performs investment services as well. With all of its activity among its affiliations, however, the Globe Underwriters Exchange preserves the identity and local status of the various companies, thus permitting them to retain local favor.

Further information, upon which may be based the value, as an investment, of the capital stock of Globe Underwriters Exchange, may be had upon request.

Capacity to Manage

. . . an item which does not show under Assets.

THERE is a tangible factor which decides the intrinsic worth of securities, never itemized in balance sheets. This factor is the capacity of a company's management.

A business must have a product or service which can be sold profitably, and sufficient working capital. Given these, management is then the factor which decides its measure of success.

For thirty years this organization has concerned itself chiefly with the capacity of management when considering the financing of corporations. To companies with capable management capital has been provided for extending their activities and for increasing their earning power. The soundness and potential possibilities of securities issued to provide such capital depend directly upon the ability of a company's management.

Suggested for current investment are four stocks of sound, growing and well-managed companies. Descriptions may be had by requesting Investment List 2211.

$6,000,000 BONDS FOR WICKWIRE PLAN

Committees of Steel Company's Security Holders Complete Reorganization Program.

TO ISSUE COMMON STOCK

This Will Be Exchanged for Certain Present Obligations—Others to Be Taken Up With $4,000,000 Cash.

Through Wall Street sources it was learned yesterday from Boston that the reorganization committees of the Wickwire Spencer Steel Company had completed a plan of reorganization and would announce the details probably within the next few days. The plan has been worked out by the committee representing holders of Wickwire first mortgage 7 per cent bonds and prior lien 7s and by the committee organized by the holders of 7 per cent Class A notes.

The reorganization plan contemplates taking up certain bonds, notes and other obligations with $4,000,000 cash and exchanging approximately $15,000,000 of other bonds and notes for new common stock. No provision is made for the $3,689,340 Class B notes or the stock. Cash requirements of the plan are to be taken care of by an issue of not more than $6,000,000 of 6 per cent convertible bonds. In addition the reorganized company is to have 600,000 authorized common shares.

The Wickwire first mortgage bonds, prior lien bonds and Class A notes are to receive common stock in exchange for their securities on the following basis: First mortgage 7s, twenty shares of new common for each $1,000 bond; prior lien 7s, twenty shares of new common for each $1,000 bond; Class A notes, including script, thirty shares of new common for each $1,000 note.

Indebtedness to be paid in full in cash consists of: American Wire Fabrics first mortgage bonds, $1,118,300 outstanding April 30, 1929, to be retired at 107, or a principal sum of $1,196,581; Wickwire 7½ per cent notes, $1,195,500 outstanding April 30, 1929, to be retired at 102½, or a principal sum of $1,225,387; $171,020 real estate mortgages, an estimated $200,000 of pre-receivership trade creditors and $126,653 for payment of two months' interest at 7 per cent on $10,856,000 prior lien bonds.

A $1,000,000 cash settlement is to dispose of the $1,500,000 Goddard lease obligation, arising out of the agreement to purchase the Goddard plant at Worcester, Mass.

NEW STOCK ISSUES.

Corporation Shares to Be Offered to the Public for Subscription.

United Light and Power Co.

One of the largest pieces of public utility financing of the year is announced for today in the offering of $50,000,000 of United Light and Power Company $6 cumulative convertible first preferred stock, consisting of 500,000 shares, priced at $100 a share. The offering will be made by a banking group headed by Otis & Co., Bonbright & Co., Inc., the Harris Forbes Corporation, Field, Glore & Co., J. G. White & Co., Inc., the Dominion Securities Corporation, Ltd., and R. V. Mitchell & Co.

Each share of preferred will be convertible up to July 1, 1934, into two shares of Class A common stock. Proceeds of this financing will be used for the redemption of certain outstanding securities of the company and of some of its subsidiaries, and to provide additional working capital. It is planned to retire about July 24 the company's Class A preferred stock at $105 a share, and the Class B preferred at $60 a share plus accrued dividends.

North and South America Corp.

Offering of a new issue of 250,000 shares of North and South America Corporation Class A common stock, of no par value, will be made today by Baker, Kellogg & Co., Inc., and A. G. Becker & Co., at $36 a share. The company was recently formed by these houses and the American Founders Corporation primarily to acquire equity investments in South American enterprises. On completion of this financing there will be outstanding 250,000 shares of Class A common, of an authorized number of 1,250,000 shares, and 1,000,000 shares of Class B common, of no par value, of an authorized number of 1,250,000. The Class B will be purchased by the American Founders Corporation, Domestic and Foreign Investors Corporation, and Baker, Kellogg & Co., Inc., for $1,000,000 in cash. The Class A will be entitled to receive prior, but non-cumulative, dividends at the annual rate of $2 a share before any dividend is paid on the Class B.

Atlantic Seaboard Airways, Inc.

A block of 50,000 shares of Atlantic Seaboard Airways, Inc., common stock of no par value will be placed on the market today at $15 a share by Charles S. Rodd & Co. The company owns Hoover Field, Washington, D. C., Hains Point Seaplane Terminal and Gettyburg Airport, and controls International Airways, Inc., Potomac Flying Service, Inc., Hains Point Flying Service and Gettysburg Flying Service, Inc. Proceeds of this financing will be used to acquire properties and to enlarge the operations of present subsidiaries.

Offering of a block of Handley, Page, Ltd., 10 per cent participating preference stock, priced at $6.50 a share, will be made today by W. C. Simmons & Co. This financing will represent the first public financing here by the English airplane concern, but will not represent new financing on the part of the company. The company is capitalized at 497,500 shares of 10 per cent participating preference stock, of 8 shillings par value, and 150,000 ordinary shares of 1 shilling par value. The company has no funded debt.

Share in $1,225,000 Distribution.

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa, May 21 (AP).—Distribution of $1,225,000 among holders of the old stock of the Viking Pump Company began today. This sum represented payments for stock purchased when the financial structure of the company was rearranged. The company surrendered its Iowa charter and reincorporated under the laws of Delaware with a capital stock of 40,000 shares of preferred no par cumulative and 100,000 shares of no par common. The new stock is listed on the Chicago Exchange.

North and South American Corporation has been organized under the laws of Delaware by American Founders Corporation, A. G. Becker & Co., and Baker, Kellogg & Co., Inc., who compose the Management Group, for the purpose of acquiring equity investments in foreign countries and the United States, and to aid investing companies and other financial institutions in the management of their portfolios in consideration of fees or the acquisition of equity interests in such institutions. It will also originate investments, principally in South America, for institutions that are associated with it, and for distribution in this and foreign markets. Its purpose is to extend activities of this character heretofore carried on by the houses identified with its management. The recent large growth of investing companies in this country provides a broad and permanent field for the services rendered by a corporation of this character. The Corporation will also deal in securities for its own account and participate in syndicates formed for the purpose of underwriting the sale and distribution of securities.

The foregoing is subject to the more complete statements contained in the circular, a copy of which may be obtained upon request.

The Management Group has agreed to purchase for $1,000,000 in cash all of the Class B Stock to be presently outstanding. The Corporation will receive not less than $9,125,000 in cash for the Class A Stock and Class B Stock to be presently outstanding. A substantial portion of this issue has been subscribed for by interests associated with the Management Group.

The Class A Common Stock has been admitted to trading on a when, as and if issued basis on the Chicago Stock Exchange. Application will be made to list it on the Boston Stock Exchange.

We offer this stock when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to prior sale and to approval of counsel. It is expected that temporary certificates will be deliverable in the first instance.

E. L. PHILLIPS SELLS TO ASSOCIATED GAS

LONG ISLAND LIGHTING KEPT

Empire Power Corporation, Holding Company for Properties in Deal, Becomes Investment Trust.

All of the public utility operating properties formerly controlled by Ellis L. Phillips and his associates in up-State New York have been acquired by the Associated Gas and Electric interests, it became known yesterday. The only companies retained by Mr. Phillips are the Long Island Lighting Company and its subsidiaries, stretching from Brooklyn to Montauk Point.

As a result of this deal the Empire Power Corporation, Mr. Phillips's holding company for most of his up-State properties, has become an investment trust, the principal holdings of which are short-term notes, cash, and some stockholdings, which include indirectly about 270,000 shares of the Long Island Lighting Company, control of which rests with E. L. Phillips & Co.

On the basis of stock and cash offers recently announced by the Associated system, it is estimated that well over $100,000,000 was paid for the Phillips interests in up-State New York. The cash offer for Rochester Power alone amounts to $80,000,000, part of which may be paid for in stocks offered as an alternate plan to stockholders, while the traction properties were acquired by the Phillips group for more than $4,650,750, not including $7,000,000 indebtedness assumed for one property, or a known total of $81,650,750.

This figure does not include the United Gas and Electric Corporation group, including Lockport Light, Heat and Power; International Power and Transmission, Central New York Utilities and their subsidiaries.

The Rochester Central Power group includes the New York Central Electric Corporation, the Empire Gas and Electric Company, the Elmira Water, Light and Railroad Company; the Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation and the Mohawk Valley Company, Mohawk Valley and its subsidiary, Rochester Gas and Electric, were acquired by the Phillips interests from the New York Central Railroad a year ago at a cost of $38,357,250.

The New York State Railways, acquired from the New York Central Railroad in the same transaction, represented an outlay of $3,400,750. Early this year the Phillips group also bought the Delaware & Hudson traction properties, including the United Traction Company, for $1,250,000 cash and $7,000,000 assumed debts; and the Schenectady Railway Company and the Capital District Transportation Company, for unstated amounts.

The Long Island Light Company controls the Queens Borough Gas and Electric Company and the Kings County Lighting Company and their subsidiaries, and itself operates in Nassau and Suffolk counties. According to Mr. Phillips's present plans, these properties will not be sold.

LAUDS UTILITY INJUNCTION.

W. Emlen Roosevelt Comments on Decision Against Public Service.

W. Emlen Roosevelt, chairman of the committee formed to protect holders of stocks of two groups of utility companies leased to the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, issued the following statement yesterday:

"The New Jersey State Court of Errors and Appeals has unanimously upheld the decision of Vice Chancellor Backes making permanent the temporary injunction which we secured to prevent the merger of the Group I companies—Hudson County Gas Company 8 per cent stock, Essex and Hudson Gas Company 8 per cent stock, the Paterson and Passaic Gas and Electric Company 5 per cent stock, Somerset, Union and Middlesex Lighting Company 4 per cent stock and New Brunswick Light, Heat and Power Company 5 per cent stock—into the Public Service Electric and Gas Company on the terms offered two years ago last April.

"Naturally, I am most pleased with the result. As this is the highest court in the State of New Jersey, stockholders in these subsidiary gas and electric companies can now rest assured that the Public Service Electric and Gas Company cannot deprive them of their investment on unfair terms just because it is the majority stockholder in the companies in question."

APPROVE BANK STOCK PLAN.

National Park Holders to Get 7½ New Shares for 1 Old for $105.

Stockholders of the National Park Bank have formally approved the plan whereby each holder of one old $100 par value share may exercise his rights at a total additional cost of $105 and receive seven and a half new shares of $20 par value, together with an equal number of shares of stock of the bank's security affiliate now being formed. The stock will be in inseparable units of one share of bank stock and one share of stock of the security affiliate.

The shares thus received will consist of five new shares exchanged for one old share, a stock dividend of 20 per cent, or one new share, and rights to subscribe for one and a half additional shares or units, at a price of $70 a unit. The plan has been declared operative by the stockholders' committee.

TWO NEW RESERVE BANKS.

Broadway National Here and Roslyn (N. Y.) National Admitted.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced yesterday that the Broadway National Bank & Trust Company of New York and the Roslyn National Bank & Trust Company, Roslyn, N. Y., have been admitted to membership in the system as of May 20, on which date both banks received charters from the Controller of Currency.

The Broadway National Bank & Trust Company has a capital of $2,000,000 and surplus of $1,000,000. David A. Brown is chairman, and W. C. Thompson, cashier. The Roslyn National Bank & Trust Company, successor to the Bank of Hemstead Harbor, has a capital of $100,000 and surplus of $140,000. Ralph Tubby is president, and Herbert A. Wood, cashier.

UTILITY EARNINGS.

Financial Statements for Various Periods Issued by Public Service Corporations.

Southern California Edison.

Gross earnings of the Southern California Edison Company for April were $3,119,073, compared with $2,744,163 in April, 1928, an increase of 14 per cent. Net earnings after expenses and taxes were $2,020,300, against $1,810,058, a gain of 12 per cent. Net income before depreciation was $1,470,843, against $1,384,260, an increase of $86,584.

Gross earnings for the four months ended on April 30 were $12,078,423, against $10,558,869 in the same period last year, a gain of 14 per cent. Net earnings were $7,544,001, against $6,929,014, a gain of 9 per cent. Net income was $5,375,864, against $5,180,166, an increase of $195,698.

Interborough Rapid Transit.

Net income of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the ten months ended on April 30, after the appropriated but unpaid 5 per cent rental on the Manhattan Railway modified guaranteed stock, was only $80,317 below the corresponding figures for the previous like period, while net income for the nine months ended on March 31 was $219,073 below the amount for the previous period. The improvement was due to a gain of $155,756 in net income in April, the figure for the month being $607,615 after Manhattan 5 per cent rental and $830,485 before that rental. Net income for the ten months was $2,411,531 after Manhattan 5 per cent rental and $4,730,240 before it was charged off.

Gross revenue from all sources in April amounted to $6,151,494, an increase of $451,434, while expenses were only $327,992 higher at $3,545,832. Taxes were $30,549 less than in April, 1928, at $203,597, leaving net earnings of $2,402,064, an increase of $153,992. Rentals paid were $2,485 lower at $419,996, and charges were $2,279 less at $1,142,581.

For the ten months ended April 30, gross revenue was $57,748,164, a gain of $1,778,608, while operating and maintenance expenditures were $2,618,746 higher at $35,335,160, the relatively greater increase in expenses than in earnings being due in part to the Times Square subway accident and to legal and other expenses in connection with the seven-cent fare case. With taxes $747,336 lower at $2,011,316, net earnings for the ten months were $20,401,689, a decline of $92,803. Rentals were $8,813 higher at $4,220,654 and charges were $41,299 lower at $11,450,795, leaving net income as described above.

Brooklyn Manhattan Transit.

Gains are shown in the net income of the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit system for both April and the ten months ended on April 30, whereas the net income for the nine months ended on March 31 was smaller than in the preceding like period. The gain in April was $71,965. It placed the net income for the ten months $4,940 ahead of the previous like period.

Operating revenues in April were $4,096,664, against $3,884,334 in April, last year and net revenue from operations was $1,485,054, against $1,345,030. Lower taxes and non-operating income and higher charges left net income at $530,727, against $458,762 a year ago.

In the ten months ended on April 30 gross revenues were $40,120,188, against $39,288,711 a year previously, and net operating revenues were $14,254,073, against $13,843,358. Net income was $5,228,403, against $5,223,462.

SAFETY PRIZES WON BY SEVEN RAILROADS

Chicago Pullman Zone Also Gets Award in National Council Contest.

177 LINES CUT ACCIDENTS

Seven railroads in various parts of the country and the Chicago Central Zone of the Pullman Company received first prizes as the winners for 1928 in the annual railway employes' national safety contest, at a dinner last night in the Hotel Commodore, given by the National Safety Council, sponsors of the contest. The dinner was attended by railroad executives from all sections of the United States.

The eight first prizes, consisting of bronze plaques, were presented by Major Henry A. Reninger, president of the National Safety Council, to executives of the winning companies. A total of 177 railroads, grouped according to size, took part in the contest.

The Texas Mexican Railroad, by operating throughout 1928 without a single recorded accident among its employes, won first prize from forty-seven contestants in its class. This road made a similar record in 1927.

Six Other Prize Winners Named.

The six other railroads which won first prizes, together with their casualty rates, were:
Southern Railway System, casualty rate 8, competing against nineteen.
Southern Pacific Lines in Texas and Louisiana, casualty rate 6.91, competing against nineteen.
Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company, casualty rate 4.63, competing against twenty-two.
Chicago Great Western Railroad, casualty rate 3.15, competing against twenty-one.
Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad, casualty rate 2.15, competing against twenty-two.
Ann Arbor Railroad, casualty rate 2.81, competing against twenty-six.

The Chicago Central Zone of the Pullman Company competed against the seven other zones of this company. Its casualty rate was 5.57. The annual safety contests, which were begun in 1924, take into account only accidents to employes. The awards are based on the number of casualties per million man hours worked. The man hours cover rail operations only, although all accidents to employes are counted.

Addresses of thanks and praise for the work of the council were made by the following executives who received the awards for their lines:

D. H. BEATTY, superintendent of safety and sanitation of the Southern Railway System.
H. M. MAYO, superintendent of safety of the Texas & Louisiana branch of the Southern Pacific Lines.
J. P. O'BRIEN, general manager of the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company.
N. L. HOWARD, president of the Chicago Great Western Railroad.
P. E. ODELL, vice president and general manager of the Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad.
G. H. SIDO, general manager of the Ann Arbor Railroad.
L. S. TAYLOR, vice president of the Pullman Company.

Other speakers included:
W. S. ANDREWS, assistant vice president of the Southern Railway System.
EDWARD HUNGERFORD, assistant vice president of the New York Central lines.
JOHN H. LONG, superintendent of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad and chairman of the steam railroad section of the National Safety Council.
D. G. PHILLIPS, superintendent of Safety of the Wabash Railroad and former chairman of the safety section of the American Railroad Association.
ARTHUR H. YOUNG, past president of the National Safety Council.

Accident Totals Reduced.

Officials of the National Safety Council, whose New York office is at 21 East Fortieth Street, have estimated that, as a result of safety contests among employes during the past five years, the railroads of America have saved the lives of 1,383 and have prevented serious accidents to 180,000 more. The records of the organization show that during 1928 there was a reduction of 61,479 casualties as compared with 1923, and a saving of 679 lives.

The council held the public value of the annual safety contests to be proved by the fact that all railroads eligible to compete have shown a continued reduction in total casualty rate during the past five years.

The Southern Railway System was in group A, which includes all units and systems having 100,000,000 or more man hours. During the past five years, this system has reduced its casualty rate by more than 70 per cent.

The Southern Pacific Lines in Texas and Louisiana competed in Group B, which includes roads with 50,000,000 to 100,000,000 man hours. This road also has made a consistent reduction in accidents of more than 50 per cent during the last five-year period.

The Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company was in Group C, with 20,000,000 to 50,000,000 man hours. Since 1923 this road has shown a reduction of more than 60 per cent in accidents.

The Chicago Great Western Railroad won in Group D for railroads with from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 man hours. This road was third in its group for the year 1923, and second for the years 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1927.

The Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad competed in Group E, for roads with 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 man hours per year. It has made a reduction of nearly 90 per cent in accidents as compared with 1923, when it was in the fourteenth place in its class.

The Ann Arbor Railroad (Wabash System) was in Group F, comprising roads with from 2,000,000 to 5,000,000 man hours. During the past five years this road has decreased serious accidents 91 per cent.

The Texas Mexican Railroad competed in Group G, for railroads with less than 2,000,000 man hours per year.

The eight zones of the Pullman Company had a total of 65,000,000 man hours of operation during 1928. Since 1926, the Pullman Company has conducted an annual "no accident month" in May, and is holding an all-year safety contest this year.

New York & Harlem Meeting.

The annual meeting of the New York & Harlem Railroad, a subsidiary of the New York Central, was held yesterday. The business was routine. Two minority committees were represented but did not vote the stock for which they had proxies. Some stockholders asked questions relative to the company's earnings. The directors were re-elected.

HISTORY: Among the companies which have produced eminently successful and dependable flying machines the Handley Page Ltd. rightly has an enviable reputation. The history of the Royal British Flying Corps during and after the war, as well as the development of European aviation along the peaceful lines of passenger, goods and mail transportation are closely interwoven with the growth of the company and the constant improvement of its products.

Founded in 1909 as a private enterprise its shares were first offered to the public in 1919. It not only manufactures various types of aeroplanes but is also interested through stock ownership in a number of other corporations prominent in the aviation industry. Its most important and most valuable patent is the "Slotted Wings," an invention which offers a high degree of safety in the operation of aeroplanes.

At the company's general meeting on April 8th, 1929, the managing director, Mr. F. Handley Page, C.B.E., made the following statements:

"In assessing the value of the rights disposed of to the Air Ministry, we were able to point to the great economy that is effected in the cost of operation by the adoption of the slotted wing.

"Our Chairman has announced the terms of the settlement under which the Air Ministry pay £100,000 in respect of the patents in Great Britain. The contract was signed only on Saturday morning last, and I collected from the Air Ministry the first cheque on account. A further proposal in regard to our Indian patents is now being recommended by the Air Ministry as a basis of settlement. We have, in addition, similar patents in the Dominions in respect of which negotiations are proceeding in Canada, Australia and South Africa.

"We have, during the year, completed an agreement for the sale of a portion of our rights in Japan, and in addition have granted licenses for service and commercial use in France, Germany, Italy, Canada, Great Britain and the United States. Negotiations are proceeding in regard to the grant of licenses or the disposal of rights in other countries.

"We have during the year received our share of Air Ministry contracts and expect so to continue during the present period. Four of the squadrons of the Royal Air Forces are equipped with our twin-engined type of bomber as standard.

ENGLAND-INDIA AIR FLEET

"Turning now to civil aviation, the opening of the England to India route recalls the fact that the first flight ever made between England and India was carried out on one of our twin-engined aircraft, with Sir Geoffrey Salmond, the present Air Officer Commanding in India, on board. It was during the Afghan war in 1919 that one of our four-engined aircraft, flown direct from England to India, made the first flight to Kabul, as part of a military operation which was mainly instrumental in ending the campaign.

"We are now engaged on the design and construction for the England-India air route of a new fleet of aircraft, as our Chairman has announced. The cabin portion of one of these will be on view at the forthcoming International Aircraft Exhibition at Olympia in July next. These machines, with their spacious accommodation for forty passengers, will bring civil aviation a stage nearer to the day when it can fly by itself without heavy Government subsidy, and when, in consequence, there will be a wide development of air routes based upon sound economic demand."

This Company is the creator of and owns the patent rights to the famous Handley Page Slotted Wings, the importance of which is widely recognized as they facilitate the taking off and landing of planes in difficult places and act to prevent tailspins, thus offering great protection to air pilots. It is probably the most important contribution to the factor of safe flying in late years. An agreement to the rights to this device has been concluded with Japan and licenses for service and commercial use have been granted to France, Germany, Italy, Canada, Great Britain and the United States. A license agreement effected with the United States Government for the use of the Slotted Wing appliance for the Army and Navy is becoming of increasing importance.

EARNINGS: The net earnings for the year 1927 equalled $226,194 or $153,444 after $72,750 was allocated to reserves. The year ended December 31, 1928, exceeded the above figure, the result showing a net of $231,805 or $159,055 after allocating $72,750 to reserves. At the last annual meeting the Chairman spoke very optimistically regarding the future of the Company and we believe that the year 1929 should show considerably better earnings from royalties, manufacturing and transporting activities.

The Company is in good financial condition, the net current assets as of December 31, 1928 being $481,489 of which $459,979 is represented by Government Bonds. Among the Company's investments are 34,334 shares Imperial Airways Ordinary, carried at $24,250. The present market value of these holdings is about $242,500.

Patents and good-will appear in the Balance Sheet at an extremely conservative valuation. Moreover, some of the Company's holdings in affiliated enterprises are carried at prices far below their present market.

DIVIDENDS: The participating preference shares are entitled to a non-cumulative dividend of 10% plus an amount equivalent to any distribution on the common shares. The full 10% dividend was distributed for 1927 and 1928. The common stock which is entirely controlled by the management, has not received any dividends up to the present time, but the favorable earnings for the last two years and the splendid outlook for the aviation industry in general, are bringing a dividend on the junior shares well within the realm of early possibilities, thus resulting in additional disbursements to the holders of preference shares.

These shares are listed on the London Stock Exchange and application has been made for trading privileges on the New York Curb Market.

We own and offer, subject to prior sale, a limited amount of the above Preference Shares.

NEW MEN ON BOARD OF PERE MARQUETTE

O. P. Van Sweringen, Bernet and Directors of Chesapeake & Ohio Elected.

I. C. C.'s APPROVAL NEEDED

Ten Old Members Are Displaced at Annual Meeting—Change Follows Commission's Ruling.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., May 21.—Ten men were elected and five were re-elected to the board of directors of the Pere Marquette Railroad at the annual stockholders' meeting here today. Frank H. Alfred of Detroit, president, presided. He was re-elected to the board, as were Walter W. Colpitts of New York, Stanford T. Crapo of Detroit, John W. Stedman of Newark, N. J., and Eugene V. R. Thayer of New York.

The new members elected are John J. Bernet, George T. Bishop, Alva Bradley, Herbert Fitzpatrick, Otto Miller, Orvis P. Van Sweringen, Michael Gallagher and Frank H. Ginn of Cleveland, James E. Davidson of Bay City, Mich., and William J. Harahan of Richmond, Va.

There were 506,898 shares voting out of 686,000.

Replacement of ten of the directors of the Pere Marquette Railroad by representatives of the Van Sweringen interests reflects recent gains made by this group in its plan for an Eastern consolidation of carriers. The Interstate Commerce Commission recently permitted the Chesapeake & Ohio to acquire the Pere Marquette on terms which it at first denied. Pending this move by the commission, the Van Sweringen interests refrained from placing their officials on the Pere Marquette's board.

Of the directors elected by the Pere Marquette's stockholders yesterday, Herbert Fitzpatrick, George D. Bishop, Alva Bradley, Frank H. Ginn, O. P. Van Sweringen, W. J. Harahan and Otto Miller are directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio. J. J. Bernet is president and a director of the Erie, and Michael Gallagher, a director of the Chicago & Erie, a subsidiary of the Erie. James E. Davidson is a banker in Bay City, Mich.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 21 (AP).—The battle of the Van Sweringen and the Taplin interests for control of the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad will be resumed tomorrow in the annual election of directors. Five directors out of fifteen are to be chosen at the stockholders' meeting here.

Present holdings of stock give the Van Sweringens 53 per cent of the total vote, but the Taplin brothers, Frank E. and C. F., are expected to contest the legality of the ballots of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen. Part of the Van Sweringens' power lies in Wheeling stock held by the Nickel Plate Railroad, one of their properties. The Nickel Plate has been ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission to divest itself of this stock, and it is expected that the Taplins will contend that for the Van Sweringens to vote it would be illegal. However, even if a Taplin slate of five directors should be chosen, the Van Sweringens still would have eight of the fifteen members of the board.

FREIGHT LOADINGS OFF 2,270 CARS IN WEEK

American Association Reports Increase of 45,511 Over Year Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended May 11 totaled 1,047,922 cars, the American Railway Association announced today, a decrease of 2,270 cars under the previous week. Decreases were reported in all commodities except ore, coke, coal and forest products. Compared with corresponding week of 1928, loadings for the week increased 45,511 cars and were 18,498 cars above the corresponding week of 1927. The car loadings in detail follow:

	Week Ended May 11.	Change From Prev. Week.	Change From Same Week. 1928.
Misc. freight	408,000	— 3,478	+ 11,359

Credit Utility to Increase Capital.

The Credit Utility Company, Inc., will increase its capital from $625,000 to $1,375,000, according to an announcement made yesterday by M. Gottesman, president of the company. The company was established in 1925, and the new increase in the capital will be the third in three years.

LIVE STOCK RATES GET NEW HEARING

I. C. C. Examiners Start Taking of Railroads' Testimony on Reconsideration Plea.

INJUNCTION SUIT IS PENDING

But Commission Has Declined to Wait for Court Decision—New Charges Called Confiscatory.

Hearings on the application of eastern railroads for reconsideration of the rates on live stock which went into effect on Nov. 1, 1928, and which the railroads consider confiscatory, were opened yesterday in the Hotel Pennsylvania before Chester E. Stiles and A. S. Parker, examiners, of the Interstate Commerce Commission. They will continue several days. The testimony taken will serve as the basis for any new action the commission may see fit to take.

It is the contention of the railroads that the reduction in the basic rates from 56½ to 50 cents a hundred pounds from Chicago to New York, as ordered by the commission in July, 1928, after prolonged hearings, was a violation of the carriers' rights. The rate, together with corresponding reductions from other points in the West and Middle West, went into effect in November of last year despite the efforts of the railroads to obtain an injunction from the Federal courts. The litigation is still pending. While the Interstate Commerce Commission has declined the request of the railroads to postpone application of the new rates pending adjudication of the dispute in the courts, it has consented to a rehearing.

Railroads Affected.

The enforcement of the new rates grew out of an action brought by the Independent Slaughterers' Traffic Association and other shippers against the New York Central Railroad in 1925. The other railroads affected were the Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Nickle Plate.

Leading packers in the slaughterers' association include the Union Stock Yards of Chicago, Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., Kingen & Co., and the Louisville Live Stock Exchange.

Only the carriers will testify at the hearings begun here yesterday. A hearing for the live stock interests will be held in July, when the carriers will also be up for cross examination.

Those who testified yesterday included M. S. O'Connor, assistant general freight agent for the New York Central Railroad, with offices in Chicago. E. B. Tullis, general freight agent in Chicago for the Baltimore & Ohio; Joseph G. Kerr, assistant to the vice president of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and C. C. Plummer, special freight agent for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

G. M. Nolan of the traffic department of the Southern Railway testified that freight rates on live stock from southern points to New York were much lower than on fertilizer, brick, sand, crushed stone and other low priced materials. He said that while his road had not been a party to the rate controversy it was now desirous of putting its attitude before the commission.

Figures for Live Stock.

Calling attention to the failure of the slaughterers' association to take into account the higher operating ratio of freight carriers in eastern territories, C. L. Lamon, statistician attached to the controller's office of the Pennsylvania Railroad, placed in the record an exhibit showing costs per car mile of carrying live stock in all regions of the country. The operating ratio, he said, was 72.72 per cent in the East, 71.45 per cent in the South, and 67.27 per cent in the West.

Among the attorneys representing the carriers at the hearing were Leo P. Day of Cleveland, Guerney Orcott of Pittsburgh, Charles R. Weber of Baltimore, M. B. Pierce of New York, Kenneth F. Burgess of Chicago, and Charles B. Clark of Washington, D. C.

Attending the hearing as attorneys for the shippers were Paul E. Blanchard, Armour & Co.; C. B. Heineman, acting for various live stock buyers; Ross Dean Rynder, Swift & Co.; R. R. Hargis, Wilson & Co., and others.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

Union Pacific.

The Union Pacific system reports increased gross and net earnings for April. The earnings follow:

	1929.	1928.	1927.
April gross	$15,963,200	$15,014,410	$14,128,000
Net Op inc.	1,894,513	1,906,925	858,770
4 mos gross	64,634,504	60,997,925	56,476,755

Chicago & Eastern Illinois.

The balance sheet of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railway shows total assets of $99,387,074 on Dec. 31, 1928, against $99,510,074 a year previously. Profit and loss surplus was $1,332,602 against $1,223,549. Current assets were $6,835,110 and current liabilities $3,093,560, against $6,944,635 and $3,757,629 respectively.

PERMUTIT COMPANY

Manufacturers of water softening machinery, "Ranarex" gas density recorders, water filters and boiler auxiliaries. Their products are used by industrial, public utility and other companies.

The company earned, in 1928, approximately $26 per share on the common stock and should show a steady increase as the field for its products is very large.

At current prices the Permutit Company Common stock is selling about seven times earnings. We recommend this stock for future appreciation.

MORE OIL CONCERNS RAISE CRUDE PRICES

Action Leads to Belief Increase Will Be General in Mid-Continent Field in Few Days.

ADVANCE IS 10 TO 41 CENTS

Announcement of an increase of 25 cents a barrel in crude oil prices by the Prairie Oil and Gas Company was followed yesterday by similar announcements by other companies, leading to the belief that the increase will be general throughout the mid-continent field within a few days. The Prairie Company's new price for 25 gravity oil and all below that gravity is 85 cents a barrel, with an additional 5 cents for each degree above 25. Oil of 44 gravity and above will be $1.85 a barrel.

A similar schedule was posted for mid-continent oil yesterday by the Carter Oil Company, a subsidiary of the Standard of New Jersey. The Midwest Refining Company announced an advance in Salt Creek (Wyo.) crude oil to conform with the mid-continent schedule, with oil of 37 degrees' gravity and above advanced to $1.50 a barrel, an increase of 27 cents.

Magnolia Petroleum's Prices.

Other companies that followed the advance directly include Empire Gas and Fuel, Phillips Petroleum, Marland Oil and Gulf Pipe Line.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company has made advances in crude oil in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas where it purchases on a gravity basis, except in the Panhandle district, ranging from 10 to 41 cents a barrel. Its new schedule conforms to that of Prairie Oil & Gas Company from 32 gravity upward. For oil below 32 gravity, the company's new quotations and advances over previous prices follow: under 26 gravity, 70 cents a barrel, up 10 cents; 26 to 26.9 gravity, 75 cents, up 10 cents; 27 to 27.9 gravity, 85 cents, up 15 cents; 28 to 28.9 gravity, 90 cents, up 15 cents; 29 to 29.9 gravity, 95 cents, up 15 cents; 30 to 30.9 gravity, $1.05, up 15 cents, and 31 to 31.9 gravity, $1.15, up 15 cents.

Wholesale Gasoline Price Up.

Ohio Oil Company has advanced the market price of Wyoming crude oils as follows: Elk Basin and Grass Creek, 29 cents a barrel to $1.65; Lance Creek, 30 cents to $1.68; Rock Creek, 22 cents to $1.40; Big Muddy, 25 cents to $1.43, and Mule Creek, 10 cents to $1.20. Middle Western grades were advanced 15 cents a barrel, except Plymouth, which was raised 10 cents.

Whether these advances will be followed by the California and Texas producers generally was a moot point yesterday.

An increase of 1 cent a gallon in the wholesale price of gasoline was made by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey yesterday. The new price is 10 cents a gallon on the Atlantic seaboard.

The Warner-Quinlan Company announced yesterday that the spot price of gasoline had been advanced half a cent to 10 cents a gallon f. o. b. Warners, N. J., on tank car deliveries.

ENDS OIL WORK IN MEXICO.

Guy Stevens, Head of American Group, Returns to New York.

The resignation of Guy Stevens as director of the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico was announced yesterday. With American oil interests shifting their activities from Mexico to Venezuela, the need for such an association, according to Mr. Stevens, is no longer as urgent as it was ten years ago when American oil producers were battling for their rights in Mexico against overwhelming odds and when Mr. Stevens was appearing at numerous public and private functions as their spokesman.

Mr. Stevens has shifted his activities from oil to the bar. He is now a member of the law firm of Haskell, Lyon, Stevens & Block, 50 Broadway.

Mr. Stevens said that American oil production in Mexico had fallen to such a low ebb and that American oil producers generally had retired from the Mexican field to such an extent that the oil producers were now more concerned with their investments in Venezuela, where production exceeds that in Mexico. According to Mr. Stevens, American producers have withdrawn from Mexico as a result of the innumerable obstacles thrown in their way in the past ten years.

ELECTS NEW DIRECTORATE.

Foundation Company (Foreign) Changes Ten of Eleven Members.

The directorate of the Foundation Company (Foreign) was changed at the annual meeting yesterday. Wilbur L. Ball, J. J. Brown, John W. Campbell, Frank Quilter, John W. Doty, Charles D. Hartman Jr., H. T. Hartwell, D. L. Hough, Allan Miller, Harold C. Richard and George S. Silzer were elected. The old board consisted of Franklin Remington, Robert J. Davidson Jr., Louis E. Stoddard, Willis H. Booth, Charles W. Gillespie, Harry J. Deutschbein, Guy Pinner, Charles P. Coleman, Ralph L. Dalton, George Murnane and Mr. Quilter. With the exception of Mr. Quilter, who replaces Ralph H. Chambers, the board is the same as was recently elected at the annual meeting of the Foundation Company.

Mr. Quilter, president of the company, said the company this year would earn a profit, contrasted with a deficit of $86,763 last year. He said about $6,000,000 was available for the company's work in Greece, enough to carry the company well into 1930. The company will withdraw from all but preferred contracts in France.

New Units Join United Tractor.

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP).—Three new units have joined the $125,000,000 United Tractor and Equipment Corporation, cooperative farm implement and industrial equipment company. They are the Maine Steel Products Company of Portland, Me.; the I. B. Rowell Company of Waukesha, Wis., and the Northwestern Manufacturing Company of Milwaukee.

Sinclair Oil Records Stock Increase.

The Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation has filed with the Secretary of State in Albany a certificate of increase of its capital stock from 5,500,000 shares to 10,000,000 shares, in accordance with the plan authorized by the stockholders on May 15. The fee paid upon the filing of the certificate was $225,000.

CRUDE OIL OUTPUT UP 18,800 BARRELS

IMPORTS ALSO INCREASED

Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States for the week ended on May 18 was 2,643,550 barrels, compared with 2,624,750 barrels for the preceding week, an increase of 18,800 barrels. The daily average production east of California was 1,868,350 barrels, compared with 1,865,950 barrels, an increase of 22,400 barrels.

Estimated daily average gross production in barrels by districts for the weeks ended on May 18 and May 11, 1929, and May 19, 1928, follow:

	1929. May 18.	1929. May 11.	1928. May 19

California	755,200	758,800	632,000
Total	2,643,550	2,624,750	2,359,000

Imports of petroleum, crude and refined, at the principal United States ports for the week ended on May 18 totaled 1,950,000 barrels, a daily average of 278,571 barrels, compared with 1,802,000 barrels, a daily average of 257,428 barrels, for the week ended on May 11 and a daily average of 276,464 barrels for the four weeks ended on May 18.

Receipts of California oil, crude and refined, at Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports for the week ended on May 18 totaled 537,000 barrels, a daily average of 76,714 barrels, against 449,000 barrels, a daily average of 64,143 barrels, for the week ended on May 11 and a daily average of 65,571 barrels for the four weeks ended on May 18.

Pipe-line and tank-farm gross domestic crude oil stocks east of the Rocky Mountains decreased 91,000 barrels in April, acording to reports by various representative companies. The net change shown by the reporting companies accounts for the increases and decreases in general crude oil stocks, including crude oil in transit, but not producers' stocks at the wells.

Promotions by Tide Water Oil.

R. D. Rogers has been appointed manager of the Tide Water Oil Company refinery at Bayonne, N. J. He had been general superintendent. James J. McGrath has been made general superintendent, in charge of the operating division of the refinery. Commander Edward Ellsberg, U. S. N., chief refinery engineer at Bayonne, has been appointed chief engineer in charge of the general engineering department of the company and engineering assistant to the vice president in charge of manufacturing.

. . . . are Our bankers' hours

They have to be! Six evenings a week! Locating as we did in the midst of the ever-hustling, bustling mid West Side of New York, we cast conventional "bankers' hours" to the four winds to give our patrons the service they desire—

So that the scores of late-working offices and neighborhood shops may make their deposits "at the close of business"; so that the many theatres just east of us may deposit their receipts after the last seat has been sold for the evening.

Prudential Bank has actively associated its name with New York's West Side. It is prepared to serve it in every possible way.

THOUSANDS of active business men have written to us during the past two months inquiring about our Stock Purchase Trust Plan for Officers of Close Corporations. Although business interests represent only a part of their estates, these men have indicated a keen interest in our plan which shows how a business estate can be protected.

This leads us to believe that they, as well as other well-to-do people, would be even more interested in our new plan which provides not only protection but scientific management for every part of their estates.

To the man who has "arrived"...

here is a scientific plan which will provide complete business management for every phase of your estate

Read this message:

ALMOST every day you have some phase of personal trust service brought to your attention, but because you have not had the time to study the intricacies of trusts, you probably do not thoroughly understand them.

It is likely that you feel that some sort of trust arrangement is needed for the protection of your estate.

What do you need? A living trust? An insurance trust? You probably don't know. We don't know. We cannot logically prescribe for you until we have made a careful, confidential analysis of your particular situation.

That is why we have established a department which is a laboratory for estate owners' problems. Here we can learn of your desires, study your estate, and by combining the information arrive at a logical plan for the protection of your interests.

We have just published a book describing the work of this department. This book, entitled "A Service of Estate Analysis," is for the man or woman who has an estate and to whom a clear conception of personal trust services and their applications is valuable.

Send for a copy today.

Here are some of the things covered by this book:

1. An outline of the preliminary survey which we make of estate problems brought to us for our study and suggestions. This survey contains:
(a) valuable suggestions for the man who feels that his estate is inadequate for his family's needs.
(b) information which helps you determine from your own circumstances the type or types of trusts which should be created to cover your individual requirements adequately.
(c) suggestions concerning estate management and conservation, showing how you can be relieved of this constant responsibility and worry.
(d) the story of one estate and how its problems were solved.
(e) a chart showing graphically the arrangement of the various trusts used in organizing and protecting this estate.

2. How we make recommendations based upon the findings developed by our survey.

3. A tabulation of the information available at our offices concerning all phases of estate creation, conservation and management to help the busy man study these phases in the light of his own estate before consulting his lawyer and trust company.

4. Some facts that will aid you in the selection of a business manager for your estate.

5. Some important factors in the investment policies of your Trustee which should be considered.

6. Some general qualifications to look for in your Trustee.

BROKERS FIGHT FEE PROPOSED BY BANKS

BIG EXTRA EXPENSE SEEN

Final Decision by Committee Acting for Clearing House Is Expected Soon.

The Association of Stock Exchange Firms yesterday announced a fight to the finish with the Clearing House committee of New York banks on the latter's plan announced a month ago to make a charge of 1 per cent on overcertifications. In a letter sent to its members the association urges that "member firms immediately approach their individual banks and urge them in no uncertain terms to vigorously oppose" the contemplated action of the Clearing House committee.

In the matter of overcertifications it has been the practice for years for stock brokers to arrange day loans with their bankers before the opening of the market and to back these loans shortly after the close of the stock market in the afternoon. No charge has been made by the banks for this service, and it has come to be regarded as an accommodation to customers. The usual procedure is for the broker to give his note to the bank for the sum required, which in the case of large firms amounts to several millions of dollars, and later to give the bank Stock Exchange collateral when the money is actually paid over. In view of the huge day-to-day loans thus arranged a charge of 1 per cent would add tremendously to the cost of doing business by the broker, it is said.

The member of one large Stock Exchange house said yesterday that by far the greater part of overcertification is caused by the switching of loans. So that if it were not for the turnover caused by the custom of the banks to call loans in the morning and reloan in the afternoon certification requirements of stock brokers would be negligible, according to the broker.

The letter sent out by the Association of Stock Exchange Firms to its members follows:

"A month ago the question of making a 1 per cent charge on overcertifications was taken up by the Clearing House Committee of the New York Banks. We understand the committee acting for the Clearing House agreed to withhold final decision until a later date in the near future.

"In the belief that this question is of the very greatest importance, your board of governors suggests that member firms immediately approach their individual banks and urge them in no uncertain terms to vigorously oppose this contemplated action on the part of the Clearing House Committee of the New York Banks."

Loft, Inc., to Increase Capital.

Stockholders of Loft, Inc., approved yesterday a proposal of directors to increase the authorized capital stock from 650,000 to 1,500,000 shares. More than 65 per cent of the outstanding stock was represented at the meeting. Announcement of an offering of new shares to stockholders is expected within two or three weeks.

GUARANTEED STOCKS.

FIRE INSURANCE GAINS REPORTED FOR 1928

Companies' Statements Show Decline in Loss Ratio From 49.28% in 1927 to 46.23%.

Favorable underwriting conditions were experienced by fire insurance companies operating throughout the country during the past year, according to the annual fire and marine insurance report for 1928, made public yesterday by Howard P. Dunham, Insurance Commissioner of Connecticut. This is evidenced by the fact that the companies reporting to Connecticut showed a loss ratio of 46.23 per cent in 1928, compared with 49.28 per cent in 1927. Total losses incurred by all the companies decreased by $16,791,049, whereas earned premiums increased by $23,205,642.

An aggregate underwriting gain in surplus of $78,334,171 was reported by 260 fire and marine companies in 1928, against $54,383,870 reported by 259 companies for 1927. This gain was more than sufficient to offset the decrease in investment profits from $184,349,173 in 1927 to $167,804,401 in 1928.

Connecticut stock fire insurance companies shared in the favorable underwriting experience throughout the country, showing an underwriting profit of $8,810,746 in 1928, compared with $6,496,790 in 1927. The ratio of losses incurred to premiums earned for these companies was 47.97 per cent in 1928 against 50.91 per cent in 1927.

The underwriting experience in Connecticut was even more profitable to the fire insurance companies in 1928 than in 1927. The total premium income from Connecticut business was $14,220,517 and the losses incurred amounted to $4,544,584. As compared with 1927, this was an increase in premiums received of $488,294 and a decrease in losses incured of $619,619.

The 280 fire insurance companies operating in Connecticut reported total gains in surplus of $187,872,935, after declaring $110,474,565 in dividends, compared with $82,159,173 for 1927. The interest and rents amounted to $92,131,888, against $81,210,073 for the previous year.

COUNTER LIST ERRATIC, MANY ISSUES DECLINE

Bank Shares Very Dull, Insurance Group Weak, Industrials Are Irregular.

Trading in the over-the-counter market followed an irregular course yesterday. Bank and trust shares were extremely dull. Insurance shares were quiet, with weakness shown by some issues. Chain stores and industrials were erratic all day. Sugar stocks were weak, communication issues unchanged.

Declines in the bank and trust division were shown by Park, Seaboard, Equitable, Corn Exchange, Commercial National, Plaza Trust, Manhattan, Guaranty, Central Union new, Brooklyn, Farmers Loan and Trust, Liberty, American, Chase and a few others.

Among the insurance stocks the only gain was shown by United States Merchants and Shippers. Losses were marked against Phoenix, Hartford Steamboiler, Aetna Casualty and Surety, Hartford Fire, Aetna Life, Providence-Washington, Travelers, Aetna Fire and Rhode Island.

Gains in the industrial section were made by National Casket common, Scoville Manufacturing and American Hard Rubber. There was an easier tone to Industrial Acceptance preferred, Zieley Processes, Williams Alloy and Karl Keen Manufacturing.

Gold Seal Electrical Stock Split.

Stockholders of the Gold Seal Electrical Company yesterday approved a four-for-one split-up in the capital stock and authorized an increase from 145,000 to 600,000 no par shares. The new certificates will be ready on or about May 24. The New York Trust Company has been appointed registrar and the United States Corporation Company transfer agent.

American Receipts for De Havilland.

Peter R. Lawson & Co. announced yesterday that they had arranged through the Guaranty Trust Company for the issuance here of American depositary receipts representing ordinary £1 shares of the De Havilland Aircraft Company, Ltd. It is expected that the American receipts will be traded in on one of the exchanges here.

Investment Securities Decline on English Exchange—Stocks Move Irregularly.

THREE-DAY HOLIDAY ENDED

Continental Traders Optimistic of Agreement on Reparations and Prices Are Firm.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 21.—Nervousness over the international monetary outlook influenced gilt-edged securities today. All British funds were lower, including the conversion loan at £76⅛, the 5 per cent war loan at £100⅞ and the funding loan at £87⅞.

Canadian Pacific shares were dull at £234¾, but British rails were steady. Industrials were mainly idle, with Anglo-American shares declining generally. Associated Electric and General Electric were both weak at 54s and 55s respectively. Rubber shares advanced, following an advance in the price of rubber, to 11⅞d. Anglo-American Oil shares slumped 1s 3d to 65s 7½d on the declaration of a 7½ per cent dividend, tax free. Kaffir mines were strong and Rhodesians generally were firm. In the diamond-mines list De Beers closed at £13 9-16 and Rand Mines slightly higher at £2¼.

Money was tight in Lombard Street, with 5 to 5½ per cent charged for overnight loans. The discount market was firm, with 5¾ per cent asked for fine three-month bills. Sterling exchange fell to $4.85, the lowest point in months. The Bank of England reported the sale of £27,416 of bar gold and the withdrawal of 5,000 sovereigns for export.

Traders in Paris Optimistic.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 21.—After the three-day holiday, business on the Bourse today was slack, but the impression was of a fundamentally firm market with optimism prevailing. Most of this optimism can be traced to the United States Government's move to facilitate the success of the experts' conference, for although it is remarked that the actual amount of the reductions proposed is not extremely large, the moral effect of the change in the American attitude will have great weight in the experts' deliberations.

The volume of transactions in the market today, however, was not large, consisting mainly of routine orders accumulated over the holidays, and toward the closing there was a slight decline.

Rentes were well traded. They closed as follows: 3s, 75; 1918 4s, 89.50; 1920 amortizable 5s, 124.50; 1928 5s, 96.50; 1920 6s, 106.90; 1927 amortizable 6s, 109.60.

German Market Buoyant.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 21.—The Boerse opened firm today, with most stocks several points above Friday's closing quotations. Trading was brisk, and the market improved further in the first hour. Purchasing orders from America, France and Switzerland and speculative and covering orders by domestic investors stimulated the market. A drop in dollar exchange to 4.20, the more favorable aspect of the Paris situation and optimistic reports from German industry in connection with increased prices for iron also had animating effects. In the mining group Rhenish Brown Coal rose 5½ points, Harpener 5 and Gelsenkirchen 4 points. Rhenish Western Electric in the electric group advanced 8¾ points. Dyes trust jumped 5 points.

Toward the close of the market speculators realized profits and the highest quotations were not wholly maintained.

COLONIAL AIRWAYS ACCEPTS MERGER

ON A TWO-FOR-ONE BASIS

Three Operating Companies Receive Securities of Holding Concern in Preliminary Trades.

The Aviation Corporation has acquired control of the Colonial Airways Corporation under a stock exchange offer which has been accepted by 76 per cent of the Colonial Airways stockholders, according to an announcement yesterday by Graham B. Grosvenor, president of the Aviation Corporation. Colonial Airways controls airplanes which last year flew 206,532 miles on the New York- Boston, New York-Montreal and Albany-Cleveland contract United States air mail routes.

The period for deposit of shares of all three Colonial Airways operating companies and of Universal Aviation Corporation to be exchanged for stock of the Aviation Corporation had been extended until May 31. Colonial Airways is the holding company for Colonial Air Transport, Inc., which holds the first air mail contract awarded by the government; Colonial Western Airways, Inc., and Canadian Colonial Airways, Inc.

Stockholders of the Colonial operating companies received an offer of shares of Colonial Airways Corporation, a Delaware corporation, organized as a holding concern, for the three Colonial companies, and in turn stock of the Aviation Corporation for their Colonial Airways shares. Acceptance of the proposal by holders of 55 per cent of the stock of the three operating companies and by holders of 51 per cent of the Colonial Airways Corporation stock was made a condition of the consolidation.

There were different bases of exchange; for each share of Colonial Air Transport preferred the holders were to receive 11 6-10 shares of Colonial Airways Corporation; for each share of Colonial Air Transport common, two shares of Colonial Airways Corporation; for each share of Colonial Western preferred, 10, and common, 2, and for each share of Canadian Colonial preferred, 10, common, 2. The ratio of exchange of Colonial Airways Corporation for the Aviation Corporation stock was two for one.

Up to yesterday the number of shares deposited, with the minimum required under the plan, was as follows:

Colonial Air Transport preferred (1,815 required)	2,572
Colonial Air Transport common (1,650 required)	4,014
Colonial Western Airways preferred (4,896 required)	6,400
Colonial Western Airways common (7,659 required)	10,585
Canadian Colonial Airways preferred (3,830 required)	4,241
Canadian Colonial Airways common (8,389 required)	12,281

Mr. Grosvenor pointed out that the control of the three operating companies to Colonial Airways Corporation thus was assured.

Anglo-American Oil.

The Anglo-American Oil Company, Ltd., declared a final dividend of 7½ per cent on the £1 par common stock for 1928, free of income tax. The interim dividend for 1928 was omitted in December.

British-American Tobacco.

The British-American Tobacco Company, Ltd., declared an interim dividend of 10 pence a share, the same as was paid at this time last year.

Owens Illinois Glass Company.

Regular dividends were declared of $3 a share on new preferred stock of the Owens Illinois Glass Company and $1 a share on common stock, payable on July 1 to stockholders of record of June 15. The dividend declaration on 6 per cent preferred stock covers two quarters because of contract provisions for the acquisition of the Illinois Glass Company's assets as of Dec. 31, 1928, for which preferred stock has just been issued in part payment. The dividend on preferred stock therefore dates back to Jan. 1.

New Bank for Ninth Avenue.

Application for permission to organize the Ninth Avenue National Bank and Trust Company with a capital of $500,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $700,000 has been made to the Controller of the Currency in Washington, it was announced yesterday by Maurice M. Wyckoff, attorney, of 50 East Forty-second Street. The site for the bank is at Thirty-sixth Street and Ninth Avenue. Organizers of the bank in addition to Mr. Wyckoff are George K. Shuler, William J. Solomon, Attilio Verna and Christian A. Siebold.

International Union to Absorb Community and Unity—Total Resources $11,000,000.

The International Union Bank, at Twenty-first Street and Fifth Avenue, has acquired, through an exchange of stock, control of the Community State Bank, at Avenue A and East Houston Street, and the Unity State Bank of Brooklyn, at Eighteenth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street. The merged institutions will have a combined capital and surplus of $2,250,000 and total resources of more than $11,000,000.

The Community State Bank and the Unity State Bank will be maintained, with their present personnel, as branches of the International Union Bank. Meetings of stockholders of the respective banks will be held June 5, at which time the terms of the stock transfer will be announced.

The International Union Bank was established in 1924 with a capital and surplus of $500,000 by the Needle Trades Union. The Community State Bank was founded in 1927 and at present has total resources of $2,500,000. The Unity State Bank was organized last Spring and has resources of $1,000,000. According to Solomon Fillin, president of the International Union Bank, it is planned to open additional branches in the near future.

WHEAT PRICES EBB AFTER EARLY RISE

THE SENTIMENT IS BEARISH

Persistent Selling of Corn Results in a Lower Close — Shipping Demand Declines.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 21.—The buying of a large line of December wheat by houses with Eastern connections was largely responsible for an upturn of around ¾ cent in the early trading today. The pit element covered on the buying, but as soon as it ceased and they tried to sell out they found support lacking, and a drop of 2⅝ to 2¾ cents from the high followed, with the July selling at a new low on the crop. All other deliveries were down to within a fraction of the lowest figures recorded, and the close was at net losses of ⅝ to 1⅝ cents. The break was checked by buying against bids and by shorts.

On the way down there was a resumption of buying of December by the East, but it had only a temporary effect. Weakness in Winnipeg attracted considerable attention, as that market was off 1⅝ to 1¾ cents for the day. The break failed to result in any export business of consequence. Buenos Aires was 2½ to 3¼ cents lower. Liverpool closed unchanged to ¼ pence lower as compared with Friday, the last day of trading. The general run of crop comments from Europe were more optimistic.

The trade was disposed to give some attention to an estimate that twenty-one countries had 138,760,000 acres in wheat this season against 133,766,000 acres last year, and led to a belief that unless there was a marked reduction in yields a larger crop than last season would be obtained. Local sentiment is decidedly bearish.

Primary arrivals today, 735,000 bushels; week ago, 677,000 bushels; last year, 601,000 bushels. Shipments, 1,264,000 bushels; week ago, 984,000 bushels; last year, 1,886,000 bushels.

Clear and somewhat warmer weather prevailed over the corn belt and brought in reports of increased planting operations in some sections. There was rather persistent local selling of corn which found support lacking, and the close was 1¼ to 1⅝ cents lower, with the deferred deliveries selling within a fraction of the lowest prices of the year.

Shipping demand fell off and sales were only 87,000 bushels, while the spot basis was 1 cent higher to ½ cent lower, choice showing the most strength. Country offerings to arrive were small. Buenos Aires closed 1¾ to 1⅞ cents lower.

Primary arrivals today 316,000 bushels; week ago, 283,000 bushels; last year, 498,000 bushels. Shipments, 632,000 bushels; week ago, 487,000 bushels; last year, 598,000 bushels.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

STEEL OUTPUT SLACKENS.

Production of Ingots Slightly Less Than in Recent Weeks.

Steel ingot production is now estimated to be at the rate of about 96 per cent of the rated capacity of the industry, compared with 97½ per cent in the preceding week and 97 per cent two weeks ago. Decreases are shown by most of the steel companies, although the operations are still high for this time of the year and considerably above the rate in the corresponding period of 1928.

For the United States Steel Corporation the rate is around rated capacity. This is somewhat below the high record of better than 103 per cent which was established toward the end of last week and also two weeks ago. Independent companies are down to 93 per cent of their capacity, against 94 per cent last week and 95 per cent two weeks ago. At this time last year the Steel Corporation was running about 86½ per cent, with the independents at 78 per cent and the average for the industry around 82 per cent.

RAW SILK FUTURES WEAK.

Decline in Near-By Positions Continues, With Depression in Japan.

The decline of raw silk futures on the National Raw Silk Exchange continued yesterday, the six near-by positions closing from 1 to 4 cents lower. November was unchanged, however, and December was 1 cent higher. Transactions totaled 210 contracts or 1,050 bales. The decline was caused partly by continued depression in the Japanese markets. New lows for the movement were established in most months.

COMPANIES ANNOUNCE CHANGES IN OFFICIALS

Late Myron T. Herrick Succeeded on Union Carbide Board by Edward S. Whitney.

Several changes in directorates and official positions in various companies were announced yesterday.

C. K. G. Billings was elected chairman of the Union Carbide and Carbon Company and George O. Knapp honorary chairman. Edward S. Whitney was elected a director, succeeding Myron T. Herrick, deceased.

At the first meeting of the board of directors of Gorham, Inc., formed by the merger of the jewelry firms of Black, Starr & Frost, Spaulding & Co. and the Fifth Avenue retail store of the Gorham Manufacturing Company, H. J. Fuller was elected chairman of the company and E. C. Mayo was elected president. Other officers elected were: Witherbee Black, vice president; E. Krehbiel, vice president and treasurer; H. C. Tilden, vice president; C. L. Moreau, secretary and assistant treasurer, and Arno Arnold, assistant treasurer. Colonel A. M. Pope, president of the First National Corporation of Boston, was added to the board of directors.

J. P. Pulliam, vice president of the Wisconsin Public Service Corporation, has been elected a director of the Standard Gas and Electric Company, succeeding A. W. Robertson, resigned. All other directors were re-elected.

W. A. Meyerhoff has been elected assistant treasurer of the Pacific Coast Trust Company.

Oliver H. Sawyer has been elected a director of the Safe-Guard Check Writer Corporation.

Charles J. Berkdull, treasurer, has been elected a vice president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Horace K. Corbin, president of the Motor Finance Corporation, and George N. Tidd, president of the American Gas and Electric Company, have been elected directors of the Fidelity Union Trust Company of Newark, N. J.

Two new trustees were added to the board of the American Surety Company, following a meeting of the board yesterday. They are Andrew W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and Alexander New, president of the Mercantile Stores, Inc.

RUBBER FUTURES BREAK.

Drop 80 to 100 Points as London Fails to Respond to Advances.

Failure of London interests to respond to advances made here on Saturday and Monday while the Continental market was having a three-day holiday caused a wide-open break in rubber futures on the Rubber Exchange of New York yesterday. Prices declined 90 to 100 points on sales aggregating 221 contracts, equivalent to 2,302 long tons. Six positions were involved.

Offerings thrown on the market from disappointed quarters in the trade as well as in commission houses swamped traders, stifling a rally in the afternoon and returning the list to the day's low levels near the close. December rubber bore the brunt of the selling.

London closed irregular; spot and May, 11⅛d; June, 11 9-16d; July-September, 11¾d; October-December, 12 1-16d, all bid, unchanged to 1-16d higher. Singapore resumed steady with futures unchanged to 1.16d off. Rubber stock at London dropped 172 tons to 30,955 tons, and at Liverpool 168 tons to 4,216 tons.

RUBBER INDUSTRY REPORTS

Consumption of rubber in the manufacture of tires and kindred products in the first quarter of this year amounted to 110,968 long tons, while 128,565 long tons were consumed in the manufacture of all rubber products, according to estimates of the Rubber Manufacturers' Association covering operations of the entire industry in the United States.

Stocks of crude rubber in the United States totaled 100,115 long tons, on March 31, the association estimates, while 54,038 long tons were being shipped to this country on the same day.

Total sales of tires and tire sundries during the first three months amounted to $187,014,000, and the total sales value of all shipments of rubber products was $274,050,000.

Total production of reclaimed rubber in the United States during the first quarter was estimated at 57,552 long tons. Consumption of reclaimed rubber during the same period amounted to 60,113 long tons.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 21.—While hog receipts here were not large, the market showed an easier undertone, with prices steady to 10 cents lower. The top was unchanged at $11.15, while the day's average was 5 cents lower at $10.70. Bulk of desirable weights sold at $10.50 to $11, with packing sows at $9.40 to $9.90. Packers bought 11,100 and shippers 3,500, with 5,000 left over. Receipts 18,000, with 14,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Cattle sold slowly, but prices were little changed. Best yearlings sold at $14.75 and heavy steers at $14.25, with bulk of beef cattle at $13 to $13.75. Receipts 5,500. Fat lambs were steady, with bulk of shorn at $12.75 to $13.25, while Springs were 15 to 25 cents higher. Californias sold at $16.90 to $16.60. Sheep were steady at $5.75 to $6.75. Receipts 15,000.

Charles M. Schwab, president of the Institute, will preside and will present to James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, the Gary Medal for distinguished services to the industry.

PRICES IRREGULAR IN COTTON MARKET

STOCKS FIGURED AS SMALL.

Heavy rains throughout the Carolinas and parts of Georgia, together with night temperatures in the 40s and 50s over the greater portion of the South, exerted a steadying influence on transactions on the Cotton Exchange yesterday. A continuation of the previous day's selling eased prices in the early trading, but active mill calling in the May delivery strengthened July to 14 points over October, as spot houses took July against the May supplied to the trade. Operators expected complaints in today's weekly summary, and this restricted selling, and final quotations showed a gain of 2 to a loss of 9 points on the day after a moderate volume of business.

A light movement of cotton from the interior in the last few weeks has reduced stocks at port and interior towns to about 400,000 bales less than the figures of a year ago. Exports for the season are now 712,000 bales ahead of last year after being 1,075,000 ahead a few months ago.

Business abroad was resumed after the holidays, with comparatively unimportant price changes either in Liverpool or in Alexandria despite the improvement on this side during the holidays.

Reports of an advance in the basis in the South, with July in New Orleans selling above July quotations in New York, stimulated the reversal of the straddle between the old and new crop positions. July sold 2 points over December at times, compared with a discount of 33 points two weeks ago.

According to the Garside Service, the amount of cotton in this country on May 1, including mill stocks, was 4,662,000 bales, or 600,000 bales less than a year ago, and about 800,000 bales less than the average of the last four years, as well as the smallest quantity since the Spring of 1925.

GRAIN RATE REDUCTION IS AUTHORIZED BY I.C.C.

Eastern and Western Railroads Get Permission to Cut Freight on Export Wheat and Flour.

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized Eastern and Western railroads to reduce freight rates on export wheat and wheat flour.

Application for the reduced rates recently was made by the railroads at the suggestion of the Administration to aid farmers in disposing of the present surplus crop before the new crop is harvested.

Permission already has been granted for reduced rates on wheat from Buffalo to North Atlantic ports.

In line with the action of the railroads, the Mississippi-Warrior service today applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to put in force temporary rail-barge rates in wheat and flour which would give a reduction corresponding to that granted to the railroads.

GRAIN EXPORTS INCREASE.

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP).—Grain exports from the United States last week totaled 2,802,000 bushels compared with 2,103,000 for the previous week and 3,027,000 for the corresponding week last year.

Department of Commerce figures today showed the amount of wheat exported last week was 2,358,000 bushels compared with 1,537,000 for the previous week; corn, 309,000, against 191,000; barley 85,000, against 103,000; oats 50,000, against 46,000; rye none, against 28,000.

Canadian grains cleared from United States Atlantic ports totaled 2,518,000 bushels compared with 2,054,000 for the previous week, while wheat flour exported was 198,000 barrels, against 55,000.

To Discuss Press and Textiles.

A symposium on the relations between the press and the textile industry will take place tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the New York Board of Trade. E. Howard Bennett of The American Wool and Cotton Reporter, Vernon E. Carroll of The Daily News Record, Miss Margaret Case of Vogue and Louis Wiley of The New York Times will be the speakers. There will be general discussion afterwards.

California to Ship Many Lambs.

Shipments of lambs from California to the East will break all records this year, according to R. L. Ruby, superintendent of transportation for the Southern Pacific Company. More than 400,000 Spring lambs will be shipped east from California, surpassing last year's record figures by more than 70,000. The heaviest shipments are from the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys.

ZINC PRODUCTION REDUCED.

Less in April Than in March, but Greater Than a Year Ago.

Zinc production in the United States and the world was slightly less in April than in March, according to an announcement made yesterday by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

The world's production of zinc in April was 136,197 tons, or a daily average of 4,537 tons, compared with 137,874 in March, or a daily average of 4,448. Production in April, 1928, was 130,545 tons, or a daily average of 4,352 tons. The output in the United States in April was 54,653 compared with 55,471 tons in March and 48,154 tons in February.

TIN FUTURES DECLINE.

Standard tin futures declined 30 to 35 points yesterday on the National Metal Exchange. Transactions totaled 120 tons. The decline was caused by weakness on the London Metal Exchange.

Price ranges for tin yesterday were:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.

MERCHANTS GROUP GETS 235 MEMBERS

650 Workers Report on First Day's Campaign by the Association.

WINNING TEAM GETS 29

Applications for membership in the Merchants' Association of New York totaling 235 were obtained yesterday, the first day of that organization's first membership campaign in seven years. Teams participating in the drive reported 274 new application at the campaign luncheon at the Astor, but it was explained that some of these could not be listed yesterday afternoon and would be reported later.

The campaign is being carried on by 650 volunteer workers divided into 166 teams. All but 200 reported at the Astor at 9:30 yesterday morning, where they received their lists of prospects for the day. Three hours later the workers reassembled at luncheon and turned in the results of their canvass. The same program will be followed today, tomorrow and Friday, with a final clean-up day next Tuesday, when the noon luncheon will mark the official close of the drive.

Lincoln Cromwell, chairman of the general campaign committee, presided at the luncheon. The reports were posted on a large blackboard. Mr. Cromwell introduced Willis H. Booth, president of the association, who expressed satisfaction at the day's total.

Lewis E. Pierson, also a member of the general committee, promised that he and Mr. Booth would give a silver-headed malacca walking stick as a prize to each member of every team obtaining an average of five new members per worker.

Thirty-three teams were assigned to the plural division to seek "plural" or collective memberships. It was explained that firms would be asked to take such memberships to enable their younger executives to become members of the association, thus building up a membership of the future business leaders of the city.

Team 24-A in the plural division, headed by W. H. La Boyteaux, made the best showing for the day, with twenty-nine applications. Team 1-A, in the same division, headed by Percy H. Johnston, was second with fourteen applications, while team No. 5, in the general division, headed by Bernard K. Marcus, was third with twelve applications.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—6 per cent for the best names. Monday—6 per cent for the best names. The quotations are for 4 to 6 months' paper.

Buyers' Arrivals Higher.

The number of buyers in town during the past week was slightly above the number for last week and for the corresponding week a year ago. The total for the week ended yesterday was 834, which compares with 819 in the preceding week and 829 in the same week last year, according to lists published in THE TIMES. Yesterday's arrivals were 361, an increase over last Tuesday, when 314 were reported.

Sales Buying Still a Feature.

Calls for sales merchandise continues an outstanding feature of the business being done in this market, reflecting efforts of retailers to meet competitive offerings and to spur a turnover somewhat sluggish because of adverse weather. While producers are generally credited with having no excessive stocks on hand, buyers say they are meeting little or no difficulty in covering their sales needs. Reorders on Summer merchandise still lack the snap expected at this time and not a few manufacturers have found the last few weeks a distinct disappointment. Moreover, the profitable period of wholesaling Summer goods is rapidly shortening without much tangible improvement.

Exporters Hear Vienna Attache.

In trading with Austria, Hungary and Yugoslavia, American exporters will find it best to handle the business through a central agency in Vienna, Dr. Lawrence Groves, commercial attaché of the Department of Commerce, said at the luncheon meeting yesterday of the Export Managers' Club at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Prospects in Yugoslavia have improved somewhat, he said, but opposition to the dictatorship and the effecting of a radical economic reconstruction make the immediate outlook uncertain. While in Hungary there is a pronounced agricultural problem, this country at present offers a better immediate market for manufactured products than either Austria or Yugoslavia. Mr. Groves was stationed at Vienna, but has been transferred to Berlin.

To Meet on Silk Weighting.

Representatives of a dozen trade associations have been invited to a discussion of silk weighting from the consumer standpoint. The meeting has been called by Channing E. Swisher, director of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, and will be held in that organization's offices next Wednesday. In the letter of invitation emphasis was placed on limits of silk weighting and possible methods and means of conveying the percentage of weighting content through the process of fabrication and distribution of silk merchandise.

Some Gain in Toy Orders.

Group buying meetings on toys have been productive of a fair amount of additional business, but department stores have yet to write a substantial volume of orders for holiday delivery. The belief is that much of this will be delayed until August or September. Indications are that imported toys will constitute a comparatively small percentage of the total business, and will be largely items selling at a low unit cost. The immediate or near-by delivery business being placed with manufacturers is mainly for sale just prior to Children's Day, June 16.

Low-End Hosiery Active Here.

There is no dearth of activity in low-end hosiery in this market at the moment. While relatively little women's cotton hose is being sold for domestic wear, thousands of dozens are being exported weekly to South African and Latin-American markets. Women's hosiery sales in this country are very largely made up of full-fashioned goods of all types, in which popular-priced numbers in Bemberg yarns are moving freely. In men's low-end goods, fibre-plated fancies—principally plaid effects—are wanted most. These retail from 39 cents a pair up. Despite the vagaries of the weather, general business in low-end hose compares very well with that of a year ago.

Gain in Men's Rayon Underwear.

Reports indicate that considerably broader distribution is being made of men's rayon underwear this season, reflecting the headway manufacturers are making in featuring this merchandise. Production schedules have been stepped up and not a few new producers have entered the field. The trend is to medium and popular priced garments, including union suits or athletic shirts to be worn with novelty cotton shorts. Both white and pastel-colored garments are being played up.

Sports Accessories Sales Behind.

The almost continuous rains of the past six weeks have had a noticeable effect on sales of sports accessories, it was said here yesterday. This is particularly true of sales of baseballs and tennis balls, and is directly traceable to wet grounds and courts. Sales of golf balls, while off somewhat compared with those of the same period last year, make a better showing than tennis or baseballs. This is attributed to the growing number of golf players, especially those using public links, who play in rainy weather. Business in golf sticks, tennis rackets and baseball equipment has been good, but the slump in the number of lost and damaged balls in all three fields has cut into general sales volume.

Lightweight "Unions" Returning.

Manufacturers of men's lightweight union suits in broadcloths and pajama checks have been caught napping, it was said here yesterday, by an active revival in the call for this merchandise by jobbers. Sales of these goods have been quite noticeably cut into during the past year or more by the swing of consumer demand to separate garments of the pullover, sleeveless shirt type and the running pant style of drawers. The latter garments continue to dominate the call for lightweight underwear, but the demand for the "athletic" union suit is regarded the feature of the current business here. Stocks are none too heavy in any part of the lightweight field, and many deliveries are behind.

Gray Goods Interest Falls Off.

Interest of buyers in the local gray goods market apparently fell off again yesterday, for the volume of business transacted was not large. Spot buying of 39-inch 68-72 print-cloths was reported at 8 cents and there was some trading in nearby 38½-inch 60-48s at 6¼ cents. Spot sales of 36-inch 5.50-yard sheetings were made at 6 cents, while sales of 37-inch 48-square four-yard goods were reported in fair quantities at 7½ cents. In the East there was some selling of 37½-inch 4.70-yard sateens at 10 cents. Not much was done in the fine-yarn cloths, but 10 cents was paid for spot 90-60 carded broadcloths.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT. SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK. JOHN DREWEN and F. HAMPTON BERWAGER, plaintiffs, against UNION DISCOUNT COMPANY, INC., defendant. E 43-82.

In pursuance of an order duly made in the above entitled action the HONORABLE FRANK J. COLEMAN, United States District Judge, Southern District of New York, on the 20th day of April, 1929, notice is hereby given to all the creditors of the UNION DISCOUNT COMPANY, INC., to wit, that they are hereby required to exhibit and prove their claims against the Union Discount Company, Inc., with JOHN C. WATSON and CHARLES H. STRONG, Receivers of the UNION DISCOUNT COMPANY, INC., at their place of transacting business as said receivers, No. 67 West 44th Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, within sixty (60) days from the 20th day of April, 1929, and that all creditors who make default in so doing shall be precluded from all benefit of the judgment, and from any distribution which may be made thereunder, and that all claims be proven by presentation of vouchers accompanied by an affidavit of the party or one of the parties interested or an agent of said party or parties, having knowledge of the facts that the whole amount of debt shown in said vouchers is justly due from the UNION DISCOUNT COMPANY, INC., or from said receivers to the creditor named in the vouchers, over and above all set-offs and counterclaims, with liberty to said receivers to contest any of the claims so proven as they may be advised, and that said receivers may apply. If necessary, to the Court for instructions in regard to any of the claims that may be contested.

Dated, New York, April 20th, 1929.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

STORES. OLIVIA EGLESTON PHELPS.—The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to Helen Marion Arbuthnot, Caroline Elizabeth Mabel Arbuthnot, Arthur Sydney Hunter, Boone College, Barnard College, being the persons interested as creditors, legatees, next of kin or otherwise in the estate of Olivia Eglesston Phelps, late of Stamford, deceased, who at the time of her death was a resident of New York County, send greeting:

Upon the petition of J. Newton Phelps Stokes residing at No. 1213 Fifth Avenue, New York City, N. Y., and Anson Phelps Stokes, residing at No. 2408 Massachusetts Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C.

You and each of you are hereby cited to show cause, before the Surrogate's Court of New York County, held at the Hall of Records, in the County of New York, on the 31st day of May, 1929, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day why the account of proceedings of J. Newton Phelps, Stokes and Anson Phelps Stokes as executors of the last will and testament of said deceased should not be judicially settled.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the seal of the Surrogate's Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Honorable Foster M. Foley, Surrogate of our said county at the County of New York, the 24th day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine.

SELLS 42 BROADWAY, HELD AT $9,000,000

Frederick Brown Resells 21-Story Offices to Manhattan Properties, Inc.

SELLER OWNED IT 1 DAYS

Frederick Brown has resold the twenty-one-story office building at 42 Broadway and 49 to 61 New Street after an ownership of eleven days, it was announced yesterday. The new owner is the Manhattan Properties, Inc., William Backer, president.

The property was bought by Mr. Brown from the Melpomene Realty Corporation through Joseph P. Day, the announcement of the purchase at the time placing the holding price at $8,000,000. In announcing the resale yesterday Mr. Brown said the property had been held by him for resale at $9,000,000. Heil & Stern, brokers, negotiated yesterday's deal.

The building occupies a plot of 21,500 square feet, fronting 116 feet on Broadway and running through to New Street, where it has a frontage of 115 feet. The northerly line of the building measures 175 feet and the southerly line 197 feet. It has an annual rental of $1,000,000 and will be held by the Manhattan Properties, Inc., for investment. The structure has among its tenants leading bankers, stock brokers and lawyers.

Another downtown resale by a leading operator was announced yesterday when Joseph F. A. O'Donnell sold the six-story loft at 102 Water Street, adjoining the corner of Fletcher Street, to Jacob & Allison for their occupancy. The buyers will move into the premises after being at 18 Cedar Street for twenty-eight years. The building occupies a lot 18 by 80 feet and was sold through Ryan-Brady, Inc., brokers.

An investor bought 401 and 403 Greenwich Street, between Beach and Hubert Streets. The property comprises two three-story buildings on a plot 50 by 100 feet. The seller was the Phoenix Cold Storage Company.

The new owner plans to modernize the buildings. Snowber & Co. were the brokers.

William D. Kilpatrick, operator, sold the five-story building at 58-60 Greene Street, near Broome Street, to a client of Cammann & Voorhees, brokers, for occupancy. The plot is 50 by 100 feet.

EXTENDS 3D AV. PLOT.

The Alliance Realty Company has purchased from Henry Wissman and others the property at 1,257-1,259 Third Avenue, between Seventy-second and Seventy-third Streets. The plot is 51 by 110 feet. The purchase gives the Alliance Realty Company a plot of 128 feet on Third Avenue by 130 feet on Seventy-second Street. William A. White & Sons were the brokers.

The property at 316 East Seventy-first Street, a five-story tenement, was recently sold to Simon Engel for John Lovastik. This transaction completes the assembling of a plot of 100 by 100 feet, which includes 310 to 316. Simon H. Simons was the broker in the transaction.

Louis Lent and Joseph Spooner sold for Maria Carusotto 305 East Forty-fourth Street, a five-story building, 25 by 100 feet, to Marie Stiebeck.

H. G. REED BUYS HOUSE.

Attorney Acquires the Clark Residence in East 81st Street.

Mrs. Howard G. Clark, represented by Louis Carreau, broker, sold the four-story high stoop residence at 46 East Eighty-first Street to Horace G. Reed, attorney, who plans to rebuild the house from plans by Aymar Embury 2d for occupancy. The lot is 20 by 100 feet and the property was held at $75,000. This was the first transfer of the house in about fifty years. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. negotiated the sale.

Malcolm E. Smith, Inc., has sold for Dr. Oscar P. Honegger his residence at 111 East Ninety-fourth Street to a client, who will hold the house for investment.

THREE MEN FIGHT OCTOPUS.

Californians Kill 12-Foot Monster After Two-Hour Battle.

SAN MATEO, Cal., May 21 (AP).—How three men in a small boat fought a battle with a twelve-foot octopus was told here last night by Earl Small, Charles Rose and Robert Holtz of this city. The octopus was placed on display in a sporting goods shop.

Small said he hooked the octopus while fishing twelve miles out yesterday. The combined strength of the three men was required to bring the monster to the surface. When it came up, Small asserted, the air seemed filled with flying tenacles. One was cut off by Rose as it twined itself about Small's leg. Another was severed as it was caught by the boat's propeller.

Knives, boathooks and gaffs were used in the two-hour battle before the octopus was killed.

26 STRIKE PICKETS JAILED.

Court Scores Cafeteria Defendants in Imposing Sentences.

"These defendants are a menace and should be deported," declared Magistrate Edward Weil in Jefferson Market Court yesterday in finding a group of cafeteria strikers guilty of disorderly conduct.

John Taylor, 23 years old, was sentenced to six months in the workhouse. He had been convicted twice previously for strike picketing. Eleven strikers were sent to jail for thirty days each and fourteen were fined $25 with an option of serving two days in jail. They chose jail. Twelve strikers arrested in front of a cafeteria at 250 West Thirty-ninth Street were held over for arraignment on May 27.

"We will picket in defiance of the injunctions," said Samuel Kramberg, treasurer of the union. "The injunctions will not send the men back to work." He asserted that while pickets had been badly beaten and then arrested.

A Murray Hill house, which had been owned by J. P. Morgan for seventeen years before its purchase last March by the Kempner Realty Corporation, was resold yesterday by the Kempner interests to an investor.

This is a four-story American basement residence with a frontage of 17 feet and built the full depth of a lot 96 feet deep. It is near the southeast corner of Park Avenue and is known as 104 East Thirty-fifth Street. The Kempners acquired the house from the Flintlock Realty Company, the holding company for Mr. Morgan's real estate. The deal yesterday was negotiated by Warren L. Marks, broker.

Amele Hall, an eight-story apartment house at 536 West 111th Street, was resold yesterday by George Zauderer & Sons, operators, to an investor. The building accommodates fifty families and was held at $500,000. It rents for $60,000 a year, according to the sellers.

The property is seventy-five feet east of the southeast corner of Broadway and 111th Street and abuts the Corn Exchange Bank at 110th Street, William P. Brodsky was the broker in the transaction.

James J. Nolan sold through Nehring Brothers, brokers, the two five-story tenement houses at 749 and 751 Columbus Avenue, adjoining the southeast corner of Seventy-ninth Street. The purchaser is Frank Malatsky, and this was the first sale of the property in twenty-six years. The plot is 51 by 100 feet.

Leopold and Julius Buchsbaum, west side operators, have sold 761 Amsterdam Avenue, northeast corner of Ninety-seventh Street. The property is a five-story building, containing two stores and twelve apartments. The brokers were Leon Stein and Louis F. Sommer.

GET STEEL REPORT.

City Building Officials Will Study Merchants' Plan.

Copies of the 100-page report of the subcommittees on minimum loads and structural steel and iron of the building code committee of the Merchants' Association of New York were given to representatives of the Building Departments of the five boroughs, of the Tenement House Commissioner and of the Fire Department yesterday. The building officials were guests of the merchants' committee at a luncheon at the Uptown Club, and will gather again after two weeks for another luncheon, at which they will announce their reaction to the proposed revisions of the code.

The report regarding steel construction is understood to recommend a change in the old standards allowing a stress of 16,000 pounds per square inch. It is likely the recommendations will ask for an increase to 18,000 pounds, or thereabouts, thus effecting a saving in building costs. The full revised code, it is reported, will not be ready for several months.

Aviation Corporation Leases Floor.

The Aviation Corporation of Delaware, a $2,000,000 holding and developing company, has leased for a long term the forty-fifth floor in the new fifty-six-story Chanin Building at Forty-second Street and Lexington Avenue. The company includes among its subsidiaries the Fairchild Aviation Corporation, which occupies the forty-seventh and forty-eighth floors in the same building. The floors are to be operated as a unit by the Aviation Corporation. Brown, Wheelock, Harris, Vought & Co. and Cushman & Wakefield were the brokers.

Childs Rents in Savoy-Plaza Annex.

The Childs Restaurant Company has leased from the United States Realty and Improvement Company more than 13,000 square feet on the ground floor of the Savoy-Plaza Hotel addition, extending through from Fifty-eighth to Fifty-ninth Streets, just east of Fifth Avenue. The lease is for twenty-one years at a total rental of about $1,500,000. About $500,000 will be spent to fit the space for restaurant purposes, according to Harry S. Black, chairman of the realty company. J. C. Westervelt, architect, has prepared the plans.

Old Hall in Westport Sold.

A three-story brick building in Westport, Conn., known locally as National Hall, has been sold by Hunt, Dawns & Sunderland to Elliott C. Carter. The structure, which includes stores, lodge rooms and an auditorium, fronts 78 feet on State Street and 172 feet on the Saugatuck River. For some fifty years it housed the Westport Bank. State police and others are the present tenants. The parcel was held at $65,000, according to John Crawford, the broker.

TISHMANS RESELL PARK AV. CORNER

WAS HELD AT $2,200,000

Ruford Building Corporation Buys East 79th St. Plot for Housing Project—Other Sales.

A quick resale of the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Seventy-ninth Street was made yesterday by the Tishman Realty and Construction Company, which bought the property last week. A syndicate headed by John Sloan, of Sloan & Robertson, architects, has purchased the property for an eighteen-story cooperative apartment house.

Known as 893 Park Avenue and 100-114 East Seventy-ninth Street, the realty fronts 101 feet on the avenue and 157 feet on the street. It contains 15,700 square feet and was held by the Tishmans at $2,200,000. The A. M. Bing & Son Realty Corporation was the seller to the Tishmans.

Mr. Sloan's firm is to prepare plans for the new cooperative, which is to have apartments ranging in size from eight to seventeen rooms. These are to be in both simplex and duplex arrangement, and above the eighth floor there are to be roof garden terraces.

Demolition of the present improvements is to be started in October and it is planned to have the structure completed about Aug. 1, 1930. William T. O'Reilly, contractor, will erect it.

As the site for a sixteen-story and penthouse apartment building, the property at 225 and 227 East Seventy-ninth Street has been purchased by Leo Bernstein for the Ruford Building Corporation. The seller was the Subido Building Corporation. The plot is 50 by 102 feet, and the plans for the proposed improvement have already been filed. Demolition is scheduled to start July 1.

Maurice Epstein bought for a fifteen-story building the site at 345 East Seventy-second Street, 26 by 102 feet. The site was held at $125,000 and was sold by Frank Ficek through Loomis J. Groesman.

Andresen & Bremer, brokers, sold to the Lilac Realty Corporation, Eugene Stern, president, 1,770 Second Avenue, fifty feet north of the northeast corner of Ninety-second Street. The property consists of a two-story business building, 25 by 100 feet. The seller was the Meydel Realty Company.

DWELLINGS LAW SUIT DELAYED TWO WEEKS

Attorney for Apartment Owner Says Lower Standards Are Set in New Statute.

The preliminary move for a test of the constitutionality of the new multiple dwellings law was postponed yesterday when argument on a motion for an injunction to restrain Tenement House Commissioner William F. Deegan from enforcing the provisions of the statute was delayed for two weeks to June 4 by Supreme Court Justice Edward J. Gavegan at the request of a representative of the Attorney General. The injunction application and the action to test the law are being sponsored by Ernest W. Adler, owner of an apartment house at 400 and 402 East Ninety-third Street, through his attorney, Jacob B. Aronoff.

Mr. Adler has said his action is in behalf of all property owners in a situation similar to his own and is in answer to an order of the Tenement House Commissioner directing the maintenance of a light in the hallways of the Ninety-third Street apartment from sunset to sunrise, as provided in the multiple dwellings law.

Harold Riegelmann, counsel to the Commission for the Revision of the Tenement House Law, which framed the new law, and member of the multiple dwellings law advisory committee, which grew out of the commission, said yesterday that his group was following the test carefully.

"We have no doubt in our own minds of the constitutionality of the law and will interest ourselves only in seeing that it is given a fair test," Mr. Riegelmann stated.

Mr. Aronoff expressed the belief yesterday that "the home rule amendment is a charter of liberties which the people of New York City certainly believe to be important enough to defend."

"We cannot permit," he continued, "the up-State groups which always have been hostile to the residents of this city to destroy home rule under the pretext of an unusual interest in the conditions under which we live. As a practical matter, with the exception of a few sections which are an improvement over the tenement house law, the multiple dwellings statute not only does not improve conditions here, but, on the contrary, sets in many instances a lower standard than that required by the old law."

DEALS IN NEW JERSEY.

Weehawken and Jersey City Parcels Exchanged.

Ira W. Caldwell of Jersey City sold the two-story building at the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Sixth Street, Weehawken, to the Paramount Garage Company, taking in part payment a two-family frame house at 370 Webster Avenue and the adjoining brick dwelling at 372. The aggregate value of the realty traded was $170,000, according to J. I. Kislak, Inc., the broker.

Saul Garfinkel, owner of the Congress Pharmacy in Jersey City, is president of the Paramount company. Its new holding covers a plot about 100 feet square, with four stores on the ground floor and space for 100 automobiles in the remainder of the structure. Mason Zeller, secretary of the company, will operate the garage, which is near the West Shore terminal and ferries.

The eight-family apartment house at 138 Duncan Avenue, Jersey City, was sold by Fred V. Werban to James McGuigan, local builder and investor, who gave in part payment a three-story frame dwelling at 126-30 Old Bergen Road, on a plot 81 by 100 feet. The realty is valued at $60,000. The apartment is on a plot 32 by 112 feet on the north side of Duncan Avenue, between Hudson Boulevard and Westside Avenue. J. I. Kislak, Inc., was the broker.

Dorothy, Elizabeth and B. Muirheid Van Cleve sold their former home at 12 Wetmore Avenue, Morristown, to Henry F. Dempsey, a local resident, who plans to occupy. The house, which contains nine rooms and bath, is on a plot 50 by 125 feet. Eugene V. Welsh arranged the sale.

Buys 11-Room Apartment.

Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. have sold to Montgomery C. Ellbeck for the Lenox Hill Building Corporation an apartment of eleven rooms and five baths in the 100% cooperative building being erected at 4 East Seventy-second Street by George A. Fuller Company, from plans by F. Burrall Hoffman and Lafayette A. Goldstone.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

Sugarman & Berger, architects, are preparing plans of a twelve-story building for 36 West Thirty-seventh Street, according to Malcolm E. Smith, Inc., agent. The Mary E. Miller estate owns the site.

Walter S. Schneider, architect, is preparing for the Kanter Realty Corporation, Zelig J. Kanter, president, plans of a fifteen-story apartment house for the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and 103d Street, on a plot 50 by 95 feet. The apartments will be of one to three rooms. Construction is expected to begin in the near future.

Robert S. Lynd of the Social Science Research Council bought an apartment of six rooms and three baths in 75 Central Park West, a 100 per cent cooperative being erected at the north corner of Sixty-seventh Street by Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc., from plans by Rosario Candela. Fesse & Elliman, Inc., arranged the sale through their west side office.

The firm of Samuel D. Landau will conduct its real estate business under the name of Samuel D. Landau, Inc., at new quarters in 276 Fifth Avenue.

H. R. Ryder of Gilchrist, Bliss & Co., bought one of the few remaining large apartments in 720 Park Avenue, a 100 per cent cooperative being erected at the northwest corner of Seventieth Street by Starrett Brothers, from plans by Gross & Gross and Rosario Candela. Sutton, Blagden & Lynch, Inc., were the brokers.

The estate of H. O. Havemeyer leased cottages at Bayberry Point, Islip, L. I., to James Francis Kernan and Anthony B. Brown. Albert B. Ashford, Inc., was the broker.

DAVIES BUYS A SITE FOR BRONX STORES

Assembles Holdings at 31, 32 and 34 Westchester Square for Improvement.

WHITE PLAINS AV. DEAL

Lipgor Realty Co. Buys Corner at 236th Street for a New Taxpayer Building.

J. Clarence Davies assembled a plot fronting on Westchester Square yesterday for improvement with a business building for chain store tenants at the expiration of present leases on the property.

Mr. Davies bought from the Golran Realty Corporation, Ely Maran, president, the one-story structure at 32 and 34 Westchester Square, adjoining the new home of the Bank of Manhattan Company. Mr. Davies bought from William F. Clare the two-story frame structure at 31 Westchester Square and now has a plot 93 by 98 feet, where he plans to erect the new building.

The realty was held at $125,000 and the broker was Vincent McEvily.

Mr. McEvily sold and resold a plot on the west side of Calhoun Avenue, 300 feet south of Eastern Boulevard, the last buyers being Harry Carpman and Louis Poluxt.

As a site for a one-story taxpayer, the northwest corner of White Plains Avenue and 236th Street, fronting 116 feet on the avenue, has been sold by S. Gordon to the Lipgor Realty Company. The H. Oscar Company negotiated the sale of the property.

Victor Santini bought for a client a holding on Park Avenue in the Bronx yesterday by purchasing the southeast corner of 150th Street and Park Avenue. This is a plot 125 by 125 feet, which was owned jointly by F. Di Donato and A. Petrillo, the present sellers. It adjoins a Park Avenue parcel just north of 149th Street owned by Mr. Santini, who has also bought for his client a lot 25 by 80 feet on 149th Street, 205 feet east of Park Avenue, from N. Pierotto.

Carey Brothers sold to a client of Mr. Santini the garage at the northeast corner of 148th Street and Park Avenue for $340,000. A. Luscio sold to a client of Mr. Santini the plot 150 feet east of Park Avenue, running through from 149th to 148th Street.

The building at 4,699-4,709 White Plains Avenue, northwest corner of 241st Street, has been sold by the Grebeland Realty Corporation, Mrs. Anna Landgrebe, president, to John Moran Jr. The building occupies a plot 115 by 155 feet and was held at $285,000. A resale of the property is pending, according to John J. Reynolds, broker in the deal.

OTHER BRONX SALES.

Deals in Vacant and Other Parcels Reported Yesterday.

The Sanjac Realty Corporation sold the northwest corner of Duncan Street and Hone Avenue for the Bellam Realty Company to an investor. This is a plot 100 by 225 feet.

A plot 75 by 150 feet on the west side of Bronx Boulevard, 480 feet north of 236th Street, was bought yesterday by the Hillball Building Corporation through Albert G. Illich, broker.

Edward B. Shanahan, broker, sold for the Castlehill Estates, a parcel on the east side of Castlehill Avenue, 100 feet south of Norton Avenue, to a Mr. Dillman who will improve with stores and apartments.

Flynn & Co. resold for the Turlough Realty Company to Thomas and Annie Hughes the one-family stucco house at 1,133 White Plains Avenue.

Henry H. Curran Buys Suite.

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, bought an apartment of six rooms and three baths on the sixth floor of 40 Fifth Avenue, it was announced yesterday. The building is now under construction at the southwest corner of Eleventh Street by the Calvin-Morris Corporation. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. were the brokers.

BUSINESS LEASES.

Leases for business purposes announced yesterday included the following:

Spear Textile Company, second floor in 424-26 Broadway; Endor Manufacturing Corporation, eighth floor in 213-17 Grand Street; Pioneer Air Compressor Company, store in 243 Canal Street, through Charles F. Noyes Company; Bollman, Vossler & Co., brokers.

Bailey Avenue, southeast corner of Throgmorton Avenue, two-story frame dwelling, 24 by 28 feet; John Crocetti, owner; Frank J. Rose, architect; cost, $10,000.

University Avenue, west side, 113 feet south of Tremont Avenue, one-story brick stores; 21 by 100 feet; Annie E. Delaney, owner; Charles B. Clark, architect; cost, $20,000.

WESTCHESTER DEALS.

North Tarrytown Sites Bought for Residences.

Charles J. Marasco, Supervisor of the town of Mount Pleasant, bought a large plot at Millard and Munroe Avenues, Philipse Manor, North Tarrytown, for improvement with a residence for his own occupancy. The Robert E. Farley Organization, the developers, also sold a plot at Kelburne Avenue and Albany Post Road to Leonard Janos of North Tarrytown, who also plans to build.

W. Homer Hendricks sold his English-type stucco house at 6 Hemlock Road, Bronxville, to John M. Potter, a local resident. William Watson, the broker, also sold for his own account a house of eight rooms and three baths on Gramatan Trail, Highlands, Bronxville, to Gustave Speckel of Crestwood.

Victor C. Farrar, head of Farrar & Watmough, architects, bought a Georgian Colonial-type house on a half-acre plot in Sleepy Hollow Manor, North Tarrytown. The structure, which contains nine rooms, is finished in whitewashed brick with slate roof. The plot is heavily wooded. A one-third-acre site in the same development, on Webb Road, was bought by Dr. F. Giammettel of Tarrytown for improvement with a residence, according to Charles H. Robinson, general suburban manager of the Henry Mandel organization.

Thomas Cantwell Jr. of Manhattan bought a dwelling on Harvard Drive, Hartsdale Fells. Maurice S. Goodman arranged the sale for Brenneck & Larson. In the same development Letitia and Charles W. Raubicheck of Manhattan bought a large plot on the west side of Mercer Avenue, between Findlay and Lakeview Avenues, for improvement with a Norman type stone dwelling.

Simon Scheiner, dry goods merchant, bought the brick building with three stores at 18-20 South Lexington Avenue, White Plains, from the Central Westchester and Fairfield Realty Company, Inc., which took title to the property about ten days ago from Alice M. Vier. The plot is 52 by 128 feet. Prince & Ripley, Inc., were the brokers.

QUEENS REALTY SALES.

Apartment Houses Planned for Sites in Astoria.

The Kraben Construction Company bought in the Astoria section a plot 100 by 140 feet at the southeast corner of Pierce Avenue and Radde Street, a plot 50 by 90 feet adjoining on the east and a plot 50 by 100 feet on the west side of Academy Street, 90 feet south of Pierce Avenue. The buyer plans to begin immediately the erection of apartment houses on the property, according to Fred G. Randall, the seller.

Martin Linsky sold a plot 80 by 125 feet on the north side of Roosevelt Avenue, 200 feet east of 117th Street, Corona, which will be improved soon by the new owner, according to Hoisinger & Bode, Inc., the brokers.

The Mount Bloom Realty Company, Inc., sold through the same brokers a vacant plot 50 by 100 feet at the southeast corner of Fifteenth Avenue and Broadway, Astoria. The Astoria loop of the new subway to Jamaica is now under construction along Broadway.

Can you deny your children

the advantages of country life?

THE sight of trees and grass; the joy and benefits of sunshine and fresh air—what is more necessary than these? Can you give your children a better gift than health? Yet it is not necessary to "live miles from anywhere" to be in the country. At Jackson Heights you are in the country—next to the city! It is only a few minutes from Manhattan.

Here at Jackson Heights are beautiful gardens; streets lined with trees, wide green lawns, and air that is fresh and sweet. There are playgrounds for the children, supervised by conscientious teachers, and there is a private day school that is unique in its facilities.

For your children's sake come now and see Jackson Heights. You will be surprised to find what a wonderful place it is for adults, too! Ask for booklet No. 52C.

ADVERTISING SALES—SUPERVISING. TWO MEN.

Our business is Indoor Electrical Advertising. We control patents—manufacture and merchandise electric Display units.

We need two staff men.
(1) Strong—able advertising copy and promotion man.
(2) Man for field supervising work—well poised—able to select and train men and interprest company policies and programs.

Interviews will be arranged if your letter qualifies. Write fully to G. S., 257 Times.

SALESMAN—Senior.
A genuine opportunity for a salesman who has the ability to place authorized dealers, close new accounts and successfully train salesmen in their territories and direct them.

The man we want must show a successful selling record of past sales production. To this man we offer an opportunity for large drawings, a permanent position and fair treatment.

We are nationally established manufacturers of a guaranteed and bonded structural interior building material sold to the building material dealers, lumber yards and paint jobbers and being used extensively by builders and contractors. Experience in our line not essential, as we train the man we pick in our product and our national selling policy.

Sales units are large and earnings in proportion. Substantial drawings against commission and advanced expenses can be arranged. Those possessing their own motor car will be given preference.

Apply General Manager, Main Office,
THE FABRITEX CO., INC.,
9TH FLOOR, 1,600 BROADWAY.

SALESMEN.
CAN YOU MEET OUR REQUIREMENTS? ARE THERE in New York at present two thoroughly matured salesmen of impressive appearance, keen sales intelligence, and proven ability, to close business transactions running into large amounts? If so, we have immediately available for permanent connections with a reliable manufacturer.

CHOICE TERRITORIES will be assigned such men, where they can secure the required culture, earn commissions that assure them a lucrative income.

OUR PRODUCT is a high-grade building maintenance specialty, and knowledge of this line is not as essential as ability to visualize and to demonstrate potential profits to prospective dealers.

APPLICANTS MUST be around 40; free to travel. Fullest cooperation extended and liberal advance will be allowed.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21.—The disturbance that was central near Cape Hatteras Monday night has moved northeastward to the vicinity of Nova Scotia and it has been attended by general rains in the Atlantic States, the Northern Appalachian region and the Upper Ohio Valley. The far northwestern disturbance is advancing southeastward with centre over Southwestern Hudson Bay and a trough extends southwestward to North Dakota. Pressure is relatively low west of the Rocky Mountains and it remains low over Alaska.

Local thunder showers are reported from a number of stations in the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions. The northeastern area of high pressure is moving eastward with centre southeast of Newfoundland ice patrol vessel. Pressure remains high in the vicinity of Bermuda and from the Upper Mackenzie Valley northeastward to the Arctic Ocean and from Ontario southward to the East Gulf Coast and southwestward 40 Texas.

Fair weather will prevail almost generally in the Washington forecast district during the next two days. The temperature will rise generally except in Florida.

MOTOR PRODUCTION A RECORD IN APRIL

Department of Commerce Reports Total of 620,656 Units—New Mark in Canada Also.

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP).—Automobile production in the United States last month again broke all records.

Reports to the Department of Commerce show the number produced was 620,656, consisting of 557,225 passenger cars, 81,977 trucks and 1,454 taxicabs. This total compared with 584,907 passenger cars, trucks and taxicabs in March, the previous high record, and 410,104 in April, 1928.

Production for the first four months of 1929 also set a new record. The number produced was 2,072,941, compared with 1,378,942 for the same period last year.

Reports were received from 151 manufacturers.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 21 (By Canadian Press).—Production of automobiles in Canada during April at 41,901 cars set up a new high record for the second month in succession, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Earlier records were established in March of this year when 40,621 cars were made, and in May of last year, when the output was 33,942 cars.

HARDWARE TRADE SOUND.

Some Spottiness Is Reported, Due to Weather Conditions.

Hardware business throughout the country at this time shows a healthy tone, according to reports from important market centres to Hardware Age. While it is true that some sections report a slight spottiness due almost entirely to adverse weather conditions, they do not regard it as a definite trend toward any slowing up of demand. A continued spell of seasonable weather is expected to cause a resumption of strong demand for hardware lines.

The steel industry continues in its healthy stride and is expected to do so for some time. The agricultural situation is most encouraging and employment in the industrial areas is at a high level, all of which points to good trade conditions. Prices are noticeably firm and collections are showing improvement.

NEW GRACE LINER IS DUE HERE TODAY

AIR SERVICE ALSO PLANNED

Planes Will Supplement Ships on New Run to the Ports of Colombia and Ecuador.

The new motor liner Santa Rita of the Grace Line, which will be operated between New York and the West Coast of South America via the Panama Canal will arrive here today to be prepared for her maiden trip June 1. She will carry passengers and cargo between this port and ports of Colombia and Guayaquil, Ecuador, in a service inaugurated April 20 by her sister ship, the Santa Inez.

The Santa Rita is 370 feet long, 53 feet beam, with twin screws driven by Diesel engines. There are four decks with first-class passenger accommodations for seventy persons and accommodations for forty intermediate-class passengers. The cargo capacity of the ship is about 5,100 tons.

The new service will operate in conjunction with an air service to be furnished by the Pan American-Grace Airways, Inc., and the Peruvian Airways Corporation. Passengers may purchase combined air-motorship tickets under arrangements that provide various combinations of the two services.

The travel time between New York and Buenaventura, Colombia, has been cut to eight days and to twelve days for the trip to Guayaquil by the inauguration of the service. This is of added importance as much of the travel from the interior of Colombia which formerly came out via the Magdalena River now moves through the port of Buenaventura, which is connected by rail and motor highway with Bogota, capital of Chile.

Both the Santa Rita and the Santa Inez conform to standard motorship construction practice. The hulls have cruiser sterns and straight stems, and are divided by complete water-tight bulkheads. Insulated chambers are provided for the carrying of perishable freight and ship provisions. The culinary and laundry departments are electrically operated. Thermostatic fire detectors are provided throughout the cargo space and in the passengers' quarters with chemical fire extinguisher equipment also at hand.

Nine electric winches serve the four hatches, and large openings are provided to aid in the loading and discharge of cargo. Extensive accommodations for passengers' recreation are also furnished. The Santa Rita will dock today at the Grace Line Pier 33, at the foot of Hamilton Avenue, Brooklyn.

CLEARED IN CHUM'S DEATH.

Louis Barnes, 18, Must Face Trial for Possessing Pistol.

Magistrate Macrery in the Homicide Court yesterday dismissed a charge of suspicion of manslaughter against Louis Wesley Barnes, 16 years old, an orphan, in the shooting several months ago of his chum, Michael Brozerich, 18, but held Louis in $500 bail for trial in Special Sessions for possessing the pistol.

Louis "hitch-hiked" on motor cars from Marion, S. C., recently when he learned of the death of young Brozerich in St. Luke's Hospital from a bullet wound received accidentally last January when they were examining Louis's pistol in the basement of the Pennsylvania Hotel, where both were employed as bell boys.

In dismissing the manslaughter charge the magistrate said it was clear that the shooting was an accident.

The day before the shooting, Louis had received the pistol from a mail order house. The magistrate said his possession of it was a violation of the Sullivan law, on which he would have to be placed on trial.

FORD AIR TOUR PLANNED.

Planes on 16-Day Trip This Year Will Include New York.

New York is to be included in the fifth annual Ford reliability tour, it was announced yesterday at the offices of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. The tour this year is to be limited to aircraft manufacturers, the announcement said, all advertising planes being barred.

Starting from Detroit on Oct. 5, the planes will swing over through Windsor, Ont., to Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. From Montreal the course is laid to Portland, Me., thence to Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond, Charlotte, and Greenville to Savannah, Ga. From Savannah the course lies to Jacksonville and Macon, back into Georgia to Atlanta and then to Nashville, Louisville, St. Louis, Kansas City, Des Moines and St. Paul. The route turns back at St. Paul through Wisconsin to Moline and Chicago and then to Detroit, with a stop at Kalamazoo. The trip will take sixteen days.

PLAY SITE BILL APPROVED.

Aldermen Speed Plan to Spend $6,000,000 for New Park Grounds.

The Aldermanic branch of the Municipal Assembly, by a party vote of 52 to 6, approved yesterday the bill passed by the Board of Estimate last Thursday authorizing the Controller to select and purchase, either directly or through condemnation proceedings, subject to the separate approval of the Board of Estimate and the Mayor, sites for parks and playgrounds. Under the present law that power vests in the Board of Aldermen, but the new method, it is held, will be less costly and more effective.

Alderman Joseph Clark Baldwin, 3d, Republican, of Manhattan, proposed an amendment directing that the purchase price shall in no case exceed by more than 25 per cent the assessed valuation, but the amendment was defeated by a party vote.

Ship Wage Accord Made in Boston.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 21.—Demand by the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association for Shipping Board wages, particularly on coal-carrying vessels out of Boston, was granted today by the operators. The men will now receive from $15 to $20 a month increase. Strikers will rejoin their vessels on arrival here from coal ports.

BIDS FOR 8 LAID-UP SHIPS.

Five Proffers for Scrapping or Converting Vessels Are Made to Board.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Five bids were received by the Shipping Board today for the sale of one or more of eight laid-up vessels to be scrapped or converted to Diesel propulsion or into barges.

The vessels, totaling 33,130 deadweight tons, are the West Africa, Surinam and Lake Ellerslie at New York; the Wauwatosa, Lake Fanbush and Lake Ellenorah at Norfolk and the Middlebury and Lake Elmsdale at Orange, Texas. The bids were as follows:

Union Ship Building Company, Baltimore, $53,850 for the eight vessels, to scrap them.

Gulf Barge and Towing Company, New Orleans, for the Middlebury, $15,000, to convert it into a barge.

W. G. Coyle & Co., New Orleans, for the Middlebury, $5,500, to convert it into a barge.

Spiniello Construction Company, Orange, N. J., $12,500 for the Surinam, to convert it into a barge.

Boston Iron and Metal Company, Baltimore, $60,000 on an all-or-none basis for the eight vessels to scrap them, or $31,200 on an all-or-none basis for the eight, to convert them into barges.

The bids were referred to the Merchant Fleet Corporation for an analysis and report.

O'CONNOR CONFERS HERE.

Ship Board Head Concerned Over Expected Requests for Loans.

T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the Shipping Board, came here yesterday to confer with his staff at the board offices, 45 Broadway, relative to the program of transfer of ships now operated by the United States Lines and the American Merchant Line. He also talked with Joseph E. Sheedy, vice president of the newly organized United States Lines, Inc., while agents of both the Shipping Board and the lines were trying to reach an agreement as to responsibility for repairs to the George Washington. Later in the day transfer of the ship was completed, and she will sail this afternoon on her first trip as a privately owned ship.

Chairman O'Connor is concerned with requests that are about to be made to the board for loans in the construction of ships. Mr. Sheedy did not bring the matter before the conference yesterday, but he will soon ask for a loan of about $5,000,000 for two new ships to augment the fleet of the United States Lines, Inc. The Dollar Line is also about to ask for a loan in connection with the proposed building of six ships. R. Stanley Dollar, vice president of the line, left for Washington Monday and will confer with the board today.

LINER GETS PATIENT AT SEA.

Minnetonka Brings In Youth Transferred From Freighter on Stretcher.

When the Atlantic transport liner Minnetonka arrived yesterday from London by way of Boulogne, Captain Thomas F. Gates reported that he had taken Nolen M. Raby, 19 years old, of Macon, Ga., off the United States Shipping Board freighter Jolee last Friday afternoon about 1,000 miles east of the Ambrose lightship.

The message had been sent out by Captain Muller of the Jolee to all ships asking medical assistance for Raby, who had appendicitis. Captain Gates said it was received about 2:30 P. M. on Friday, and he steered to the south toward the freighter which was about twenty-miles away. There was a very moderate sea running at the time, Captain Gates said, and there was no difficulty in getting the patient on board in a stretcher. The patient was conveyed to the Marine Hospital at Stapleton, S. I., in the Public Health steamboat from Quarantine.

SHIP MAKES PORT CRIPPLED

LIVERPOOL, May 21 (AP).—After giving a wireless warning to all ships in the vicinity to give her a wide berth, the British steamship Albertic, from New York, safely reached the Mersey under escort today, suffering from trouble with her rudder.

Some time after she had left Cobh yesterday a large pin connected with the steering gear slipped and her rudder was put out of commission. The ship was stopped for half an hour while emergency gear was put into operation. Meanwhile a tender was rushed from Liverpool to meet the disabled vessel and pilot her into the Mersey.

The Albertic, 10,234 tons, of the White Star Line, sailed from New York on May 11 and from Boston on May 12.

LINER FRANCE CUTS TIME.

Makes Voyage Here in Three Hours Less Than on Last Trip From Havre

The steamship France of the French Line, which docked yesterday on her second voyage between New York and Plymouth and Havre after being reconditioned, cut three hours from her time on the preceding trip. She made the trip from Havre to Ambrose Light in five days, twenty-one hours and forty-four minutes, and from Plymouth to the light in five days, thirteen hours and forty-four minutes.

The France made three cruises to the Mediterranean last Winter after her four propeller screws were replaced and general repairs made last January. Her turbines were overhauled, also, adding to the ship's speed. Her best time between New York and Havre, according to the official records, is five days, seventeen hours.

150 Rotarians Sail for Dallas.

One hundred and fifty Rotarians from New York City and other parts of the State sailed yesterday on the Old Dominion liner George Washington to Norfolk, Va., en route to the international Rotary convention in Dallas, Texas, on May 27 to 31. The party will arrive in Dallas May 26. The New York City delegation is led by James Sanderson and the up-State delegation by Brad Dusanbury of Port Chester, State district governor. Another party will leave Friday by special train.

Electric Ferries Seeks City Lines.

Carroll D. Winslow, president of the Electric Ferries, Inc., operators of six boats between Twenty-third Street, Manhattan, and Weehawken, said yesterday that his companies are negotiating with the city for leases to operate two of the municipal ferry lines in the East River and to create a new ferry line in the Hudson River. The matter is about to come before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The company would provide the ships and operate them, he said.

LAYS CLINIC DEATHS TO NITROGEN OXIDES

Report on Cleveland Disaster Finds Gas More Deadly Than War Fumes.

FATAL AFTER SIX DAYS

Dr. George W. Belcher, Who Inhaled Poison in Rescue Work, Succumbs to Effects.

CLEVELAND, May 21 (AP).—Findings of the first completed official investigation of the Cleveland clinic disaster revealed tonight are that the deadly gas was generated by smouldering X-ray films stored in a basement room, which had been ignited through spontaneous combustion.

Creeping silently through pipe tunnels, the gas penetrated to many of the clinic rooms and caused dozens of deaths before its presence was known. Warning did not come until later, when some of the gas collected in the basement exploded.

Dr. George W. Belcher, aged 33, one of the clinic's specialists, died today, six days after inhaling the poison as he rescued others. He covered his nose and mouth with a wet handkerchief as he risked his life to save others, but the protection was insufficient. Late Wednesday, after the disaster, he collapsed.

Surviving him are a widow and three small children. He was born in Belleville, Ill., and was a graduate of the Medical School of Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

The report of the disaster sent to Governor Cooper names oxide of nitrogen as the gas that took 125 lives and calls it "more deadly than gas of the World War."

The report recommends that separate fireproof compartments be required for the storage of films in all clinics and hospitals, these compartments to be used for no other purpose, and the films to be stored in steel or other fireproof cabinets, and that hospitals and clinics of any size employ or designate a safety man whose duty shall be to make daily inspections.

The inquest by Coroner Pearse continued today and among those who testified were Dr. George W. Crile, founder of the Clinic, and his associate, Dr. William E. Lower.

"We never supposed there was danger of an explosion," said Dr. Crile. "The conditions surrounding preservation of the films, we thought, were entirely adequate."

ASSERTS RULES HERE PREVENT X-RAY FIRE

Dorman, Reporting on Cleveland Disaster, Says New York Is Well Protected.

John J. Dorman, Fire Commissioner, who in company with Fire Chief John Kenlon investigated the causes of the Cleveland Clinic disaster, filed a report yesterday with Mayor Walker.

The New York Fire Commissioner supports in every particular the report made by T. C. Marnee of Cleveland, Assistant State Fire Marshal, to his superior, Ray R. Ellis of Columbus, State Fire Marshal, in regard to the cause of the fire and the nature of the deadly gases that caused such great loss of life.

In the second part of his report, in which Mr. Dorman deals with the improbability of such a disaster occurring in New York, he says:

"Inspections have been made so frequent and exacting that I feel justified in saying to Your Honor that no such occurrence as the very lamentable fire and loss of life in the Cleveland Clinic could occur in New York City. Our rules require that fireproof vaults, located outside the building, must be provided in which to keep inflammable X-Ray film. Said vaults are to be constructed, located, ventilated and protected in accordance with plans to be submitted to and approved by the New York Fire Department.

"You may be assured that I shall exert every effort to see that every hospital in the city is checked up to ascertain whether any of these inflammable X-Ray films might be stored in dangerous places and, if so, I shall see to it that they are removed immediately."

Mayor Walker, a few days ago, let it be known that a quiet investigation has been going on in all the hospitals of New York City since the Cleveland disaster. The Mayor, however, emphasized his opinion that the city hospitals were safe from such an occurrence and declared that this survey was merely a check-up of conditions.

FOREIGN JOURNALISTS ARE COLUMBIA GUESTS

Tour University After Luncheon, Showing Keen Interest in Newspaper Courses.

The group of twelve journalists representing nine European newspapers who arrived here on Monday for a two months' visit in the United States spent yesterday morning and afternoon at Columbia University, where they were entertained at an informal luncheon and later taken on a tour of the university buildings, including the School of Journalism. In the evening they attend a dinner given by Charles Stevenson Smith of The Associated Press. The editors are the guests of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

The visitors were keenly interested in the American methods of teaching journalism and spent a large part of the afternoon in the journalism school. The work of the classes was explained by Dr. John W. Cunliffe, director.

The guests were greeted by Henry S. Haskell, representing the Carnegie Endowment in the absence of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. Faculty members attending the luncheon were:

Prof. Charles P. Cooper. John L. Gerig. Dino Giannini. Prof. Allan Nevins. Louis Ingelhart. Will [illegible]. Prof. Samuel McCune. Dr. John W. Cunliffe. Lindsay Frank D. Fackenthal. Herbert E. Evans. Phillip M. Hayden.

New Car Demolished by Train on First Trip; Owner Summoned for Having No License

Special to The New York Times.

BAY SHORE, L. I., May 21.—On a sudden inspiration and the instalment plan, Constantine Lisvowsky, 49 years old, of 56 North Clinton Avenue, Bay Shore, bought a light sedan automobile from a dealer here this afternoon and started to drive it home. His son Edward, 15 years old, rode with him in the front seat.

Exactly at 7:22 Lisvowsky's new car and an eastbound passenger train of the Long Island Railroad's Montauk division were moving rapidly across the Saxon Avenue grade crossing. This crossing has no bell and no gate. The train lifted Lisvowsky's car into the air. The radiator, motor and the two Lisvowskys dropped fifty feet down the track. The rear end was carried fifty feet more.

After a moment Lisvowsky despondently started to crawl to his feet. His head was slightly cut, but he was otherwise unhurt. His son was not hurt at all.

As he rose to his feet he found State Trooper Case standing before him. Case asked to see his driver's license.

Lisvowsky said that he had none. He explained that he had bought the car only this afternoon, that he had made the purchase on impulse, and had not yet made arrangements to get a license. Case handed Lisvowsky a summons.

"Maybe that will teach you," said Case, referring to the summons, "not to drive without a license again."

Another narrow escape with an unhappy ending fell to the lot of George Jelis, 27 years old, of 414 West Forty-fourth Street, a partner in the Tube Theatre Ticket Agency, whose attempt early yesterday morning to drive to Montreal in a stolen automobile and attired only in pajamas, bedroom slippers, and a top coat, ended in the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital.

While he was driving north on Amsterdam Avenue at a fifty-mile-an-hour pace, his car struck a heavy motor truck at Sixty-ninth Street and was demolished. Jelis escaped with slight cuts of the forehead and left wrist.

He stepped from the wreckage and apologized profusely to the truck driver. Repeating that he "hoped it would not happen again," Jelis seated himself in the wreckage and attempted to start the motor.

He was promptly arrested. The police learned that Jelis's own car, similar to the cream-colored sedan which he wrecked, was towed away several days ago when he exceeded the parking limit. He "exchanged cars," he explained, taking a car he saw parked in West Forty-third Street. Dr. Cantelmo of Flower Hospital ordered Jelis taken to the psychopathic ward.

MITCHELL REPORT ON MELLON ISSUED

STOCKHOLDING NOT A BAR

Says Exclusion Because of Business Holdings Would Keep Most Competent From Office.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Attorney General Mitchell made public tonight the opinion he furnished to President Hoover on April 8 that Secretary Mellon was eligible to occupy his office without his nomination being sent to the Senate. The opinion was rendered in response to a resolution of the Senate.

"In the absence of any constitutional or statutory provision to the contrary and in view of the practical construction, beginning with the foundation of the government, I can see no ground to support the view that upon the termination of one administration the President is required to submit to the Senate for confirmation the names of those then occupying positions as heads of executive departments whom he wishes in office, except in the case of the Postmaster General," said the opinion.

Many examples are cited of heads of executive departments, some back as far as 1795, who have held offices under a succeeding president without being recommissioned.

Replying to the second point in the Senate resolution, as to whether Mr. Mellon is qualified to hold office while owning stock in business corporations, Attorney General Mitchell said:

"My conclusion is that Secretary Mellon is not disqualified from holding the office of Secretary of the Treasury by reason of the fact that he owns stock in business corporations. To give the statute any other construction would be to sacrifice the spirit to the letter; and under modern conditions would probably exclude from the office a great majority of the men most competent to hold and administer it efficiently, without accomplishing any good. Congress has not found occasion to amend the act we are now considering by inserting any provisions prohibiting stock ownership."

In conclusion he said:

"It is my opinion, therefore, and I so advise you: first, that the head of an executive department, with the exception of the Postmaster General, may legally continue to hold his office after the expiration of the term of the President by whom he was appointed, at the pleasure of the President for the time being, and second, that Secretary Mellon is not disqualified from holding the office of Secretary of the Treasury under the statutory provision set forth in the Senate resolution by reason of any facts within my knowledge."

DELAYED WHALEN, IS FINED

Thomas A. Molloy, 32-year-old chauffeur of 101 Boerum Place, Brooklyn, whose seven-and-one-half-ton motor truck interfered with the progress of Police Commissioner Whalen's limousine on narrow Broome Street east of the Bowery a few days ago, pleaded guilty to failing to keep to the right in Traffic Court yesterday and paid a $3 fine. Molloy appeared in answer to a summons given him May 16 by Patrolman David Teitler of Traffic A by direction of Mr. Whalen.

Molloy, although pleading guilty, asserted that he was keeping his truck to the right. He heard the commissioner's siren shrieking behind, he said, but did not know what it was until he was ordered to stop and received the summons.

"I wish I had enough money to engage counsel and fight this case," he said as he left the court room. "It wasn't my fault that the commissioner's car couldn't get by. The street is very narrow."

CONFER ON NATURALIZATION

Delegates From Seven States Meet Here to Discuss Problem.

About fifty delegates from Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and New Jersey held a conference on naturalization yesterday at the Lavanburg House, 331 East Twelfth Street. The conference was under the auspices of the Department of Immigrant Aid and Immigrant Education of the National Council of Jewish Women.

Mrs. Maurice Goldman, chairman of that council, presided. She told the delegates that it was essential to build up enthusiasm among immigrants to become citizens and to cooperatew ith other welfare agencies to make the road to naturalization as easy as possible.

Other speakers included:

Miss MARIAN SCHIBSBEY, chief of the Bureau of Individual and Organization Service of the Foreign Language Information Service.

MICHAEL KLEY, director, immigrant service and citizenship bureau of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

HENRY FRUCHTER, director of Naturalization Aid League.

CECELIA RAZOVSKY, secretary of the Department of Immigrant Aid.

COMPLAINS OF INJUSTICE

Insists Census Charges Were Product of "Frame-Up" and Machinations of Her Enemies.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 21 (AP).—Mrs. Florence Knapp, former Secretary of State, who was convicted in connection with her handling of State census funds, announced here tonight that she would leave for New York tomorrow to consult with lawyers regarding a new fight she plans "to clear her name."

Mrs. Knapp was convicted of first-degree grand larceny by a jury in Albany on the night of May 26, 1928. Sentence was postponed until Sept. 4, when Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan sentenced her to serve thirty days in the Albany County Jail. Mrs. Knapp served the sentence.

"I feel that I have received the most unjust treatment ever accorded to a citizen of the State of New York," Mrs. Knapp said.

"I am going to New York tomorrow to meet two very eminent lawyers to discuss with them possible collateral issues which may be raised relative to the census investigation and the trials of the charges against me.

"I am determined that the case shall be placed before the public from my point of view. As it stands now, it is left as a great open sore in the history of the State, which I cannot allow to remain.

"I owe it to myself and my family, and to the people who have stood by me so loyally during the last two years, to present this case in its true light.

"It would not be just to the women of the State, whose standing in politics has suffered by this scandal, if I were to allow the case to rest where it is."

Mrs. Knapp declared that she and her family were "financially ruined by the census battle." It cost them $25,000 she said, most of this going to her attorneys. She confirmed reports that she for a time had contemplated opening up a tea room in Syracuse, but said she had abandoned that idea as simply involving further indebtedness.

"First I am going to fight this thing," she said, "but I shall pay all my obligations and none of my creditors shall suffer."

Mrs. Knapp, despite the verdict of the jury, was unshaken in her insistence of her innocence, and reiterated her charges that she was the victim of a political "frame up" and the machinations of her enemies.

The trial, which had many sensational features and which was once broken off because of the alleged bias of a juror in Mrs. Knapp's favor, followed an investigation by Randall J. Le Boeuf Jr., as a Moreland Act Commissioner appointed by Governor Smith. In his report of the investigation Mr. Le Boeuf recommended that criminal charges be brought against Mrs. Knapp as a result of irregular and illegal practices of which she was accused in her official capacity in connection with the conduct of the 1925 State census. Forgery and other misdemeanors were also charged against her in the report.

BRITISH AIR RACER HURT.

Member of Schneider Cup Team Injures Eye Seriously.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 21.—Flight Lieutenant d'Arcy Greig, leader of the British Schneider Cup team, has suffered a serious injury to one eye and may not be able to attack the world's speed record in the race over the Solent in September.

Lieutenant Greig was working on his automobile, making repairs, when he struck against the exhaust pipe. It was at first feared that he might lose his eye, but the doctors are now hopeful it can be saved.

IF ALL NEW YORK COULD FACE ON CENTRAL PARK

At Radburn an entirely new town plan sets aside fully 75% of the total 1,200 acres as permanent garden and park areas. Through motor traffic separated from where people live and children play.

BETWEEN Ridgewood and Hackensack, New Jersey, a new town is being built—Radburn.

What is Radburn? How does it differ from thousands of other American suburban towns?

Imagine, if you can, New York, with every house facing on Central Park! For at Radburn each house does face a park, or landscaped gardens leading directly into one.

Picture a city so arranged that auto traffic, dangerous, noisy, with its stifling fumes, is separated from where people live; so that children can actually go from home to school without crossing a single street. At Radburn a new town plan actually accomplishes all this.

Radburn is within easy commuting distance of Manhattan—12 miles from the new Hudson River Bridge, 17½ miles from Jersey City on the Erie. Bus lines furnish ready access to Paterson, Hackensack, Ridgewood, Newark, and other nearby Jersey towns. Upon completion of the Hudson River Bridge, it will be nearer Columbus Circle by motor than Pelham or New Rochelle.

Houses in Radburn now ready

Attractive houses scientifically planned and carefully built are now ready at Radburn, designed in wide variety to avoid monotony. Prices are unusually low because of large scale building by a Limited Dividend Company. And the convenient Radburn Payment Plan makes it easy to buy out of income.

Prices $7,900 to $14,500

Including: Garage; Concrete walks, paths and driveways; Concrete street paving; Storm and sanitary sewers; Municipal water supply; Complete park and playground system; Complete grading, planting and landscaping for each house. These items in many localities crop up as extras or as future assessments.
